LONDON, November 18 (United Press).—Physicians, dissatisfied with the poor health of Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Labor Party, have tried vainly to persuade him to take a long rest abroad, it was revealed to-day. MacDonald persistently refuses to give up the active direction of labour affairs in Parliament.

Since he took office as Labor's first Prime Minister, MacDonald's health has been bad and has caused him to be frequently absent from the House of Commons. In part, his poor physical condition is attributed to the fact that when in office he insisted on being both Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs, as well as retaining active party leadership on the floor of the House of Commons.

Many Labor members, believing that MacDonald's ill-health makes him a doubtful party asset, would be glad to see him retire, and frequently have hinted their belief that he ought to delegate his powers to another man.

Interesting Registration Figures

Figures compiled by Automotive Trade papers give interesting information regarding the wave of popularity that Pontiac cars are enjoying.

Figures for seven leading cities, including New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and four other large centres, show that Pontiac Motor cars had a gain in registrations of 130.3 p.c., while its nearest competitor only had a gain of 37.2 p.c., while another, very near in its price field, suffered a loss of 59 p.c.

These figures are based on 1926 as compared with 1927.

SIGNAL SCHOOL IS OPENED HERE

Militia Men Given Opportunity To Study Army Methods of Communication.

CLASSES FOR CADETS.

A school of signals, under C.S.M. Instructor A. R. Fowler, of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, has been opened at the Armories for members of the militia units of the city. Sergeant-Major Fowler, who served overseas with the 33rd Battery, is also conducting classes for the signallers of the Public School and Collegiate Institute Cadet Corps.

The first meeting of the militia class was held on Wednesday evening with seven present. The course is open to all members of militia units and the instructor would like to have about twenty members. The next session will be to-night at 7.30, and classes will be held three nights a week, closing just before Christmas. A thorough grounding in visual telegraphy, including flag, lamp, and helio, will be given, while signal routine and procedure will also be taken up.

REV. A. D. ROBB TO VISIT TRINITY

Will Be Preacher at Sunday School Anniversary Services.

TO GIVE RECITAL.

On Sunday next Trinity United Church will hold its annual Sunday school anniversary. These services are always looked forward to with special interest on the part of the congregation and members of the Sunday school. For the services on next Sunday, Rev. Andrew D. Robb of the Glebe Road United Church Toronto, is to be the special preacher.

Rev. Robb has a splendid reputation as special speaker for Sunday school anniversaries. He will speak in the morning specially to the united congregation and members of the Sunday school. In the evening he will give one of his characteristic dramatic sermon recitals.

On the following Monday evening in the church auditorium, Rev. Mr. Robb will give a dramatic recital of Dickens' masterpiece, "The Tale of Two Cities," assisted by local talent.

Mr. Robb comes to Trinity with the very highest recommendations. For four years he was a padre with the overseas forces in France, where he rendered very significant service particularly with his recital work. Many a long, weary, lonely hour was made bright and pleasant by his winsome and humorous manner in presenting many of his characteristic recitals. In England he practised and gave recitals in many of the larger churches and halls, where his messages were always received by kindly and appreciative audiences. A rare opportunity is presented to the people of Peterborough to hear this gifted preacher, interpreter, reader and dramatic orator.

THE WEATHER

This morning found the ground covered with a mantle of white, the heavy rain of yesterday, being followed by snow and a lower temperature. Lowest last night 23 degrees. Rainfall yesterday 1.10. During the last four days 2.61 has fallen. This should fill all dry wells in the country, and save the agriculturist the laborious task of hauling water in barrels and tanks for the need of his stock.—W. P.

U.S. TO SEIZE PROPERTY OF OIL WITNESS

H. M. Blackmer Refuses To Return From Europe For Trial.

FACES HEAVY FINE.

Key Witness in Teapot Dome Oil Conspiracy Case.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Justice Frederick L. Siddons yesterday ordered United States Marshals to seize $100,000 of property belonging to Harry M. Blackmer, key witness in the Teapot Dome oil conspiracy case. He has refused to return to America to testify.

Blackmer also was cited to appear before Justice Siddons on January 6, 1928, to show cause why he should not be adjudged guilty of contempt of court for refusing to respond to a subpoena served on him in France last spring.

Faces $100,000 Fine.

The penalty for refusing to appear after a subpoena has been served is a fine not to exceed $100,000.

Blackmer was a principal figure in the famous Continental Trading Company transaction connected with the Teapot Dome case. It was from this company which the Government contends was a mere "dummy" corporation organized by Sinclair, that the prosecution traced $230,500 in Liberty bonds into the accounts of Albert B. Fall and his son-in-law, M. T. Everhart.

A vigorous legal battle over the proposed contempt order is expected.

Ready to Fight.

Former Governor Nathan L. Miller of New York and George Gordon Battle, also of New York, are attorneys for Blackmer.

The order was issued while Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw was presenting the final batch of cancelled cheques, receipts and documents to the Grand Jury now investigating charges of alleged tampering with the Teapot Dome jury.

Its hearing of evidence concluded, the Grand Jury asked Burkinshaw to have District Attorney Peyton Gordon give it the law applicable to the case to-day. Such presentments as the Grand Jury cares to make will then be given to the District Attorney, who will write such indictments as the jury may order.

In view of the fact that the writing of indictments in a case of this type would require full and extensive study, possibly filing of the formal charges themselves will be postponed until some time next week.

Because of this situation, it was authoritatively declared at the courthouse, no indictments can be expected until next week.

Expressing "complete satisfaction" with the case so far presented, Gordon promised an early trial of any indictments the Grand Jury hands down.

FRUIT STOLEN.

OMEMEE, Nov. 18.—Stealing still continues in Omemee. While Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kells were in Peterborough over the week end thieves gained entrance through a cellar window and carried off about twenty-nine jars of fruit.

The sale of farm stock and implements, the property of the late Robert Boyd, was held on Thursday afternoon and was very largely attended in spite of inclement weather. Splendid prices were realized, under the hammer of Mr. J. H. Wilson as auctioneer.

Boy Swallows Coin; Doctor Recovers It

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Nov. 17. — (United Press).—Afraid he would lose his wealth, Walter Benecke, 10, placed a shiny fifty-cent piece in his mouth. He accidentally swallowed the coin and it lodged in his esophagus.

Dr. Golden of the King's County Hospital, with a pair of forceps made especially for emergency work, successfully extracted the coin. It was a bloodless operation and Walter is recovering.

CHATHAM YOUTH IS BURIED ALIVE

Entombed Under Several Tons of Gravel With Cave-in of Pit.

BODY RECOVERED.

CHATHAM, Ont., Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—To be buried alive under several tons of gravel with the cave-in of an embankment of a pit on the Shanks' Farm, Romney Township, was the fate early yesterday of William Carr, aged 20, son of Edward Carr of Glenwood.

The body was discovered yesterday afternoon by James Charlton, Carr's employer. Early yesterday morning the young man went with his team and wagon to draw gravel from the pit. When he failed to put in an appearance at the noon hour, his employer wondered what had detained him, and left for the spot. Life had been extinct for some time when helpers had feverishly shovelled the gravel away to liberate the body. He had backed his team to the edge of the perpendicular embankment and was evidently working at the rear of the vehicle when the land collapsed. The rear end of the wagon was covered with gravel, but the horses escaped.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT MOUNT PLEASANT

Anniversary of United Church There To Be Fittingly Observed.

CAVAN, Nov. 17.—Anniversary services will be held in the United church at Mount Pleasant on Sunday, Nov. 20, at 11 a.m. and 7 o'clock p.m. The morning service will be conducted by Rev. J. W. Gordon, B.A., B.D., of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, and the evening service by Rev. E. W. Rowland, of Omemee. Special music will be furnished by the choir of the church at both services.

GILMOUR CHURCH THANKOFFERING

Missionary From Bolivia Tells About Work in That Country.

The annual thankoffering of the Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church was held on Wednesday night at the church, with a very good attendance, considering the weather. After the devotional exercises, a splendid address was given by Mrs. (Rev.) Wintemute, missionary in Bolivia, home on furlough. Mrs. Wintemute had several native costumes and curios of Bolivia, which she used to illustrate her address.

The meeting was brought to a close with a very enjoyable social hour.

FRENCH TARIFF TO AID CANADA

Paris Claims Will Be Beneficial To Dominion—Little Change Expected.

NOT BE INJURIOUS.

OTTAWA. Nov. 18.—Tariff authorities here who have looked into the provisions of the French tariff effective on Monday have come to the conclusion that Canada will not be injuriously affected any way, while Paris advices claim it will be benefited.

It is pointed out that the largest volume of trade between the two countries is governed by the Franco-Canadian treaty upon which the new tariff has no effect. In other respects Canada is to be placed on the same basis as the United States.

PRINCESS MARIE LIKELY TO MARRY

May Become the Bride of Prince Humbert of Italy.

LONDON, Nov. 18 (United Press).—A half-denial from the Belgian court yesterday convinced gossips that Princess Marie Jose is to be the bride of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy, the handsomest prince in Europe.

Princess Marie Jose returned to Brussels Wednesday from Italy after attending the wedding of the Duke of Puglie and Princess Anne of Bourbon.

The Daily Mail's Brussels correspondent cabled that when court officials were asked about the reported engagement of Marie Jose and Humbert, they termed the report "premature" — the form usually taken when a report is true but the time is not considered opportune for an announcement.

Humbert is 23 years old. Marie Jose, youngest of the three children of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, is 21.

W.C.T.U. MEETING HELD AT MADOC

Dr. Detwiller, Speaker for Travellers' Aid, Addresses Meeting.

MADOC, Nov. 18.— The monthly meeting of the Madoc W.C.T.U. was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Dafoe on Wednesday afternoon, the date being changed in order to have as speaker Dr. Detwiller the speaker for the Travellers 'Aid Department. The usual routine of business was shortened to allow the speaker as much time as possible.

In speaking of the Travellers' Aid Department, Dr. Detwiller briefly mentioned its inception in 1885 in New York ,and its gradual spread to other cities. In Canada the W.C.T.U. was trying to link up all railway centres of 200 and over and urging that all be made aware of the scope and function of this department.

On motion Mrs. A. Milne was appointed as secretary for Travellers' Aid and urged to work in conjunction with the Strangers' Secretaries of the different churches. A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered to Miss Detwiller for her very interesting and instructive address.

A social half hour brought the afternoon to a close.

On Tuesday evening Dr. Detwiller of Kitchener, spoke to a large assembly at the Young People's Society of Trinity United Church, after which the usual weekly programme was carried on, while the speaker went on to St. Peter's Presbyterian church to address the Christian Endeavor Society there.

17-Foot Beard Owner Dies on Dakota Farm

WAHPETON, N. D., November 18. — Hans Langseth, eighty-two Richland County farmer, famous for his seventeen foot beard, is dead.

For years Langseth travelled around the world with a circus, without meeting a match for his beard, which he would wrap around his neck like a long muffer. He retired from circus life several years ago. In 1922 he won the world's 'longest beard" championship at the "Days of '49" celebration in Sacramento.

WILL BE GIVEN CIVIC FUNERAL

Joseph A. Brodeur, Montreal City Official, Dies Suddenly in New York.

ON TOUR OF STATES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press)—The remains of Joseph A. A. Brodeur, chairman of both the executive committee and the Metropolitan Commission of the City of Montreal, who died suddenly yesterday in an automobile in the New York financial district, will be given an official civic funeral. This was announced last evening by Mederic Martin, Mayor of the Canadian Metropolis, before he and three other members of the party which had planned a tour of fifteen United States cities, entrained for Montreal with the body of their colleague. The train on which they departed left here at 8 p.m. and reached Bonaventure station at 8.05 a.m. today.

The five Montreal officials, Mr. Brodeur, Mayor Martin; Alderman A. A. Desroches; Thomas O'Connor, executive committee member, and D. Genereux, acting City Council leader, had come to New York as the first city on the itinerary of their expedition, the object of which was the study of traffic and municipal management conditions. At the time of Brodeur's death the party was proceeding from their hotel to the city hall to confer with Mayor James Walker.

Heart Attack

Mr. Brodeur, who was 56 years of age, suffered a heart attack as the car was proceeding down Lafayette Street past the Tombs prison. When it was seen that his condition was serious, the automobile was stopped and one of the occupants ran into the famous prison to summon a physician. By the time Dr. Harry M. Lichtenstein, medical officer at the institution, had come to the assistance of the stricken man, the car had vanished, as it had been decided that the best course was to take Mr. Brodeur to the nearest hospital. He was pronounced dead, however, when he was carried into the nearby Beekman Street Hospital.

Mayor Martin said that it was impossible to say yesterday evening when the funeral would be held, but added that arrangements would probably be completed in Montreal today, and that he believed it likely that the final rites would be celebrated on Monday. The body of the man who has played such a prominent part in the civic development of Montreal in recent years will lie in state in the city hall there, so that his fellow citizens may pay their last respects.

All arrangements for any continuation of the inspection tour in this country in the immediate future have been cancelled, Mayor Martin announced.

FARMERS FINISH FALL WORK AT ZION

Yield of Grain Has Been Good This Year—Zion News.

ZION, November 18. — This splendid fall has given the farmers a chance to get their fall work done up satisfactorily. The plowing and the threshing is about completed, and the yield of grain is good, the early crop being exceptionally good. With the modern threshing outfits the job is considerably shortened. Mr. John Heffernan with a tractor has done the bulk of the work while Mr. Art McIntyre with a splendid steam outfit did some. Messrs Graystock and Kindred are also on the road.

Mrs. John Dickson, who has been ill all summer, is able to be around again.

Mr. Frank Fitzgerald and Mr. Vanec Carey who has been home on a visit, have returned to Detroit.

Mr. Mark Manley is attending the Toronto Winter Fair.

Mr. Kylie Fitzgerald of Hiawatha Road, visited Mr. George Carey last Sunday.

Mr. Thomas Head and Mr. Roy Swan are taking a course at the Canadian Aviation School at Cold Springs.

The Zion Soft Ball Club gave a dance at Hiawatha. It was a success. The Moncrief orchestra supplied the music. The members intend giving one at Zion Hall shortly.

JULIANO ACQUITTED

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—Liberato Juliano, 22, who was acquitted in the Court of Sessions here Wednesday on a charge of arson in connection with an explosion and subsequent fire in a tenement house in the west end of the city, which resulted in the death of six persons last August, was freed of a manslaughter charge arising out of the tragedy, yesterday.

HUNTER FOUND FROZEN STIFF

Body of Elmer Keizer Discovered By Search Party From Power Plant.

NEAR COBALT.

COBALT, Ont., November 18. — Frozen stiff beside the trail ,the body of Elmer Keizer, 24 years old, was found late on Wednesday afternoon by a search party from the Matabichouan plant of the Northern Ontario Light and Power Company, where Keizer was employed as an operator.

With a companion, Keizer went hunting on Tuesday and apparently lost his way while returning home by a different route from that followed by his fellow-hunter. He had gone through the ice and later had sunk down, wet and exhausted, to die of exposure.

This is the second tragedy of a similar nature to be reported this week in the district.

BUILDING AT WOOLER.

Arthur Nelson, of Trenton, is Altering Recently-Purchased Home.

WOOLER, November 18. — Many local improvements have been made in the way of building in the village this year. A new brock dwelling of Francis Stacey, two rooms added on the top of the high school, new verandah added to the parsonage of the United Church.

Arthur Nelson of Trenton has purchased the home, known as the Mrs. Hawley home and has the cement men and carpenters working there to make it more modern, as Mr. and Mrs. Nelson and children will move in in the near future.

MADOC NEWS

MADOC, Nov. 18.—The postponed sectional rally of the Madoc district was held at Thomasburg on Thursday of this week owing to continued illness at Cooper.

The Maple Leaf Mission Band met on Monday with a very good attendance. Miss Thornton Love presided. Miss Grace Roberts read a short story and Jean Nickle sang "Low in a Manger." Plans were discussed and canvassers appointed for a "home cooking" sale to be held next Saturday. Mite boxes were presented and opened. The study book was postponed until next meeting.

WEDDING BELLS

ARMSTRONG—MALONEY.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 18.—A pretty wedding took place at 9 a.m. in St. Paul's Church on Tuesday morning, November 15th, when Caroline, youngest daughter of Mrs. D. Maloney, was united in holy matrimony to Henry Thomas Armstrong, elder son of Mrs. D. Armstrong. Rev. J. J. Garvey officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr Edward Maloney, wore a pretty gown of rose beige silk crepe trimmed with ecru lace, wearing a metallic hat with applique flowers of velvet and carrying a sheaf of Ophelia roses. She was attended by Miss Mary Armstrong, sister of the groom, who wore forget-me-not blue georgette trimmed with silver and a black hat with silver and carried a bouquet of palest pink carnations.

Mr. Dan. Maloney, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom.

Miss Margaret Bissonnette presided at the organ and played the wedding march.

Following the ceremony the families of the contracting parties adjourned to the home of the bride's mother on Water street, where the wedding breakfast was served. The happy couple left later for Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo. The bride travelled in an emerald green silk poplin gown trimmed with gold lace and wore a metallic hat and sealskin coat with sable trimming. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will reside on Nelson street. The young couple are highly thought of in the village and begin their married life with hosts of good wishes. The bride was the recipient of a miscellaneous shower given by the ladies of St. Paul's church, where she has been prominent in the work of the Altar Society and Catholic Women's League. The bridegroom is prominent in curling circles and has always taken a deep interest in village affairs.

OBITUARY

ROBERT WILLIAM PAYNE.

The death occurred in Warsaw this morning of Robert William Payne. He is survived by his widow, one daughter Mrs. Martin Thurston, of Lindsay, one brother, Bert Payne of Lakefield, and one sister, Mrs. aJmes Moore of Hastings.

A BETTER PAPER FOR OUR READERS

IF YOU WERE ASKED, Mr. or Mrs. Reader, why thousands of community newspapers thrive all over this land, what would be your answer?

We'll tell you: Because these community newspapers publish news and information which their readers can get in no other way.

This news and information consists largely of "personal," social and local news items recording the joys, pleasures, sorrows, recreation, success and daily life of YOUR neighbors and friends—and OURS.

Oftentimes these news items are simple; sometimes almost "homely." They contribute nothing to the settlement of international problems, but, after all, while we are concerned about the affairs of our Province, Empire and the world, are we not MOST interested in the things nearer home?—the things that contribute to the smaller world of those whom the famous newspaper poet, Edgar A. Guest, calls "Just Folks."

Believing this to be true, we always have published as many news items as we could get about our home folks. We always have wanted to print MORE and we believe we have found the way to do it.

Beginning on Saturday, a score of girls and women started to write news for The Examiner. They will be paid for their efforts.

Remembering that YOU like to read NEWS ABOUT OTHERS, help these contestants all you can. Give them news about yourself and about your friends—that is, if it is clean, kind and wholesome news.

Remember that many of these contestants are daughters of some of your own friends. They will also profit by the training it will give them in their school work as it relates to English composition, spelling, etc.

Our chief purpose in this announcement is to ask YOU to HELP these contestants and to join with us in making one big family of friends and readers.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

KNOX CHURCH, HAVELOCK

HAVELOCK, Nov. 18—Anniversary services were conducted in Knox Presbyterian Church in celebration of the thirty-ninth year of organization on Sunday, November 13th. Mr. James Dutton of Peterborough was the special speaker, delivering inspiring messages at both services, which were largely attended.

The choir rendered special music, consisting of an anthem, "His Conflict Over," and a solo by Mr. Fred Bennett, "By the Old Cathedral Door," at the morning service, and in the evening an anthem "Lift Up Your Heads, O Ye Gates," and a solo by Mrs. C. Jamieson, "His Grace is Sufficient for Thee.' The altar was prettily decorated with flowers and ferns.

Mr. Dutton's subject for the morning was "The Church's Work," based on a portion of the 58th verse of the 15th chapter of First Corinthians: "Always abounding in the work of the Lord." The Christian church, Mr. Dutton said, was endeavoring to express herself in a multitude of ways and she was making an appeal, not to any special class, but to all classes. As Jesus spoke to the group of disciples before He left them, promising that the Holy Ghost would take His Place, He know of the difficulties which would beset them in carrying out His commission to preach the Gospel to every nation, and all through the ages the church has been making an appeal to every man and women. Today the church is making an appeal, calling for whole-hearted service and along with the challenge comes the opportunity as never before for service. The church is facing the world with ministers, elders, Sunday School teachers, and Christian workers, but all these forces seem utterly inadequate to meet the forces of the world. "There is a tendency on our part," he said, "to trust too much to our material forces, but it is not by organization, or machinery, but by the power of the Holy Ghost, which is the only way that God has sought to express Himself, and failure comes when we do not take into account the Third Person of the Blessed Trinity. If Jesus had left the disciples unprepared there would have been no Church today, as it was not possible for those of the early church, uneducated and unequipped as they were, to have gone out in a world steeped in idolatry and accomplish the things they did, and it is only as we realize that it is by the power of the Holy Ghost that the work will prosper."

In making a special plea for the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Mr Dutton said, "Throughout her long history, she has had a clear conception of the work and Spirit of God. She has sought to give the Third Person of the Trinity the proper place. Her chief work has been to proclaim the evangel of Jesus Christ and admission has only been granted into the church by the way laid down by Jesus, the new birth."

The speaker gave an outline of the mission work of the church, which is carried on now under the General Board of Missions guiding the work along the line of Home and Foreign Missions. He spoke of the need of the Northwest, where there are large numbers who have no settled minister, and the church was employing a large number of students in an endeavor to care for these people. In looking after these small groups, the foundation is being laid for what may before many years be self-sustaining congregations contributing to the extentsion work of the church.

Education of men for the ministry was another very important part of the work. Before Union there were eight Presbyterian colleges and now only two, but out of a hundred and twenty-five students in residence in Knox College, a hundred and nineteen were studying for the ministry.

The foreign population was possibly the greatest problem which the country, let alone the church, had to face. And the work of assimilating this class into desirable citizens could only be done through the Gospel of Christ.

The Sunday School and Young People's Societies were the most encouraging of practically all the home activities. Last year, five thousand came into full membership of the Church from these societies.

In speaking on foreign missions, Mr. Dutton thought it was a great tragedy that only about one-third of the church people concerned themselves with this great question, but they should not overlook the fact that the great commission of the Lord and Head of the church: "Go and preach the Gospel to every nation," had never been taken out of the church program.

In closing, Mr. Dutton made an appeal to the congregation to face the matter of their responsibility in giving to support the work of the church. "Come to Christ in full and glad surrender, being willing to be God does not expect anyone to give more than he is able, but according to the principle laid down by the apostle Paul: 'Let everyone give as God has prospered him.' That is the measure of your giving."

The evening subject was "The Church's Life," and Mr. Dutton chose as his text the past part of verse 10 of the 10th Chapter of John: "I am came that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

"In order that you may get a proper appreciation of the church's life," he said." I purpose going back to the Book of Acts, which is a record of the early Christian Church, a recital of all that was accomplished in and around Jerusalem in the early days. It is not by accident that the book has no finish in the sense that the other books of the New Testament have, but simply because the work of the Holy Spirit is not finished.

"At the beginning the early church which was the fulfilment of the promise of the Father by the descent of the Holy Spirit and the results of that outpouring, consisted of a very small group numbering a hundred and twenty men and some women. They were compelled to worship in secret, but they lived their lives in such a way in all their various activities that showed that they possessed something different in their lives and stamped them as being, as it were, a peculiar people."

The speaker dealt with the admission into the early church which was by way of the Cross; its vocabulary, which was very simple so that one is impressed by the simplicity of its language.

"The early Christians were great people to sing, and first of all they had the melody in their hearts which had been tuned to the melodies of heaven," he said. "To-day we take our hymn books and very glibly sing some of the beautiful hymns, possibly, 'Take my life and let it be, Consecrated Lord to Thee.' We may sing with enthusiasm and not mean all we sing.

"The early church was not a place of brick and mortar and had none of the things which we think so necessary today, but the congregations were living stones cemented together, recognizing Jesus as the head corner-stone. The energy that is put today in entertainments, bazaars, etc. was used in accomplishing the supreme task of the church, that of saving souls. Another thing that characterized these people was that they prayed. They did not live in a golden age because the Jews had lost their freedom. They endured persecution, imprisonment, flogging and even death, because they realized here they had no abiding city."

In conclusion, Mr. Dutton said, the joy which characterized the life of the early Christian was the product of a well-balanced life. "If your life is not in the right relationship with Jesus it can not be all that God would have it to be. Jesus did not come that men might have life, but that they might have it more abundantly. Accept Him as your Saviour and experience the joy that comes to those who recognize Jesus as their Lord and King."

RYLSTONE UNITED CHURCH

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Nov. 18—The evening service of worship at Zion was withdrawn on Sunday owing to anniversary services at Rylstone United Church and most of the local church people visited the neighboring congregation for both morning and evening services. The Rev. Mr. Beckley of Marmora was the special speaker for the day and delivered two very fine addresses. His morning sermon was from John 10-10: The thief cometh not but for to steal and to kill and to destroy, I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly."

The evening topic was "The Work of the Church" and the text Isaiah 61:1-2-3: "The spirit of the Lord God is upon me". The task of all Christian churches and the people who formed them was contained in this passage of scripture.

A very splendid service of music added much to the power of the services. Miss Bessie Conley of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, sang two beautiful solos at each service Misses Cherrie Turner and Irene Stephens of St. John's Church, Campbellford, delighted the morning congregation with two excellent duets. The choir sang an anthem at the evening service.

Rev. Mr. Beckley spoke with much appreciation of the wonderful assistance given by the singers, commending their choice of selections as suitable to the occasion.

GLARING HEADLIGHTS.

The coroner's jury investigating the death of a motorist at Canton has brought in a verdict blaming glaring headlights for the fatality.

The number of accidents arising out of the same cause would reach a big total each year.

Columns have been written in the newspapers, safety campaign lecturers have employed an avalanche of words, and the Department of Highways has used a large amount of advertising in an effort to check the menace of glaring motor lights, but they still remain one of the great dangers of motoring.

It begins to look as if the only sure way to put an end to the evil is an energetic campaign by traffic and police officers.

Pleas, warnings, advice—all have been futile.

It remains to try the effective enforcement of the regulations against the use of such lights.

If appeals to the common sense of motorists cannot bring about an improvement, the machinery of the law will have to be given a chance to show what it can do.

THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST DIPHTHERIA.

The final stage of the innoculation of Peterborough children against diphtheria has been practically completed, and as a result a large number of local youngsters of pre-school age has been immunized against this very serious disease.

While the refusal of some parents to have their children thus protected, in spite of the fact that several deaths from diphtheria have been registered, has prevented the immunization from being as complete as the health authorities would have liked, the innoculation of so many young children and the fact that others of school age had previously been treated leaves Peterborough in much sounder condition as regards diphtheria than ever before.

The co-operation of school staffs and parents and the assistance given by the Rotary Club in supplying transportation for many mothers and children have all combined to bring about this very desirable result.

It must be a source of great satisfaction to many parents to realize that their children are safe from a disease that claimed so many victims before medical science found how it could be conquered.

THIS WILL HELP ANYWAY.

Present indications are that Peterborough's municipal election in January will be featured by a contest for the mayoralty.

A fight for the chief magistrate's chair is always to be welcomed because of the interest it adds to the civic campaign.

It is almost always marked by the polling of a larger vote than is registered in years when there is no mayoralty contest, and anything that will bring about such a result should be gladly received.

Municipal politics needs all the gingering up that can be provided if anything like a real expression of public opinion is to be recorded.

Most municipalities find that the responsibility of determining the personnel of the civic bodies is left to a comparatively small percentage of the electors, sometimes not more than one-third of those on the lists.

There is neither rhyme nor reason for such a state of affairs, yet it exists, and because it exists complete efficiency in civic government is impossible, and weakness and lack of vision in municipal management are fostered.

The fact that a mayoralty fight is to be included in the next election here should help to improve the situation locally.

THE BRITISH TAXIMAN.

The difference between "stunt" flying and genuine attempts to contribute something of value to the development of the use of aircraft is illustrated by the flight commenced yesterday by Sir Alan Cobham, the famous British aviator.

Great Britain's "Air Taximan," who already has wonderful air voyages to India and Australia to his credit, is off on an aerial journey of 20,000 miles, during the course of which he proposes to fly from Cairo to Capetown.

Cobham's flight is undertaken with a definite purpose.

It is not planned to secure him front page headlines; it is not intended to secure him a vaudeville engagement.

It is merely a businesslike attempt to survey an airway for the establishment of a trans-African air service, and also to study the aerial lanes linking the trans-Atlantic route with the British territories on the west coast of Africa.

Beyond showing that under favourable conditions and assisted by luck the Atlantic can be bridged by an aeroplane, the flights made during the past summer have contributed little of material advantage to the field of aeronautics.

Cobham, however, if successful in his ambitious flight, will bring back information of great value in the development of British air transportation.

ALMOST A RECORD.

Surviving the potential perils of frost and drought, hails and rust, insects and excessive rain, the Canadian wheat crop for 1927 is the second largest in the history of the Dominion, and East and West alike will find much reason for satisfaction in this evidence of a sound agricultural and economic position. The Bureau of Statistics estimates production at 444,282,000 bushels, an increase of 35,000,000 bushels over the production for last year, and there are proportionate increases in most other grains, notably in oats with 70,000,000 bushels more than in 1926.

It is almost impossible to over-estimate the importance to the Dominion of such a crop. It puts into circulation in the Prairie Provinces some hundreds of millions of dollars, and when farmers by the score of thousands pay their summer's bills and outstanding obligations the effect extends in ever widening circles into every province. More binders and plows and automobiles are made in Ontario because the western market has a comfortable cash surplus over bare necessities, and the demand for labor in Ontario consequently is greater. The immediate result is a reduction in industrial unemployment and a greater degree of comfort and security among the workers in industrial areas.

And that is only a small indication of the meaning of such a crop. The railways will carry more passengers holiday-bent from the west and carry more freight, more houses and barns will be built, more clothing purchased, more new furniture secured. Some young people will go to university to whom otherwise the privilege would have been denied. The mental and material outlook of millions is broadened when the family budget shows a decent margin between income and expense.

The effect on immigration of a good crop is not the least of its benefits. A prosperous and contented agricultural population is the most effective advertisement for our unsettled acres, and the world is full of industrious families open to conviction on the subject.—Ottawa Journal.

MAKING HUNTING SAFE.

With the human tragedies of the woods continuing, safety organizations will have to devote some of their time to finding ways and means for making hunting safe for the hunter. To accomplish this, something drastic and far-reaching will be required. An effective way to accomplish this would be to provide that all hunters shall use only blank cartridges. But this would be a handicap to those hunters who make it an infallible rule to be absolutely sure what they are shooting at before they fire. It has been suggested that all hunters wear suits of armor, but this, too, would be cumbersome and impracticable under general hunting conditions. Still another suggestion is that hunters be required to wear a color that would distinguish them from the animals sought. This might be all right, but what if some of the hunters should be color blind? Then, as suggested in a cartoon in Life a few years ago, the hunters might bear a large, elevated sign to the effect: "I'm a hunter, not a deer; don't shoot." This might be all right, generally speaking, but it would fail to be effective if the hunter about to fire couldn't read or couldn't read the language in which the sign is painted.

In our opinion, the only thing that will make hunting safe is for coroners' juries to distinguish between purely accidental deaths and those resulting from crass carelessness and negligence. Invariably when a coroner's jury is called upon to investigate a shooting fatality it brings in a verdict of accidental death. The jurors are touched by the grief of a man who killed a friend in mistake for a deer, and thinking he is punished enough, let him off easily. But this doesn't make for greater care in the hunting field. Occasionally a shooting fatality may be the result of a pure accident, but in the majority of cases the fatalities are the result of carelessness and sometimes of criminal negligence.

If, therefore, coroners' jurors think more of the victims and their families, and less of the grief of the men who fired the fatal shots, think more of the safety of the hunters generally and less of the fate of the unhappy and unintentional slayers, and place the blame squarely where it belongs, they would do a great deal towards making the hunter safe from the bullets of irresponsible, heedless and impatient gunners who fire before they are certain of what they are shooting at.

If a hunter is killed through plain carelessness or criminal negligence, coroners' juries should so find, and the law officers should set the necessary machinery in motion to secure proper punishment for a man who, through carelessness or negligence, takes the life of a fellow-man. At the present time few, if any, men who occasion shooting fatalities are punished. Our memory may be at fault, but we cannot recall a single instance of such an outcome of a hunting tragedy.

Is it any wonder, then, that so many hunters are careless. Recently two deaths have come to our attention which, to our minds, were the result of gross negligence or carelessness. Near Bancroft, the other day, a hunter heard a noise behind a bush. He didn't see what was causing the noise, but thinking it must be a deer, he fired, and killed his friend. Then, there is the case of a Sault Ste. Marie man who mistook a horse for a moose and fired, killing one of his own hunting party. Can anyone say that these fatalities were the result of accidents? As we see it, the Bancroft shooting was pure criminal negligence, while the case concerning the Sault Ste. Marie man was, to say the least, the result of downright carelessness. And these unhappy incidents can, unfortunately, be multiplied.

There is only one way to stop them, and that is to punish, and that severely, every hunter who kills a man, unless it can be shown that the fatality was the result of an accident, pure and simple.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—There was an improved demand from United Kingdom buyers for Canadian grain here yesterday and a moderate amount of business was transacted.

There was some demand in the domestic market for wheat for export account and sales of several loads of No. 3 Northern on spot were made at a flat price, c.if. Montreal. The trade in coarse grains was quiet but prices were unchanged.

A feature of the millfeed trade continued to be the good demand from United States buyers, and a fair business was transacted. The domestic trade was fair and prices were steady. A moderate amount of business was transacted in standard grades of rolled oats and the undertone to the market was firm.

The demand for fresh eggs continued good and indications are that prices will go higher in the near future. The undertone to the storage egg market was firm with a moderate business passing. The receipts were 2,380 cases.

The potato market continued active and firm. Sales of odd cars of Prince Edward Island Whites were made at $1.35 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.35 per bag in bulk, and Quebec varieties at $1.00 to $1.10 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

Prices for all grades of butter were well maintained under a limited demand. The receipts were 267 packages.

The local and foreign inquiry for cheese was quiet, but values were unchanged. The receipts were 2,119 boxes.

The undertone to the market for imported beans was steady and the demand was fair. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked on spot were made at $2.50 per bushel.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press). — Unexpected higher quotations at Liverpool together with big European buying gave an upward tendency yesterday to wheat values here. Purchasers for export from North America were estimated at 1,000,000 bushels. Final Chicago prices on wheat were firm at the same as Wednesday's finish to ¼c higher, with corn ½c to ⅞c off; oats at a shade decline to an equal advance, and provisions unchanged to 15-17c down.

Emphasizing the bullish effect of unlooked for upturns in the Liverpool market were reports that temperatures were too cold for wheat growth in Southern Argentina and that rain was threatening to extend to the harvest region north.

Corn prices weakened towards the last owing in a considerable degree to selling of 250,000 bushels of corn into storage here. Besides corn belt weather was somewhat more favorable. Oats were steadied by continued cash demand.

Provisions turned easier, with some selling pressure on nearby deliveries of lard.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press). — Cattle, receipts 13,000; bulls strong to 15c higher; vealers strong; qualitied stockers and feeders steady; lower grades weak to lower; kinds of value to sell at $950 downward; 25c to 40c off for week, but active at downturn; best fed steers and yearlings $18.50; bulk $12.50 to $16.00.

Hogs, receipts 50,000; pigs closed 25c lower with spots 50c off; top $9.75; numerous sales 270 to 290 pound weights at that price; bulk good and choice 250 to 300 pound offerings $9.45 to $9.70; 210 to 240 pound weights $9.15 to $9.45; 110 to 220 pounds $8.75 to $9.25; liberal supply early $9.00 to $9.35; most 130 to 160 pound averages $8.25 to $8.90; pigs late $9.00 to $9.50; packing sows mostly $8.15 to $8.50; late sales $8.15 to $8.25; shippers took 12,000; estimated holdover 17,000.

Sheep, receipts 10,000; shipping demand active for choice handyweight fed lambs; fat lambs strong to 15c higher; closing at full advance; spots 25c up; choice native lambs to large interests in limited numbers $13.85 to $13.90; good wooled lambs $13.50 to $13.75; sheep steady; top fat ewes $7.00; bulk $6.25 to $6.75; good yearling wethers $10.75 down; feeding lambs draggy, weak; choice kinds absent; medium and good offerings $13.00 to $13.75.

'BUS SERVICE WILL BE BETTER.'

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir: I was very pleased to see the above heading over an article re our transportation problem in The Examiner a few evenings ago, and it struck me that perhaps there was a possibility of improving the service, but didn't think that painting and renovating the busses would make them hold any more, unless the renovating included some kind of a press attachment as used on an apple press, which would be useful, as the passengers refuse to pack tighter as a little gentle persuasion might help, as it is impossible to get more than fifty people on the bus at one time without some force being applied. Of course, when the busses are painted and renovated they may be able to start easier on cold mornings, so that the workers can get to their work at starting time instead of 30 minutes late.

And as for re-routing, for goodness sake, don't re-route them or they may lose themselves altogether in the wilds of the west end of Charlotte street or get stuck in the south end swamp, so that those who are now patronizing the service will give up hope altogether and join the growing band of pedestrians of Peterboro who are now finding out what their legs are really useful for.

Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, yours very truly,

BUS USER.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Many a sweltering winter day you're going to wish for the good old crispy summertime.

Newspapers are peculiar sometimes. For instance they insist on mentioning George Haldeman, who was only a pilot for the trans-Atlantic flyer, Ruth Elder.

Some bankers don't like to leave their assets out too long probably because they fear the darn things will get frozen.

BOYS SELECTED FOR ROYAL FAIR

Ten Young Farmers Will Represent Each County at Winter Fair.

JUDGING COMPETITION.

WARKWORTH, Nov. 18—The Junior Farmers' Royal judging competition was held here on October 28 for the purpose of selecting ten young farmers from Northumberland County who will enjoy the free trip to the Royal Winter Fair as guests of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The total possible score was 850 points. The following are the ten winners and points: Reginald McCann, Norham, 725; Edward Huycke, Warkworth, 717; John Goodfellow Codrington, 711; Douglas Woof, Codrington, 706; Gordon McCubbin, Norham, 705; Donald Knight, Norham, 676; Arthur Wartman, Warkworth, 661; Hayden Newman, Norham, 660; Howard Richards, Wooler, 660; Ken. Somerville, Morganston, 651.

Competition was very keen in all the classes judged and the following young men made very creditable scores, many failing by only a few points—S. Stillman, Campbellford, 649; Arthur Grills, Morganston, 649; Howard Philp, Colborne, 649; Blair Huycke, Norham, 647; P. J. Colman, Vernonville, 646; Charles Campbell, Castleton, 642; Max Harnden, Castleton, 637; Lloyd Dorland, Codrington, 630; Cecil Roberts, Trenton, 619; Howard Arthur, Trenton, 617; Clarence Puffer, Morganston, 602; Floyd Mutton, Colborne, 586.

This competition was conducted by E. J. Quail, Brighton, assisted by R. Atkin and R. Hubel, Stirling, D. A. McKinnon, Peterborough, and J. Gardner, Norwood.

Hastings.

Agricultural representative, Ray Atkin—Elmer Woods, Crookston; Orval Rollins, Atta; Charles Heath, Campbellford; Carl Lancaster, Bancroft; Gordon Wood, Crookston; Stanley McGowan, Stirling; Carl Burke, Belleville; Ivan Garrison, Belleville; Herbert Wood, Crookston, and Harry Morrow, Stirling.

A judging team to represent Hastings County at the Royal Winter Fair composed of Perry Badgeley, Belleville; Vernon Hamilton, Belleville, and Harry Walker, Belleville, will accompany these ten boys and compete for the valuable trophy that is given by the directors as a county competition in live stock and seed grain judging.

Peterboro.

Agricultural representative, J. B. Nelson—David Forsythe, Indian River; Maitland Forsythe, Indian River; Harold Wilson, Keene; Joe Tully, Peterborough; Russell Roseborough, Peterborough; Harold McGuigge, Havelock; Ralph Garbutt, Lakefield; Charlie Racene, Norwood; Jack Wilson, Peterboro; Carl Purdy, Cordova Mines.

Durham.

Agricultural representative, J. V. Yellough—George McKnight, Millbrook; Bill Swain, Cavan; Howard Crydorman, Newcastle; Archie Matchett, Fraserville; Charlie Glenney, Newcastle; Gordon Ashton, Bowmanville; Harry Cryderman, Bowmanville; Donald Thompson, Nestleton; Howard Fair, Millbrook; Edgar Beer, Bethany.

Don't Go About With A Cold!

DON'T leave it to a friend to remind you of that bad cold! Don't go about spreading infection among your business friends and maybe in your own family circle. To banish colds and chills in the direct and most effective way, you must take PEPS.

As they dissolve in the mouth Peps give off powerful healing and germicidal fumes. These you breathe into instant direct contact with the innermost recesses of the chest and lungs.

Peps soothe, strengthen and invigorate the entire breathing system. They clear the throat and air-passages of mischievous germs, remove soreness and inflammation, and end the danger to chest and lungs. Make no mistake! You must have Peps, the breatheable medicine in tablet form.

Peps

Now obtainable of all druggists and stores in 25c. boxes, containing 35 silver-jacketed tablets. Name PEPS stamped on every tablet.

MILLBROOK C.G.I.T. STUDIES HEALTH

Members Discuss First Part of Pledge at Regular Meeting.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 17.—The Wide Awakes group of Canadian Girls in Training held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening with a good attendance considering the heavy rain which came on just at the hour of gathering.

The vice-president, Elinor Fallis, was in the chair, and during the discussion of business items the treasurer, Alvira Davis, reported a fair balance in the bank. The decision to hold an open meeting before Christmas and thus add to the funds of the group was unanimous.

The devotional period opened with the usual ritual, and the 'Bible Arithmetic Problems' which followed, a new idea in C.G.I.T. work, were instructive and interesting. The object in view is to fix certain figures and facts in the girls' minds, and to give practice in finding Bible references readily.

The regular Scripture lesson was on the parable of the ten virgins, and Paul's teaching in First Corinthians that the body is the temple of the Holy Spirit—the leader's talk emphasizing the sacredness of the first item in the C.G.I.T. pledge, "Cherish Health", and also of the motto which the Wide Awakes have chosen.

Readings, "I Accept", and "Where the Fire Has Burned", were given by Elmo Davis, and Margaret McCarthy. A map talk on Palestine with particular reference to a number of places connected with the life of Christ, was the concluding number on the program.

The usual social time was enjoyed at the close.

NAPANEE SALE END OF MONTH

One Hundred and Seventy-Five Tons of Poultry Will Be Put on the Market.

DUE TO HATCHERY.

On the last day of November and the first day of December the Napanee Poultry sale will be held. This sale has won Dominion wide recognition as being the largest turnover of poultry at any single sale held any place in the Dominion of Canada.

From 130 to 175 tons of the poultry has been the annual turnover since the sale was commenced some few years ago notwithstanding the fact that there are two local poultry dealers buying all year.

Why is this sale such a success is asked by many people. Peterborough tried one last year and it was a most dismal failure. F. C. Buker, the federal poultry expert for Eastern Ontario, gives all the credit of the success of the sale to the Napanee Hatchery owned by N. B. Mills and Son. This hatchery has been keeping abreast of the times, and in the last few years its capacity has been greatly increased.

In 1926 the hatchery had a capacity for 21,000 eggs and during the season 46,294 eggs were set, from which 31,698 chickens were distributed or the average hatch was 68.4 per cent.

This year the capacity was increased to 36,000 eggs and during the season 84,328 eggs were set from which were hatched 59,130 or 70.1 per cent. At least fifty per cent. of the chickens hatched were of heavy breeds and after allowing a normal ten per cent. for mortality there would be left 54,000 averaging 5 pounds each or 135 tons of poultry to be put up for sale at the end of this month.

The Poultry sale has established an enviable record and to it comes buyers from all over Eastern Canada to buy poultry by the ton. With so many buyers the competition is great, and the people of Napanee are allowed a bigger price for their poultry than they would get on the open market.

GUIDES LOSE LICENSES

The Tokyo police board has revoked the licenses of a score of guides and subjected them to a severe reprimand for profiteering and for encouraging their foreign clients to visit vice districts. Further reforms in providing guides for tourists are being devised.

"AFTER MY AUTO ACCIDENT—"

A New Record for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

A resident of Toronto, Canada, writes:

"Last April I met with a serious automobile accident, breaking my left knee and tearing the tendons badly. Having lived a very active life before, when forced to lie still constipation soon made its appearance. Drugs and medicines proved useless, and I could not obtain relief until I tried Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. The difference was noticeable almost at once, and from then on, during my entire convalescence, ALL-BRAN kept me in perfect condition. Though I am now over 60 years of age, my physician tells me that I have made the recovery of a 25-year-old man."

Many people who suffer from constipation during the enforced inactivity following illness, or while engaged in sedentary work and study, would find rapid and permanent relief in the regular use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to conquer constipation. Eat not less than two tablespoonfuls every morning, and that amount at every meal if the case is chronic. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is delicious with honey and milk or cream. Sold at all grocers.

Made in London, Canada.

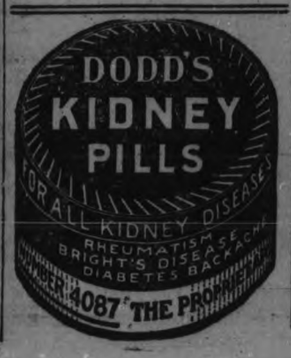
MADOC NEWS

MADOC, Nov. 18.—The Rev. G. W. Rivers of Trinity United church of Madoc preached anniversary sermons at Queensboro and Hazzard's churches on Sunday, 13th, while the Rev. Wm. Parker of Queensboro occupied the pulpit in Trinity United Church in Madoc.

In the Holiness Movement church the preacher at both services was the Rev. J. W. Campbell of Ottawa who intends to conduct evangelistic services every evening during this week.

In St. Peter's Presbyterian Church Rev. T. G. Marshall took as his topic for the morning service "Laborer together with God", and in the evening began a series of sermons on "Famous Women of the Bible". He chose "Rebekah" as the subject for this first of the series.

Mr. William MacMillan and family have moved from Crookston to Madoc where Mr. MacMillan has secured a position in the talc mine.



FOWL SUPPER WELL ATTENDED

Havelock Presbyterian Church Social Success, in Spite of Rain.

HAVELOCK, Nov. 18.—The annual anniversary dinner held in Knox Presbyterian church on Monday evening was exceedingly well patronized despite the heavy rain, there being about three hundred in attendance. Visitors were present from Warkworth and Campbellford and the proceeds amounted to $120.00.

The tables were laden with innumerable tasty dishes to tempt and satisfy the appetite and the large assembly did ample justice to all. After all had been waited upon some baking was left which was sold after the entertainment.

The minister, Rev. G. E. Lougheed, took the chair for the program given in the auditorium of the church and in a few well chosen remarks thanked all visitors for their attendance and also those who had been kind enough to drive considerable distances in such unfavorable weather to assist with the program. The doxology was sung, followed by invocation offered by Rev. James Grier. Mr. J. Storie of Campbellford favored the audience with three vocal solos which were enthusiastically encored. A vocal solo by Mr. Maycock, leader of the Warkworth Presbyterian choir pleased the gathering very much indeed. Two recitations by Mr. F. Bacchus were well received and vocal solos by Mrs. C. Jamieson and Mr. Fred Bennett, members of the Knox choir were also well rendered. Excellent addresses were made by Mr. Fowler of the Warkworth Presbyterian church, the Rev. James Grier of St. Andrew's church, Campbellford and the Rev. W. R. Archer of the Havelock United church. At the close of the programme the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. W. A. Archer.

OBITUARY

JOHN WILLIAMS.

CAMPBELLFORD, November 18.—The body of John Williams, a former Campbellford resident, who died on Tuesday in Napanee, was buried in Mount Pleasant Cemetery here yesterday at 2.30 p.m. Rev. E. Harston conducted the service at the grave.

ELEZIER HUBBLE.

HAVELOCK, November 13. — The death of Elezier Hubble on Tuesday deprived the Township of Belmont of one of its oldest residents. The late Mr. Hubble was in his 85th year, and had resided in the vicinity of South Lake for over sixty years.

The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon, Rev. W. R. Archer conducted the service at the family residence, and interment was made in Maple Grove Cemetry.

Th deceased is survived by his wife, four daughters, Mrs. O. Parcels of town, Mrs. Walter Davis of Belmont, and the Misses Jennie and Lilly Hubble at home, six sons, Ray and Ross of Toronto, Bert of Setting Lake, Manitoba, William of Trenton, Harry of Galt, and Charles at home.

GEORGE THOMAS DICKSON.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 18.— The curtain was rung down on the final scene of active life when the body of the late George Thomas Dickson was interred in Mount Pleasant cemetery here yesterday. Mr. Dickson, a veteran of two wars, died quietly and suddenly at 308 Pearl avenue, Peterborough, Monday morning, November 14, 1927, in his seventieth year. For some years past he had been employed at the Canadian General Electric factory. Not feeling well on this particular morning he returned home from work and said that he would sleep until noon when he wanted to take the train to Campbellford. Upon going to rouse him it was found that he entered upon a sleep from which he would never awaken. Death came in the guise of heart disease.

Mr. Dickson was the last of three brothers, descendants from an old Scottish family. Born in Colborne, April 3, 1858, he came with his parents to Campbellford, a babe in arms. Here he received his education, and after graduating from the High school, entered the moulding and machine foundry which his father had founded, becoming an expert machinst in the course of time. On the demise of his father, and he and his brother James took over the business. Under their energetic guidance it increased and expanded until finally it became known as the Dickson Bros' Bridge Works. Bridges in various parts of Canada and one in England stand as lasting memorials to their skill. With the advent of the world conflict, they began making munitions.

In February of 1916 Mr. Dickson severed his connections with the company and went overseas with the 59th Infantry Battalion. On his return he occupied the post of Inspector of Artillery Stores in Ottawa. His other military experience was in 1885 when he served with the Northwest Field Force during the uprising in the Northwest at that time.

Musical inclinations led him to become a bandsman in the 40th Regimental Band at its inception, a connection with which he continued as a faithful and talented member for forty years. In politics a Conservative and by profession of religion a lifelong member of the Presbyterian church here. He sang in its first choir and regularly appeared in it until the time of the recent war. His splendid bass voice won for him an honored place in the Peterborough Male Voice Choir for years.

In the Masonic order he attained the rank of a Shriner, was a Past Master of the Golden Rule Lodge, A.F. & A.M., a companion of the Ionic Chapter Royal Arch Masons, and a member of the Moore Perceptory in Peterborough.

The bereaved family include his wife, formerly Jennie Downer, two sons, James at home and Addison, B.A.Sc., at present on the site of the Comegas Silver mines, Cobalt district, two daughters, Margaret, a teacher in Peterborough, and Mrs. Fred Free, Campbellford.

The obsequies were conducted under Masonic auspices by the Rev. James Grier, in the family residence, on Ranney street, at 8 o'clock. Friends from far and near attended the funeral despite a heavy drizzle of rain. Leading the long funeral cortege was the Northumberland Regimental Band. The pallbearers were Fred Dinwoodie, F. W. Wood, W. J. Armstrong, Dr. G. A. Hay, Charles Dunk, J. D. Cumming.

At the grave the Rev. Mr. Grier was assisted by the Rev. D. A. MacKenzie, of Burnbrae. The Masons followed with their ceremony for the departed brother.

Among those present from a distance were Albert and Robert Johnson, and Miss Azel Johnson, of Imlay City, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. William Dickson, from Vernonville, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. N. Garfield, Castleton, Ontario. Mr. E. H. Reid, Grand Master of the Moore Perceptory, represented the Peterborough lodge.

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICES HELD

Warsaw, Apsley and Omemee People Honor Memory of Glorious Dead.

WARSAW, Nov. 18. — For some years back Warsaw School teachers and pupils have observed Armistice Day by having a service at the Cenotaph. Gradually the service has increased.

This year the celebration was on a larger scale. At half-past ten the teachers and pupils marched from the school to the Town Hall. Cora Drain and Clarence Payne led, each carrying a Union Jack. A goodly number of parents and friends were present.

The program at the hall began with all singing "O God, Our Help," then Mr. Currie read the Psalm with a note of Thanksgiving, Psalm 111. Rev. H. B. Herrington led in prayer. Mr. Currie gave a short address. The main points was that one of the greatest sins is that of ingratitude White any event is happening we become very excited and when it is over we forget all about it. He spoke of the two minutes' silence which is observed in memory of those who gave their lives for our safety, and told the children to stand with bowed heads, and think of those who had gone, and of the relatives who are left. After the silence, the school sang "The Maple Leaf." The chorus of the last verse was repeated, with the boys whistling.

Reeve Hawthorne gave a short address. His keynote was Sacrifice: "Others sacrificed that we might have privileges and we should appreciate our privileges. Some one made sacrifices for us to have civil and religious liberty. Away back in King John's reign men sacrificed to obtain the Magna Charta, which meant and still means, Justice for all.

"It is barely one hundred years since this district was settled. Think of what the pioneers endured, and of what we enjoy!

"We are in a land which needs no fortifications to keep out the foe, but all lands are not so fortunate.

"During the Great War, we in Canada did not really see war, but what must it have been in countries where war actually existed? It is very easy to forget. The names on the cenotaph mean much. These men laid down their lives for us. You boys and girls may think it hard to have to study, but do not forget, you must make some sacrifice if you wish to amount to anything. Nothing is ever won without work and sacrifice."

Ivan Clements recited, "In Flanders' Fields."

Rev. H. B. Herrington spoke of the fitness of doing honor to the noble dead. "For the cause of peace men laid down their lives," he said. "We honor them most, when we do most for the preserving of the peace for which they laid down their lives. There is now a greater desire for peace than ever before. We may help bring peace by desiring peace, yearning, longing and praying for it; by discouraging the war spirit; by giving the members of parliament to understand they must do all in their power to discourage the war spirit.

"Another way to help secure peace is to recognize the rights of other; other nations as well as other people. We should recognize the right of other people, races, and nations to develop their own characteristics and resources.

"There is a certain inequality among races, for each race has different characteristics, but there are greater inequalities among individuals than among the races."

Four pupils, Clarance Tedford, Cora Drain, Clarance Payne, and Lucile Herrington recited, "What Owest Thou?"

"Just Before the Battle, Mother," was sung by four boys in soldier's uniform. Kegham Mouradian, seated before a table with a candle upon it, was writing a letter to his mother. Clarence Payne, Jim McCauley, and Alec. Bowen were lounging beside the camp fire.

Dr. Munro spoke of his concern for the young. By the time people are thirty-five or forty years of age, they are what they are.

"We can prevent war by knowing the cause," he said. Selwishness is the cause of wars, selfishness is the cause of all sin. Selfishness produces all that is condemned in war. There would be no trouble with playmates if we thought of the other fellow as we do of ourselves.

"If selfishness were right, we would have been created to live on and on just to gratify our own desires. But our allotted time is only seventy years, and in that time we should help others; for 'Man's inhumanity to man, makes countless thousands mourn.' The selfish man must suffer for the 'wretch, concentred all in self, who, doubly dying, shall go down to the vile dust from which he sprung, unwept, unhonored, and unsung.'

"People did better than they thought, by putting the memorial there. It is a constant reminder for us to live day in and day out for others.

"It is men that go to war, not nations."

The speaker ended with the advice:

"Be good, dear child, and let who will be clever,
Do noble deeds, not dream them all day long,
And so make life, death, and that vast forever,
One grand, sweet song.

Ottie Crowe recited "The Anxious Dead." The school sang, "O! Canada."

The service in the hall closed by all singing "Faith of Our Fathers," and the Benediction by Mr. Currie. Then the children marched to the centaph; where, with due ceremony, the school wreath was placed upon the cenotaph by Clarence Payne. The National Anthem was sung, and the children dismissed.

Mrs. A. F. Choate made the wreath for the school from spruce twigs, decorated with large poppies. Mrs. Weller made the wreath for the Institute, and she with some other Institute members placed flags around the plot.

Mrs. George Taylor's flags decorated the roll of honor in the Town Hall.

Miss Young, teacher of the junior classes trained the school children in the singing.

Mrs. George Taylor played for the opening and closing hymns.

AT OMEMEE.

OMEMEE, November 17. — A public church service was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Armistice morning, and an average crowd attended. The pupils of the High and Public Schools marched in a body in charge of their teachers, and occupied the front pews.

The pastor, Rev. Mr. Kennedy, ably filled the position of chairman. Rev. E. W. Rowland, pastor of Trinity United Church, led in prayer, after which the choir, composed of members of the various church choirs of the village, rendered the hymn, "God of our Fathers, Lest We Forget." The Scripture lesson, found in Isaiah 9 was read by Rev. A. T. Veir, of Christ Church.

Rev. Mr. Kennedy then delivered a very able address, making brief mention of the blighted hope of the Kaiser for world power.

The service closed with the hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," followed by the benediction, pronounced by Rev E. W. Rowland.

Effigy Burned.

On Armistice night the local war veterans, with bugles, fifes and drums, accompanied by a host of youths in grotesque costumes, paraded the streets bearing on an old vehicle the Kaiser in effigy, who later was cremated on Sandy Point, near the school amid the boom of cannon and gun.

For over fifty years the youths and men of Omemee and vicinity have celebrated November 5th in this way, followed by the burning of Guy Fawkes, but since the war the memory of Guy Fawkes has given way and resentment toward the Kaiser has taken its place.

AT APSLEY.

APSLEY, November 17. — Armistice Day was observed in Apsley as in former years. Owing to inclement weather, the service which was advertised to be held at the War Memorial, was held in St. George's church and was conducted by Rev. C. A. G. Spence, who gave an appropriate address on "Remembrance," prefaced with the reading of the twenty names inscribed on the monument. At eleven o'clock the two minute silence was observed by the congregation standing at reverent attention.

Mary Garden Interviews Herself While Reporters Talk to Ruth Elder

NEW YORK, N.Y., Nov. 18. (United Press).—Mary Garden, the diva of Chicago grand opera, came back from Europe yesterday on the same ship with Ruth Elder. Realizing that ship reporters were pretty busy interviewing Ruth, Miss Garden consented to interview herself.

"What did Mary Garden wear?" asked Mary Garden.

"She wore a red serge suit with ruffles—yes, the ruffles have returned with me—a red hat, a sable coat—an expensive sable coat."

"And what has Mary Garden been doing?"

"She had been at Monte Carlo since last March swimming twice daily. Midnight swimming has been her favorite."

"In the nude?"

"Oh, yes, in the nude of course. She goes to the beach at midnight and sits until dawn. It is a great weight reducer."

Whereupon Mary Garden terminated the interview without asking herself how much she weighed, which is usually the first thing city editors want to know about her. She appeared to weigh about 130.

After one concert in New York Miss Garden will go on to Chicago for an opening there on December 2nd.

ARE YOU A MASON.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 18.—The entertainment held in the town hall on Saturday evening, under the auspices of Grace Presbyterian church, was well attended, and was well liked throughout.

The three-act play, "Are You a Mason?" presented by the Orono Agricultural Society, gave opportunity for indulgence in hearty laughter as its plot developed, and the numerous complications which ensued were finally happily straightened out. The general verdict was that for an amateur production, the play was exceptionally well put on. The cast of characters included:

George Fisher, stockbroker, formerly an actor—H. Thompson.

Frank Perry, friend of Fisher—A. Pentound.

Amos Bloodgood, of Rockford, Ill., Perry's father-in-law—W. Maunder.

John Halton, gentleman farmer, from "up State"—N. Hagg.

Hamilton Travers, doorkeeper in a cabaret—D. Robb.

Ernest Morrison, a young architect—J. Brown.

Mrs. Caroline Bloodgood—Mrs. M. J. Tamblyn.

Eva, Mrs. Perry—Miss V. Leal.

Annie and Lulu—Mrs. Kerslake and Miss M. Dawson. (These three Mrs. Bloodgood's daughters).

Mrs. Halton, Halton's wife—Mrs. L. Wood.

Lottie, cook to the Perry's—Mrs. Harrison.

Fanchon Armitage, dressmaker at Madame Jolivet's—Mrs. Wood.

The scene of the play is at the Perry apartment in New York city, the first act taking place on the forenoon of Friday, and the other two acts in the afternoon of the following Saturday.

The visiting artists brought their own orchestra which played while the audience was gathering, and between the acts; Dr. Kirkland also contributed a violin solo which was well received.

The ladies of Grace church served lunch to the Orono folk after the concert, and a very pleasant social time was enjoyed. Financially proceeds were divided on a fifty-fifty basis.

GREATEST.

Dishonesty among the nobles of Japan is a cause of increasing worry in the imperial household. Many titled business men have been taking advantage of their exalted position to fleece the gullible. The police have been asked to assist in a sweeping investigation which may cause the loss of many titles.

More than 2,000,000 pounds of copper were required for the minting of $5,115,675 one-cent and five-cent pieces which the United States turned out last year.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

MICAH CHAMPIONS THE OPPRESSED

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 20: Micah Champions the Oppressed.—Micah 2: 1-3; 6:1-13.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

Text:
Micah 2:1-3; 6:1-13.

Woe to them that devise iniquity, and work evil upon their beds! when the morning is light, they practice it, because it is in the power of their hand.

And they covet fields, and take them by violence; and houses, and take them away: so they oppress a man and his house, even a man and his heritage.

Therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, against this family do I devise an evil, from which ye shall not remove your necks; neither shall ye go haughtily: for this time is evil.

Hear ye now what the Lord saith; Arise, contend thou before the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice.

Hear ye, O mountains, the Lord's controversy, and ye strong foundations of the earth: for the Lord hath a controversy with his people, and he will plead with Israel.

O my people, what have I done unto thee? and wherein have I wearied thee? testify against me.

For I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of servants; and I sent before thee Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.

O my people, remember now what Balak king of Moab consulted, and what Balaam the son of Beor answered him from Shittim unto Gilgal; that ye may know the righteousness of the Lord.

Wherewith shall I come before the Lord, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come before him with burnt offerings, with calves of a year old?

Will the Lord be pleased with thousands of rams, or with ten thousands of rivers of oil? shall I give my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?

He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?

The Lord's voice crieth unto the city, and the man of wisdom shall see thy name: hear ye the rod, and who hath appointed it.

Are there yet the treasures of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure that is abominable?

Shall I count them pure with the wicked balances, and with the bag of deceitful weights?

For the rich men thereof are full of violence, and the inhabitants thereof have spoken lies, and their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.

Therefore also will I make thee sick in smiting thee, in making thee desolate because of thy sins.

When a prophet professes to speak in the name of God how can we know that it is God who is speaking? Surely there have been false prophets, and both individuals and churches have presumed to speak with the authority of God when it has become evident either at the time or later that there was nothing either permanent or abiding in their delcarations. One presumes a great deal who dares to speak in the name of God.

The study of this lesson, however, suggests what one may say with strong conviction and with the assurance that it is God who is speaking. Micah dealt with matters that are as eternal and as sure as God himself. He brings the word of the Almighty to bear upon things that are plainly wrong and against the character of God.

When he pronounces woe to them that devise iniquity his pronouncement is entirely in harmony with the judgments of God. When he condemns those who work evil upon their beds and who practice iniquity he is uttering prophecies that have back of them moral distinctions that are not affairs of the moment but that are firmly established in the very foundations of things.

Selfishness.

Never, however, so clearly marked in any society have been the evil aspects of covetousness and violence; in fact covetousness has too often posed merely as economic self interest and has taken to itself under the high pretense of lofty phrases and professions, ways of attaining its ends which have been little removed from violence. Can one doubt, however, that such things are inherently just as wrong and as much against the character and will of God as are gross forms of selfishness, meanness and robbery?

Against all such practices Micah declares the judgments of God. But he declares these judgments in a winning way. God's attitude toward his people is not merely one of udgment and denunciation. It is one of controversy and appeal.

He calls upon the mountains, and the enduring foundations of the earth to hear this controversy of God with his people. In plaintive terms he represents God as relating all that he has done for Israel and calling attention to Israel's poor return. He represents the people as turning to God with burnt offerings and calves of a year old.

Sacrifices Enough?

But the prophet asks very pointedly, "Will the Lord be pleased with these sacrifices with thousands of rams and with ten thousands of rivers of oil? Would even the offering of human sacrifices of the first born be pleasing unto God or turn away his judgments?" Micah gives the reply and in doing so he has defined for all time in concrete words the ultimate realities of religion: "He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."

There is found a great and practical definition of religion. Briefly and effectively Micah proceeds to expound it. What does it mean to do justly? Can one do justly and make a profession of righteousness before God when he is using a scant measure in business or tricky scales and deceitful weights?

It is in daily life that the testing of religion is found. It is in daily life that God's righteousness sits in judgment upon the unrighteousness of men. It is in daily life that his love and grace condemn the proud and haughty and that his Fatherhood condemns the scornful and oppressive.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts To Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts.

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritations.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding kidney disorders.

MILLBROOK NEWS.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 18.—Miss Mary Howard, B.A., of Toronto, was at home with her parents, Rev. F. H. and Mrs. Howard, for the holiday week end. Rev. Mr. Howard returned on Thursday from Olean, N.Y., where he had been called owing to the illness of his only brother, Dr. Frank Howard. The latter is recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Campbell of Toronto, were guests of friends in Millbrook and vicinity over the holiday.

Mrs. Havelock Graham of Toronto is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith.

Mrs. Bolton Price of Orillia is the guest of her mother, Mrs. P. J. Doak, while her husband is on a hunting trip in the north country.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Sims, and two boys, Paul and Henry, of Barrie, were guests of her mother and sister, Mrs. J. C. and Miss Anna Kells, for Thanksgiving.

Rev. P. B. and Mrs. Delon of Cobourg, were guests of Rev. Canon and Mrs. Allen at the rectory on Sunday. Mr. Delon was taking Mr. Allen's work for the day, the rector not having yet sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to take up his parochial duties.

Mrs. Ella Grandy and Miss Jane Cathcart of Peterborough were guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. Beggs of Toronto for the holiday week end.

Misses Florence Fallis and Edna Lowery spent Thanksgiving the guest of the latter's sister, Mrs. Johnson, Oshawa.

Misses M. Barnum and M. Hutchison of Toronto were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Offa Williamson for the Thanksgiving holiday. The many friends of Mr. Williamson will be glad to learn that he is recovering from the accident which occurred last week when he had the misfortune to fall from an apple tree in his orchard, fracturing a rib on the left side.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Bateson and two children, Margaret and Robert, of Campbellford, were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Raper, for Thanksgiving.

Mr. Graham Russell of Toronto was home and spent Thanksgiving with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Russell.

Miss Gertrude Spence of Malton spent Thanksgiving holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Spence.

Mrs. Dorothy Hill of Toronto was the guest of Mrs. I. E. and Miss May Needham over Thanksgiving.

Miss Shirley L. Muir, principal of the Continuation School, spent the Thanksgiving week end at her home in Toronto. Through the efforts of Miss Muir two carloads of her pupils motored to Toronto on Saturday and attended the production of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar", with Robert Mantell in the title role. Miss Muir's pupils are studying this play this year in their literature course, and it will be presented in modified form at the annual concert in December. Messrs. B. B. Dawson and G. W. Sayles supplied the cars for the trip on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Graham of Stratford were guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. McDowell over Thanksgiving.

Rev. M. and Mrs. John Riddell had as their guests for Thanksgiving her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Harper, of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Darling and daughter, Betty, of Peterborough, were guests of her grandmother, Mrs. E. S. Burnham, for Thanksgiving.

Messrs. V. C. Lambert and W. Whyte are in Muskoka for the deer hunting. Messrs. J. W. Hutchison and R. Stone are also away on their annual holiday taking in the deer hunting in the vicinity of Dry Lake.

Messrs. Harry Leach, Dawson Leach, of Chicago, Archie Leach of Toronto, and Mrs. W. Leach, of Chicago, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Dawson for the Thanksgiving week end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nattress and son Vincent, spent the holiday week end with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Howe and two daughters, Peggy and June, were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Nattress, for the holiday week end.

Mr. Basil Fitzgerald of Toronto was the guest of his uncle and aunt, Councillor and Mrs. J. R. Makins for the Thanksgiving week end.

Mr. William Needler of Toronto spent the holiday week end the guest of his uncle, Mr. A. A. and Miss Etta Needler.

Mrs. A. E. Ames, and Miss Scott, of Toronto, with Miss E. Morrow and Mrs. Duncan Walker of Peterboro were guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Needham on Wednesday.

Ernest L. Burnham, student at the University of Toronto, spent the Thanksgiving week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham.

Miss Bonna Robinson of Toronto was the guest of Miss Jean Burnham over Thanksgiving.

Mr. H. Jordan, assistant principal of the Continuation school, spent the Thanksgiving week end with friends at Hamilton.

Mr. H. J. Anderson of the public school staff spent the Thanksgiving week end at his home in Bracebridge, Muskoka.

Miss Lottie Luxon, teacher in the Continuation school at Severn Bridge, was home for Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Luxon.

Mr. George Needler of Toronto spent the holiday week end the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnard, South Monaghan.

PRESBYTERIAL WORK FOR YEAR IS CLOSED

Executive of Lindsay District W.M.S. Plans For Next Year.

The Lindsay Presbyterial W.M.S. Executive convened on Wednesday afternoon in St. Andrew's United church, the president, Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, B.A., of Norwood presiding.

The meeting was favored by the presence of Mrs. J. MacGillivray, M. A., Toronto, the President of the Dominion Board of the Woman's Missionary Society. Mrs. MacGillivray graciously assisted in disposing of any difficult problems arising at the close of the exceptionally short year. She also in speaking, paid high tribute to the calibre of the women found engaged in this great voluntary service.

Officers in charge of the various sections of the Presbyterial gave reports which were highly encouraging and satisfactory, showing that much progress is being made in all directions.

Plans for the first Presbyterial meting in the new year were also under discussion, and committees were appointed to complete and perfect the arrangements.

The following officers of the Lindsay Presbyterial were present, and responded to the roll call: Miss M. Dickson, Peterborough; Mrs. J. K. Moore Peterborough; Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, B.A., Norwood; Miss E. Dunoon, Lindsay; Mrs. Coon, Peterborough; Mrs. J. McIntosh, Fenelon Falls; Mrs. Malcolm MacKinnon; Cannington; Mrs. A. Bookhout, Peterborough; Mrs. H. Morrison, Lindsay; Mrs. Fred Brandon, Cannington; Mrs. Rev.) E. W. Rowland, Omemee; Mrs. (Rev.) J. I. Brown, Peterborough; Mrs. C. Denike, Havelock; Mrs. H. Robb, Norwood; Mrs. A. Porteous, Mrs. J. John, Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. E. J. Wagar, of Peterborough.

At the conclusion of the meeting tea was served in the church parlors by the ladies of St. Andrew's Auxiliary.

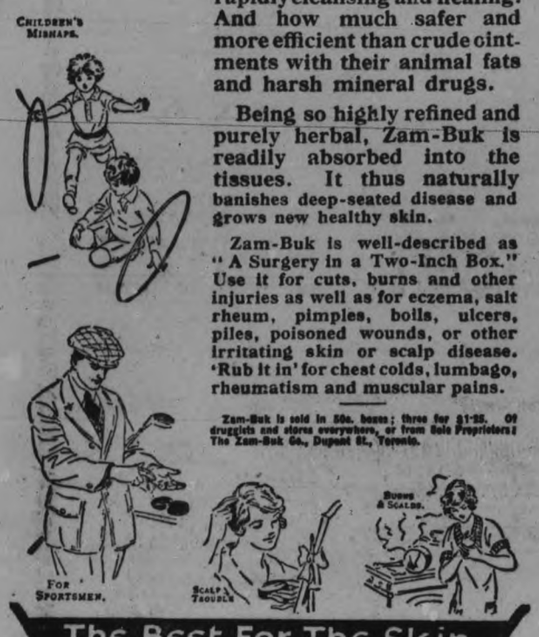
SO delightfully soothing on a cut, wound or sore. So rapidly cleansing and healing. And how much safer and more efficient than crude ointments with their animal fats and harsh mineral drugs.

Being so highly refined and purely herbal, Zam-Buk is readily absorbed into the tissues. It thus naturally banishes deep-seated disease and grows new healthy skin.

Zam-Buk is well-described as "A Surgery in a Two-Inch Box." Use it for cuts, burns and other injuries as well as for eczema, salt rheum, pimples, boils, ulcers, piles, poisoned wounds, or other irritating skin or scalp disease. 'Rub it in' for chest colds, lumbago, rheumatism and muscular pains.

Zam-Buk is sold in 50c. boxes; three for $1.25. Of druggists and stores everywhere, or from Sole Proprietors: The Zam-Buk Co., Dupont St., Toronto.



The Best For The Skin

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE PROFESSIONS

The girls have decided just what they will do;
They've chosen professions, and noble ones, too.
Grace took decoration, interior art,
For Grace has a genius for things that are smart.
Improving complexions, and fixing the hair,
Preserving the beauty, are Gwendolyn's flair.
And Helen is happy—she's learning to cook
Most wonderful things from a wonderful book.
Blanche loves little children, and so she will teach,
Improving their learning, and manners, and speech.
And Bess is so clever, knows values so well,
She's meant for a buyer, that's easy to tell.
And Mary's so lovely when anyone's ill,
She says she'll do nursing, and probably will.
And who is as charming as charming Marie?
Some sort of a hostess is what she will be.
Belle's clothes are the prettiest dresses in town;
She'll be a designer of garment and gown.
And Florence some sort of position will search
To work for the welfare of school or of church.
The girls have decided, they've made up their minds
To follow professions of various kinds.
And now what will I do? Well, really I plan
To be the whole business. I've married a man.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND NOBBY'S WARTS.

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Have you a piece of sandpaper?" asked a voice at the open door of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one morning. The door was open because the rabbit gentleman was going to hop away and have an adventure.

"Who wants sandpaper?" inquired Mr. Longears. "If it's to scratch matches on to build a fire you must be very careful. For the leaves in the woods are very dry, now, and if you start a blaze the trees may burn. Who wants sandpaper?"

"I do, if you please," croaked a small voice and a little toad boy hopped up the steps.

"Why, it's Bobby Hop!" exclaimed Mr. Longears, seeing the toad. "What in the world do you want of sandpaper?"

Before Bobby could answer Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boys, scampered past the bungalow on their way to school.

"Hello, Nobby!" they called to the little toad chap. "You better hurry or you'll be late. Is Uncle Wiggily coming with you?"

Uncle Wiggily softly followed.

"No, he isn't," answered the toad boy, "and I wish you wouldn't call me Nobby!"

"Wuff! Wuff! Nobby Hop!" barked Jackie and Peetie, as they ran on to school.

"Why do they call you Nobby?" asked Uncle Wiggily of the toad boy.

"Because I have so many warts," was the sad answer. "They're like nobs and bumps all over me. But have you any sandpaper, please?"

"I think I can find you some," answered Uncle Wiggily. "But what do you want with it?"

Bobby Hop, or, as the puppy boys called him, "Nobby," sort of rubbed one warty leg over the other warty leg and said:

"Because."

"Because what?" asked Uncle Wiggily with a smile.

"I want some sandpaper just because," said Bobby. "It's a secret."

"Oh, if it's a secret I wouldn't think of asking you to tell me," said the rabbit gentleman. "Wait, and I'll get you the sandpaper." Which he did, a fine, large rough piece.

"Thank you!" croaked the little toad boy, hopping away.

"Don't be late for school," warned Mr. Longears. "And, by the way, why aren't you snug and warm in your hole in the ground? Your father told me, the other day, that it was too cold for toads to be out now, and that he was going to take his family into the underground hole house for the long, winter sleep."

"We're going to start our long sleep to-morrow," croaked Nobby, looking at a bunch of warts on his left hind leg. "This is the last day I can be out. I don't even have to go to school."

"Well, I'll see you in the spring, when it's warm again," spoke Uncle Wiggily as Nobby started off again. "And I hope your secret with the sandpaper is a jolly one."

"Oh, it is going to be very jolly, I think," croaked Nobby. "And when I come out of the winter hole, in the spring, maybe I won't have so many of these bumpy old warts," he added. "Then the boys won't make fun of me and call me Nobby."

"Oh—don't you like young warts?" Bobby?" asked Mr. Longears.

"I hate 'em!" croaked the toad boy. "And maybe I won't have any in the spring. Thank you again for the sandpaper."

Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose and watched Nobby hop away. Then a cunning look came into the eyes of the rabbit gentleman.

"So Nobby is ashamed of his warts, is he?" whispered Uncle Wiggily to himself. "That is too bad. And I think I know what he is going to do with that piece of sandpaper. Of course I'm not sure, but I think I can guess. I'll follow Bobby, or Nobby as the boys nickname him, and see if I am right."

Watching to see which path the little toad boy took through the woods, Uncle Wiggily softly followed, taking care to make no noise as he hopped over the dried, rustling leaves.

"So Nobby is ashamed of his warts!" murmured the rabbit gentleman. "Well, I think he needs a little lesson. And he wants sandpaper. Ho! Ho! I think I have guessed his secret."

And whether Mr. Longears had or not you shall learn in the next story, which is going to be about Uncle Wiggily and Aunt Lettie's window. That is if the front steps don't crawl in the puppy dog's house to go to sleep and leave the milkman with no way of bringing in the ice-cream to-morrow morning.

IS YOUR APPETITE POOR?

You have often wondered why no cook seems able to prepare food as tasty as "Mother used to make." Somehow, the flavor does not seem to be there. The most elaborate course dinner seems tasteless to you, and every dish is unpalatable and ill-flavored.

Why does the modern cook seem unable to tickle your palate with appetizing dishes when he has at his command all of the scientific equipment that Mother never even dreamed of? What was the magic that Mother used which made you smack your lips after every taste of the plain food which she prepared?

You will get one of the greatest surprises of your life if you will go back home and eat one of the same home-cooked meals which you enjoyed a few years ago! The food will seem tasteless and unsavory, and all the seasoning and condiments with which you flavor it will not render it palatable to you. At first, you will ask yourself: "Has Mother lost her ability to make toothsome dishes?" As the light of reason illuminates your mind, you will discover that the fault does not lie in the way that the food was prepared, but in you, yourself. The old hunger for simple food is gone; years of bad eating habits have changed your natural hunger to such an extent that only queer-tasting food seems appetizing to you. The taste buds of your mouth have been so deadened by condiments that simple food tastes flat and insipid—even sickening and offensive.

The truth is that you haven't been really hungry for years. Your meals have been bolted in a hurry three times daily, and you have eaten, with no real relish, so much more than your body could appropriate to its use. You have neglected to exercise sufficiently to use up this excess nourishment, and it has accumulated in the body, making you bilious and toxic.

If you want to bring back that normal hunger you enjoyed when you were a child you will have to start training for it at once. Give your deadened taste nerves a rest from all food for a few days. Just drink plenty of water, if you are thirsty, but eliminate all food of every description until normal hunger reasserts itself. Take longs walks of several miles daily, and clean the intestines with enemas of plain water. Watch the pep come back in your step! Look into the mirror each morning to see how your eyes lose that fishy expression, and observe how your tongue regains its usual pink color.

Don't be afraid that you will fast too long. You will get hungry again when your body really needs food. When the sight of a stale crust of bread makes your mouth water you will again know what real hunger means, and Mother's food will thrill you once again as it did when you were a child.

Questions and Answers.

Question: M. H. G. asks: "What causes a baby's legs to cramp and draw back of the knees?"

Answer: Any time a baby's legs cramp or begin to draw back it is liable to be a symptom of some dangerous spinal irritation, such as infantile paralysis or cerebrospinal meningitis. Such symptoms in a baby should be immediately reported to your doctor, who can best tell what to do.

Question: H. S. asks: "Will you please tell me what foods, if any, contain iodine?"

Answer: The following foods contain the largest amounts of iodine: asparagus, pineapple, cabbage, kidney beans, mushrooms, carrots, strawberries, shrimp and other shell fish.

Question: Mrs. M. G. G. writes: "My brother has been ill with heart trouble for nearly a year—leaky valve. The heart specialist ordered complete rest, but he has insisted on taking two treatments a week from an osteopath, and his improvement has been very slow. Would not such treatment force the blood through the heart as rapidly as any other form of exercise?"

Answer: Your brother will never be cured of heart trouble as long as he uses the "complete rest" treatment. Osteopath treatments will surely be helpful to him, but he must get up and walk around several times daily in order to properly exercise the heart muscles. His diet should be very limited, and care must be used to preclude any possibility of flatulence. Exercises should be taken while lying in bed, and the walking increased each day in order to develop the strength which is needed to overcome any heart derangement.

Hints On Etiquette

1. Is it polite to talk of one's private affairs, children, servants and the like, in public?
2. Are there any general rules for politeness in conversation?
3. Is it good form to discuss recent travels at length with folks who have never had the opportunity to make a similar trip?

The Answers.

1. No. Personal affairs are never so interesting to outsiders.
2. Listen to others, try to be interested, refrain from asking personal questions or the price of things, and never try to "show off."
3. No. Unless they ask specific questions.

Every Home Needs

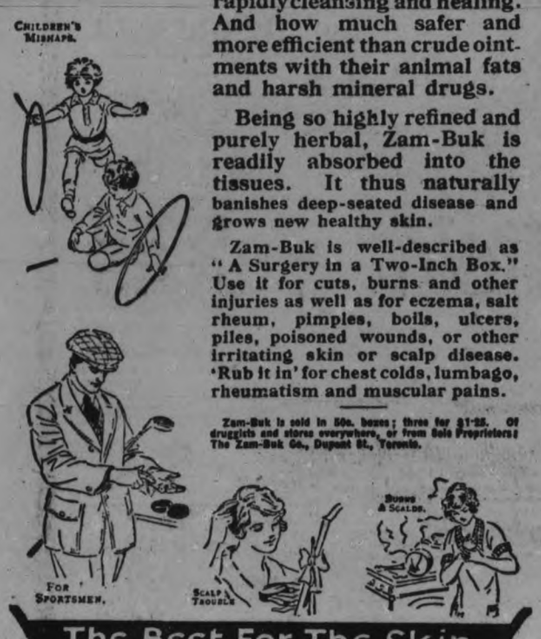
ZAM-BUK

So delightfully soothing on a cut, wound or sore. So rapidly cleansing and healing. And how much safer and more efficient than crude ointments with their animal fats and harsh mineral drugs.

Being so highly refined and purely herbal, Zam-Buk is readily absorbed into the tissues. It thus naturally banishes deep-seated disease and grows new healthy skin.

Zam-Buk is well-described as "A Surgery in a Two-Inch Box." Use it for cuts, burns and other injuries as well as for eczema, salt rheum, pimples, boils, ulcers, piles, poisoned wounds, or other irritating skin or scalp disease. 'Rub it in' for chest colds, lumbago, rheumatism and muscular pains.

Zam-Buk is sold in 50c. boxes; three for $1.25. Of druggists and stores everywhere, or from Sole Proprietors: The Zam-Buk Co., Dupont St., Toronto.



The Best For The Skin

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE PROFESSIONS

The girls have decided just what they will do;
They've chosen professions, and noble ones, too.
Grace took decoration, interior art,
For Grace has a genius for things that are smart.
Improving complexions, and fixing the hair,
Preserving the beauty, are Gwendolyn's flair.
And Helen is happy—she's learning to cook
Most wonderful things from a wonderful book.

Blanche loves little children, and so she will teach,
Improving their learning, and manners, and speech.
And Bess is so clever, knows values so well,
She's meant for a buyer, that's easy to tell.
And Mary's so lovely when anyone's ill,
She says she'll do nursing, and probably will.
And who is as charming as charming Marie?
Some sort of a hostess is what she will be.

Belle's clothes are the prettiest dresses in town:
She'll be a designer of garment and gown.
And Florence some sort of position will search
To work for the welfare of school or of church.
The girls have decided, they've made up their minds
To follow professions of various kinds.
And now what will I do? Well, really I plan
To be the whole business. I've married a man.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND NOBBY'S WARTS.

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Have you a piece of sandpaper?" asked a voice at the open door of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one morning. The door was open because the rabbit gentleman was going to hop away and have an adventure.

"Who wants sandpaper?" inquired Mr. Longears. "If it's to scratch matches on to build a fire you must be very careful. For the leaves in the woods are very dry, now, and if you start a blaze the trees may burn. Who wants sandpaper?"

"I do, if you please," croaked a small voice and a little toad boy hopped up the steps.

"Why, it's Bobby Hop!" exclaimed Mr. Longears, seeing the toad. "What in the world do you want of sandpaper?"

Before Bobby could answer Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boys, scampered past the bungalow on their way to school.

"Hello, Nobby!" they called to the little toad chap. "You better hurry or you'll be late. Is Uncle Wiggily coming with you?"

"No, he isn't," answered the toad boy, "and I wish you wouldn't call me Nobby!"

"Wuff! Wuff! Nobby Hop!" barked Jackie and Peetie, as they ran on to school.

"Why do they call you Nobby?" asked Uncle Wiggily of the toad boy.

"Because I have so many warts," was the sad answer. "They're like nobs and bumps all over me. But have you any sandpaper, please?"

"I think I can find you some," answered Uncle Wiggily. "But what do you want with it?"

Bobby Hop, or, as the puppy boys called him, "Nobby," sort of rubbed one warty leg over the other warty leg and said:

"Because."

"Because what?" asked Uncle Wiggily with a smile.

"I want some sandpaper just because," said Bobby. "It's a secret."

"Oh, if it's a secret I wouldn't think of asking you to tell me," said the rabbit gentleman. "Wait, and I'll get you the sandpaper." Which he did, a fine, large rough piece.

"Thank you!" croaked the little toad boy, hopping away.

"Don't be late for school," warned Mr. Longears. "And, by the way, why aren't you snug and warm in your hole in the ground? Your father told me, the other day, that it was too cold for toads to be out now, and that he was going to take his family into the underground hole house for the long, winter sleep."

"We're going to start our long sleep to-morrow," croaked Nobby, looking at a bunch of warts on his left hind leg. "This is the last day I can be out. I don't even have to go to school."

"Well, I'll see you in the spring, when it's warm again," spoke Uncle Wiggily as Nobby started off again. "And I hope your secret with the sandpaper is a jolly one."

"Oh, it is going to be very jolly, I think," croaked Nobby. "And when I come out of the winter hole, in the spring, maybe I won't have so many of these bumpy old warts," he added. "Then the boys won't make fun of me and call me Nobby."

"Oh—don't you like young warts?" Bobby?" asked Mr. Longears.

"I hate 'em!" croaked the toad boy. "And maybe I won't have any in the spring. Thank you again for the sandpaper."

Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose and watched Nobby hop away. Then a cunning look came into the eyes of the rabbit gentleman.

"So Nobby is ashamed of his warts, is he?" whispered Uncle Wiggily to himself. "That is too bad. And I think I know what he is going to do with that piece of sandpaper. Of course I'm not sure, but I think I can guess. I'll follow Bobby, or Nobby as the boys nickname him, and see if I am right."

Watching to see which path the little toad boy took through the woods, Uncle Wiggily softly followed, taking care to make no noise as he hopped over the dried, rustling leaves.

"So Nobby is ashamed of his warts!" murmured the rabbit gentleman. "Well, I think he needs a little lesson. And he wants sandpaper. Ho! Ho! I think I have guessed his secret."

And whether Mr. Longears had or not you shall learn in the next story, which is going to be about Uncle Wiggily and Aunt Lettie's window. That is if the front steps don't crawl in the puppy dog's house to go to sleep and leave the milkman with no way of bringing in the ice-cream to-morrow morning.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. FRANK McCOY

"The Fast Way to Health"

© 1926 McCOY HEALTH SERVICE - LOS ANGELES - CAL.

IS YOUR APPETITE POOR?

You have often wondered why no cook seems able to prepare food as tasty as "Mother used to make." Somehow, the flavor does not seem to be there. The most elaborate course dinner seems tasteless to you, and every dish is unpalatable and ill-flavored.

Why does the modern cook seem unable to tickle your palate with appetizing dishes when he has at his command all of the scientific equipment that Mother never even dreamed of? What was the magic that Mother used which made you smack your lips after every taste of the plain food which she prepared?

You will get one of the greatest surprises of your life if you will go back home and eat one of the same home-cooked meals which you enjoyed a few years ago! The food will seem tasteless and unsavory, and all the seasoning and condiments with which you flavor it will not render it palatable to you. At first, you will ask yourself: "Has Mother lost her ability to make toothsome dishes?" As the light of reason illuminates your mind, you will discover that the fault does not lie in the way that the food was prepared, but in you, yourself. The old hunger for simple food is gone; years of bad eating habits have changed your natural hunger to such an extent that only queer-tasting food seems appetizing to you. The taste buds of your mouth have been so deadened by condiments that simple food tastes flat and insipid—even sickening and offensive.

The truth is that you haven't been really hungry for years. Your meals have been bolted in a hurry three times daily, and you have eaten, with no real relish, so much more than your body could appropriate to its use. You have neglected to exercise sufficiently to use up this excess nourishment, and it has accumulated in the body, making you bilious and toxic.

If you want to bring back that normal hunger you enjoyed when you were a child you will have to start training for it at once. Give your deadened taste nerves a rest from all food for a few days. Just drink plenty of water, if you are thirsty, but eliminate all food of every description until normal hunger reasserts itself. Take longs walks of several miles daily, and clean the intestines with enemas of plain water. Watch the pep come back in your step! Look into the mirror each morning to see how your eyes lose that fishy expression, and observe how your tongue regains its usual pink color.

Don't be afraid that you will fast too long. You will get hungry again when your body really needs food. When the sight of a stale crust of bread makes your mouth water you will again know what real hunger means, and Mother's food will thrill you once again as it did when you were a child.

Questions and Answers.

Question: M. H. G. asks: "What causes a baby's legs to cramp and draw back of the knees?"

Answer: Any time a baby's legs cramp or begin to draw back it is liable to be a symptom of some dangerous spinal irritation, such as infantile paralysis or cerebrospinal meningitis. Such symptoms in a baby should be immediately reported to your doctor, who can best tell what to do.

Question: H. S. asks: "Will you please tell me what foods, if any, contain iodine?"

Answer: The following foods contain the largest amounts of iodine: asparagus, pineapple, cabbage, kidney beans, mushrooms, carrots, strawberries, shrimp and other shell fish.

Question: Mrs. M. G. G. writes: "My brother has been ill with heart trouble for nearly a year—leaky valve. The heart specialist ordered complete rest, but he has insisted on taking two treatments a week from an osteopath, and his improvement has been very slow. Would not such treatment force the blood through the heart as rapidly as any other form of exercise?"

Answer: Your brother will never be cured of heart trouble as long as he uses the "complete rest" treatment. Osteopath treatments will surely be helpful to him, but he must get up and walk around several times daily in order to properly exercise the heart muscles. His diet should be very limited, and care must be used to preclude any possibility of flatulence. Exercises should be taken while lying in bed, and the walking increased each day in order to develop the strength which is needed to overcome any heart derangement.

Hints On Etiquette

1. Is it polite to talk of one's private affairs, children, servants and the like, in public?

2. Are there any general rules for politeness in conversation?

3. Is it good form to discuss recent travels at length with folks who have never had the opportunity to make a similar trip?

The Answers.

1. No. Personal affairs are never so interesting to outsiders.

2. Listen to others, try to be interested, refrain from asking personal questions or the price of things, and never try to "show off."

3. No. Unless they ask specific questions.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Rhoda and Joy were giggling over some kitchen-shared secret when they appeared in the archway between dining room and living room, but almost instantly the girl's soft, sweet laughter was extinguished, like a phonograph record suddenly cut off. Joy tugged at her hand, still giggling uncontrollably, but Rhoda shook her head impatiently, the look of intense listening deepening on her plump, pretty face.

Faith, watching her, saw that she had been struck dumb by the music from the radio. A famous soprano, broadcasting from Chicago, was singing "Annie Laurie," each note coming pure, rounded, pearly-perfect, as if the singer were in the room. Into the turquoise-blue eyes, which Faith had thought a little shallow and stupid, for all the girl's sweetness, there came a look of ecstasy, the like of which Faith had never seen in her eyes before. Bob, who was sitting beside Faith on the couch, within reaching distance of the radio dials, saw, too, and his hand went out and cupped over Faith's, squeezing it hard to call her attention to the miracle which she was watching. The country girl's bosom was rising and falling rapidly, her breath coming between her parted lips like a muted accompaniment to the song.

Suddenly Faith remembered Bob's first words about Rhoda: "Lord, What a voice! Where did a maid ever get a voice like that?" The truth came to her in a dazzle of light. Excitement enriched her own voice as she called to Rhoda:

"You sing, don't you, Rhoda? I'm sure you do!"

Color flooded Rhoda's plump face, her eyes fluttered with confusion. "Yes, ma'am, a little," she faltered. "I ain't had any lessons, but I can carry a tune pretty good. Nils says—" she faltered again, blushing more rosily, afraid of being thought conceited, "Nils says I got a voice just like Galli Gurci's, but of course I ain't."

"Won't you say 'haven't' instead of 'ain't,'" for heaven's sake?" Cherry burst out. "I suppose you have been to school, haven't you?"

"Oh;" Rhoda's right hand flew to her throat, as if to choke back her anger and tears. "Yes, Miss Cherry. I've been to school, through the eighth grade. My Mamma died then, like I told you, and I stayed home to keep house for Pop—I mean, my father and Nils. I know how to speak correct—I mean, correctly, but I've sorta got in the habit of talking like that, living on the farm away from everything and all. I'll try to speak more correctly."

"All of us make grammatical errors, Rhoda," Faith tried to take the sting out of Cherry's words. "But I want to hear you sing. Please, Rhoda!"

The lovely notes of the famous soprano were still pouring into the room, like pearls of sound. Rhoda's eyes again assumed that look of ecstatic listening, as she walked slowly, like a girl entranced, toward the radio. When her hand rested upon the cabinet, she threw back her head, her full young bosom rising on a great intake of breath. She waited for a moment, then, to the startled surprise of everyone in the room, her voice was raised in song, the first note blending with the note then being sung by the soprano broadcasting from Chicago:

"—And for bon-nee Annie Laurie,
I'd lay me doon and dee."

To Faith, it seemed that only one voice, miraculously enriched, sang the timelessly beautiful words and music. Rhoda's voice was as clear, as true, as perfectly pitched, apparently, as the voice that came over the radio. It was almost impossible to distinguish between them.

"My God!" Bob breathed, in all reverence. "What a voice!" But his words were scarcely more than a whisper, so that that flood of melody might not be interrupted.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

For the boy too young for long trousers this suit is considered correct for dancing class and party occasions. It is of light-weight, dark blue serge worn with Eton collar and black Windsor tie. Strap pumps or oxfords may be worn with the black socks.

There are difficulties about dressing the little-big boy of eight or nine or ten—unknown to anyone save the little boy himself and his mother or grandmother or who ever it is who undertakes responsibilities for the proper assembling of his small wardrobe. To the rest of the world the idea that the question of clothes could ever be a serious one for a boy of that age seems amusing, absurd.

The difficulties peculiar to boys of this age are that they really are not tall enough or old enough to wear long trousers and in this country feel themselves too old for little boy short trousers. For every-day wear they wear knickers generally with a feeling of satisfaction that really big boys and grown men also wear such things. But for party occasions knickers are much too informal—and so straight short trousers of the sort that French and English boys wear as a matter of course are chosen as correct.

It may be that at the dancing school that your eight-year-old Bobby attends there are definite rules or suggestions concerning the dress of the children, or it may be that you have solved the problem by dressing Bobby as most of the other boys dress.

But the suit that is considered most correct for dancing class for boys old enough to wear woolen suits and too young for long trousers consists of a suit like the one shown in the sketch of dark blue serge or flannel worn with an Eton or Buster Brown collar and a Windsor tie. Strapped pumps or oxfords of black patent leather and black silk or cotton socks finish the ensemble. And this is also the correct outfit for party wear generally.

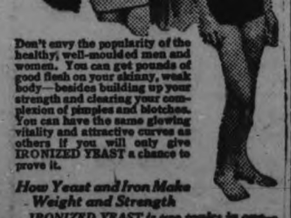
Your "Skinny" Body Makes Them Laugh

GAIN Pounds of weight with New YEAST and IRON

Pleasant to take—Quick results—or no money



Don't envy the popularity of the healthy, well-moulded men and women. You can get pounds of good flesh on your skinny, weak body—besides building up your strength and clearing your complexion of pimples and blotches. You can have the same glowing vitality and attractive curves as others if you will only give IRONIZED YEAST a chance to prove it.

How Yeast and Iron Make Weight and Strength

IRONIZED YEAST is two tonics in one—weight-building Yeast and strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt, and which makes malt so beneficial.

This yeast is treated with iron taken from fresh vegetables—spinach, lettuce and celery. In this form iron is easily assimilated by the body making rich, red blood and toning up nerves and muscles.

Only when Yeast is Ironized in this way is it most effective—for iron is needed to bring out the weight-building values of Yeast. By this formula IRONIZED YEAST gives you results in half the time required by yeast and iron tablets compounds.

Go today to your druggist and get a full size treatment of IRONIZED YEAST. It will pick you right up and add pounds of weight over those skinny places, making you plump, curvesome and charming. Remember, if you don't gain 5 lbs. in two weeks, simply return empty package, and your money will be promptly refunded. Don't envy others. Cleanse your blood, tone up your stomach and gain quick healthy flesh.

First treatment gives results—or NO MONEY

Get IRONIZED YEAST now! Note the amazing gain in weight and strength from just a single ounce treatment. Supply limited—write today! Your health will be promptly refunded. If inconvenient to buy from druggist, send $1.25 to CANADIAN IRONIZED YEAST CO., Ltd., Bond Bldg., Dept. ____

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1927

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

Benefic aspects dominate through the busy hours of this day, according to astrology, which finds the planetary rule favorable to commercial enterprises, but menacing to all forms of speculation.

There is a sign of great promise for business enterprises and whatever is started under this sway should be profitable.

Bankers come under a promising direction of the stars, which is read as indicating identification of interest with merchants and farmers.

It has been frequently prophesied that the price of food would advance perceptibly and this forecast will become a fact as the winter progresses, the seers warn.

While in many parts of the country farmers will reap good rewards for the summer's labor, many will buy grains and vegetables in the coming months, if the stars are rightly read.

Astrologers foresee that the great national problem of the future will concern the tilling of the soil in America.

It is persistently prognosticated that the methods of big business will be brought to bear on farming, and that the individual agriculturist will lose his independence.

Women should find this a rule rarely favorable to them and to their ambitions. This should be a lucky day for shopping.

Happy days may be counted on by those who wed while this configuration prevails.

This is an auspicious day for meeting new friends, especially those of opposite sex, for romances start readily under this sway.

Theatres are subject to influences stimulating to public interest. Actors and actresses should benefit.

Music and art are well aspected, and the coming year should give great impetus to all cultural enterprises.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year in which they gain through friendships.

Children born on this day probably will be endowed with more than average talents. Body as well as mind is likely to be far above ordinary.

PAPER IS GIVEN ON CITIZENSHIP

Mrs. K. Wightman Addresses Local Council of Women.

ROUTINE BUSINESS.

The monthly meeting of the Local Council of Women, held in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. yesterday afternoon, was featured by a fine address delivered by Mrs. K. Wightman, on "Citizenship." Mrs. Wightman's fluent, pleasing delivery and soft voice, combined with a delightful briefness to her telling, concise address, made it very attractive. The address follows:

As convenor of Citizenship Committee, I have been asked to say a few words on citizenship generally, and on women's use of the franchise particularly.

In spite of the insistence of newspapers and bill-boardings, and of the activities of women's societies and civic committees, etc., the voting average of women is still very low, particularly in municipal elections—in some cities as low as twenty-five per cent.

What is the cause of this indifference. When one considers for how long and how valorously women have striven for the franchise, it seems curiously inconsistent.

There has been a prevailing idea that prior to the rise of the suffrage agitation, women had been content with their status in the world. Nothing could be farther from the truth. There has been no time in written history when there were not women making protest. Twice before the coming of Christ, women, in expostulation against injustices to the sex, assembled in great numbers within the Forum at Rome and blocked its approaches, to the consternation of the Consuls. In both cases they won their causes and in the later instance called forth an immortal oration from Cato the Elder. Century followed century. Christianity came into the world and overspread Europe. In the 13th and 14th centuries the Italian Renaissance appeared and wrought its changes; Columbus discovered the American continent, and colonists coming to America brought the controversy with them, and probably discussed the theological aspects of the woman movement on the Mayflower. The American revolution took place and passed into history. And during these long ages, through dark periods of war, and religious intolerance, and thunderously voiced opposition, the woman movement persisted and preserved and maintained its existence.

And from this broader woman movement, which has existed in one form or another since the beginning recorded of history, emerged, about seventy-five years ago, the suffrage movement. Women had been seeking reforms of the civil code, which robbed them of property, wages, guardianship of children, and other protective rights. They observed that some grievances were built by custom, while others were in the law and could be corrected by legislation only. It seemed obvious that the vote was a necessary tool with which to clear the code of discriminatory laws, and to prevent the enactment of new ones. And so, after some sixty-eight years of ceaseless campaigning here and in England and in the United States, against superstition, ignorance, tyranny, warfare of certain vested interests, bigotry, and church hostility, through expostulation, discouragement, reproach and ridicule, women fought and won the cause of the franchise.

And statistics show that we don't use it. At least a large proportion of us don't. Why? Is it because we have not learned the moral value of that gesture? Do we regard the vote more as a decoration than as an implement? I believe that there is just one thing that will take the average non-political citizen, male or female, regularly to the polls, and that is conscience. And women have not yet had time to develop political conscience. We have to be older hands at voting before we take it as a duty—something all in the day's work, which has to be done and as well done as possible.

We listen to political arguments, and intellectually agree with them or not, but we fail to feel the white fire of civic conscience that is burning behind them. We haven't been voters for long enough. It would see that the hope of the women's vote lies in habit—and first of all habit of mind. We must learn to vote precisely as men do, taking the same attitude toward the ballot. We must drop the kitchen-pantry-sewing-room-nursery state of mind, and realize that the foreign policy of the Imperial Government is of more importance than the constitution of the town council. We must cease to be mere householders and become citizens. I fancy that very few women are mentally citizens in the complete sense. We shall learn it in time, of course, and then our slacking and indifference with regard to voting will be past.

And we shall not learn it by listening to speeches about it. The attitude of mind of the audience is mostly academic I fancy—like that of the little boy who had committed some childish misdemeanour, and whose father said to him, "Charles, I am disappointed in you. I thought you were a finer boy than that—I want you to grow into an honorable, truthful, manly, unselfish citizens some day." He paused for breath and the child, who had listened with bright attention, called out "Oh Mother! Isn't Daddy interesting?" No: The normal and only effective way to develop political opinions is by general discussions with each other and with our husbands, brothers and fathers. By the contact and clash with other opinions, other personalities, other points of view and other sets of facts. We have to educate ourselves until we see in the vote the shining symbol of civic rights and civic responsibilities.

And aside from these considerations, is it not our duty to those splendid women down the ages, who were born into the woman movement, served and passed—who saw a vision and strove toward it; who knew that in their time it could not be realized; and who, motivated, not by selfishness but by selflessness, poured out great gifts of talent, time and strength, that we might enjoy the privilege of the franchise, with all its connotes of added dignity, prestige and protective rights—is it not our loyal duty in memory of these I say, to go to the polls on election day. And of these may it not be justly said:

".....who never turned his back but marched breast forward,
Never doubted clouds would break,
Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph,
Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better,
Sleep to wake."

The President, Mrs. C. H. Edwards, occupied the chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. J. Wearing, and Mrs. A. Mowat read the correspondence.

Mrs. Edwards read extracts from the agenda of the semi-annual provincial meeting which will be held in Toronto on December 2nd, and delegates to this meeting were appointed, in Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. A. Stevenson, and Mrs. W. Lundy.

Mrs. Edwards reported that the National President, Mrs. J. A. Wilson, of Ottawa, would probably be present, en route to her home from a trip, at the annual meeting of the Local Council, in January.

Mrs. Edwards also brought up the question of extra police supervision of the outskirts of the city, where complaints have been received of cries emanating from feminine occupants of parked cars. Mrs. Edwards said she realized that the present police force was busily engaged in looking after the city itself, and enforcing the safety regulations with regard to motor traffic, but she considered there was a need of police protection in outlying sections of the city. It was decided to leave this matter over until the spring, when the Police Commission will be asked to look into it.

Mrs. J. Wearing was appointed Press Secretary of the Council, to send items of interest with regard to the Council and its affairs, to the National Council offices.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR INDIGESTION

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and got little more than slight temorary relief—sometimes not even that.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tables with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment, and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

FLIERS LANDED NEAR LEMBERG

Missing Aviators Continued Flight To India Same Afternoon.

HAD LOST BEARINGS.

WARSAW, Poland Nov. 18. Canadian Press. — Word that Captain R. H. McIntosh and Bert Hinkler, British aviators, who started on a flight to India on Tuesday morning, and have since dropped from sight, made a landing in Southern Poland on Tuesday afternoon, was received today from Lemberg. Lemberg despatches stated that the British fiers landed at 2.30 p.m. at Bialokrynica, in the district of Podshajce, after having lost their bearings. Assistance was given them by the local authorities, and they resumed their flight to India the same day.

Bidgood and Dome Lead Mine Market

TORONTO, Nov. 18. — (Canadian Press.)—Bidgood and Dome were the strong leaders of an erratic upward movement of the standard mining exchange to-day. Bidgood climbed 16 at 156 on a heavy turnover, while Dome touched 12.10 and at noon at 11.95 recorded a net gain of thirty. Barry Hollinger advanced eight at 123 and Amulet, Area, Lake Shore, Teck Hughes and Jackson Manion all had respectable gains. Noranda was marked up forty at 26.50. Kirkland Lake sold down four at 283. Howey Gold and Potter Doal were easier.

Wheat Prices Fall Due To French Duty

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press). — The announcement that France has raised the import duty on wheat acted as an early bearish factor in the wheat market to-day. The renewal of crop damage reports from some sections of Argentina failed to operate as an offset. Opening unchanged to ¼ lower, wheat soon underwent a general set-back. Corn displayed strength, starting at 1-8 to 5-8 advance, and subsequently scoring additional gains. Oats were firm.

Advance Continues In New York Market

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press). — Disregarding the record-breaking volume of brokers loans, the stock market again, forged upward today under the stimulus of heavy buying by operators for the advance. General Motors, United States Steel Common, and other so-called pivotal industrials continued to move within a relatively narrow range. Heavy buying of Hupp, Packard, and Mack Trucks, all of which recorded considerable gains, featured the motor group.

Rails continued to lag although Norfolk and Western was pushed up to another new peak and considerable activity took place in Erie Preferred issues on unconfirmed reports that the two classes of preferred at present would be replaced with an issue of six per cent Preferred through an exchange of stock.

Liquor Stocks Firm On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—Despite occasional substantial recessions, the general tone was firm on the Toronto stock exchange this morning, and in heavy trading the liquor stocks mostly firmed to some extent. Canadian Malting led these with a point and a half gain at 33¼ and Industria Alcohol, Canadian Brewing, and Carling's were all higher. Walker's and G. and W. however both lost fractionally.

In the regular list Brazilian was the feature with a four point gain at 209. Steel of Canada lost 2½ at 187½, and another recent strong leader, City Dairy receded 7 at 207.

Dome was the outstanding mine stock with a gain of 44 at 12.00 at noon after touching 12.50 in the session.

PETERBORO LODGE OF PERFECTION

Fifth Annual Re-union Held Yesterday—A Large Attendance From City and District.

Peterborough Lodge of Perfection held its Fifth Annual Reunion Assembly and Banquet yesterday, which was largely attended by its members which are drawn from the City of Peterborough and Central Ontario District. A class of nineteen candidates was given their degrees, the 14th degree being conferred by Bro. Duncan Walker, T.P.G.M. and the officers, assisted by Ill. Bros. W. R. Breyfogle, E. B. Fowler, and H. W. Morphet.

After the work of the Lodge was completed, the members adjourned to the Empress Hotel, where a very excellent banquet was held, with practically all the visiting Brethren remaining over for it. The chair was taken by Bro. Duncan Walker, T.P.G.M., and a short toast list run off. The octette composed of Bros. G. D. Carlisle, M. H. Park S. J. Graham, C. S. Browne, W. H. Morphet, R. F. Downey, T. H. Gillespie, and A. Barton, with Bro. Joan Crane, accompanist, provided excellent entertainment.

The chairman thanked the members for the very large turnout and the interest taken in the day's proceedings. He congratulated the Brethren who had put on the work and felt it was a most profitable day.

Past T.P.G.M. W. R. Breyfogle, who is a member of the Supreme Council, congratulated the lodge on its growth and excellence of the work of the degree teams, and also referred to the octette as the best under the jurisdiction of the Supreme Council.

All the speakers referred to the reunion as the best yet held. Participation in the work was enjoyable and profitable, and it was felt that the members individually and the district in general would be the better for yesterday's gathering.

The officers for this year are as follows:

Past T.P.G.M., Ill. Bro. W. R. Breyfogle; Past T.P.G.M., Ill. Bro. E. B. Fowler; Past T.P.G M., Ill. Bro. H. W. Morphet.

NOCTOVISION IS TESTED OUT

Reporter of a London Paper Sees Colleague 200 Miles Away.

LONDON, Nov. 18 (By the Canadian Press).—Sitting in a darkened room at the top of Motograph House, Upper Street, Martin's-Lane, W. C., one night recently a Daily News reporter saw the face of a Daily News colleague which had been transmitted over 200 miles of space from the Education Offices at Leeds by means of J. L. Baird's new Noctovision apparatus.

This was the biggest experiment ever made in Noctovision. Previously, images had been transmitted only over short distances.

"While the reporter in London watched the face of his colleague flit in staccato lines across a narrow strip of ground glass which served as a screen," the Daily News man says, "I spoke to him on the telephone. He sat in a room at Leeds. I asked him to move the receiver, grasp it in his left hand and take away the telephone stand from the front of his mouth. He obeyed all my requests promptly, and I was able to watch him and check his movements.

"The image was sufficiently clear for me to recognize faces, though a certain amount of distortion appeared inevitable.

"Mr. Baird explained to me over the phone during the demonstration that Noctovision is an improvement on television.

"In television," he said, "the subject sits in a brilliant light, whereas in Noctovision the apparatus and the subject are in total darkness. The transmission through space is done by the invisible infra-red rays.

"Hitherto by means of television we have sent figures from Glasgow—a distance of 400 miles—but this is the first occasion we have used Noctovision over so great a distance as 200 miles."

SOCIETY OF BEES HIGHLY ORGANIZED

Has the complicated civilization of the bees developed a means of communication that equals our human speech and telegraphy combined?

New light has been thrown on that subject by investigations that are still going on in both Europe and America. In Germany, Karl von Frisch has been conducting experiments over a course of years, as to the bees' language. In the United States, Dr. Frank E. Lutz, of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, is carrying along an investigation to learn how bees locate and recognize certain flowers.

Although bees are as old as the human race, for centuries little definite knowledge concerning their life and habits was available, writes Myron M. Stearns in Popular Science Monthly for November. They are considered "domestic," and are bought and sold, but have never really been tamed. They have unparalleled engineering skill, building mathematically perfect structures that, for man, would be half as high as the Woolworth Building. They divide the labor of the hive among themselves more perfectly than any society civilized man has yet been able to organize. They have a spirit of self-sacrifice for the good of the hive—which is usually a measuring-stick by which the advance of group-civilization can be measured—that humankind has never even approached.

The sting of a bee, for example, can never be used in self-defense; it can be used only in defense of the hive, for its use brings death to the bee that uses it. The creatures show marvelous ingenuity in overcoming obstacles. For instance, sometimes a mouse will get into the hive and be stung to death. The corpse is too big to be pushed out of the door. To save the hive from the pollution of decay, the bees build a hermetically sealed tomb of wax about the body of their victim.

Von Frisch found that any worker who had discovered an unusual honey supply executed, as soon as she returned to the hive, a set of queer little side-steps that took her in circles through the thousands of bees. Immediately they crowded up to the visitor, felt her with their antennae, or feelers, and in turn became excited. The discoverer extended a protuberance in the abdomen. This procedure gave off a sweetish smell that could be noticed at a distance of a few inches, even by humans. Evidently this scent played a part of communicating information to other bees.

As with many other insects, the antennae of a bees are important in many ways. Besides being used in communication, they help the bee to find its way in the darkness of the hive, to recognize friends or enemies, and so on. There are some 12,000 hairs on a bee's antennae, and 5,000 "smell hollows." Unquestionably they have a sensitiveness that enables the bee to record faint impressions with an accuracy almost unimaginable to man.

Pioneers in the Dairy Products Business

For fifteen years we have sold our customers Pasteurized Milk and Cream, Pasteurized by De Laval Machinery, and during this period we have renewed all this machinery every five years. During 1927 we have again brought our plant up to date, and to-day there is no better equipped plant in Canada to handle our many lines of dairy products.

Necessary to safeguard the health of our many customers, all our products are scientifically Pasteurized, except Cheese, which has not been found necessary to pasteurize.

Our Milk received from our farmers is inspected by our own men daily on the weigh stand, by the Sanitary Inspector, Mr. Stapleton, and frequently by the Toronto Inspectors.

Our Milk and Cream received at our plant is all of as good quality as can be found in any plant in the Dominion. This has been brought about by the co-operation of the many farmers supplying us with their milk and from our own experience, covering many years. The farmers supplying us realize that all dairy products should be handled in as sanitary a condition as possible on the farm, and we realize in our plant that this must pertain to every other agency that handles the Milk.

The Quality of our products — Milk, Cream, Ice-Cream, and Butter — is well known to the Citizens of Peterborough. Their Purity, Sweetness, and Our Sanitary Handling is approved of by the hundreds of homes into which they go.

We welcome the establishing by Mr. Campbell of another Pasteurization Plant, believing that it is only a matter of a short time until our health authorities will insist on all Milk sold in this City being Pasteurized.

In an effort to safeguard the health of the children, especially of our City, we have advocated the pasteurization of Milk for fifteen years or more, and all agencies that work along these lines are welcomed, as it has been demonstrated in the City of Toronto, where Pasteurized Milk has been used for more than ten years, that this is one means of reducing the death-rate in our cities. To-day Toronto has the lowest death-rate of any city on the continent.

Peterborough Citizens are entitled to, and should have, as pure and safe Milk and Dairy Products as any other city in the Dominion, and this has always been our aim

We just wish to assure you of the fact that we will continue to serve you with Pure and Wholesome Dairy Products, and will at all times take care of you to the very best of our ability.

NATION OF HOMEOWNERS

Furniture movers all over England have been comparing notes and have discovered that they are plying their trade in a nation of homeowners. Last year, according to official returns, $255,000,000 was loaned on mortgages by building associations, in comparison with $35,000,000 in 1918. It is expected that the figures this year will show a further increase. Formerly the demand was chiefly for houses exceeding $5.000 in cost; now those priced at considerably less are more in favor. In the North of England more people own houses than in the south.

Woman Buys Island As Animal Refuge

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng., Nov. 18.—Brownsea Island, in PooleHarbor, has been purchased by Mrs. Robert Christie, of Marston, for use as a refuge for persecuted animals. When she bought the island from Sir Arthur Wheeler for $625,000, she insisted that a canary which one of the tenants on the island had in a cage should at once be freed. She said she would not permit any birds to be encaged nor any animals or birds to be killed on the island as long as she held possession.

Mrs. Christie, though leading a retired life on her estate in Somerset, is keenly interested in the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and is one of the leading members of the Bournemouth branch.

HORSE BREAKS LEG ON ICY PAVEMENT

E. G. Johnston's Delivery Horse Has To Be Shot—Blacksmiths Are Rushed.

A delivery horse owned by Ernie G. Johnston had to be shot by Constable Joseph Wheeler this morning when it fell on the icy pavement at the corner of Hunter and Aymer streets and broke its leg near the hip.

Several other horses were seen to fall on the pavement, but in all the cases they were able to get up again. The blacksmiths in the city have been rushed since early morning as this icy spell was not expected by those who have to drive horses in the city.

Brings Back Cheque Received 50 Years Ago

LONDON, Nov. 18 (By the Canadian Press).—Returning to his native town of Middlesbrough, Yorkshire, for the first since he went to Australia 50 years ago, Bennett H. Altson, of Melbourne, brought the still uncashed cheque for 20 pounds given him by his father when he left home as a youth of 19.

Looking for his old school, he found Middlesbrough's principal cafe on the site, and the playing field occupied by the Middlesbrough Exchange.

The owner of a Melbourne building known as "Altson's Corner," he is now a wealthy man. Taking the cheque to the local branch of the National Provincial Bank, he was shown one there in a frame three years older than his.

Sunderland and Everton Meet on Saturday

SHOULD HOLD LEAD

Several Interesting Matches Are Scheduled for Tomorrow's Games.

NEWCASTLE-BURNLEY

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 18.—Everton, leading the averages in the English Soccer League, First Division, are drawn against Sunderland for tomorrow and should hold their advantage without much difficulty. Newcastle United, runners up, have to play Burnley and should win. The interesting matches to-morrow will be between the teams lower down in the standing. Blackburn Rovers, a fine team this season, clash with West Ham United, and the Rovers, who are playing on their own grounds, look to have the edge. The Huddersfield Town and Bury affair at Huddersfield will probably be a nicely balanced scrap, while Manchester United will probably make it interesting for Aston Villa.

Chelsea, now holding a five-point lead in the Second Division, are safe for some weeks to come. They play Notts Forest to-morrow and should fatten their average. Stoke City, second in the standing, meet Swansea Town at Stoke and should get at least a point. Bristol City are hosts at Preston North-End and this may develop into a strenuous battle. Manchester City and Clapton Orient are scheduled to fight it out at Clapton and Manchester as a result may lose their hold on third place.

An interesting battle is developing between Northampton and Millwall for leadership in the Southern Section of the Third Division. Both are tied on points for first place, with Northampton having the better goal average. Millwall are drawn against Coventry City and have a fine chance to hurdle into the lead, as Northampton meet Charlton Athletic, who are third in the standing and have a much bigger job on their hands.

In the Scottish League a change in the standing of the leading teams is possible. Rangers, the leaders, must travel to Falkirk, while Motherwell, in second place, perform at home with the lowly Bo'ness team. Celtic, third in the averages, will have Cowdenbeath as guests and should win.

SOFTBALL GAMES DRAW LARGE CROWD

Muskies and Bridgenorth Win Tuesday's Matches at Lakefield.

LAKEFIELD, November 13. — One of the largest crowds of the season turned out for the softball fixtures on Tuesday night in spite of the fact that there was a heavy rain, which continued the entire evening. Many of the spectators and players came ten and twelve miles for the games, which were well contested. The first game was High School vs. Muskies, and while the latter won by a score of 13-8, it was by no means an easy victory. The High School team is showing improvement with every game, and although it is not high in the list, every team has had to work to win. The boys have never thrown a game away. Another season they will rank high without a doubt. The Muskies were in good form and the game was clean throughout, with no "crabbing" at the umpires and no unsportsmanlike tactics.

A. White at the plate and F. Webster at the bases were the umpires.

The line-up was as follows:

High School—C. Fitz Gerald, p; R. Kemp, c; J. Gilson, 1b; R. Payne, 2b; K. Kemp, 3b; P. Allen and E. Kemp, ss; N. Sherin and W. Pluard, outfield.

Muskies—W. Blewett, p; G. Nicholls, c; E. Graham, 1b; M. Hall, 2b; N. Windover, 3b; W. Trude and R. Wilson, ss; A. Wilson and R. Armstrong, outfield.

Score by innings:

High School—C. FitzGerald, p; R. Muskies .. .. 12231ix—13

The second game was Selwyn vs. Bridgenorth, and attracted special interest, as the former team had lost only one game and the latter had a series of unbroken victories to its credit. Selwyn was minus their pitcher, W. Elliott, who was ill and unable to play, and Henry Oliver, their peppy shortstop, who, unfortunately, broke a finger at a recent game.

In spite of these handicaps they put on a good team, but the boys from Bridgenorth were too strong, and Selwyn went down to defeat after a hard battle. Like the first, the game was worth seeing, and was clean and fair. R. P. Payne was at the plate and W. G. Morrison guarded the bases.

The line-up was as follows:

Bridgenorth—L. Forsythe, p; A. White, c; H. Bradshaw, 1b; W. Sheater, 2b; C. Nicholls, 3b; H. Dormer and G. Dormer, ss; M. Wilson and F. Wood, outfield; A. Robinson and M. McWilliams, subs.

Selwyn—W. Northey, p; M. Tully, c; H. Branch, 1b; D. Darling, 2b; L. McConkey, 3b; M. Dobson and C. Fitz Gerald, ss; C. McIlmoyle and M. Dean, outfield.

The score by innings:

Bridgenorth .. .. 124262x—17
Selwyn .. .. 1000013— 5

The scheduled games for Friday night are: High School vs. Cement and Douro vs. Muskies, and on Tuesday night Selwyn and the Business Men meet, and the final game for the cup between Bridgenorth and the Cubs. As neither of these teams has lost a game, a very keen encounter is expected, with every man on his toes.

CANADIAN FOOTBALL MORE OPEN THAN U.S.

Infinitely Better Game From Spectator's Point of View.

KINGSTON, Ont., November 18. — Mr. W. R. Givens, president of the Whig-Standard, who has been in New York for the past ten days, took in the big Army-Notre Dame football match at the Yankee Stadium on Saturday last, at which a record-breaking crowd of 80,000 people were present.

Writing to a friend in the city Mr. Givens says that as a spectacle it was magnificent ,but that from the standard of football it was no better than some of the splendid games in which Queen's has participated in recent years. The tackling and the line plunging, Mr. Givens says, were desperate and deadly, but there was a surprising lot of fumbling for such highly-trained teams and the kicking was decidedly below the standard of Canadian football ,and no fewer than six attempts at field goals, from place positions, failed miserably, not a single effort all through the game in this direction being successful, while the punting was invariably ten to fifteen yards short of the average distance made by the backs on Canadian teams. Not only that, but the running back after a catch was likewise below the Canadian standard, and drop kicking seems to be a lost art.

The new rule, which gives the ball back to the team making an uncompleted forward pass seems unfair to Mr. Givens, since the only penalty under such circumstances is merely the loss of one down, out of four downs for 10 yards as played in the American game.

On the whole the Canadian game, being more open and with the lateral pass and end runs so much in evidence, is an infinitely better game from the spectators' point of view.

The Dutch settlers in New York are said to have played golf around Fort Orange, now Albany, as early as the year 1660.

Vic Aldridge, the Pirate pitcher, is a school teacher in the winter months.

Berlenbach Faces Walker on Nov. 25

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (Associated Press).—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, and Paul Berlenbach, former holder of the 175-pound title, will meet in a 10-round decision contest here Nov. 25, the eve of the California-Notre Dame intersectional clash.

The bout will be under the auspices of Promoter James C. Mullen in the Coliseum. They will fight at catch weights, without a title at stake. Walker plans to weigh about 164 pounds and Berlenbach 175.

HEAVY DOWNPOUR DELAYS PRACTICE

Queen's Senior Football Squad Driven Off Field During Workout.

KINGSTON, Ont., November 18 (Canadian Press). — Queen's senior football squad were driven off the field at the Richardson Stadium yesterday afternoon by a terrific downpour of rain and a heavy wind, and the result was that they were forced to stage their workout on the floor of the gymnasium. Clad in their full rugby uniforms, with the exception of shoes, the players went at their work just the same as they would have on the gridiron, but naturally the same results could not be secured, and the players were scheduled to be sent on to the field on Friday afternoon, no matter how the weather is.

Following the rugby practice, the players formed into two teams and staged a basketball game for an hour. It was all the players could do, because of the fact that the rain was about the worst of the year. Harry Batstone was again among the missing when the teams trotted into the gymnasium. Coach Grincarson gave the assurance that Batstone would probably start on the backfield for the Tricolor on Saturday, but he did not feel that the star kicker and runner would be able to stay in the full four quarters.

Batstone's knee is still giving him trouble, and if he has to do any kicking, it would only aggravate the injury. The gridiron at the Stadium was never in as bad condition before the game as it was yesterday. More that three inches of water lay over the field, and the chances are that unless there is a great deal of sun and wind to-morrow, the field will be anything but favorable on Saturday for the battle with Hamilton Tigers. Last night the weather turned colder, and there was a chance of a freeze-up before Saturday, so that in any event the gridiron is sure to be slippery for the Dominion semi-finals.

Yesterday there was a decided dropping off of the sale of tickets for the game, due entirely to the weather conditions, but even at that a crowd as big as at the McGill game is practically certain to be on hand when Referee Jos. O'Brien sends the teams away on Saturday, in the game which will decide what team will meet Balmy Beach for the championship of all Canada.

DIFFERENT FACE—BUT SAME HABITS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—Jim Dady came out of prison three months ago, a chastened, wiser, but still very ugly man. "A guy with a mug like mine," he wailed, "hasn't got a chance to go straight. Nobody will give me a job, because I was made to look like the popular conception of a criminal.

So Jim had his face remodelled by plastic surgery and lectured from pulpits and before women's clubs on this new and successful method of rehabilitating criminals.

But the plastic surgeon forgot to remodel Jim's habits when he fixed his face. Daly is in bad again, facing a sentence of from one to six years.

Preparations Made For Olympic Games

TORONTO, Nov. 18.— A cable from Paris is to the effect that very extensive preparations are being made for the winter sports of the Olympic games, which will be held at St. Moritz, Switzerland, from February 11 to 19 of next year. There are 22 nations entered as follows: Austria, Belgium, Canada, Czechoslovakia, England, Esthonia, Finland, France, Germany, Holland, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Jugoslavia, Lithuania, Luxemburg, Norway, Rumania, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States. Japan's entry is only for the ski events. With the exception of curling, which has been dropped, the events will be the same as at Chamonix in 1924. That means there will be hockey, figure skating, speed skating, skijoring, ski races, ski-jumping and bobsleigh races. The innovation of the games will be horse races over snow, with the bob sleigh events, listed for the famous Cresta Run, are supposed to be the fastest and most thrilling in the world. The outstanding feature of the games is the hockey tournament. The fame of the Canadian representatives, the University of Toronto Grads, has already preceded them and all Europe is awaiting their coming. There will be 12 nations competing for the world's amateur hockey championship.

Rickard Has Never Done Anything for Me, Says Champion.

DOCTORED PICTURES

NEW YORK, Nov. 18. — Developments in a rift between Tex Rickard and Gene Tunney to-day centred on Tunny intimating that he may announce he is through with Rickard while Rickard replies that "If anybody thinks Tunney is not going to fight for me I'll bet him $100,000 Tunney is."

Tunney informed the United Press that he has legal advice which says that a clause in his contract with Rickard makes it possible for him to break the contract. Also he said that he had received a responsible offer for a bout next summer under which he would receive $100,000 more than Rickard's contract promises.

Tunney followed with an enumeration of grievances against the promoter among them being a declaration that "Rickard has never done anything for me" and "Rickard doctored the pictures of the Chicago bout, and also the Dempsey-Sharkey bout to make Dempsey appear to a better advantage."

"Look at the money I made for Rickard last winter by promising to meet the winner of his heavyweight tournament. Rickard made possibly $200,000 for himself when I promised to meet the survivor," Tunney continued. "My contract with Rickard has given him an option on my first match after the Chicago show but there is nothing I see that prevents me from notifying Rickard I want to box for him in June."

SPORT BITS

"Frenchy" Belanger is Canada's threat to a world's boxing title. In fact the flyweight championship is all but in his grasp. He has beaten "Newsboy" Brown, the best looking prospect in America barring the former titleholder, Frankie Genaro, and the latter will be Belanger's opponent at the Coliseum here Monday night, November 28.

If Belanger can dispose of Genaro, and there is every reason to suppose he can and will, there can be no question but that even the purblind New York State Athletic Commission must reckon with him.

As a matter of fact, the Belanger camp loyally declares that if he beats Genaro and is in position for a world's title fight it will be held here if that it at all possible.

Will Defend Title .

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—(A.P.)—Mushy Callahan has accepted an offer to defend his junior welterweight boxing championship against Hilario Martinez in a 12-round bout in New York's Madison Square Garden next month, Eddie Sears, manager of the titleholder, announced recently. Sears said he had telegraphed acceptance. No date has been set for the bout, Sears said, but it probably will be staged either Dec. 12 or Dec. 19.

Modern Santa-Claus.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—(A.P.)— Emmet "Red" Ormsby, the auburn-thatched American League umpire, has become Santa Claus for the nonce. This arbiter, who was a Marine during the war and who in past winter seasons has kept in condition by working with structural iron, has found in the toy shop he has just opened here a genuine joy. Being a lover of children and himself the father of five, "Red" said to-day he was getting a "great kick out of this Santa Claus business."

Will Challenge.

REGINA, Nov. 18.—If the Regina Rough Riders succeed in their quest of the Western Canada rugby championship a challenge will be despatched east for a dominion title play-off, Jack Hamilton, secretary of the Regina club, announced yesterday.

The Rough Riders captured the first game of the western series from Varsity of British Columbia, by the score of 13 to 1. The final game is slated for next Saturday.

Put Through Workout.

MONTREAL, Que., No. 18.—(Canadian Press.) — Coach Bill Soden, mentor of the championship M.A.A.A. junior football team, put the squad through two hours' strenuous work in preparation for the return game with Ottawa Rideau Saturday here. The boys displayed a high class brand of foot work and clever plunging and tackling. They are in fine fettle, physically and are all ready for a hard game with their Ottawa rivals.

UNITED STATES' TEAMS WIN GAMES PLAYED LAST NIGHT

Chicago Beats Maroons Right in Montreal, Three to Two.

LAST MINUTE VICTORY.

Rangers Win First Home Game, Beating Ottawa By Same Score.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 18.—Chicago Black Hawks, their appetites whetted by a drawn game with the powerful Boston Bruins on Tuesday night, swooped down on the Montreal Maroons at the Forum last night and flew away with a 3 to 2 victory.

The climax to a thrilling early season contest came with dramatic suddenness, 15 seconds before the end of the game. With the score deadlocked at 2 to 2, the game gave every appearance of going into overtime with Monteral outlasting the Mid-Westerners. As the timers were counting off the last twenty seconds, a Maroon rush failed at the Hawks' goal. Mickey Mackay, veteran centre player, took the disc on his stick and sped down the ice in a characteristic swerving rush.

Coming to the Maroon defence, weakened by a penalty to Dunc Munro Mackay, without checking his speed, swung to the left. He was being chased wide by Red Dutton. Suddenly he stopped and with lightning like effect, drove a shot at a sharp angle towards the Maroon goal. The puck caught just inside the far post, the red light twinkled and a stunned gathering of some 9,000 Maroon supporters filed from the rink wondering if the team this season was going to be dogged by that sequence of losses on local ice which marked their home stands last winter.

Chicago—Goal, Gardiner; defence, Wentworth and Trapp; centre, Irvin; wings, Mackay and Rodden; subs., Fraser, Browne, Taylor, Wasnic, Graham, Dennenay.

Montreal—Goal, Benedict; defence, Munro and Dutton; centre, Stewart; wings, Seibert and Phillips; subs., Ward, Carson, Tuohey, Oatman, Emms.

Referees—Cooper Smeaton, Montreal; Alex. Romeril, Toronto.

The Summary.

First period—
1—Chicago, Brown, 12.26.
Second period—
2—Chicago, Mackay, 18.07.
3—Montreal, Stewart, .28.
Third period—
4—Montreal, Dutton (Ward), 10.00.
5—Chicago, Mackay, 9.15.

Final score—Chicago 3, Montreal 2.

Penalties: First period—Wasnic (major); second period—Stewart, Wentworth, Emms 2, Browne, Trapp, Phillips, Taylor, Graham, Dennenay; third period—Trapp, Graham, Emms, Munro, Mackay major). Chicago, 26 minutes; Montreal, 12 minutes.

Rangers 3, Ottawa 2.

NEW YORK, November 28. — The New York Rangers made a better showing in the opening of their home rink at Madison Square Garden than the star-spangled Americans did, far better. Not only did they drive to a victory over a Canadain team but they made the world's champion Ottawa Senators their victims, and by winning they scored their first triumph over that great aggregation of puck chasers and shooters since there has been a Ranger team. Three times last year Ottawa beat the Rangere once they tied. That was the best they could do, but last night the champs fell, and after a fine battle. The score was 3-2.

And the Rangers showed their pluck by coming from behind to win. The Senators were the first to score, any one in hockey will tell you that when Clancy and Nighbor and Dennenay get off in front they are a hard gang to beat. They are strong on attack, but perfect wizards on defence. This Ranger team kept trying however and a wonderful spasm of scoring in the second period gave them a lead that th astonished Senators could not overcome once they were tied and passed.

Frank Boucher, the American centre was all over the ice, scored two goals, as a result of accurate passing by the Cook brothers, and a very useful counter came from Leo Bourgeault, the defence man, who swept through when least looked for.

The teams:

New York Rangers — Chabot, goal; Bourgeault Johnston, defence; Bill Cook, wing; F. Boucher, centre; F. Cook, wing; subs, Thompson, Murdock, Gray, Boyd, Scott.

Ottawa — Connell goal; Clancy, G. Boucher, defence; Finnegan, wing, Nighbor, centre; Kilrea wing; subs, Dennenay, Grosvenor, Broadbent, A. Smith, Halliday.

Referees—Dave Ritchie and Mickey Ion Montreal.

The Summary.
First Period.
1—Ottawa.....Clancy 5.53
Second Period.
2—Rangers.....Boucher 10.17
3—Rangers...Bourgeault 1.43
4—Rangers....Boucher 7.15
Third Period.
5—Ottawa.....Finnegan 4.11

Final score—Rangers 3; Ottawa 2.

Penalties — First period, Kilrea, Johnson; second period, Nighbor; third period Johnson, Nighbor.

SILK SUIT TRAPS SUPER-THIEF

Armand Caulier, who was recently arrested by the Paris police and who long has been known as the "King of Hotel Thieves," was betrayed by a black silk costume he wore. An officer who asked him to supply particulars of a motor accident noticed the costume which is of a kind often worn by bedroom thieves at night. Caulier is suspected of stealing $1,000,000 worth of jewelry at Deauville some years ago, and one of his boasts is that he robbed a foreign prince in Paris of $1500.

APSLEY NEWS

APSLEY, November 17. — Miss Campbell, the nurse at the Red Cross Hospital, is leaving for Winnipeg, and her successor, Miss Margaret Taylor, has arrived and will assume her duties immediately. Mrs. Parks, the housekeeper, will be transferred to the Red Cross outpost at Coe Hill, which will shortly be opened.

A member of a hunting party, who lives at Markham, met with a painful accident while hunting. With his hand resting over the muzzle of his rifle he lowered the butt to the ground. The concussion evidently released the trigger and the bullet went through his hand, tearing away the flesh between his thumb and fingers. His wound was dressed at the Red Cross Hospital after which he went to his home at Markham.

Zack Tucker secured a fine bear, weighing about 150 lbs., the only one shot so far in this vicinity.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"TWELVE MILES OUT."

John Gilbert, who has achieved such a wide popularity of late years, as a dramatic and thrilling actor of the silver sheet, is the hero of "Twelve Miles Out," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for this week end.

There is a curious similarity between the picture "What Price Glory?" and "Twelve Miles Out," both presented at the Capitol this week, in their realistic presentation of raw facts of modern life, in the constant conflict which goes on between the two strong men of the picture, and in the somewhat sombre ending. Realism with a vengeance, a portrayal of life in the raw, and the logical ending which comes to men who live in this manner, seems to be the aim of the screen at present. Somewhat of the Russian touch, which aims to present facts as they are, with no gloss and few redeeming features, is the new flair, possibly, of the silver sheet. It makes a strong diet, but a very dramatic and thrilling one, about as far removed from the "sunshine" of "Pollyanna" and her ilk as the two poles.

Gilbert is Fay of the picture, and McCue is his rival. In Spain, they fight over a cafe girl, and in Amsterdam, as diamond thieves, they meet and struggle again. As rum runners, they strive for supremacy. The twelve-mile limit in American waters provides the scene of their next conflict, when, as rival skippers of contraband cargoes and schooners, they renew their rivalry. Once again, women complicate the strife, and Fay turns to hi-jacking as a mode of vengeance on his foe.

The final episode in a series of dramatic and whirlwind adventures on land and sea, with Gilbert as the central dynamic figure, is a fight to the finish, with a peculiar and dark finale to a stirring picture.

AT THE REGENT.

THIS STAR LIKES PLAYING ROLE IN A LIFE HE KNOWS.

"It's a wonderful thing to play a role in a life that you know."

So says Lars Hanson, famous Swedish actor, revelling in a role that to him spells glorious pleasure, although to the rest of the cast of the picture it spells the woes of seasickness. Hanson is a skipper on a square-rigged clipper ship rocking about on the Pacific during the storm season, in "Captain Salvation" a Cosmopolitan production made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer now playing at the Regent Theatre.

Hanson stands on the bridge of the ancient craft in slickers and commands the vessel in Swedish while the camera turns. But he is actually living.

For Hanson, descended from the old Vikings, comes of a long line of sailors. In fact he is the first Hanson in generations who did not follow the sea. His father was a skipper; his brother is to-day captain of a big vessel. His grandfather, great-grandfather—all his ancestors—were sailors.

The new picture is a vivid story of the sea bringing some tense drama when Hanson becomes skipper of a vessel.

FAITHFUL GROVER.

In the October issue of "Our Dumb Animal," a magazine published in Boston ,Mass., there appeared a photograph of "Faithful Grover, a delivery horse ,who for twanty-two years and two months travelled the same milk delivery route. On his thirtieth birthday, in 1925, Grover was retired to a life of ease. He had drawn a milk waggon more than 40,000 miles and delivered more than 2,000,000 quarts of milk and cream for Borden's, during his period of usefulness.

Horses used by fifteen large dairy companies in Chicago increased 534 head during 1925 and 1926. Delivery of $1.000.000 worth of milk by horse and waggon instead of by electric truck in Chicago saves $94.100; by horse and waggon instead of gasoline truck, $112.000.

On three delivery routes surveyed, one salesman did not drive his horse a single time after arriving on his delivery territory, another drove his horse only once while a salesman driving an electric truck sat down to drive 75 times during the 2 hours 39.3 minutes he was in delivery territory.

Who says the horse is going out of business? There are a lot of people who more or less scoff about a horse and would go so far as to push them off the road, but do not stop to think that it is by the horse that milk and bread is brought to their door in the majority of cases.

Cruel drivers shorten the length of a horse's age, kind drivers prolong the horse's life. Humane societies protect the horse.

PEDESTRIANS DEMAND ROADS

Pedestrians in England are up in arms because the authorities persist in widening and improving the roads solely for the benefit of motorists. They insist that some of the good, old-fashioned roads be left for their quiet enjoyment. They demand that every main road have a footpath or sidewalk.

John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

In old France, Fabien, a youth as handsome as good, intends to train for the priesthood. But in Amiens he meets Manon Lescaut, a beauteous orphan, being taken to a Convent by her only relative, a brother, who doesn't want to be bothered with her. The brother, seeing Ravoir, a rich connoisseur of women, fearting his eyes upon her, suddenly realizes Manon's worldly value, and barters her for gold to Ravoir, who plans to take her to Paris. But Fabien, forgetting his plan to be a priest, steals Ravoir's coach and carries Manon happily off.

The coach travelled on through the morning sunshine toward Paris.

At twilight, that same night, Manon and Fabien found themselves on the streets of Paris. They had not been stopped en route and the fear of being caught had vanished with their growing absorption in each other.

The more Fabien saw of Manon the more perfect he thought her. Her beauty, her heart, her mind and her very gentleness took such a binding and agreeable hold on him that he predicted perfect future happiness in its enduring influence.

Carrying their meager belongings they mingled with the crowds. Walking along, hand in hand, interested in each other more than is usual with pedestrians, they formed a sharp contrast to the strutting dandies and gay students paying casual court to pretty grisettes, their companions of the moment.

If Fabien had not been so absorbed in Manon he would have noticed and resented the admiring and covetous glances showered upon her by the dashing Guards officers. These men of the world had not seen a woman as refreshingly lovely as Manon for many a day. To them, her natural charm was far more attractive than the artificial beauty of the aristocratic white wigged occupants of the chairs that passed along the street.

But Manon saw one of these gorgeous creatures and immediately felt pale and insignificant by comparison.

Strangely enough, a woman is never satisfied with unadorned beauty. Perhaps it is the pleasure she derives from adding brighter color, new lines and a different expression to her countenance. She feels that she is making a more interesting creation of herself. Her mood invariably brightens with the application of rouge.

"Fabien, look at that lady! I didn't know there were such pretty things as she has on!"

Manon's awakened love for adornment made her wide eyed.

Just then the throngs scattered to the side of the road as mounted guards cantered ahead of the King's great golden coach and cleared the way. In the genera excitemen Manon and Fabien were the only ones who did not realize that King Louis XV was passing by. In fact their absorption in each other and total ignorance of what was taking place almost caused an accident. The outriders were forced to rein in their horses to keep from tramping down the young couple that went merrily on as though everything had been stopped for their special benefit instead of the King's!

His Majesty was surprised at being jolted to such an abrupt halt. It was most unusual. Something extraordinary must have caused the stop.

King Louis was not the type of royalty to sit back waiting to be informed of issues at hand. If he wanted to do a thing—he went ahead. If he wanted to find out anything he investigated the matter personally.

That is why the people on the street had such a splendid opportunity to see their king; for he raised the silken coach shade himself and looking out saw Manon and Fabien, hand in hand, holding up the procession while they went on their love-lit way quite unperturbed.

The King was spellbound and gave the couple more than a casual glance. The girl had a face one never forgot! What wouldn't he give if there was a woman who could make him forget his surroundings as that girl had apparently made her escort forget. Why! It would be worth a kingdom! No one knew better than Louis how easy it was to force people to do his bidding; but no compulsion in the world can command love—not even the Divine Right of Kings. It is a blessed gift that should be tenderly cherished when it once springs into being.

His majesty came out of this reverie when he realized that his aide and the prime minister, incensed beyond control at this sign of disrespect, were leaving the coach to punish the disloyal subjects.

"Let them alone." The King spoke quietly, yet firmly. "Their pretty bubble will burst all too soon in this Paris of ours."

The King watched until Manon and Fabien had disappeared down another street. With a little sigh of envy and a smile of self pity he settled back on the luxurious silken cushions and ordered the procession to proceed.

His aide and the prime minister did not understand what was passing in their King's mind; but then that happened very often.

It was impossible to account for King Louis' moods!

* * *

Still utterly oblivious of the fact that they had delayed the King, Manon and Fabien wandered hand in hand along the streets of Paris.

In front of a jeweler's shop crouched a blind beggar, entreating alms from the passerby. His sightless eyes hid from him the fact that the couple drawing near were in greater need of money than he had been for many a day. But perhaps he sensed Manon's compassion and knew that his palm would be filled. He was right. She could not endure to see anyone suffer, especially now when life was full of newly discovered happiness.

"Oh, Fabien, the poor old man!" she whispered sympathetically. "He can't see how beautiful the world is. Give him just one little sou—for luck!"

Eager to please Manon at all times, Fabien fumbled at his belt and drew out a very slim purse, from which he selected a coin and dropped it into the beggar's hand.

Manon must not know how little money he had. It would make her sad, and his adored one should never be that way if a few sacrifices on his part could gratify her whims.

Fabien had not thought about women until Manon came into his life, and for that reason it pleased him that now his first thoughts were of and for her. A woman as adorable as she should never have a single worry, all her desires should be gratified. Her mind and time should be free to make herself lovelier. Fabien felt that she was destined for love, and he gladly took upon himself the task of protecting her from the slightest annoyance or disappointment.

Although it was only a moment before the next demand was made, he did not have any idea how far her craving for luxuries was going to drive him. This time Manon was fascinated by a little diamond locket. It glittered alluringly on its velvet cushion in the window of a quaint jewelry shop, and Manon stopped in admiration and longing.

Could it be possible that this was the demure little girl who was ready, just the day before, to enter a convent for the rest of her life? Surely it is true that the heart of woman is subject to quick changes. Yet no man concerned should ever blame her because it is love for him that usually causes these swift and varied impulses. Yet Manon did not realize this, and when she saw the gorgeous little trinket she confided to Fabien:

"I have wanted a locket like that—the round one with the diamonds—all my life!"

"You have?" Fabien looked at her in surprise and regret. It was amazing to him that anyone could spend time wishing for a bit of jewelry, yet if Manon had wanted a locket for so long it was a crime that the desire should not have been gratified.

"Oh, yes, isn't it lovely? And there is probably room for two pictures." Manon's interest increased with the thought of additional possibilities.

"If you want it as much as that—you shall have it!" Fabien was bravely determined to accomplish the impossible.

"Oh, that would be wonderful!"

And Manon looked at Fabien with so much confidence and admiration that he would have promised to bring the King to her on bended knee. Had he only known the truth this would have been a far easier task to accomplish.

I Never Thought of That.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — IX — by Nicholas Afonsky

The news of the successful balloon ascension of the Montgolfier brothers spread quickly. The French king, Louis XVI, ordered a special demonstration at Versailles. This time a richly ornamented basket was hung from the balloon and, to test its safety, a duck, a cock and a sheep were put in the basket.

The balloon, after the great fire had filled it with smoke, soared gently away. It came down a couple of miles away in the woods. There two surprised gamekeepers hurried up to examine this strange visitor and found the passengers—duck, cock and sheep—quite unaffected by their voyage.

In the very year of the first authenticated balloon ascension a Frenchman named Le Normand experimented with a sort of parachute. He jumped from the branches of trees and landed safely on the ground, thus demonstrating perhaps for the first time the parachute idea.

Later Le Normand lost his nerve, and made further experiments by placing animals in baskets fastened below his parachute, and then dropping them from walls of buildings and tops of trees. As they always landed without injury his experiments roused great interest in the parachute theory.

WRECKED BOAT NOT IN DANGER

Crew Spends Night On Ship Stranded On Rocks Near Soo.

LIKELY TO BE ABANDONED.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Nov. 18.—(Canadian Press.)— Representatives of the International Waterways Navigation Company of Montreal, owners of the steamer Jolly Inez, which was wrecked on an island near Detour on Wednesday evening, are expected to arrive to-day at the scene of the wreck. The crew spent the night on board the vessel, which is on the rocks, too high for the water to get into the boiler. There is said to be about four feet of water in the hold and the boat is so badly wrecked it will likely be abandoned for the season.

TWO MORE MEN SAVED FROM MINE

Rescue Workers Bring Out Natives—Nineteen Still Entombed.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Nov. 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Rescue parties, working furiously to dig out eighteen native miners and one European entombed three thousand feet underground in the Crown mines by a fall of rock, to-day succeeded in rescuing two of the natives. Four men, two dead and two alive, were rescued yesterday.

ARMISTICE AT LAKEFIELD.

The Editor of Peterborough Examiner.

Sir,—In your issue of last Monday in an account of the Armistice Day celebration in Lakefield, our usually most accurate correspondent uses the words "fittingly celebrated." I, along with many others, do not consider that Armistice Day was "fittingly" celebrated here. I am sure that many who read about it would notice the entire lack of any religious feature, which was prominent in every affair of the kind all over the country. Not a hymn was sung in praise to the King of all nations, nor was a single prayer offered up in thanks to Him for the gift of peace and for the sacrifice of those men who made that gift possible, nor for the comfort of those men who suffer still; nor for the consolation of the mourning relatives. One wonders what kind of impression the lack of that made on the crowd of young Canadians in attendance?

The fact of the matter is, a committee representing the community drew up a programme which they felt was in keeping with the day and the wishes of the community. For some obscure reasons of their own, the Canadian Legion, or rather, to be strictly fair, a few arbitrary members of it, rejected that programme. One reason, I understand, was that the Legion was not allowed to take part in a religious service. A very strange excuse, that, and one which requires some explanation in view of the reports from all over the country of the presence and co-operation of the Legion at such services, even to attendance at church services. In their subsequent arrangements, the Legion entirely ignored our six clergymen (one of whom is a returned man and their fellow-comrade), the Town Council, and even their own co-workers, the Ladies 'Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion. Nobody will deny the right of all ex-service men to a prominent place in an affair of this kind, but why shut out everyone else? I am not one of the original committee, and my only object in airing this affair is to urge the people of Lakefield to see that next year's Armistice Day proceedings give some indication, at least, that we live in a Christian land. This can be done only by all branches of the community getting together, willing to lay aside all religious barriers and personal animosities for one short hour. If we cannot do that on Armistice Day, of all days, then may God have mercy on our souls—and on our community! Yours truly,

LAKEFIELD READER.

STORM DAMAGE TO LINES HEAVY

Telegraph and Telephone Services Interrupted in Eastern Ontario.

MANY POLES BROKEN.

OTTAWA, Nov. 18. — (Canadian Press.) — Telegraph and telephone communication in the eastern stretches of Ontario was in a badly disrupted condition to-day following a heavy sleet and rain storm which swept in from the south-west last night. Emergency gangs of workmen labored throughout the night in an effort to join the broken wires torn asunder when nearly four hundred line poles were born to the ground by the weight of sleet and the fast freezing rain. Facilities were only slowly approaching normal to-day and in some districts it was not expected to have the damage fully repaired before next week.

On Bell Telepohne circuits the greatest storm ravages were felt between Smith Falls and Perth, where 150 poles were cracked down by the icy blasts. On the Kingston-Smith Falls circuit, 25 poles are down, on the Brockville-Carp lead 21 poles were broken, between Ottawa and Pembroke 10 poles were unrooted, and on the Galetta-Arnprior circuit 21 poles had been cracked off. Reports to the telephone office here were that approximately 350 poles had been torn from their foundations between Toronto and Peterborough.

Streets Slippery.

TORONTO, Nov. 18. — (Canadian Press.)—In occasional snow flurries, large gangs of workers to-day labored to clear the dangerous coating of ice laid down on the streets and roads in the Toronto district by yesterday's storm. Wire communication was partially disrupted. The Canadian Pacific Railway was most east wires out of commission.

Rains Heavy in East.

QUEBEC, Nov. 18. — (Canadian Press.) — Considerable damage has been caused in the ancient capital by the worst rain storm that has visited this district during the last fifty years. Reports of heavy damage to highways, bridges, and farm lands throughout this district and in the eastern townships, where extensive damage was caused by similar weather conditions only a fortnight ago, are reaching the city to-day, indicating that property losses will be extensive.

Cyclone in States.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.— (Canadian Press.)—A storm that attained cyclonic force in some places as it swept through the east, left in its wake today a death list of at least six persons and a string of damaged cities, towns and villages, extending from Washington to the Canadan border. High winds and rain that caused serious damage and the loss of one life in Washington and brought a threat of a new flood to New England, hit the Metropolitan district of New York, Upper New York State, and some parts of Pennsylvania with unusual severity.

LEGATIONS GUARDED.

Fascist Criticism of Jugo-Slav Treaty May Cause Trouble.

ROME, November 18. United Press. —The Jugo-Slav legations to Italy and to the Vatican were guarded heavily by troops to-day following the publication of an official Fascist party statement attacking Jugo-Slavia on the ground that her new treaty with France is aimed against Italy. The police admitted that they feared Fascist extremists might attempt to stage a demonstration at the legations. So far, however, there has been no indication of trouble.

NATIONAL BOARD TO MANAGE IMMIGRATION IS ADVOCATED

Dr. T. C. Routley Stresses Necessity of Studying This Problem.

NOT POLITICAL MATTER.

Kiwanis Speaker Cites Case of Descendants of Two Immigrants To U. S.

"Canada's immigration policy should be put in the hands of a National Board of Management. It should be removed from politics and it would pay the government to appoint men on the Board of Management who have the best brains in the Dominion so they might study the needs of this great Dominion and choose from what country we want immigrants," said Dr. T. C. Routley, secretary of the Dominion Medical Association, at the Kiwanis luncheon to-day at noon.

Dr. Routley prophesied that people would flock to this country in the next ten years and it would be known as a golden age for Canada. The population will double so he asked that everyone, as a Canadian, know what to do with these new immigrants when they come.

"Canada as a country is far from being captured and consolidated," said the speaker, and to illustrate this he had large charts hung on the walls of the room. The first chart showed the progress of Canada since Confederation. In 1870 the population was 3,371,598 and by 1925 it had almost tripled. During that time one third of the rural population had left the farms and the national debt had increased ten-fold. At that time electricity was an unknown thing in Canada and to-day 4,230,000 h.p. is being developed. Railway mileage has increased from 2,270 to 52,692 and mineral products not exploited in 1870, yielded $228,440,000 in 1925.

The speaker then illustrated the need of a selective immigration policy. For this purpose Dr. Routley had a chart, published by the government of the United States showing what the descendants of two immigrants to that country had made of themselves. The two men, Jude and Edwards, came to the United States years ago. Juke was a crook and a professional criminal and Edwards was a man of good standing in the community. Juke had 2,820 descendants, and of these 300 died in infancy, 310 were professional paupers, 440 were wrecked by disease, one half the women were prostitutes, 130 were convicted criminals, 60 were thieves, 7 murderers, 20 learned a trade and 10 of these were taught the trade in prison. This family cost of the United States up until 1915 the sum of $2,500,000.

In the Edwards family there were 1,394 descendants, of which 1,295 were college graduates, 13 college presidents, 65 professors, 60 physicians, 100 clergymen, 75 officers in the navy and army, 60 authors, 101 lawyers, 30 judges, 80 held public positions of trust, and one was vice-president of the United States. There were no convictions for crime amongst the descendants of this family and hence no cost to the State.

In another chart the speaker showed the results of an intelligence test conducted amongst 1,700,000 men of the United States' army. Forty-five per cent. of these were found to have a very low average in intelligence.

"Our national plant will some day reflect the calibre of its machinery. You cannot produce good material in a factory if the calibre of the machinery is poor. So to have fine intellectual people in the future, the calibre of those of today must be good. The greatest problem Canada faces today is choosing the people who will make good citizens in this country in years to come.

In the last ten years there have been deported 7,433, of whom 4,364 were criminals.

If only one per cent of these belonged to the Juke's class great harm would have been done to this country. If the war had not intervened the population of this country would be fourteen or fifteen million, which would have reduced the net debt per capita considerably,' said Dr. Routley.

For years, the speaker said, the Canadian Medical Association has complained to the governments about having women and children examined before they leave their home lands and not having men immigrants examined until they come to this country. This has been partially remedied, for in the past few months thirty Canadian doctors have been sent abroad by the government to examine people before they come to Canada.

The speaker told of dining with the Governor-General yesterday at which time His Excellency said two things have impressed him the most since coming to Canada. First, "The country is so large and the population so small, yet so much has been accomplished; and secondly, nowhere have I found anything but a desire to retain the British allegiance."

"Canada's development is inseparably intertwined with her immigration policy. She is the granary of the world. In less than ten years the eyes of the world will be upon Canada. People are flocking to our shores and the main question is: "Are we going to be able to handle them?" concluded the speaker.

The booster of the day was Dr. F. C. Neal. In his boost he made an appeal to the members of the Kiwanis Club to assist the Health Association of Peterborough by purchasing stamps. Dr. Neal also introduced the speaker of the day. The prize winners were Harry Boyle, Walter Oke, and J. A. McKone. Walter Oke supplied every member present with a fine red Canadian apple.

A. Pitchford was the special soloist for the day, and he was accompanied by M. Chenhall on the piano. The K. Appogiaccatura Quartette rendered a selection and had Augustus Bridle, dramatic critic of The Toronto Star, express himself both favorably and unfavorably as to their effort.

G. F. Liddle, a former member of the Lindsay Kiwanis Club, and C. Lapp, a former member of the Ottawa and Kingston Clubs, were accepted into full fellowship as members of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club by C. Cook.

Guests present were Augustus Bridle, Dr. W. D. Scott, Dr. Dobson, Lloyd Hamilton, and A. Pitchford.

RAIN AND FROST CAUSE TROUBLE

Motor Traffic Moves With Difficulty on Icy Streets.

WIRES BROKEN.

After yesterday's sleet and rain and last night's frost, the streets and pavement were in a very icy condition to-day. Motor traffic has considerable difficulty in running on the pavement, especially the buses of the Peterborough Bus Lines. Several times the bus on the George street north line lost time in going between Hunter and Murray streets. Angle parking came in for considerable criticism this morning for many motorists found that when they drew up to the curb their car would turn completely around. The Board of Works had men out early sanding the streets, so that there would be no accidents, as the city is carrying its own risk this year.

Locally the sleet and rain caused very little damage to the Bell Telephone lines, District Manager W. R. Northgrave reported. At noon the long distance lines between Toronto and Montreal were still out of commission. Thirty poles were reported to be broken around Peterboro, 39 poes near Burketon and 97 near Perth.

HUNTER MISSING.

Walter Minacker's Boat Found With Some of His Clothing.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 18 (Canadian Press).—Walter Minacker, of Prince Edward County, is reported as missing from Maynooth. Mr. Minacker, with Mr. Langstaff, went hunting near Papineau Lake a week ago Tuesday, and the boat which he used was found in Papineau Lake with part of his clothing in it. It is presumed that Mr. Minacker has been drowned. Parties are leaving here for the scene to-to-day. No word has been received by the family of Minacker excepting a wire saying he was missing yesterday.

IN POLICE COURT.

W. H. Ellis, who pleaded guilty last week to stealing parts from a car, was sentenced to one month's imprisonment in the common jail this morning.

AROUND THE CITY.

The DeLaval Basketball team held their first practice of the season on Tuesday evening, under the supervision of Mr. C. Stewart.

OBITUARY

FREDERICK F. FITZPATRICK.

Frederick F. Fitzpatrick, president of the American Locomotive Company, died at Larchmont, N.Y., on Wednesday night.

Born near here in 1866, Mr. Fitzpatrick went to the United States in his youth and became active in the manufacture of steel and locomotives. He was president of the Montreal Locomotive Works, of Montreal, Canada; chairman of the board of the Railway Steel Spring Company, and a director in several other concerns affiliated with the American Locomotive Company.

He was noted for his generous contributions to charities.

Shortly after the war he was decorated by the Italian Government with the Cross of the Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

He is survived by his widow, now on her way to the United States aboard the liner Paris, after a visit to Nice; a daughter, Mrs. W. Kenneth Watkins; two sons, Frederick, Jr., and Paul J., a sister, Mrs. T. McNally, and two brothers, John A. Cleveland and Robert Fitzpatrick, of Wichita Falls, Texas.

DEATH

WEBER.—After a long illness there passed away on November 16th, L. Weber, of Markham, father of F. C. Weber of Peterborough. Funeral Friday, November 18th, at 2.30 p.m., to St. Andrew's Cemetery, Markham, Ontario.

IN MEMORIAM

TAYLOR.—In loving memory of Richard Taylor, who died November 1st, 1926.

Brighter, fairer than living
With no trace of woe or pain;
Robed in everlasting beauty,
We shall see you once again.
One year has passed since that sad day
God called the one we loved away.
Forget him; no, we never will,
As years roll on we love him still.

G. A. GILLESPIE NOMINATED FOR DIRECTORSHIP

Receives Nomination as Representative For District in Dairymen's Association.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Address Given By Government Instructors and Local Representatives.

G. A. Gillespie again received an unanimous nomination for directorship of this district in Dairymen's Association at annual meeting of dairymen held in G.W.V.A. hall yesterday afternoon. During the conference a number of addresses were given by government instructors and local representatives.

Opening the meeting was a comprehensive report on the work in the Peterborough section for the 1927 season. It contained some interesting facts and helpful suggestions. W. J. Moore, dairy instructor for this section presented the report.

James Irwin, Dominion government grader of cheese, followed with some observations and practical suggestions for the betterment of the cheese industry. The milk production this year has been greatly curtailed and consequently the total production of cheese is 20 per cent lower than last year. It is probable that there is small increase in No. 1 cheese.

Poor Flavour.

The trouble this year is from poor flavour, the cheese being more rancid than usual. The solution to this fault is to be found to a large extent with the makers themselves. Factory conditions generally are not right, either through improper drainage, insufficient water supply or faulty flooring.

The texture of the cheese leaves little to be desired. Boxing is improving and there is a decided increase in the waxing of cheese. It will not be long, he thought, before it will be obligatory to wax all cheese for export. If cheese is well finished and boxed a larger and more ready market will open up. Not only that, but it will be a very real way of ensuring the future for Canadian cheese exportation.

Growing Larger.

Cheese manufacturing is growing larger every year. Quality output will bring the highest market prices and it is that that the Ontario makers should strive for. A new market is gradually opening in the United States. Despite the heavy duty several large shipments have been made.

In closing he advised the formation of district associations and a better spirit of co-operation among the cheese makers. This would guarantee better quality all round.

G. G. Publow opened his speech by explaining the reason for the district meetings. They were for the purpose of hearing reports, criticism and instruction, and to nominate directors whose names voted upon at the annual convention, this year to be held in Kingston. He dilated upon the change that has taken place in the cheese industry. Milk is now consumed through other channels which are seemingly more profitable in their returns to the dairymen. It is a question ,though, he said, as to whether the change is a beneficial one. He believed that the farmers get more value for his labour and materials from the cheese business than any other farm enterprise.

Good Prospects.

Prospects now would seem to indicate real returns for those who stick to it. United States capital is purchasing the cheese factories along the St. Lawrence river and using them for distributing milk to American cities. Great numbers of cattle have been slaughtered over there and thousands have been bought up in Canada at good prices, so that a milk shortage is coming ever nearer. The number of factories closed owing to this shortage is about 18 per cent. Summing everything up, Mr. Publow presented the facts to back up his statement that farmer gets more returns from selling his milk to the cheese maker.

Speaking to the cheese maker he claimed that he should pay a fair price to the farmer and give the consumer good quality cheese. He gave instances of waste and how they might be remedied, also describing best means of getting best quality products. He was strongly of the opinion that the milk received in this district is in an over-ripe state. The two principal things in caring for milk is to have absolute cleanliness in surroundings and receptacles used. This will have far reaching benefits to the cheese trade as it will result in higher grades.

Mr. Murray, Campbellford district instructor, gave a brief review of existing conditions in his district which are very good. As evidence of the fine reputation Ontario cheese has made for itself, he said, that it was drawing from 1½ to 3½ cents per

Fliers Return Home; Plane Badly Damaged

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 19. — (Canadian Press). Capt. McIntosh and Bert Hinkler, British aviators who attempted the flight to India, are on the way back to England after a forced landing in South Poland. Two spectators were injured by the plane, it was learned to-day, and one of the plane's wings was broken and the engine badly damaged in landing.

O.H.A. MEETING IS ATTENDED BY LADIES TO-DAY

Ladies' Ontario Hockey Association Requests Help From Men.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

J. Percy Bond, of Peterborough, Again Elected To Executive Board.

TORONTO, Nov. 19. — (Canadian Press.)—Satisfaction at the success of O.H.A. teams in winning both the Senior and Junior Canadian championships last year, confidence in the hockey playing rules and fear of the growing menace of professionalism, were the keynotes of the address of George B. McKay, president of the Ontario Hockey Association, at the annual meeting of that body here today.

"The expansion of professional hockey throughout the United States has drawn heavily on the amateur clubs in Canada," he said, and especially in Ontario, where the bulk of the players learn the game. We have no quarrel with the professional clubs but I am firmly convinced that some plan will have to be devised to prevent immature players from being signed to professional contracts and their hockey lives practically spoiled for all time."

There was a full representation of amateur clubs at to-day's meeting, while Jeannette Allan, president, and Fanny Rosenfeld, secretary of the Ladies Ontario Hockey Association, represented that organization for the first time. Addressing the gathering they requested the delegates on returning to their homes to organize and assist the girls in forming hockey clubs. Miss Allan emphasized the difficulty being met with in bringing along young girl players. The reports of the president, executive committee and treasurer were read and adopted.

One change was made to the playing rules. Goal keepers' pads in future are to be ten inches wide instead of twelve. The meeting decided to retain its present rule of thirty minutes overtime in case of tied games.

The executive board was elected as follows: J. P. Bond, Peterborough; M. G. Dudley, Midland; A. H. Schlegel, Preston and G. Van Horne, Kingston. The Association granted $5,000 for Canadian hockey representation at the Olympic games.

IMMIGRATION LAW CHANGES LIKELY

U. S. Congress Not Expected To Extend Quota Rule To Canada.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Revision of the United States' immigration law appears to be inevitable in the coming session of Congress. It is not likely that any drastic change in the law will be made so far as it affects Canadians. Talk of extending the quota law, for instance, to natives of the Dominion, has been confined to individuals and isolated groups. Asked by Canadian Press if the Canadian quota was likely, a high official of the immigration department replied that it was extremely unlikely.

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press)—In connection with their evidence at the recent sittings of the Royal Customs Commissitnn in Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Perri, Hamilton, Ontario, were committed for trial on charges of perjury when they appeared before Magistrate James Edmund Jones in Toronto Police Court today after a series of remands. They will be tried at the next court of competent jurisdiction. The couple were released on renewed bail of ten thousand dollars each, marked cheques being accepted.

BRITISH FLIERS LAND IN POLISH TERRITORY

When no word was heard from them for four days fears were held for the safety of Capt. R. H. McIntosh and Bert Hinkler, British fliers, who hopped off from Upavon, England, in an attempt to set a non-stop record in a flight to India, and who had not been heard of since. Search for them was begun by Royal Air Force officers and later word came that they had landed safely in Poland. Capt. McIntosh is seen at the left, above, ,an Hinkler at the right, while in the centre is their plane, the Princess Xenia, Relieved by a report from Warsaw that Captain R. H. MacIntosh and Bert Hinkler landed in southern Poland Thursday and started toward London yesterday, friends of the fliers nevertheless still wondered what misfortune defeated the attempt at a non-stop flight to India and just what course their plane, the "Princess Xenia," followed in its long flight.

The first conjecture is that the aviators encountered adverse weather conditions, and circled blindly for hours. Another guess is that they turned back after a forced descent further to the south.

Arrival of the men in London, however, will disclose an adventurous tale, no matter how far distant from surmise the details may be.

Drivers Instructed To Show Courtesy

Drivers of the local 'busses must show courtesy to the travelling public is the slogan of the Border Transit Company. Recently F. J. Mitchell, manager of the company, was in the city, and while standing on the corner of George and Simcoe Streets one wet night he watched a crippled woman get on a 'bus. The driver made no movement to help her, so Mr. Mitchell lost no time in telling the driver his duty before all the people on the 'bus.

BUS COMPANY TO HAVE PLOW

City May Reach Agreement For Use on Other Streets.

REFUSAL STANDS.

The question of clearing the snow from the streets of the city this winter was discussed at the meeting of the Board of Works of the city council last night and it was decided to try to come to an agreement with the Border Transit Company. F. J. Mitchell, of the Transit Company, was present and he told the aldermen that his company had gotten the best advice to be had on the removal of snow from streets and expected to bring a ten ton truck to this city with a plow attached to clear the streets so that he buses could operate. He also suggested that the city might come to an agreement with his company whereby the city could use the equipment.

The truck will have a large dump body and the snow will be first plowed by the truck off the street and then it will be loaded into the truck and drawn away. The chairman, Mayor, and engineer were appointed a committee to discuss the matter with Mr. Mitchell.

Alderman Hancock, who was absent from the last meeting of the city council, took exception to the stand taken by the council in regards to not allowing the North Monaghan school board to connect to the sewer. He said from a health standpoint both to the city and North Monaghan the connection should be permitted. The rest of the members were determined to hold to the attitude they took at the last council meeting that no connection would be allowed until the North Monaghan council signed the agreement with the city whereby it promised to pay $20 for every sewer connection.

It was decided to charge the Douro council the regular rate of 40 per cent. for fixing the Douro boundary past the golf links.

The chairman, engineer and City Clerk Armstrong were appointed a committee to select a successor to Mrs. S. D. Haskill, who is leaving the engineer's office at the end of the year. Mr. Parson wished to have the appointment made before the first of December so as the new girl could get a month's experience.

The Kingan Hardware wrote complaining about a depression in the streets at the corner of Simcoe and George and Mr. Parsons was instructed to look into the matter.

BRIDGEMAN WILL STAND BY CABINET'S DECISION CUTTING NAVAL EXPENDITURE IN 1928

Much Opposition in Admiralty —Public Opinion Behind Move.

FUTURE WORK UNCERTAIN.

England Will Hold Hand If the United States Does, Is General Opinion.

LONDON, November 19. British United Press. — (By Herbert Bailey.) —The governments' decision to lay down only one of the three cruisers which were on the Admiralty's programme during the present financial year will be vigorously contested in some quarters, but it is understood that the Right Hon. Mr. Bridgeman, the First Lord of the Admiralty, will stand firm.

It is understood the government has abandoned altogether the idea of building a cruiser of the "A" type of ten thousand tons, and only proceed with one of the "B" type of 8000 tons. The saving effected in next year's estimates will be at least a illion and a half pounds sterling. Whether other cruisers of 8000 tons will ever be built, is not known because the government will review the circumstances when the time arrives, and their decision will be dictated by the tendency toward general disarmament throughout the world.

This means, in other words, that if the United States will hold its hand in building, Britain will do the same, without any formal agreement such as they tried to reach at Geneva and failed.

The government's decision is a concession to public opinion, as has been emphasized in these cables recently; there is a strong demand for economy in armaments, and for a reduction of the British forces to the lowest possible margin consistent with general safety. No government could ignore this demand, and it is expected that the Cabinet action will have the complete support of the House of Commons.

Lord Rothermere has a working arrangement with Lloyd George. This is the definite assertion made by J. C Davidson, chairman of the Conservative party organization, in a public reply to Rothermere's open letter to Premier Baldwin. He adds:

"It is well known that Lloyd George and Rothermere are running in double harness. If the report be true they frequently meet and often dine together. While Rothermere does not yet dare to come out in open support of Lloyd George in the columns of his papers they are being used to give Lloyd George as much advertisement as possible, and they take such opportunities as are offered to rehabilitate him in public estimation."

In view of the fact that Lord Beaverbrook is also accused by leading Tories of being in tow with Lloyd George, the position of affairs and the possibilities it opens up are not only politically significant, but very amusing.

Protests Occupation Of the Rhineland

BERLIN, Nov. 19.— (A.P.) Chancellor Marx, speaking at the annual banquet of the Berlin Press Association, protested against the continued occupation of the Rhineland as incompatible with the idea of peaceful cooperation between nations.

Anyone agreeing that fruitful co-operation among nations," he said. "Cannot depend upon military might must arrive at the conclusion that the question of evacuation of the occupied areas demands speedy solution."

MUCH PRODUCE ON SALE TO-DAY

Farmers' Market Filled With Poultry and Dairy Products.

EGGS 60c; BUTTER 45c.

The farmers' market this morning had almost the appearance of a Christmas market, so loaded were the tables with produce of all types. Poultry was very plentiful, and of varied prices. Chickens could be bought all the way from 20 to 28 cents a pound, the last for milk-fed birds, and ducks from 25 to 30 cents a pound while geese were 25 cents. Eggs were fairly stationary at 60 cents a dozen, with a few offerings at 58 cents, and butter was quoted from 43 to 45 cents a pound.

On the lower market, potatoes were priced from $1.50 to $1.75 a bag. Apples were $5 to $7 a barrel for Spies and $5 for Bellflowers. Russets were 35 cents a peck, and Baldwins 60 cts. Green pears were 65 cents and $1 a peck. Beef was 12 and 14 cents a pound, pork 17 and 19 cents, 21 and 23 cents, at different stalls.

A medicine man who had the crowd illustrated his skill in untying knots. He had the "Dominion," the "Ontario" and the "Peterborough" knots, and a knot called "forget-me-not," because, by untying it, he on one occasion, so he related, escaped death by hanging in Mexico. The "Tom Fool" knot, so named for the men who say he can't untie it, was another one in the series.

Small Pox Spreads Just Outside Toronto

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—Twenty new cases within the past twenty-four hours have brought the total of smallpox cases reported in East York Township, just outside the city, to 45 today, according to official figures issued by Dr. C. E. McLean, Medical Officer of Health. Dr. McLean has requested that public meetings be postponed and police are patrolling the streets to see that the quarantine is observed.

Miners Near End Of Long Journey

SLOUGH, Eng., Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—The little army of Welsh miners marching on London to present the case of the unemployed miners, started to-day on the next to the last day's tramp, with London only eighteen miles away. The marchers sleep to-night in a fashionable London suburb, Cheswick. To-morrow they join a mass meeting and later meet Labor M.P.'s.

'Y' SWIMMERS GIVE PLEASING PERFORMANCE

Many Spectators Attend Annual Exhibition By Girls.

CUPS AWARDED.

Viola Harvey Wins the Senior Championship—Close Competition.

The annual swimming exhibition of the Young Women's Christian Association was held last evening, with an audience that filled the gallery to capacity. The increasing interest that the general public is taking in swimming and in these exhibitions of skill in the aquatic arts is manifested in the manner in which they throng of late years to the big swimming exhibition and the way in which they applaud the feats of those taking part in the contests.

Besides demonstrating the ease with which they can do difficult things in the water, exhibitions such as those of last night at the Y.W.C.A. pool show the way in which other qualities are developed in these young girls, such as poise and quick thinking, absence of vanity under applause and lack of complaint when they are defeated. Even the tiny babies who took part applauded the efforts of their rivals by clapping their hands, and the older girls smiled when their companions distanced them in race and contests.

Style Swimming, Speed Work and Diving Featured

The competition for the various cups, which was very keen, and the different contestants won the applause of the spectators, as they displayed their gameness and skill in various difficult feats of skill. The contest for the Senior Championship Cup, donated by Mr. W. G. Morrow, was especially interesting, the girls doing their stunts with easy assurance, and gifing the judges some difficult moments. However, the favorite of the evening, whose winning of the cup was a matter of popular decisions also, was Viola Harvey, who received continued applause at each performance, with close runners-up in her sister, Jean Harvey, and Ina Terrace.

The Junior Life Saving Championship Cup, donated by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., was won by Verna Huffman, in a close contest with Sadie Levine and Mary Kingsbury. The tests for this life saving work are very difficult and exacting and the girls who took part proved themselves as expert swimmers.

The Junior Diving Championship Cup was won by Marion Harvey, a younger sister of Viola Harvey, with Mary Kingsbury and Sadie Levine again in close second place. This cup is donated by Miss Margaret Hamilton, president of the Y.W.C.A.

The contest for the Babies' Championship Cup, donated by Mrs. O'Conor-Fenton of Montreal, with FORMER MARMORA RESIDENT REFUSES SERVICES OF COUNSEL SENT FROM TORONTO BY FATHER

NOMINATED.

Who received unanimous nomination for directorship of this district in Dairymen's Association at annual meeting held yesterday.

Gives Evidence Against Companions Who Are Committed For Trial.

DESCRIBES CRIME.

Three Men Drove From Toronto To Rob Grave Supposed To Contain Jewels.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 29 (C.P.)—A sensation was sprung at the trial of Philip Revoy, Frank Sullivan and Ewart Warren at Marmora yesterday afternoon when they stood charged before Magistrate Casement of Madoc that they did on or about October 26th unlawfully and improperly interfere with the human remains of Mary Hubbell, wife of B. C. Hubbell of Marmora at the cemetery in that village. Warren pleaded guilty after election before the Magistrate, and he was allowed out on bail for ten days when he will appear for sentence. Revoy and Sullivan did not elect nor plead, but on the evidence submitted by B. C. Hubbell and Ewart Warren they were committed for trial.

Warren, when he was asked to elect by the Magistrate, stated: "I do not wish to be represented by counsel, although Mr. Frank Slattery of Toronto is in the court-room. I want to be tried as soon as possible, and I wish to plead guilty to the offence for which I am charged. I am throwing myself on the mercy of the court."

"I am exceedingly sorry that this young man has taken the position that he has. I would not have been here," said Mr. Slattery, "only that I was retained by his father. I do not think that this court should accept his plea of guilty." Mr. Donnan, the Crown prosecutor, stated Mr. Slattery has no status in this court.

Slattery said: "No, I have not that, it is true, seeing the boy has taken this position."

When Sullivan and Revoy were asked if they had anything to say before being committed for trial, Revoy said: "I guess it is useless after the evidence of Warren." Before the evidence was placed into court that committed the two men for trial, the Magistrate consented that the same evidence should apply in each case as it was similar.

B. C. Hubbell was the first witness called and he stated that his wife died on January 23rd, 1926, and was buried four days later in the Marmora Cemetery in a steel rough box. "On the morning of the 26th of October Mr. Phillips, the caretaker of the cemetery, told me that the grave of my wife had been disturbed, and I went and found it to be true. I placed him in charge and then proceeded to Belleville and notified the police, who came out and opened the grave but found that the body had not been disturbed. The west end of the grave had been opened and a rail nearby showed that it had been used for prying the casket from the earth.

Ewart Warren, one of the accused men, was used as a Crown witness after pleading guilty, and he told the court that with Sullivan and Revoy he left Toronto on the 25th of October for Marmora for the purpose of digging a grave. "Three weeks previous to this trip I was given $10.00 by Sullivan to go to Marmora to look the ground over," he said, "as it was understood that a number of valuables had been buried with Mrs. Hubbell at the time of her death. The car that we went to Marmora in was purchased by Sullivan, he paying $20 down as the first payment. We arrived in Marmora about five in the afternoon and waited for nightfall. In the car were a round-pointed and a square pointed shovel, a pick and a large piece of canvas for holding the dirt. When we stopped near the graveyard a car came along and we pretended we were fixing the lights. The stuff was over the fence.

"Sullivan and I went into the grave yard after the car passed and began to dig. When we came to the casket we found it was of steel, but Revoy went to the fence and got a rail to pry it up. With a cold chisel we tried to open the casket but found it to be burglar-proof and left, discarding the tools."

At this point the Crown Attorney informed the Magistrate that he would offer no more evidence and the men were committed for trial.

BOGUS MONEY IN CIRCULATION

Counterfeit Quarters Are Darker Than Real Silver Coins.

BAD U. S. BILLS.

A rumor is spreading in the city that a good deal of counterfeit quarters are in circulation. These are usually of a darker color than the silver quarters, although some of the latter become darkened by age. The best test is to "ring" the metal and see whether it has the true sound of the clear silver or the duller tone of the lead.

A number of counterfeit one-dollar United States bills are also reported as being in circulation throughout the city.

Pittsburgh Church Case Before Court

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 19. — Action brought to determine the ownership of St. John's church, Pittsburgh, made famous by the breaking into it, after the door was chained and padlocked by opposing factions, is to come again before the Supreme Court at sittings here on November 28th. The case was tried before the late Mr. Justice Lennox, and was a contest between the trustees who insisted the church was vested in them and the Presbyterian church which claimed ownership. A mass of evidence was heard and argument offered, but Justice Lennox did not render judgment.

It is understood that the stenographic report of the evidence heard at the last trial will be accepted.

Three Hours After Burial of Sultan Third Son Is Proclaimed His Successor

FEZ, Morocco, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Three hours after Mulai Yuseff, late Sultan of Morocco was laid in the mosque of Sidi Abdullah yesterday for his final rest, his third son, Mulai Mohammed Ben Annalan was proclaimed his successor by Moslem leaders and tribesmen assembled for the purpose.

Moors, Arabs, and all the rest of the Moslem world are now engaged in giving a practical demonstration of an old time cry of which they probably never heard: "The king is dead; long live the king." For joy was unconfined in Fez last night.

The citizens of this western capital of Islam were dancing in the streets last evening, for the mourning for Yuseff ended with his descent in the mausoleum of the mosque, and the celebration of Annalah's advent began.

Official weepers who yesterday escorted the plananquin bearing the body of the late Sultan with tears and groans, in the evening became official cheerers, leading cotillions in the streets and squares of Fez.

Yuseff's third son, a highly intelligent youngster of 14, is said to be as acceptable to the French protectorate for political reasons as it is pleasing to the Moslems for sentimental reasons. The late Sultan's eldest son, Mulai Idriss, several years the senior of the boy selected, was under consideration, and would have been equally acceptable to the French. The new Sultan will make his official entry into Rahat, seat of the sultanate and the French residency, probably Monday or Tuesday.

FOUR MEN PAY DEATH PENALTY IN NEW JERSEY

Convicted For Murder of Paymaster in Newark, July 19, 1926.

DECLARE INNOCENCE.

Claim That the Police Had Framed Them—Calm to the Last.

TRENTON, N.J., Nov. 19.—(A.P.)—In the space of exactly a half hour four men were put to death last night in the electric chair in State prison for the murder of George F. Condit, paymaster for the Reid Ice Cream Company, in Newark, July 19, 1926. Each died with vehement declarations of innocence.

The men were: Joseph "Big Joe" Juliano, Christopher Barone, Joseph "Little Joe" Juliano and Louis "Kid Ruff" Capozzio, all of New York, and they died in the order named.

The executions began at 7:54 and ended at 8:24, with one of the largest crowds ever forced into the death chamber, and little semblance of order. "Big Joe," a cousin of "Little Joe," entered first, staring about him dazedly and speaking incoherently until guards ordered him to "sit down Joe."

"I'm as inocent as God," he shouted. "Let's go boys. The police have framed me and I die innocent.'

He entered the chamber at 7:54 and was pronounced dead six minutes later by County Physician Charles H. Mitchell, who remarked at the high voltage necessary to put him to death.

Clergy Present.

The Roman Catholic priests and a Methodist minister, the latter at the request of the condemned men, accompanied Juliano to the electric chair. He was the only one of the four who appeared nervous and was incoherent in his protestations of innocence. Prison attaches said the other men ate of their last meals, while his remained untouched.

Capozzi walked in steady, facing the death jury, said firmly: "Captain Brex (former chief of the Newark detective bureau is the cause of this killing of me. Please protect my mother, she is innocent."

He kissed the Rev. Cornelius McInerie, one of the priests, full on the lips after seating himself in the chair.

After the body of Barone was removed from the death chamber, about five minutes were taken to change the jury of witnesses, and "Little Joe," the next, walked in with a half smile on his lips. He, like Barone, kissed the priest on the mouth a moment before he died.

His head was high as he talked.

"I want the man, whoever committed this crime," declared, "to come forward on their dying beds and clear my name, the name of my folks, and my wife's name. I would not die with a lie on my lips. I'm as innocent as God."

The only man of the four to leave a widow, "Little Joe," handed the priest a trinket with the request that it be given her.

"I'm a victim of the police and I die with a smile on my face," Capozzio said when he entered. "They framed me up. Good-bye everybody. Good-bye Mr. Cavanaugh, good-bye Mr. McGeehan (his lawyers)." He, too, put something in the palm of the priest's hand, a memento to be conveyed to his sister.

Six Men Killed In Bandit Raid

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Six men are reported to have been killed by a band of outlaws committing depredations near the town of Limay, Nicaragua, near the Honduran border, says a message received by the Nicaraguan government from Mayor Blandon of Limay.

The message said that authentic information had been received that a group of 50 "rebels" assassinated the six men after burning their houses and committing other depredations. The message added that it was believed the greater part of the bandit group consisted of Hondurans.

Nitro-Glycerine Blast Rocks Country Inhabitants In District Flee Danger

COFFEYVILLE, Kansas, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Fleeing as before an invading army, with only a few clothes and household goods hastily assembled, farmers for miles around and residents of the little town of Jefferson, 11 miles northwest of here, left their homes yesterday ahead of a terrific blast which wrecked the plant of the Independent Torpedo Company and shook the country for 30 miles around.

Forewarned of the impending explosion at the plant, a mile south of Jefferson, school was dismissed quickly and children and residents fled by motor car, truck and on foot to the country north of town. Meanwhile farmers, warned by telephone, began a general exodus for places of safety far from the scene. There were no casualties.

The blast of 380 quarts of nitro-glycerine came nearly an hour after the plant had taken fire, due to the breaking down of an engine and the resultant explosion of a nitrator.

Towns and cities as far as Parsons, Kansas, 30 miles northeast of Jefferson, felt the shock. Houses and buildings in Coffeyville and Independence, each about 11 miles away, and residents of Cherryvale, 20 miles northeast, rushed from their homes, fearing an earthquake.

The seven frame buildings of the torpedo plant were wrecked and the fire spread about. Flames crept toward the wood and concrete magazine containing 800 quarts of nitro-glycerine, and a more disastrous blast was feared. The fire burned itself out before reaching the storage house, however.

FREEZING WEATHER SAVES SECTIONS OF QUEBEC PROVINCE FROM SERIOUS FLOOD DAMAGE

Menace Most Marked in the Vicinity of Three Rivers.

RAINFALL BREAKS RECORDS.

Temperatures Falling in Vermont and Northern New York State.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—Freezing temperatures yesterday saved the eastern townships and other sections of Quebec Province from serious flood damage. That the cold weather arrived opportunely was proven by reports from many sections detailing damage to roads, flooding of village streets and rising river levels.

The flood menace was most marked in the vicinity of Three Rivers, where 78 hours of continuous rainfall broke all existing records. At Zephirin, near Three Rivers, ten bridges were swept away, blocking highway traffic. St. Justin and Ste. Ursula, in the same district, reported landslides and blocked roads. At St. Justin three bridges were carried away by swollen brooks. At Ste. Ursula the sides of Fontarabie Hill collapsed and a heap of clay and sand 45 feet high blocked roads. The Government wharf was submerged at Ste. Genevieve De Batiscan and the main road to that town was blocked by a landslide and portions of the road washed away.

Averts Danger.

Reports from Sherbrooke last night indicated that the cold wave had averted all danger of a renewal of floods in the eastern townships. Rivers and small streams were reported high, but no increase was looked for. All highways were said to be open with the exception of the Sherbrooke-Levis road. Some rail traffic was curtailed but only as a precautionary measure. Added to the menace from the rain the Sherbrooke district was swept by a windstorm early yesterday which played havoc with telephone and telegraph service. Poles were down in many places and in some instances service had not been resumed last night.

Locally damage from the rain was slight, though the harbor levels recorded a rise of 2 feet 10 inches, indicating the enormous amount of water drained into the St. Lawrence River. The harbor level is 34 feet 3 inches, within two inches of the record for any November.

Roads Damaged.

A preliminary estimate by the Provincial Government authorities places the damage to roads in the province at two and one-half million dollars. This damage includes that of the recent floods which was placed at one and one-half millions, indicating that the damage to roads from the rainfall of the last two days was equal to the damage done in the more serious floods of two weeks ago.

Averts New Menace.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—A sudden drop in temperature yesterday tamed the swelling rivers of Northern Vermont and averted a new flood menace. The crisp, cold weather following a rainstorm that threatened to rival the downpour which led to the floods two

Fog Banks Hold Up New Zealand Flight

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 19. — Canadian Press. — Balked by fog once more, Captain Frederick A. Giles British airman, still has his biplane pointed for the open sea, hoping for a break in weather conditions that will send him off on his 12,000 mile solo flight to New Zealand.

His Hess Blue Bird plane, the Wanda, was in readiness at Mills Field run way last night for an early take off to-day for Honolulu, first scheduled stop of the long journey On the verge of a hop off yesterday, Captain Giles and his flight manager, Capt. C. T. Peterson, were looking over a soft spot in the far end of the runway, when a sheet of fog rolled across San Francisco Bay to the edge of the field, ruining their plans.

JURY CHOSEN REMUS TRIAL

Stage Set For Trial of Bootleg King on Murder Charge.

INSANITY PLEA.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, November 19. —A jury was obtained yesterday in the George Remus' murder trial and the final stage of the five day effort brought about an outburst of rage by Remus in which he stormed, shouted, and screamed for 15 minutes.

Chas. P. Taft II., youthful prosecuting attorney of Hamilton county, and son of William Howard Taft, a former president, now chief justice of the United States, and Carl E. Basler, the assistant prosecutor, were the especial targets as Remus tears in his eyes and gigantic booming voice at times choking in his throat or breaking into a high falsetto Remus raged about a little table enclosed squore.

"Man, if I had you in the corridor, I would wreck you physically," he screamed at young Taft, who stood stolidly and regarded furious man evenly.

Remus spread his short stubby arms wide and his thick and stout body quivered as he made a sweeping encircling motion to indicate his great strength and what he would like to do with it.

The display of fury in the man whose sole hope for life is based upon his plea that he was temporarily man iacally insane when he shot and killed his estranged second wife, Imogene, here last October 6, electrified the packed courtroom.

Remus' outburst had two very interested spectators in alienists appointed by the court to be called by either side or Judge Shook to testify as to their observations of the defendant's mental condition.

Funeral of Joffe Set For To-Day

MOSCOW, Nov. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—The body of Adolph Abromovicz Joffe, the Soviet leader who committed suicide yesterday, was taken to the Commissariat for Foreign Affairs yesterday, where it lay in state in the conference hall. The funeral will be to-day.

The first guard of honor for the body consisted of government officals headed by Foreign Minister G. V. Tchitcherin. The body in a scarlet coffin was borne to the commissariat on the shoulders of some of Moscow's most prominent veteran communists.

NEW LIQUOR LAW GIVEN APPROVAL

Learned Separate Beer Parlors Will Be Established For Women.

WINNIPEG, Man., November 19 (Canadian Press).—Embodying what Government leaders describe as "the best features of the prevailing liquor Acts of the provinces of the Dominion," the new Manitoba liquor law has been given the seal of approval by the Provincial Government. The proposed legislation will be submitted to the Provincial Legislature shortly after the House is convened on December 1. Opposition is expected by the Government, although members of the Bracken Government stated that an attempt had been made to discard as far as possible the bad features of liquor legislation in other provinces.

While nothing official has been given out concerning the proposed legislation, the salient features of the proposed Act have been disclosed. It is learned that separate beer parlors in licensed parlors will be established for women. Sale of beer and hard liquor by the bottle on the cash-and-carry system is provided for; beer by the bottle will not be sold at licensed parlors; the present method of purchasing liquor supplies through the Government Liquor Commission will be maintained.

The measure when enacted will be applicable to the Province as a whole, but local option provisions will enable municipalities to change the law locally by referendum vote. Constituencies that voted either wet or dry in the last provincial plebiscite will be governed equally by the local option provisions. New purchasing points are to be established in the city and in several rural districts.

There will be no special licensing authority outside of the Manitoba Liquor Control Commission. Licensing privileges will be extended to hotels, veterans and chartered clubs, and licensees will be called upon to provide special beer parlors. The selling hours will be from nine o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night.

Efforts will be made to rush the measure through its third reading before the Christmas recess.

Leading Peterboro Tire Dealers now operate
DOMINION TIRE DEPOTS

To make Dominion Tires and other good tires worth more to the public;

To give the man who buys tires the mileage he pays for;

To make it possible for car owners to drive with greater faith in the soundness of their tires;

To make the care of tires weigh as lightly as possible on the motorist;

A system of service to car owners has been organized, known as Dominion Tire Depots.

At these Depots, which are readily recognized by their distinctive colors, orange and blue, the motorist may expect to find well-equipped and completely organized tire service, along the most modern lines.

We agree entirely with this idea of organized service and now announce that we are operating Dominion Tire Depots.

Drop in and have your tires checked for pressure. It's a step to greater mileage. And it will give us a chance to explain the Dominion Depot idea to you.

A Momentous Matter

A Message of the Utmost Importance to the Immediate Future of the Presbyterian Church in Peterborough. Every Member of the Congregation is urged to be Present, and Help Decide What Should Be Done.

Evening Prelude:

1—Don't you think it is a bit overdrawn to say, as a widely syndicated writer has said, "The path of life is a narrow bridge between two insanities!"

2—Is it true that one's manner has much to do with one's success in life?

3—Do you agree with a certain journalist who says: "Personal convictions are commendable, but in actual life one must trim, and accommodate, and compromise, to get along!"

Organ Recital at 6.45 p.m.

Organist: Martin R. Chenhall, A.R.C.O.
Soloist: Greta LeBarr.

A CORDIAL WELCOME EXTENDED TO EVERYBODY.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

PICKING UP a magazine which was new about eleven years ago, I found something which has led me to think that the world's greatest nuisance is the faultfinder, for he is conspicuous everywhere. You would imagine that at some time in his life he has been greatly impressed with a sermon on the sin of hiding our light under a bushel. No one could accuse him of hiding his light under a bushel or of speaking in a whisper. His mission is to be seen and heard. There is no part of the world to which you can go with any hope of getting away from him. He is to be met at home and abroad. You will be unique if he is not to be found in your home at times. And if you seek the open air for a while in an attempt to get away from him you will be sure to meet him on one of the city's streets or along some country lane.

PLAIN SPEAKING NEEDED.

You are compelled to meet him in business, and the worst of it is that, in business, you cannot treat him as he ought to be treated. You have to be nice and polite to him when, for his own good, some plain talk is what he ought to hear. Of course, it would make him sore at first, and probably you would lose his custom for a time. But there are worse losses at sea! And he would cool in the skin in which he got hot. The soreness would leave him and he might be less prone to find fault in the future. In any case you would have the satisfaction of feeling that you had tried to do your duty even if it meant the loss of dollars.

FAULTFINDING.

The inspired record tells us that the Creator in six days made the world, and when it was finished, declared that the work was good. Yet, since its creation the world has been full of faultfinders who do not think it is good enough for them.

The peculiarity of the habitual faultfinder is that he has no reason to find fault. He disturbs the serenity of those who are happy and who would enjoy peace and contentment but for him.

Nothing satisfies the faultfinder and no era has been free from his tantalizing presence.

The faultfinders exasperated Moses on the mount until he dashed to pieces the stone tablets inscribed with the first written laws of God. But the Ten Commandments remain the law of God and man.

THE BANE OF THE HOME.

The faultfinder is the bane of the family circle. He undermines affection, destroys peace, breeds discontent. He is the fly in the ointment, the unwelcome intruder. He makes the task of the genuine reformer more difficult. If he could only see and hear himself as others see and hear him the shock would either cure or kill him.

If I had any say in the matter I should move that if he cannot be cured he be killed. And I shall gladly contribute a substantial amount toward the funeral expenses.

THE CURSE OF THE CHURCH.

No church has been without its faultfinder, no social organization; no shop, factory or office, and no movement for the public good is exempt from this intrusion.

What the church has suffered at his hands is more than tongue can tell. There he demonstrates that he has been born in the objective case even if he knows nothing about grammar. Could I be made pope of any congregation and exercise my papal powers to excommunicate all faultfinders I should be preparing the way for a genuine revival of apostolic religion.

OUT WITH THE FAULTFINDER.

The faultfinder is found everywhere, scattering the seeds of distrust, poisoning the minds of those who will listen, marshalling the forces of unreason, casting the shadows on the sun, dimming the light of the stars, mocking the hopes of humanity and challenging the goodness of a beneficent Providence.

He blocks the path of progress. He cumbers the statutes with unnecessary and unworkable policies to those in authority and makes them cower before his vitriolic tongue, his poisonous pen and pestiferous persistence.

Out with the faultfinder! We have no room for him.

I will look sometimes about me for the things that merit praise;
I will search for hiden beauties that elude the grumbler's gaze;
I will try to find contentment in the paths that I must tread;
I will cease to have resentment when another moves ahead.
I will try to see the beauty spread before me, rain or shine;
I will cease to preach your duty, and be more concerned with mine.

Wanted— A Home

A HOME, a real home, that is what every true woman wants, every true man as well. Any other life, no matter what its functions or achievements, is hybrid, abnormal. The consciousness of privacy and possession contributes to the only true happiness. The woman says, proudly: "This is my home." She thrills in response to the demand of those wifely, motherly duties which come day by day insistently urging that they be cared for. The interests which appeal to her she realizes she does not have to divide or share with applauding crowds or indifferent people of any class; for her home is the enchanted castle guarded by love and all love's influences.

Who Is The Boss?

THE superintendent of a certain big department store in—well, it doesn't matter where. It might be where you live and labor. This gentleman conducts a school of salesmanship in his establishment, and one of the first questions he puts to his class of beginners is: "Who is the boss?"

After salesmen pupils have guessed every official about the establishment, the superintendent explains: "No, no, no! He is not the boss. The real boss in this store is the customer. It's the customer that you and I are here to please. It's the customer who pays your wages and mine. Now, if you are sitting behind your counter, doing nothing, and you see me coming, don't jump up; but if you see the customer—the boss— coming, jump! That always makes a deep impression."

The lesson is a good one to memorize.

—Allan Fairbairn.

Where Ignorance Is Bliss

PERHAPS you are one of those who have wondered whether we are likely ever to reach such a stage of knowledge that the whole future will be open to prediction! In the much talked of evolutionary process that is supposed to be going on in the world, will it ever come to pass that our old, unloved companion "Risk" will turn and slink away when he sees us sitting down to reckon up the causes and results which will affect our life tomorrow or next year? What a different world it would be if that could ever be brought about. But would it be any better because it was different? Is it not just possible that it might be worse? A moment's thought will show us that it would merely change our anxieties into forebodings. Let us imagine, for example, that we knew beforehand the date of our own death by some exact calculation of the forces of bodily breakdown and disease or violence as they affect us personally. Would it add to our happiness or tend to the improvement of our character to be positively assured by an unquestionable authority that the fifth day of December of this year, or next year, or fifteen years hence, we would assuredly pass out of this life? I am quite sure we don't think so. I am certain we are happier in not knowing. The truth is that our ignorance and uncertainty contribute one of the needful elements of our present happiness and education.

The soul that knows God, having entered into vital union with Him through faith in Jesus Christ, is quite content to leave the unknown future in His hands in the confidence that He will make all things work together for good.

Churches And Churchmen

The Telephone.

CHURCH CALENDARS sometimes contain more than notices of meetings. Occasionally one finds a suggestive article. I have found one sent out by the calendar of the First Church, Newton, Mass. It runs something like this: How familiar the answer is, when we are in a hurry to get a telephone call through. And how remote and inaccessible it makes the other party seem. We are helpless, for the time. When we study the life of Jesus, we are impressed by His sense of God's nearness and accessibility. In the Old Testament much is said of God's power and sublimity. "The sea is His and He made it." "He taketh up the isles as a very little thing." "He dwelleth on high." There is little of this in the Gospels. Jesus is ever speaking of God's intimate knowledge and loving care for the least of His creatures and for individual men and women, and for little children. When we pray do we think of God as at the end of a telephone wire of infinite length, and too much occupied with great affairs to listen to us? Do we seem to hear a voice from some heavenly "central" saying, "The line is busy?" But, as Dr. Glover suggests, "If God is so great why should He be so busy? If He is a real Father why should He not be at leisure for His children? He is, says Jesus; a friend has leisure for his friends, and a father for his children; and God, as Jesus suggests, always has leisure for you." No! the line is not busy. Nor is it "out of order." For the insincere and the trivial there is no message. But for every sincere soul the way to God is open.

Forecasting the Future.

WE can forecast even more certainly the moral than the physical future, according to a New England writer. We can predict what the character will be like some ten years hence as shown by present moral choosings, more securely than we can know beforehand the day of our success in undertakings, or our removal from the present scene of our activities. And, if we are full believers in the word of Christ, we have a clear assurance of faith in the divine justice, love and mercy that changes wholly the proportion of our life's experiences. Great things, like fear and death and sorrow, in the light of that divine purpose, become lesser things; anxieties become mere clouds that pass across a sunlit sky, and not threatening stormclouds that shut out the sun. The day of our death no longer seems a day of terror when we are assured of the presence of our guide and that in His companionship we are surely on our way toward home.

You Can't Beat Moses!

THERE is a story of a young minister whose sermon led him to give a vivid description of the creation, a description which mingled imagination and poetry with large factual details. As he sat at dinner with a veteran elder after the service, he "fished" for an opinion on the effort, and after a time elicited a single sentence: "Well, young man, you can't beat Moses!"

• • •

Back-Door Losses.

ELDERS of the Presbyterian Church in the United States have just held a convention in Philadelphia. Among other things considered were the causes of "back-door losses," and the remedies therefor. Some of the causes given for church losses were loneliness, doubts not dissipated by church services, plain carelessness, and lack of satisfaction with preaching.

• • •

Let the Church Be Vocal!

A country-wide inquiry re the "Mid-week Prayer Service" has revealed that, for the church as a whole, there are very few prayers except by the ministers and few voluntary testimonies or remarks; that only about five per cent. of the church people attend mid-week meetings and much more than 75 per cent. never go; that "the pulse of the church," as this meeting is called, indicates "low blood pressure and anaemia." It has been recommended that the church be vocal, express its hopes, fears, suggestions—and that the people be led and developed in that direction.

A Popular Young Man.

MR. PREACHER was taking to task one of the young members of his flock who had been acting like a goat rather than like a sheep.

"William," he said, "I have been told that you are raising false hopes in several maiden hearts. You are engaged to one girl in this village, another in Astoria, a third in Plastoria, and a fourth in Glostoria. How do you come to do such a thing?"

William grinned. "Why, sir," he explained, "I've made my first payment on an auto."

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

GEORGE WASHINGTON, when quite young, was about to go to sea as a midshipman; everything was arranged, the vessel lay opposite his father's house, the little boat had come on shore to take him off, and his whole heart was bent on going. After his trunk had been carried down to the boat, he went to bid his mother farewell, and saw the tears bursting from her eyes. However, he said nothing to her, but he saw that she would be distressed if he went, and perhaps never be happy again. He just turned round to the servant, and said: "Go and tell them to fetch my trunk back. I will not go away to break my mother's heart." His mother was struck with his decision, and said to him: "George, God has promised to bless the children who honor their parents, and I believe He will bless you."

The Discipline of Life

THERE is something more in the sense of manhood than the idea that a man must bow before the inevitable. We soon find that there are laws which must be obeyed, but beyond these we discover principles which, however unenticing they may appear to us, and even if we do not accept them, are along the line of life and demand our most earnest reckoning. A man is made partly by what is forced upon him, partly by what he forces on himself, and no mortal can say which is the greater factor in his making.

ON MAKING GOOD

IN the list of successful men throughout the world there are few who "just happened" as the claim is often heard.

What Dickens considered the secret of his success conveys a message to every aspirant for achievement in life. He affirms that "he should never have made a success if he had not bestowed the same care and attention upon the least as upon the greatest undertakings."

This is a rule that has been handed down from generation to generation, even from time immemorial. And the reason that it has lived through all the ages is simple enough. It is the glittering truth.

Argument is a whetsone for the knife of invention.

IF WE BUT KNEW

IF one could only see the grief ahead of him in any undertaking, few persons would have the courage to make the start. A wise Providence has hidden the future from prying eyes. If we could lift the veil and see only a single day ahead, most of us would be ready to give up the fight, fear would unnerve us and, in many instances, self-destruction would follow. Grief and trials and disappointments are the price demanded by Progress.

Happiness and the sense of victory are only for those who live for conscience and duty and the soul's higher ideals.

—Newell Dwight Hillis.

What's The Use of Newspapers

IT HAS BEEN SAID that talk is a necessity in this generation. Every one, foolish or wise, must have something to talk about. Loquacity is more than a social advantage; it is a social necessity. At dinner or at tea each person must carry his own weight in conversation. The point was reached long ago where ingenuity only rescued the dinner guest from unwilling starvation. The function of talking is more important than the function of eating.

Newspapers are popular because they provide things to talk about. Newspapers supply blank conversational cartridges of every calibre, which may be shot off harmlessly but effectively at any social encounter.

GOOD WORK.

The Young Women's Christian Association is to be congratulated upon the very excellent results of the courses in swimming conducted under its auspices so successfully demonstrated last night.

In recent years there has been a very large increase in the percentage of Peterborough young people able to take care of themselves in the water, and much credit for this, so far as women swimmers is concerned, must be given to the Y.W.C.A.

Especially remarkable has been the work among very young girls, many tiny tots having been taught to swim in the Y.W.C.A. pool in the past few years.

As a result of what the Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. have accomplished, assisted by the Rotary classes at Inverlea Park during the summer, the number of young people in Peterborough who can swim must compare favourably in proportion to population with the majority of Canadian centres.

That is a condition upon which the whole community should be felicitated.

IS IT ANY USE?

With the municipal elections in many Ontario cities coming early in December, the usual attempts to interest the electors in the contests are being made.

Probably no subject is given more newspaper space than this question of apathy among citizens as to municipal affairs.

The Examiner each year has discussed the various aspects of the question until it has become thread-bare, and until very serious doubts have arisen as to whether the space thus used could more effectively be employed in some other way.

After all the whole condition seems childish.

Here we have a population of sensible people, most of them anxious to get a hundred cents worth of value out of every dollar spent and priding themselves upon being shrewd in their business transactions.

And yet when it comes to electing bodies to spend many thousands of the people's money, two out of every three of these, in other respects sensible, citizens are quite content to let somebody else make the choice.

It does not seem possible to get home the idea that it is our money that is to be spent, and our duty to choose men who will spend it wisely.

THE O.H.A. ANNUAL.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association was held today in Toronto, and with this session amateur hockey in the Province may be said to have commenced another season that promises to be a pronounced success in spite of the inroads of professional clubs.

The Ontario Hockey Association means much to Ontario.

It provides in every centre in the Province opportunity to see what is undoubtedly the fastest sport in the world—ice hockey.

And this winter recreation does much to make the cold weather endurable.

Despite the advent of radio and the extension of the moving picture business to small communities, there would still be a noticeable gap in the winter's programme were it not for hockey.

The game flourishes in all sections of Ontario largely through the vision of those who years ago planned the Ontario Hockey Association, and the wisdom, good judgment and energy of the officers who from year to year have directed its operations.

The Association is the biggest thing of its kind in the country, and it speaks volumes for the manner in which its affairs have been conducted, that the desertion of scores of its most expert players leaves amateur hockey in Ontario still in a most healthy condition.

May the O.H.A. continue to flourish.

ADVERTISING PETERBOROUGH.

Speakers at a meeting in Oshawa called to discuss the formation of a Chamber of Commerce referred to the large amount of publicity given Oshawa by reason of the fact that the advertising of General Motors always mentioned that city as its Canadian home.

Undoubtedly publicity of that kind is most desirable; the very fact that a nationally known industry has chosen a particular city for its plant is an indication that that city offers advantages that might well be considered by other manufacturers.

Similarly Peterborough has been given splendid advertising by local firms who are national advertisers.

The advertisements of such firms as the Western Clock Company, the Peterborough Canoe Company, the Nashua Paper Company, the De Laval, the Raybestos Company and other concerns invariably link up Peterborough with their products.

The Chamber of Commerce might perhaps find it a task worth while to take up this question with other Peterborough companies whose advertising seldom mentions this city; probably such companies would be glad to co-operate by naming Peterborough as their home in their publicity campaigns if the matter were brought

GILBERT WARNS GERMANY.

(From The Outlook, New York.)

The young American Agent-General for Reparation Payments, S. Parker Gilbert, has warned Germany that her economic policy is not sound and that she is heading for trouble if she continues along her present road.

Responsible for securing settlement of the war-damage account of the Allies and America, Mr. Gilbert addressed to the German Government on October 20 a long memorandum. It has just been published. The burden of it is that unwarranted budget increases in the salaries of civil service employees and public officials and in pensions and payments to retired officials, together with unregulated borrowing and spending by German states and municipalities, threaten to swell expenditures and loan obligations to a point endangering fulfillment of the reparation program.

Germany replies that the budget estimates represent the strictest economy, that all loans have been used for productive purposes, and that the stabilized currency shows what progress has been made. The Government would be expected to defend itself. But the Finance Minister, Dr. Goehler, seems to have allowed himself somewhat weakly to be persuaded into approving salary increases for officials the full import and scope of which he did not at first realize. He has since indicated that some of the proposed raises cannot go through in the face of the opposition of the Agent-General.

The disposition in Germany is, of course, to contend that the nation cannot bear the burden of reparations imposed by the Dawes Plan. The present challenge to the Agent-General does not seem to have been caused by an intention to create trouble for him, but rather by log-rolling among political factions to please their constituencies. It will nevertheless inevitably intensify the German antagonism to the reparation plan. The stage is set for a dramatic test of strength after next year, when the full schedule of payments comes into effect.

For the first time, the American Agent-General has had to censure Germany drastically in order to protect the Dawes Plan for making good war damages to the Allies and the United States.

By the end of December various foreign Governments will have paid the United States for the year

MUCH IN LITTLE.

Two items of news regarding Germany's actions and Germany's practices are worthy of much more than passing attention. The first came to hand per medium of our own daily press. The second was found in the pages of an English monthly journal. Separate they are important. Considered together they evidence what we in Australia may look upon as a menace. Indeed, we would be wise to regard it in that light.

Free-traders we have always with us. They are satisfied with the reasoning which made them what they are, and prefer to remain true to their beliefs, rather than to seek facts that disturb them, or to reason with a readiness to admit potency in arguments which run counter to their own. Were it not so, these two items of news might prove information for them.

From England, by way of our local press, came recently the information that Germany had purchased from British manufacturers £22,000,000 worth of textile machinery, and was importing it with the intent of increasing the capacity and improving the standards of her textile factories. The English "Textile Recorder" announced, in a later issue, that of the textile workers in Germany those who work:

42 hours and under represent	11.47 per cent.
Over 42 hours and under 48 represent	12.29 per cent.
Over 48 hours represent	12.93 per cent.
Over 48 hours and up to 54 represent	57.65 per cent.
Over 54 hours represent	5.66 per cent.

Thus over 76 per cent. of Germany's textile workers work 48 hours and over—more than half of them over.

These figures are pregnant with probabilities. The most simple-minded know that any operative or operatives, under similar conditions, can do more work and produce more in 48 hours than in 44. And it requires no great arithmetical talent to conclude that the greater the quantity produced by any worker or squad of workers in any given time, and at the same rate of wages per hour, the more cheaply, as far as labor cost is concerned, are the goods produced.

Germany is a nation whose factories are worked systematically. Also, she is eager for expansion. Before the Great War she was conquering the world commercially. Her peaceful trade attack was more formidable and more efficient than her deservedly reputed warlike onslaught. She will resume—she is resuming—her former peace-time advances. She is more to be feared in her quietest moments.

Twenty-two million pounds sterling may not represent a wonderful addition to Germany's textile plant, but it is an addition. It will increase the nation's power to produce, and, with such a people as the Germans, the power to do creates the will to do and ensures the performance Germany will proceed to produce textiles in greater abundance. The hours which her people labor and are prepared to labor enables her to produce cheaply, much more cheaply than those countries, like Australia, in which wages are high, and output per hour per worker is less than normal.

Having produced textiles Germany must sell them. Little thought will satisfy us that, at the very least, she must be and has been satisfying the requirements of her own people. Probably they have reached their saturation point at reasonable trade prices. She will be, if she is not now, forced to seek markets outside of her own boundaries. And then is created, automatically, one of those complexities of trade which the ordinary inexperienced and comparatively thoughtless citizens cannot or do not appreciate.

Working her textile business in her own country with satisfaction and profit, and without excessive price or margin she will be able to bid for extraneous trade at better prices than those at which she must sell locally, and which, as we have seen, are already much lower than those which Australia can afford to ask. Germany's export prices to Australian importers must be—emphatically must and easily can be—very much lower than any at which Australia's textile trade can profitably quote their produce.

And this is not the end. The matter is reactive. The profit made on the reduced price sales to ex-national buyers will enable Germany to cheapen her locally sold stocks, and so benefit her own citizens.—The Textile Journal (Australia).

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., November 19 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in wheat here yesterday was extremely dull. This was attributed to the fact that prices have reached a level where foreign buyers appear unwilling to follow advances in purchasing Canadian wheat.

A feature of the local grain trade was the demand from exporters for wheat and sales of some round lots No. 3 Northern were made at 4¾c per bushel over the Winnipeg November option c.i.f. Montreal, and No. 4 wheat sold at 6 cents under the same option. In addition a sale of about 50,000 bushels of Canadian Western No. 3 barley was made at 12 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg November option, c.i.f. Montreal. The local market for coarse grain was quiet and prices were unchanged.

Prices for all grades of spring and winter wheat flour were firmly maintained under a good demand from local and English buyers.

An active business was transacted in all lines of millfeed, and the undertone was firm. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was fairly active and prices were unchanged.

Owing to the limited supplies of fresh eggs available on spot and the fact that British Columbia dealers were asking three cents per dozen more for fresh firsts and two cents per dozen for pullet extras, a stronger feeling prevailed in the local market and prices for extras and seconds were advanced two cents per dozen. The demand was fair. Fresh extras were quoted at 72c, firsts at 60c, seconds at 42c, while pullet extras sold at 56c firsts at 50c, and seconds at 40c per dozen. The trade in storage eggs was more active under an improved demand. The receipts were 1,034 cases.

The feature of the potato trade was the weaker feeling that developed and prices scored declines ranging from 5 to 20 cents per bag. This was attributed to the continued limited demand. Sales of odd cars of Prince Edward Island whites were made at $1.25 to $1.30 per bag of ninety pounds, and Green Mountains at $1.30 to $1.35 per bag of ninety pounds, while New Brunswick Green Mountains sold at $1.15 to $1.20 per bag in bulk. Cobblers at $1.05 to $1.10 per bag in bulk, and Quebec varieties at $1.00 to $1.05 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

A fair trade was done in beans and the undertone was steady. Sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked on spot were made at $2.50 per bushel, and to arrive at $2.60 per bushel, with smaller quantities at $2.75 per bushel, ex-store.

The demand for butter was confined to mall lots, but prices were unchanged. The receipts were 311 packages.

The inquiry from English buyers for cheese continued good, and a moderate trade was done. The domestic demand was also fair, and values were steady. The receipts were 4,268 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, November 19 (Canadian Press). — Remarkable buoyancy in the corn market developed yesterday with spectacular purchasing on a large scale. An outstanding factor was a report from a Chicago crop expert that in 12 out of the last 15 years the final official estimate on corn yield has been lower than the Government's November estimate.

Closing quotations on corn were strong, 1¾c to 2½c net higher. Wheat finished at ¼c to ⅝c net decline; oats at ¼c to ¼c advance, and provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 2½c to 5c.

Corn showed a decided upward trend right from the start. Topmost figures for the day prevailed at the finish. Meanwhile, unfavorable husking returns were coming from a wider territory, whereas receipts here and offerings to arrive were very light. Moreover, some houses reported having requests to cancel purchases that were previously made. It was noticed, too, that lightweight hogs in considerable volume were being marketed, a circumstance which by some traders was taken as confirming advices of surprising light yields of corn in many sections.

Wheat rallied some in sympathy with corn, but acted draggy. Export sales of North American wheat yesterday amounted to the slender total of 250,000 bushels. A bear influence was an announcement that the French tariff rate on wheat had been raised to 37½c a bushel.

Attention also was given to an increase of 62,613,000 bushels in world wheat stocks for October, as compared with 39,046,000 bushels last year.

Offerings of oats to arrive were nil, and the market tended also to reflect the strength of corn.

Provisions were responsive to a fair cash demand for lard, but the meat trade was slow.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Let me say, as a very interested reader of the discussions by your correspondents in your paper from time to time, that commentators and critics of the Bible are not a satisfactory substitute for the Bible itself. It is as the old hymn says:

"Father, I stretch my hands to Thee.
No other help I know;
If Thou withdraw'st Thyself from me,
Ah! whither shall I go?"

I believe the breakdown of society, of which we have so much on all sides, is due to the attacks of critics, as they call themselves, on the Bible. If we lose the Bible, from which alone we get our authority for believing in salvation and a future life, people, the young especially will go wild. It will be "Let us eat, drink, and be merry, for to-morrow we die."

Now, friends, let me say one word more to critics and their followers and admirers, and that is: "If you do not believe the Bible as it is, just drop it. Do not insist on trying to make it what you think it ought to be, for that kind of a Bible has no Divine authority, and is worse than useless."

Oh! what hurt do ye do!"

CONSISTENCY.

STICK TO THE POINT, MR. BARNJUM.

The Editor of Examiner.

Dear Sir,—A few days ago there appeared in this paper a letter of mine in which I showed the unreliability of Mr. Frank J. D. Barnjum's prophecies, and as a concrete example, quoted a prediction made by him in 1923 that within two years pulpwood would sell at $24 a cord. I, then, pointed out that at the termination of that period pulpwood sold at $12.21 a cord.

To this Mr. Barnjum makes an artless rejoinder to the effect that pulpwood should have sold at $24 a cord within the specified time, and the reason why it did not do so was because there were certain things wrong with the pulpwood market—not with Mr. Barnjum's prophecy!

The utter childishness of such a reply is too obvious for comment. I shall let that phase of it pass. But what I strongly object to is that Mr. Barnjum did not "stick to the point."

The only points at issue were:

1. Did Mr. Barnjum in 1923 predict that within a period of 2 years pulpwood would sell at $24 a cord?

He did, in a letter to the Halifax Chronicle on November 6, 1923, and quoted in my letter.

2. Did pulpwood actually sell for $24 a cord during that period?

It did not. The average price of pulpwood since 1923 has been between $12 and $13 a cord. (As shown by official Government statistics.)

The question was not "Why pulpwood did not sell at $24 a cord," but "Did it sell at $24 a cord?"

The fact that it did not do so conclusively proves that Mr. Barnjum's prophecy was most unreliable.

I used this example in order to show what dependence could be placed in Mr. Barnjum's predictions and warnings in general, particularly those of the present time, many of which, if acted upon, will unmistakably lead a country or Province to disastrous consequences when it will be small comfort to have Mr. Barnjum explain the reason why his prophecies and warnings did not work out.

The prime reason Mr. Barnjum gives to explain why pulpwood did not sell at $24 a cord is, moreover, utterly misleading. He claims that the paper mills, in order to hold down the price of pulpwood, are cutting wood on their own limits at great expense to themselves, some at a cost of $27 a cord, and that if they bought their wood in the open market its price would soon soar to $24 or more.

Will Mr. Barnjum name any mills that are actually cutting wood at a cost of $27 a cord—and their location?

For, if there is any mill that wood is costing $27 a cord, it will be found upon examination that this cost is due to its disadvantageous location, and at such a mill wood is, possibly, worth $27 a cord. In other words, that mill is situated so far away from the source of production of pulpwood that for it to buy wood in the open market at the current market price of $12 or $13 a cord and transport it to its doors would cost $27 a cord or more.

Such a mill and such a cost would be an isolated exception and would have no particular effect upon the market price of wood. Neither this hypothetical mill nor any other selling newsprint at $65 a ton could possibly pay $24 a cord for wood—to the cost of which must still be added the further charges of transportation and handling. Long before open market wood went anywhere near that price the mills would stop buying it altogether and buy pulp from Scandinavia.

The idea that the farmers and pulpwood producers could, by a co-operative combination, control the price of pulpwood has, naturally, no greater appeal to anyone than to this Association, in which are enrolled more than 15,000 of the pulpwood producers of Canada. In view, however, of conditions in the industry—of which we have a somewhat intimate and practical knowledge—we are forced to believe that control of the price of pulpwood by such procedure is utterly impossible.

Here is the situation:

On the one hand are farmers and small producers, controlling less than 15 per cent. of the total standing pulpwood in the Dominion, who find it more profitable to sell their wood in small quantities, year by year, at prices which yield them a fair return for labor and stumpage than to hold it standing and speculate on the uncertainties of predictions that have proved as inaccurate as those of Mr. Barnjum.

In other words, the pulpwood producers, taken collectively, have not control of a large enough percentage of the wood supply to control its price.

On the other hand, are the mills with their vast limits from which they can always draw if the open market price is more than they want to pay; limits, which according to the reiterated statement of the mills themselves and the great financial houses selling their securities, contain sufficient wood to supply their full requirements for 30, 40, 50 years, and in some cases even in perpetuity.

Mr. Barnjum's advice is no more sound than his prophecies, and a country that believes one and takes the other is headed for disaster.

Very truly yours,
CANADIAN PULPWOOD ASSOCIATION, Ralph P. Bell, Vice-President and Manager.

MOTOR VEHICLE OPERATOR'S LICENSE without examination

After November 30th every applicant for a Motor Vehicle Operator's License will be required to pass an examination of fitness and ability before an inspector of the Department of Highways. This examination will take some time and will cost a fee of $1.00.

It will be assumed after the above date that every experienced and capable driver will have heeded the law and secured a license.

If you have been careless in not applying for your Motor Vehicle Operator's License, you will save yourself inconvenience, time and money, by making application now. An application form can be secured at any garage.

Licenses are now issued without examination to those who have driven a car at least six months and for at least 500 miles, and also have no physical or mental disability which may interfere with the operation of a motor car. The fee for a license is $1.00 and licenses now issued will be good until December 31st, 1928.

Licenses must be carried by drivers at all times. In case of accident or infraction of The Highway Traffic Act, drivers without Motor Vehicle Operator's Licenses cannot be considered as experienced and competent.

$10.00 Fine

Without a Motor Vehicle Operator's License you have no authority to drive a car in Ontario. The penalty is a fine of $10.00. Production of the Driver's License may be demanded at any time by any policeman or traffic officer.

If you have not yet secured your license you are subject to fine at any time, and if you wait till after November 30th to apply you will have to undergo and pass the driver's examination.

Obey the law. Save yourself time, inconvenience and expense by getting your Motor Vehicle Operator's License without delay.

WINDSOR CASE DECIDED TO-DAY

Judge Coughlin and Mayor Jackson Will Announce Finding.

CHARGES AGAINST CHIEF.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 19.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon in the City Hall, the Winsor Police Commission composed of County Judge J. J. Coughlin and Mayor C. E. Jackson, will make known their decision in the case of Chief of Police Daniel Thompson, now under suspension and whose resignation has been formally requested by the City Council. The announcement will be made in the council chamber by the Commissioners, and it is expected that not even standing room will be available.

Eight specific charges were filed against Thompson by Alderman Clyde W. Curry, including the accusation that he had permitted the town to "run wide open" during the six years he has been in charge of the police department. The hearing of the charge took up nearly three weeks' time. The prosecution laid particular stress on one charge, that Thompson had charged banks and business houses for installing burgler alarm systems and had pocketed the money, amounting to several hundred dollars.

In his explanation Thompson said at first that he had "neglected" to bring the matter of the disposition of the money to the attention of the Police Commission, but he later changed this and said the money had been "partly" expended for supplies, but what the supplies were, where they were purchased or who purchased them he could not remember, he said.

The Song of the Symphony

WITH fire, energy, intense animation — furiously — the music of a hundred or more instruments fills the air with tremendous volume—and faultless harmony.
Like a flash it ceases—then stealing on the air you hear the sweet crooning of the violins in the higher register with the soft murmur of a French horn quartette, or the weird strains of the wood-wind accompanied by the sonorous tones of the bass.
Again—all is animation and as the ensemble climbs the scale to a grand finale, you realize you are listening to a thrilling tale, told in the language of music by a mass of musical instruments.
Through "Auriscopic Balance of the Musical Registers," an exclusive feature of the New Phonothetic McLagan, you are enabled to hear the Song of the Symphony, as you hear it in the presence of a great orchestra.

Let a McLagan Dealer nearby play your favorite Symphonies on this marvellous instrument. There are four models—priced from $115.00 to $375.00.

pound more in Vancouver than the product of any other province.

W. J. Moore's Report.

In this report I shall try to enumerate some of my activities in trying to improve the dairy business in this section. This report covers eight months, beginning April 1 and ending November 30.

In performing this work I have travelled 8500 miles, inspected 23 cheese factories, 16 of which are in Peterboro County, 5 in Victoria, and 1 in Durham; 12 of which are stock companies and 11 privately owned. Supplying milk to these 23 factories there are 900 patrons, and 6,219 cows, an average of 40 patrons and 270 cows to the factory. There were 20,22,700 lbs. of milk delivered, and 1,865,675 lbs. of cheese made, realizing in cash for cheese $354,483, an average price of 19c per lb.

Twenty of these factories divided the money by straight fat basis and three by fat plus 2.

There were 32,351 lbs. of whey butter made at a value of $10,352.32; this includes whey cream.

Total money spent on improvements of factories was $14,000 including one new one, Indian River, cost $12,000.

There were 261 call visits made, and 31 full day visits; 1468 butter fat tests made and 110 curd or fermentation tests: 15 calls made at farms; 3 meetings attended.

The average butter fat test of the factories where I did the testing of 1468 samples, was 3.3 which I believe would be a fair average for the section.

There was $2000 spent during the season on the factories and equipment which has made a marked improvement on some of the factories in this section and about 9% of this amount was spent on the privately owned factories.

The business of dairying belongs to the producer or farmers of this country, and they are largely responsible for the success or failure of the industry, and where they own the plant they should see that it is in proper condition for the manufacturing of No. 1 grade cheese, with a pure water supply, and the milk delivered in clean bright cans, and with a first class, clean and tidy maker I don't think there would be any difficuty in turning out a very high percentage of No. 1 grade cheese.

For cleanliness is the outstanding feature of success in dairying. When cheese is made properly and out of sound raw material, it will improve with age.

I have insisted very strongly on some of the makers to be more careful on the weighing stand in selecting their milk, and not take in any that is over-ripe or badly tainted, as the finished product will be no better than the material it is made from.

Where the whey has to be delivered in the milk cans the whey tanks should be cleaned every day, and the whey properly pasteurized and better if it went into the cans at a temperature of 150 degrees or over.

There has been a lot of undergrade cheese in this section this season and the makers have tried harder than ever before to make a high standing for themselves. But some of them that stood very close to the 100% mark last year, and have always had a high percentage of first grade are well down on the list this year. And the lowest factory for 1926 is near the top.

I shall try to enumerate some of these causes:

I.—Impure water supply.

II.—The delivery of whey in the milk cans.

Now this is a very serious problem. If the whey tanks are not kept clean they are sure to give trouble and under-grade cheese. No doubt unsound raw material is responsible for a large percentage.

The makers in this section have put forth every effort the past season to make a higher standing for themselves and have spent a lot of time and money in repairing their factories and equipment, and are looking forward for a larger output of cheese and more patrons.

With the co-operation of all concerned, and with the object of success in view I think 1928 will give a much better showing for this section than we have had for some time.

damage to bridges and highways was caused by the swiftly rising waters, but this was immaterial in comparison with the losses caused by the original flood.

The rain ceased yesterday morning and was replaced by clear cold weather. Last night the thermometer was falling steadily and the water with it. Flood relief workers, counting the cost of the new storm, estimated that it would be felt most seriously in broken communications due to the washing away of temporary highways built since the great disaster. The northern rivers rose from two to four feet after a night of heavy rain.

New York Colder.

ALBANY, N.Y., Nov. 19 (Associated Press).—Clearing skies and rapidly falling temperatures checked yesterday the menace of flood waters in Northern New York after torrential rains of 36 hours' duration.

Many of the streams flowing into the St. Lawrence River from the slopes of the Adirondacks were greatly swollen in consequence of the down pour, but most of them kept within their banks. In some instances, however, villages along the banks of the streams were invaded by water, highway bridges were washed away, and train service on a portion of the New York Central Railroad's St. Lawrence division was temporarily held up.

Throughout the territory the rain did nearly as much damage as the rising streams. Four inches of rain fell at Watertown within 24 hours and the precipitation at many other points in the north country was as great. In consequence the surface water filled cellars and flooded streets.

Fear that the Raquette Lake reservoir dam might give way, loosening a tremendous volume of water, was dispelled yesterday when the rain stopped falling and the rivers reached their flood crest. Watchers on guard at the dam throughout the night went to their homes, confident that the danger had passed.

SHORT STORY

MOTHER AND DAD

By Dorothy Douglas

Daphne's parents were frightfully disappointed when thei beautiful young daughter made her choice in the matter of husbands—or rather future husbands. They were far too wise, however, to give expression to their feelings.

"I don't like young Kemp," Daphne's father said after hearing the news, "and I don't think you do either—do you, mother?" he added to the wife who had shared all his troubles and successes with him. "Secretly I think the lad's after our money, but if Daphne loves him—well—what can we do?"

"Daphne, my dear," said the wise mother a few days later, "how would you like to take a trip over to Paris with your father and me and let us buy you the most charming trousseau that any girl in Iowa has ever had? You know with your father's position you must have a really smart wedding and I do think the Paris touch would be the right thing. But perhaps," she put in wisely, "you would not want to leave Henry for so long a time—we would be gone perhaps three months."

"Oh, mother darling—it's too good of you and Dad—I've just longed to go to Paris and I'm sure Henry would love me to have a beautiful wedding dress. Will dad take three months away from the office, though?"

"He longs for a holiday. You know, dearie, your dad has worked harder than the young men work nowadays, to give us all the lovely things we have—so we'll just go off—the three of us for a good old trip to Paris—before we must give up our treasure to another."

Wise were the mother and father. Wiser than all the youth in the world. For they bought Daphne the most charming of clothes for her first ocean voyage and fitted her up until there wasn't a pair of masculine eyes on the great ocean liner but followed the lithe figure about with the hope of spending at least a good bit of the trip at her side.

They hadn't been a day at sea before mother and dad had selected a young man who they felt would be a fitting companion for their budding beauty of a daughter.

He was a slim young man with golden hair, finely molded physique and an air of good breeding that asserted itself even in the smallest of incidents.

Dad made his acquaintance early, in the smoke room, and later the two went up to stroll about a moonswept deck. Daphne, tucked up in a big steamer rug beside her mother, watched her father and the young man, going round and round the deck. But not once did they stop and spread the acquaintance further. Dad was wise.

Later he confided to his wife, "I've sort of paved the way, mother. Told him about our daughter's approaching marriage and the reason for our trip to Paris. Also found out from him that he's in the process of mending a broken heart—some love affair that went the wrong way."

And when Daphne next morning questioned her dad about the very good-looking young man and his refusal to introduce him to the rest of the family, he merely said with a laugh:

"Oh, he's just a young chap who is trying to forget some girl who has succeeded in breaking his heart. Thought there wasn't much use bringing an engaged girl and a pining young man together."

"I shou d like to meet him," said Daphne shyly. "Perhap I could chee him up a bit."

"Well, perhaps if you're a good little girl I'll bring him around. But mind this—I've told him we are taking you over to Paris to get your trousseau and if any flirtation goes on your mother and I will write back and tell Henry all about it.

The young man was up as near the bow of the ship as it was possible to get. The strong breeze was blowing through his gold hair and he was inhaling great drafts of that life-giving air.

"Clearing away the cobwebs," greeted dad.

The young man turned and met the eyes of Daphne and her mother.

The introductions were made.

For a moment or two the four chatted, then mother and dad made a movement to go breakfastward. The ship was none too steady, so the husband and wife stayed close together.

Daphne's eyes, the color of great wood violets, looked up at the young man who was suffer ng the pangs of a broken heart, and his soft brown ones looked back at her.

Each was startlingly conscious that the other was good to look upon.

The ship gave a lurch and Daphne was flung into the young man's willing arms. And at that moment mother and dad turned to see if their treasure was following them.

"That's done it," said dad, and smiled knowingly at mother. "It takes the good old ocean to straighten out these affairs for the mating season."

And in Paris, whither the quartette had gone upon leaving the great ocean liner, Daphne and her mother went straight to the Rue de Rivoli and sat down for a cup of the coffee with its blanket of whipped cream they had heard was so unusually good, and began discussing trousseau schemes.

"Mother darling, I would much rather have just a simple little white frock, as it will be such a dear little wedding—just the four of us and I suppose some witnesses. Isn't it all perfectly wonderful? And you and dad are dears not to call me fickle."

WOOLER NEWS

WOOLER, Nov. 19.—The Women's Missionary Society of the "Friends" Church met at the home of Mrs. Esli Terrill on Friday afternoon.

Lloyd Dorland, James Terrill, George Ruttan, Norman Bentley and Carmen Ruttan were in Campbellford attending the Boys' Conference.

The first party of hunters has returned home with three deer, a moose and a bear.

Twelve ladies met at the parsonage on Thursday afternoon to sew, patch and darn for Mrs. Malcolm Waite, who has been an invalid for six months and has a small family to care for. Next week the Society of Friends and Neighbors will meet to carry on this good work at Mrs. Waite's home.

On Saturday afternoon the spacious home of Miss Frances Terrill was opened to the members of the Mission Circle when twelve of the girls gathered. The President, Margaret Teal, in the chair, presented an interesting program: Solo, "Dear to the Seart of the Shepherd," Laura Vosburg; solo, "Missionary," Frances Terrill; reading, "The Family Mite Box," Gladys Vosburg; reading, "Privileges," Mary Teal; report from the sectional meeting, Mrs. S. L. Terrill. The meeting was closed by all joining hands and repeating the Mizpah benediction. A dainty lunch was served by the committee.

Mrs. Allan Tackaberry is spending a week at Orland, taking care of her aunt, Mrs. E. McNeilly.

Mrs. Etta Rowe left on Tuesday morning for Toronto to spend a week with her sister, Mrs. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scott motored to Montreal to spend Thanksgiving with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Smith spent Thanksgiving in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kilbanks and family, of Oshawa, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dorland.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Adams and Helen, of Trenton, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John R. McColl.

Mary Frances Shaw, of Bloomfield, spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. D. S. Austin.

Mrs. Ellen Murray, of Wellington, spent Thanksgiving with her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Crews.

W. J. McColl is in poor health again.

Sterling Nelson, of Newmarket school, spent Thanksgiving with his mother, Mrs. Lydia Nelson.

Miss Gwendoline Elford is spending her holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gooding.

A large number of men attended the sale of farm implements and household effects on the property of the late Ira King, Codrington, on Thursday.

On Tuesday morning Rev. H. B. Neal and Ransom McMasters, equipped with baggage and guns, went to the North hunting camp.

The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. George Adams on Wednesday, with the President, Mrs. William Arnis, in the chair. After the business half-hour was over, Mrs. Arnis gave an excellent report of the Women's Institute convention held in Belleville, October 21.

BIRTH-RATE DOWN IN GREAT BRITAIN

England and Wales Have Lowest Rate in History in Past Quarter.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(British United Press).—England and Wales recorded the lowest birth rate in their history for the quarter ended September 30. The figures, published yesterday show only 16.7 births per thousand people, as compared with 24.2 for the corresponding quarter last year and 17.8 for 1926.

In connection with the lowering birth rate, Dr. Halliday Sutherland of London said: "The time is rapidly approaching when the pupulation of England will consist of a large number of old people, supported by the work of a small number of young."

The reason why gasoline has remained cheaper as compared to prewar prices than most commodities is that the percentage of gasoline recovered from crude oil has risen from 21 per cent in 1917 to 34.7 now.

Tooth Brushes Are Germ Laden

Yale Professor Finds Millions of Germs on Some Tooth Brushes.

Prof. Winslow of Yale was asked by the New Haven Health Department to investigate tooth brushes. He and his staff examined twenty-four tooth brushes under the microscope and found from hundreds of thousands to millions of the most deadly disease germs on some of the tooth brushes.

This seems to prove the necessity of using an antiseptic mouth wash such as Dr. Chase's, not only as a protection for the teeth, but also as a preventive of serious germ diseases.

Scout News and Notices

4th PETERBOROUGH TROOP

"Hello, Jack, sorry you were unable to attend the meeting but I hope you will be able to be there next week. We are going to have an indoor treasure hunt and we expect everybody present."

This week's meeting opened with the usual flag-break. The patrols were then dismissed to their corners to prepare for inspection. Each patrol received three points.

No points were given for the games as the patrols were unevenly divided. After the games, we had blindfold boxing.

The two who boxed were blindfolded and put in opposite corners. At the signal to start, each one left his corner and tried to come up close to his opponent and hit him. The seconds could direct their man which way to go.

The patrols were dismissed to their corners for a ten minute instruction period.

A sealed message was given to each patrol. This message was written in semaphore signs. The first patrol getting it correct received three points.

The troop leader then showed the Scouts how to tie three new knots. A few more games were played before getting ready for home.

The meeting closed with the singing of "God Save the King," the lowering of the flag, and one minute Scout silence.

In the competition the Kangaroos are hopping along in the lead, with the Owls and Crows close behind.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Nov. 19.—Except for an early morning buying rally, the Winnipeg grain market was a dull affair yesterday. The buying was of a mixed variety, coming chiefly through commission houses, who were making purchases on orders from country points. Later in the day the same houses were on the selling side. Spreaders were fairly active. Prices worked over a narrow range throughout the day, with values at the close reflecting net declines of ⅝ to ¾c.

A light exporting business was transacted in the coarse grains, but betrayed an easier tendency.

STIRLING NEWS

STIRLING, Nov. 19.—Miss Evelyn Durvy is visiting her brother at Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Tulloch, who has been visiting here for some time, returned to Toronto for the winter months.

Mrs. McKenzie, of Port Perry, who has been spending the past week with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McKenzie, returned to her home on Sunday.

On Thursday evening last a large number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Rose met at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. MacDonnell, and showered the young couple with many useful and valuable presents. After the gifts were presented, a pleasant time was spent by those present.

HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. FRANK McCOY

Today's "The Fast Way to Health"

© 1926 McCOY HEALTH SERVICE - LOS ANGELES - CAL.

A CLEANSING DIET

Many who have been reading my daily health articles have been sufficiently interested to wish to try the orange fast which I so often recommend. In today's article I am going to lay down some simple rules which anyone can follow without any possibility of harmful consequences. No matter what disorder you may be suffering from, I can assure you that you will be benefited by taking a few days' of the orange fast, followed by a restricted, cleansing diet.

The first thing to do is to determine to stick to the orange fast for five days. For these five days I advise you to take an eight-ounce glass of orange juice every two hours. Keep to a regular schedule, and you will find that you will get better results and have no distressing symptoms unless, perhaps, it is the first day or two, when you may have a slight headache, due to the stirring up of systemic toxins.

Every day you must take one or two enemas, using plain warm water, and not over a quart at a time. Also, take two sponge or shower baths daily to keep the pores of the skin open and to assist in elimination.

This fast will give your alimentary canal a rest, and you will eliminate vast quantities of impurities which will relieve the body of accumulated poisons and help you in every way to overcome any disorder from which you may be suffering. After the five day fast try the following diet for several weeks:

Breakfast—One egg, prepared in any manner except by frying three or four pieces of Melba toast; small dish of stewed fruit.

Lunch—Choice of as much as desired of any one of the following fruits: Apples, apricots, peaches, pears, grapes, oranges, grapefruit, plums, pineapple, tomatoes or melons.

Dinner—Choice of one protein, such as lean meat, fish or fowl. (Use not over one-quarter of a pound.) Choice of one or more of the following cooked non-starchy vegetables: Celery, spinach, small string beans, asparagus, cucumber, egg plant, beet tops, turnips tops, small beets, small carrots, small parsnips, small turnips, lettuce, okra, oyster plant (salsify) kale, and zucchini. Choice of one or more of the following raw salad vegetables: Ripe olives, alligator pear (avocado), endive, nasturtium leaves and flowers, mallow, oyster plant, lettuce, small beets, carrots, turnips or parsnips, parsley, cucumber, asparagus, spinach and celery. No desserts.

Continue this diet for several weeks and then gradually change to using the menus which I print in this column each week.

You will find this a true cleansing diet, and you will be surprised at the results you will receive from following this strict curative regime.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Martha Jane S. asks: "What causes the white cellular formations which periodically form in the throat opposite the palate? They cause a slight soreness until they loosen and come out. What can be done to prevent their formation?"

Answer: The cheesy masses which form in the crypts of the tonsils can be prevented from forming if you will be more careful with your diet. A good local treatment may be taken with the ultraviolet light. This application of actinic rays will kill any bacterial growth in the tonsils, and also tends to shrink the membranes to normal size. If your physician does not have this equipment he can treat your throat with some medicinal preparation such as silver nitrate.

Question: C. T. asks: "Does chili contain any nourishment?"

Answer: Chili is very high in nourishment, being made mostly of meat. It is highly flavored with peppers and therefore is irritating to the stomach and cannot be considered a wholesome food except for those who have been accustomed for years to its use.

Question: Mrs. E. S. writes: "Will you please tell me what to do for my arms? They get numb up to the elbow every night."

Answer: You are probably suffering from some kind of circulatory disorder, possibly due to some heart derangement which is usually caused by the pressure of excessive gas in an overloaded stomach crowding the heart. Try eating a smaller meal at night, and be careful about the food combinations.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE FROZEN APPLE

"Whee-e-e-e! Whew-oo-oo! Zooee-oo!"

Jack Frost was dancing on the tips of his silvery toes and whistling through his teeth.

"What shall I freeze next?" howled Jack Frost. For he was a cold little elf, making ice and snow in readiness for winter. He had frozen the duck pond, and put a thin covering of ice over the brook. Now he looked for something else to make hard and cold.

On a tree, not far from Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow, hung one, lone apple. All the other apples had been gathered by the farmer, and such apples as the farmer had not picked up were taken into their snug nests by the squirrels, rabbits, mice, guinea pigs and other creatures of the woods. But this one apple was left on the tree.

"Ha! Ho!" howled Jack Frost. "I'll freeze that apple!"

And he did! Blowing his cold breath on it, he shriveled the skin of the red cheeked apple and the inside and outside of it was made as hard as a stone with the icy breath of the little elf.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Jack Frost. "That was fun! Now I'll go farther off in the woods and sleep beneath a Christmas tree until it is time to freeze some little boys toes or nose. Ha! Ha!"

Away rushed Jack Frost on the north wind, and the frozen apple dropped to the ground with a thud.

"Alas, this is the end of me!" sighed the apple. "I wish the farmer had picked me and put me in the cellar with the others. It would be better to be baked in a pie or apple dumpling, or made into apple sauce than to be frozen like a stone as I am."

But no sooner had the frozen apple dropped off the tree than along came hopping Uncle Wiggily. The rabbit gentleman was looking for an adventure, but as soon as he saw the shriveled, red cheeked fruit he twinkled his pink nose and said:

"Ha! Perhaps I can have an adventure with that! I'll put that frozen apple in my pocket and see what happens. I can take it to hollow stump bungalow, thaw it out near the warm fire and Nurse Jane can make a pudding of it. That's what I'll do."

Popping the frozen apple into his pocket, Uncle Wiggily hopped along through the woods until, all of a sudden he heard a noise behind him and, looking, saw the Woozie Wolf running after him.

"Oh dear!" sighed the rabbit gentleman. "If I only had some sticky molasses to dribble on the dried leaves to stop the Wolf I would be glad!" But alas! Uncle Wiggily had no molasses.

"I will sit down here and rest myself."

So he started to run and the Wolf ran after him. As he hopped along, the bunny felt the hard, frozen apple in his pocket bumping against him.

"Ha! I'll throw that apple at the Wolf!" thought the rabbit. "If I am lucky enough to hit him on the nose it may stop him!"

Pausing a moment, Uncle Wiggily took out the apple and, as the Wolf came running up the bunny uncle threw the hard, frozen fruit at the bad chap.

"Ha! I am very lucky!" cried Uncle Wiggily as the apple hit the Wolf on the nose, making tears come into his eyes.

"Wow! Scowzie!" howled the Wolf, and because of the tears he could not see to chase the rabbit. The frozen apple bounced off the Wolf's nose, right back into Uncle Wiggily's paws. So the bunny put the apple into his pocket again, and said:

"That was a little adventure. I may have another."

He hopped on farther and, all at once, he came to a warm little house in a hollow tree where Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrel boys, lived with Sallie, their furry little sister.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily!" chattered Sallie, peering out of the window, "I wish I had some ice-cream. I'm so hungry for ice-cream!"

"Perhaps we can make some of this," said the rabbit, taking the frozen apple from his pocket. "I'll see what can be done." In the kitchen of the squirrel house Uncle Wiggily helped Mrs. Bushytail break the frozen apple into fine pieces. And when some sugar and vanilla was put on them, and the pieces were stirred in a bowl, why there was apple ice-cream, as nice as heart could wish.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! I think you are wonderful!" chattered Sallie.

"And now I am happy, for at last I have been of some use in the world," whispered the frozen apple. "I banged a Wolf on the nose and turned into ice-cream for a hungry little squirrel." So we see how things sometimes turn out.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1927-28 by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1927, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 10

Some of the most difficult questions of auction arise when one side has made a bid of five or more and one of the opponents has doubled. Shall the doubler's partner leave in the double or shall he rebid his own suit? If he decides to leave in the double and it is his opening lead, what suit shall he open? Shall he open his own or his partner's declared suit or take a chance on a suit that has not been bid?

These are some of the puzzling questions that arise very frequently and their proper answering usually means a tremendous difference. Here are two hands that illustrate these points very forcibly:

Hand No. 1

Hearts — 10, 9, 7, 6, 5, 2
Clubs — A, 4
Diamonds — Q, 7
Spades — 9, 6, 3

Y
A B
Z

Hearts — none
Clubs — K, Q, J, 10, 9, 8, 5, 3
Diamonds — none
Spades — 10, 8, 7, 5, 2

A B
Z

Hearts — 3
Clubs — Q, 8, 6, 5, 3
Diamonds — A, 7, 2
Spades — J, 10, 7, 3

No score; rubber game. Z dealt and passed. A passed and Y bid four clubs. B bid four hearts, Z and A passed and Y bid five clubs. If B doubled and Z passed, what should A do? Should he leave the double in or bid five hearts?

This hand has been submitted to seven well-known players, two of whom said A should pass and try to defeat the club bid. Three said A should take his partner out of the double and bid five hearts. The remaining two said it was a toss-up. The varying opinions of these players show the difficulty of such hands, and how easy it is to do the wrong thing.

To the writer, however, it seems obligatory to bid five hearts with A's hand. The great number of hearts in his hand makes it certain that B cannot take a trick in that suit, something he undoubtedly is counting on. A, of course, has one sure trick, the ace of clubs, but that trick no more than offsets the loss of B's expected heart tricks. For that reason, A should figure that Y-Z will make five clubs and he should, therefore, bid five hearts. There is a good chance to make the bid and thus win game and rubber; but even if it loses, A-B will surely save game and rubber. All in all, A's bid seems to be five hearts. As a matter of fact, Y-Z can make five clubs and A-B five hearts. Y, of course, had a freak hand, as follows:

Answer to Problem No. 12

Hearts — 10, 9, 7
Clubs — Q, J, 6
Diamonds — A, J
Spades — none

Hearts — A
Clubs — 9, 8
Diamonds — Q, 8, 6, 5, 2
Spades — none

A B
Z

Hearts — 5, 3, 2
Clubs — 7
Diamonds — 10
Spades — 9, 7, 2

Hearts — K, Q, J, 8
Clubs — none
Diamonds — K, 7
Spades — 8, 6

Spades [illegible] and Z is in the lead. How can Y-Z win six of the eight tricks against a weak defense? How can A-B play so that they can make three tricks, irrespective of Y-Z's play? Z should lead the seven of diamonds and play the jack of diamonds from Y's hand. Y should now lead the queen of clubs on which Z should discard the king of diamonds. Y should now lead the jack of clubs. If B makes the mistake of trumping this trick, Y-Z can win all of the remaining tricks except two. Suppose B trumps with the deuce of spades. Z should over-trump and lead the king of hearts which A must win. A must then lead a diamond. Y plays the ace and if B trumps, Z will again over-trump. The only trick that B can then make is the nine of spades. At trick three, however, B could have prevented this result by discarding a heart and Z should discard a high heart. Y should lead another club, and this lead of clubs B should trump with the deuce of spades, which Z should over-trump. Z then should lead his top heart as before, losing to A's ace. When A leads a low diamond, however, B should discard his last heart. Y must now lead a heart which B should trump with his seven of spades and Z cannot over-trump as he still has one more heart. B must also make his nine of spades and therefore wins three of the eight tricks.

Study this problem carefully as it is very instructive.

RUST CAUSES LOSSES OF BILLIONS OF DOLLARS

New metal alloys, protective coatings of special metals of extraordinary pretty, are chemists' latest weapons against rust, says Popular Science Monthly.

Electroplated coatings of cadmium or zinc—or, where fine appearance is demanded, nickel or chromium—will protect metal cables and household silverware alike, according to R. M. Burns, of the American Bell Telephone Laboratories. Aluminum has been successfully tested by the U. S. Bureau of Standards to coat the duralumin alloy framework of airplanes. It is sprayed on by a new process.

If skyscrapers had gold skeletons and we ran gold locomotives on golden rails, we would have no rust problem—for that metal does not rust. Meanwhile, we spend more money for paint to keep things from rusting than is contributed to all institutions of scientific research and of higher learning combined. Billions of tons of steel in buildings and machines are consumed by the flameless fire of rust.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THAT SOMETHING

Yes, I can teach you note and scale,
Cadenzas like the night-in-gale,
Can place your voice, correct your tone,
Can teach you these—and these alone.
For there is more to art than art:
Back of the head must lie the heart,
For not a knee will ever kneel
To those who sing and do not feel.

Without that something in your song,
The world will never listen long.
If you can sing a woman's woe
And yet her sorrow never know;
If you can sing a lyric sweet
And never hear your own heart beat,
If art is all that you have found,
Your singing is an empty sound.

I'd rather hear your voice to break;
Because you felt your own heart ache;
Than have you sing without a flaw
A song you neither felt nor saw.
When I have taught you everything;
Then you must start to learn to sing.
Yes, I can teach you note and scale;
But, when you sing of sailing, sail!

EXPANSION

Owing to the increase in our business, we found it necessary to build an addition to our factory and install therein a ten-ton hoist, also a granite surfacing machine that prepares the stone for the polishing mill. We will also add a sand blast machine. These additions to our plant will give us one of the best equipped Monumental manufacturing shops in Ontario, and will enable us to handle, with a great saving of time and labor, all orders entrusted to us at prices that defy competition.

Wanted! 25,000 Sufferers from

DEAFNESS

Head Noises from Ear Tubal Catarrh—or Nasal Catarrh Only

Startling Free Offer!

This announcement is being published in order to secure the names of 25,000 people who are suffering from catarrhal deafness, dullness of hearing, head noises or ordinary nasal catarrh. To everyone so afflicted, a wonderful home treatment, originated by Dr. W. O. Coffee, the nationally known Davenport specialist, will be sent to try without obligation or expense.

Dr. Coffee, himself, suffered for many years from ear tubal catarrh, deafness and head noises. He tried many different treatments which failed to give permanent relief. Then he began experimenting on himself and finally developed a method which completely healed his ear tubal catarrh, restored his hearing and stopped the distressing head noises.

You can test this remarkable treatment, originated by the doctor and since then used with such astounding success by thousands of people afflicted with these troubles. Coupon brings free trial without the slightest cost. Mail it today.

MISS I. Rogers, of Nebraska, whose picture is shown above, is enthusiastic in her praise of Dr. Coffee's Original Method. From the age of twelve years, her hearing was affected. There was dullness and some slight head noises first in her right ear and a little later in the left ear. Gradually, it grew worse and at eighteen her deafness was so pronounced that it handicapped her at school. Various treatments were tried but they did not help. At twenty-three, Miss Rogers could hear nothing unless shouted. Severe head noises also bothered her. Today, she hears ordinary conversation without difficulty. Here's what she says: "I really think Dr. Coffee's treatment is the only practical one to use at home for deafness from catarrhal condition or infections. I do not hesitate to recommend it to all sufferers from deafness and head noises whose cases are similar to what mine formerly was."

Don't Neglect These Troubles!

Deafness, Ear Tubal Catarrh, Head Noises, and Nasal Catarrh generally grow worse when neglected. Authorities claim that ninety per cent of all deafness is primarily caused by catarrh of the head and air passages. Others state that nasal catarrh often causes indigestion, rheumatism, catarrh of the stomach, and many other diseased conditions, If you suffer from dullness of hearing or nasal catarrh, do not neglect this condition.

There are thousands, who are now practically stone deaf, whose hearing could no doubt have been saved had the right measures been taken in time. Dr. Coffee restored hearing in hundreds of cases, where the patients were so deaf they could hear nothing. Of course, those were cases which, in spite of their severity, fortunately had not advanced to the stage that the actual tissues or nerves had become affected. Just remember this—you can prove the value of his treatment entirely without risk or expense. It will come to you absolutely free. Just fill out and mail the coupon.

25,000 Treatments Given This Month

FREE

Naturally, the doctor was proud of the results reported by so many thousands of sufferers who have used his simple home treatment. It was really his idea that these 25,000 demonstration treatments be prepared and sent absolutely free to all who answer this offer within the next 30 days. This liberal plan should convince you that Dr. Coffee's Original Home Treatment will give you relief from catarrhal deafness, dullness of hearing, head noises and also nasal catarrh. The results are quick and convincing. You feel the difference the first day. Try it. This treatment costs you nothing whatever. Simply send coupon or write and say you are suffering from deafness or head noises or catarrh. You will receive a free treatment which, according to Dr. Coffee, is the best treatment he ever found in his 45 years' practice as a specialist. Every sufferer should take advantage of this offer. The demonstration treatment is FREE.

Profit by the Experience of Hundreds Who Praise this Original Method

Hearing Restored at 80 Years

At eighty years of age, D. B. Simmons, of Maine, ascribed partial deafness with which he was afflicted to his advanced years. Developing severe head noises, however, he determined to seek relief from Dr. Coffee of whose success with similar cases he had heard. "I am glad to be able to tell you," he writes, "that after using your treatment as prescribed, the head noises left me entirely and I am rid of the deafness besides. Can hear as well as ever."

Hearing Restored at 86

"I had suffered with nasal catarrh for seven or eight years; I had terrible head noises, my hearing was bad. It was necessary for people to talk loud, otherwise I could not hear them. I used Dr. Coffee's home treatment for four months, and it restored my hearing to such an extent that I can now take part in an ordinary conversation. The head noises are a thing of the past. I am 86 years old."

J. C. Patterson, Indiana.

Head Noises Disappear

With Mrs. Reed Page, of N. Y., Dr. Coffee's home treatment quickly relieved a serious and rapidly developing case of deafness and head noises. From normal hearing, in scarcely four years, Mrs. Page became quite deaf. People had to shout close to her ears for her to understand them. Now she writes, "I am happy to tell you how good I feel and how much improved I am. Can hear everything, and the head noises are gone entirely."

After 10 Years' Suffering

"My hearing is now even better than when I was a boy," writes Peter Storm of Iowa. Gradually but surely growing deaf over a period of nearly ten years, Mr. Storm became afflicted with severe head noises which alarmed him greatly. Much to his amazement and when he had practically given up hope of regaining his hearing, Dr. Coffee's Home Treatment relieved him within two months.

Freed After 48 Years

"I had been gradually growing deaf for 48 years. I had not been able to hear over a telephone for 17 years. Naturally I was discouraged for I had tried everything and found no relief. Dr. Coffee's treatment restored my hearing so I could hear over a telephone in either ear, quite plainly. I no longer suffer with intense head noises."

Mrs. M. Sherier, Missouri.

Acute Deafness Soon Ended

The remarkable case and glowing testimonial letter of Mrs. Mona McBride, of Illinois, show what this treatment can accomplish. From childhood, Mrs. McBride's hearing was affected, the result of serious illness. Her story is the most convincing proof of the merits of Dr. Coffee's Home treatment. Mrs. McBride writes: "Upon trying Dr. Coffee's method, the hearing in my ear which had been practically deaf for nearly 20 years has returned. I did not believe it possible." Two weeks was all it required to show astonishing results. From that time on her hearing steadily improved, much to both patient's and physician's delight.

Restored Hearing in Month

George Bishop, a native of Saskatchewan, tells how he suffered for 12 years and spent hundreds of dollars seeking relief to no avail. Read what he says of Dr. Coffee's Home Treatment—how his hearing has improved and the head noises disappeared as a result of this simple method: "My hearing grew so bad that people had to shout into my ear for me to understand. Dr. Coffee's Treatment helped me greatly in one month. It is wonderful."

DONT SEND ONE PENNY

You are not asked to send one penny for this treatment. It is sent free to you prepaid without cost. This is done to quickly introduce Dr. Coffee's original home treatment to sufferers of deafness, or head noises, or from ear tubal catarrh or from nasal catarrh itself. Dr. Coffee probably treated more cases of deafness, head noises and catarrh than any physician in the United States. He considered this treatment the best he has ever used. The fact that it cleared his own case and restored his hearing to normal, after the condition had grown really acute, gave him absolute confidence in it. Then, too, he witnessed what it has done for hundreds of sufferers. Send your name and address today. State whether you have deafness or head noises or just have catarrh. This notice may not appear again so mail the coupon at once.

Greetings from a Christmas Card

You have to believe in Christmas cards to enjoy them. If you believe in them you enjoy receiving and sending them. If they are a cold duty to you, you miss all the fun.

One can picture perfectly the sort of card you'd send. There would be one single bit of stereotyped holly at the top, neat engraving below, and that is all. The person receiving your card will give it one glance, and say, "Oh, the Jenkinses", and toss it in a pile of others just like it and pass on to one more interesting, and original.

The Note of Warmth.

The point of which is—don't feel, please, don't feel it your solemn duty to send Christmas cards, because the card will always show it. The friend who receives it will feel as if a dash of cold water had struck him in the face and a clammy limp hand had been laid in his. That feeling is somewhat lacking in the proper Christmas spirit, oh, ever so slightly, you know.

If you must be dignified and formal, at least do not be rigid and cold. Your engraved message can have a bit of originality in expression and your formal etching or design can be a thing of beauty with warmth of tone and coloring.

A Variety of Good Cards.

With all the perfectly delightful designs in cards arranged for you by the several publishers there is really no excuse for frigid and meaningless ones.

In The Examiner Office you will find a goodly array from which to choose, and early choice in your cards as well as in your other shopping will save much disappointment an vexation.

Scrap books with cards and envelopes pasted in, and prices below. The price includes the printing of your name in the space left specially for it.

Making Your Own.

Artists always have the advantage over others in that they can design their own Christmas cards. Sometimes they cut the blocks necessary and print them as well. The charm of these has become so apparent that many of the commercial cards imitate the hand-cut block with the effect of original work.

Some of the methods of printing are most interesting. A silver deer springing blithely over a snow laden landscape on a grey paper graced one card found in the Examiner reiection. Reindeer seem especially popular this year. Last year the cards all seemed to show jolly stage coaches laden with holiday merry makers. Santa and his swift sleigh is to have the limelight this year.

Gay Tones in Cards.

Gay tints of papers are characteristic of this year's Christmas messages. Silver stars are scattered over one envelope and card. One especially vigorous in color wore brilliant stripes in green, red and silver on a black ground. A greeting was printed on the cover and inside a white insert was tied. One side had a picture of men singing Christmas carols the other message of good will.

The Christmas Card Fever.

It is suggested for children's cards that they do not tackle too intricate a design. It is far easier to draw than to cut a design. The cutting of the lettering will cause the most trouble. A holly wreath with open spaces left for hand coloring is a good subject. Candlesticks, pine boughs and cones, and Christmas trees lend themselves to the somewhat stiff treatment involved in cutting blocks. Correspondence cards are excellent for use in printing because the envelopes are made to match.

Once a person becomes interested in printing his own Christmas cards he is forever lost. For from then on he will not only send forth his own humble efforts from year to year, but will take great delight in collecting the efforts of others, smitten with a peculiar sort of fever, that of hand wrought Christmas Cards.

THE ONLY MEDICINE BABY HAS HAD

Is What Thousands of Mothers Say of Baby's Own Tablets.

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she will use nothing else. Experience teaches here that they are without an equal for relieving baby of any of the minor ailments which afflict him at one time or another. The Tablets never fail to be of benefit—they cannot possibly do harm as they are guaranteed to be free from all injurious drugs.

Concerning Baby's Own Tablets Mrs. Russell Hill, Norwood, Ont., says:—"I shall always have a good word to say for Baby's Own Tablets. I have given them to our baby girl. In fact they are the only medicine she has ever had and I am proud to say that she took second prize at our baby show. She is eleven months old and weighs 22 pounds. No mother whose child is peevish or ailing will make a mistake in giving Baby's Own Tablets."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Knights of Columbus were hosts last evening at an extremely successful and brilliantly-managed Hard Tyme costume party, held in their rooms on Simcoe Street, and attended by nearly three hundred people, whose original costumes added to the general hilarity of the evening. The decorations, service of refreshments, programme, even the dress of the musicians were in keeping with the general "costume" idea of the evening, members of Stewart Widdess' Silver Slipper Orchestra, which provided excellent music for the entertainment, wearing costumes which carried out the rural idea injected by the decorations of grains and pumpkins. The programme of dances was an active one, and refreshments were served in specially made, brightly-colored paper containers. Judges of the costumes were Messrs. A. J. Reynolds, J. J. Southern, and V. McCabe, and prize-winners were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Bowen as the best married couple, Miss O'Keefe as the best-dressed lady, Miss Myra Moloney ladies' comic, George Rutherford as best dressed man, and Clare Wolff as men's comic. The arrangements were in the hands of an energetic committee, headed by A. Costillo, Grand Knight, F. J. Overend, Deputy Grand Knight, and V. McCabe, convenor of the Entertainment Committee.

Evening Examiner Fashion

For Evening Wear

There is no style more attractive and becoming for the Miss than the period frock and the one pictured here is particularly charming. The skirt dips at the back and is shirred at the top to a fitted bodice, and the wide band on the skirt and the pointed yoke may be of contrasting material or lace. In View A a large bow of wide ribbon is arranged at the left side and in View B narrow ribbon forms a girdle and is tied in a chic bow at the front. No. 1677 is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 (36 bust) requires 2½ yards 36-inch, or 2¼ yards 54-inch material, and ⅞ yard 36-inch contrasting material and 3 yards wide ribbon for View A; 4 yards 6-inch lace and 1½ yards narrow ribbon for View B. (Price 20 cents the pattern.)

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

ORANGE LILY

SAINT and SINNER

Cherry hardly waited until the last note of the strange duet had died away before running toward Rhoda, her hands outstretched, excitement blazing in her golden eyes.

"Where in the world did you learn to sing like that?" she demanded. "Why, Rhoda, you're a genius! Do you hear—a genius! Didn't you know?"

Rhoda, flushing and laughing a little in confusion, gave her hands to Cherry, apparently more delighted at Cherry's friendly overtures than at her praise of her singing.

"I didn't learn," she confessed shyly. "I never had a singing lesson in my life. I just sing."

"But good heavens!—Faith, Bob," she whirled upon her sister and brother-in-law, who were watching the tableau with amazement and amusement. "Tell her how marvelous her voice is! Tell her! The little idiot! How she can have a voice like that and be so calm about it——!"

"Tell us all about it, Rhoda," Bob suggested. "When did you first know that you could sing?"

"Come over here and sit down, Rhoda," Faith interrupted, patting the couch on which she and Bob sat hand in hand. "Of course we'll be thrilled to tears. I never heard a more beautiful voice in my life."

Rhoda took the proffered seat diffidently, her cheeks scarlet with embarrassment and pleasure.

"Mama always said I could sing before I could talk," the girl began diffidently. "Pop—I mean my father gave her a phonograph when I was a baby and she used to entertain me by playing records. I liked the singing ones best and she said I could carry the tune and sing along with the singer that made the record, before I could understand or pronounce the words. I only tried to sing the soprano records, she said. And they noticed that I imitated the voice of the singer almost exactly, even when I was just a tiny girl."

"Good Lord!" Bob ejaculated under his breath. "And didn't they give you lessons, child? Didn't they realize that you have a God-given voice?"

"Don't, honey," Faith whispered warningly. "You may raise her hopes too high."

"Of course I'm no judge of music," Bob hastened to add. "But when you can sing as you did to-night— What does your brother say?"

"He likes to hear me sing," Rhoda laughed shyly, "but he thinks I'm just a good imitator. I can't sing by myself, without the phonograph record, I mean. I just sing with it. I can't explain, but I feel helpless without the other singer's voice to guide me. Nils thinks it's just a trick and that I wouldn't do very well by myself, even if I had lessons."

"Nils is crazy!" Cherry exclaimed violently. "I'd like to tell him a thing or two. I'm so excited I can hardly stand it! Listen, Faith," she appealed to her sister. "Let's send for this Nils idiot and make him give Rhoda lessons. She can live with us and earn her board by helping you, just as one of the family. Wouldn't it be divine if we'd discovered a great genius? I guess that would get us some fame of the right kind! Oh boy!"

CONDITIONS THAT CALL FOR A TONIC

Symptoms That the Blood is Thin Should Not Be Neglected.

Weak, lacking in strength, energy and ambition, nervous, sleepless, poor appetite, digestion disturbed—these are the symptoms of a great majority of people who have been benefited by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The great value of this medicine in cases of this kind is proved by the statement of Mrs. W. Hensher, Kingston, Ont., who says:—"Following a severe cold I was left in a run-down, nervous condition; I had pains in the back and limbs and could scarcely move about. I did not sleep well at night and was despondent and discouraged. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and can truthfully say that after the use of six boxes, the change in my condition was nothing short of marvellous. The pains vanished, I slept well, had a good appetite, and in every way felt well and strong. I also gave the pills to my daughter who was in an anaemic condition and feeling quite miserable, and in her case, too, they restored health. I hope my experience may help some other weak person."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A little book, "Building Up the Blood", which contains many useful health hints, will be sent free on request.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

This long-sleeved theater frock is of wine-colored transparent velvet with a girdle fastened with a rhinestone buckle.

Ten or twelve years ago the sleeveless dress for theater wear was something of a novelty. There were then many women who clung to the old notion that while real evening dress of the sleeveless, low-necked variety was the only thing appropriate for the opera a less formal sort of evening dress was more suitable for the theater. And now interestingly enough the long-sleeved theater dress has been revived and since no one now questions its smartness many women admit that they really like it better than the frock without sleeves. There are always draughts to consider, and if one does not sit in a box it is rather awkward to manipulate the folds of a scarf or evening wrap.

The question of what to wear for the theater of course depends very much on circumstances. To wear elaborate, formal evening dress when sitting in a cheaper seat with an escort who has not changed to evening dress would be in as poor taste as to wear informal dress when sitting in a box with the men of the party dressed for the occasion.

When the formal low-cut evening frock a shawl is often worn in addition to the more substantial wrap. Many of the newest shawls are simple squares of silk of beautiful color, their sole ornamentation being deep, intricately tied fringe.

A notably well-dressed woman chose for formal wear the other evening a decollete gown of black transparent velvet banded with rhinestones, under a wrap of rose and metal brocade, with a shawl of rose-colored silk. Silver slippers with nude stockings, a small pouchshape bag encrusted with rhinestones and jewelry of rose-colored topazes finished the ensemble.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1927.

Both benefic and malefic aspects are strong to-day, according to astrology, but a kindly rule of the stars is dominant.

Although there is a sign read as indicating a reluctance to follow religious observances, the sway is not unfavorable to the churches.

Under this planetary government it may seem easier to contribute money than to listen to sermons.

The aspects favor charitable and philantrophic institutions, which should profit substantially from contributions.

This is read as a rarely auspicious day for visiting old friends and for forming new social ties.

There is a sign of fair promise to lovers who may find this a rare direction of the stars for all who woo.

Music to-day is subject to the best possible influences of the stars and should be especially effective in church services.

Letter-writing is unusually well aspected at this time when the mind will find the expression of thoughts easily transcribed.

Journeys begun to-day may be attended by delays and even by severe disappointments, it is forecast.

The evening is peculiarly favorable for meetings of every sort and should be a time for pleasant social intercourse.

Again a religious controversy in the press is foretold and surprising prejudices will be revealed, the seers prophesy.

Preparedness against war will continue to be a subject for discussion and peace advocates now come under an influence which is sinister inasmuch as it causes them to suffer severe criticism.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of benefits through women and older persons.

Children born on this day probably will be leaders in society as well as business affairs. The subjects of this sign are usually artistic and they marry advantageously.

MONDAY NOVEMBER 21, 1927.

Astrologers read this as an unimportant day in planetary rule. A favorable aspect is strong late in the day.

The morning may not be favorable to workers who are likely to encounter causes for dissatisfaction.

Older persons should conserve the health, especially avoiding fatigue under this direction of the stars.

There is a fairly fortunate sign to-day for all who seek employment, but later in the year positions will be difficult to obtain, it is forecast.

Cities are to be overcrowded through the coming winter in which severe and uncertain weather will affect many parts of the country.

This should be a lucky rule for solicitors, or promotors who desire the assistance of capital.

Under this direction of the stars it is supposed to be especially lucky for those who bestow gifts.

The seers prophesy that reactionary influences, which they have foretold, will affect the observance of Christmas. Effort to remove the commercial trend will be made.

Merchants and manufacturers, however, may expect increase of the holiday trade this year, which should be marvelously profitable.

While American men are to cultivate all that contributes to masculine strength the women of the nation again are to adhere to the most feminine ideals, it is foretold.

In the new year, which is to write much on the pages of history, women are to accomplish remarkable things in oldtime fields of usefulness, if the stars are rightly interpreted.

Persons whose birthdate is is have the augury of great prosperity in the coming year.

Children born on this day will succeed through industry that requires brains. Boys may marry girls much their seniors.

Hints On Etiquette

1. Should a hostess discourage discussion among her guests at a party?
2. When should a hostess step in and divert the subject?
3. Should a person who talks well ever wholly monopolize conversation at a social function?

The Answers.

1. No.
2. When a heated argument threatens to break up pleasant companionship of a social evening.
3. No. Even if the audience enjoys it, no single person should have the entire say.

CRITIC TALKS OF COMPOSERS

Augustus Bridle Addresses Woman's Music Club on Beethoven and Schubert.

ILLUSTRATED BY SLIDES.

Speaking on "Beethoven and Schubert," at an open meeting of the Women's Music Club held yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the Public Library, and attended by nearly two hundred people, Mr. Augustus Bridle, musical critic of the Toronto Star, gave a very informal and entertaining talk on the two famous composers, centering his attention mainly on Beethoven, and illustrating his address by lantern slides descriptive of his subject and other great musical geniuses of bygone days. Treated in a manner just a little different from the ordinary, and given in a pleasing, chatty fashion, Mr. Bridle's address was listened to with great interest.

A comparison of the influence on his age left by Napoleon and his great contemporary, Beethoven, was made by Mr. Bridle, showing the destructive effect of the work of the one and the constructive genius of the other the great composer doing much to repair the damage done to the lives and souls of men by the master-millitarist. "While Napoleon was tearing the world apart, Beethoven was bringing it together with his music.

"We are truly living in a jazz age," said Mr. Bridle. "In this topsy turvy world there are evidences of arartistic insanity around us on all sides, increasing — crescendo —, but the jazz era in music has grown out of the great sentimental epoch that was dominated by the purely sentimental song, the comic song, the coon song and the cake walk. Back through the romantic, Victorian era, through the classical age, and the period dominated by the troubadour, we come to the times of the plain song and before that to the old Greek scales. Our music of the present day is simply a constant development of the simplest forms that formed the beginnings of musical expression."

Mr. Bridle added another note of interest to his discourse by sitting down at the piano, and illustrating his words by music. He played for his hearers who joined by his request, in the singing of the old song, the music of "Swanee River," as an illustration of simple form and rhythm.

Pictures thrown on the screen included those of Jahann Sebastian Bach, for which Mr. Bridle played one of his Chorales, of Handel, illustrated by the playing of his celebrated "Largo," of Mozart, with a melody of his composition, of Gluck, with a minuet, Hayn, with a song, and Arne, composer of "Rule Britannia." A few bars from each were played to give the main theme.

Possibly in illustration of the famous saying that "Architecture is frozen music," Mr. Bridle showed several slides of famous cathedral interiors.

Going on to his main theme, the life of Beethoven, the speaker alluded to the composer's great work in life, the making of the classical forms of music merge into the romantic form which marked the evolution of the art at the time of his birth, was an epoch-making year to mankind in more ways than one. Contemporaries of this great composer were Napoleon Goethe, Schiller and Dr. Johnson with a following on in poetry of Shelley, Keats, Wordsworth and Coleridge. It was a time of breaking away from old ways and Beethoven was an unconscious instrument working in the midst of a great cycle of world-forming forces. The work that Napoleon did is forgotten in the minds of men. "How many of you can remember any of the battles that Napoleon fought, except Waterloo, the one he lost?" asked the speaker, while the work of Beethoven in moulding and healing the stricken forces of a devastated world is remembered in the centenary which has been celebrated with vigor during the whole of this year. To Beethoven was given the task of creating music that would reflect the feelings and aspirations of the man of the day in which he lived—the forerunner of the great romantic epoch.

Giving in graphic, curt sentences a pen picture of the master composer, Mr. Bridle described him as a complex being, who was unable ever to understand his own nature. Ruled by impulses that led him at times to shout and roar in his own room, in an effort to express the music that filled his being, unromantic and unable to inspire love in the opposite sex, a nature-lover at all times, strong, rugged four-square, dominant and rather unprepossessing, tortured, one might say, by the force of the genius that struggled within him for expression, Beethoven lived a strange life. He was democratic in spirit, refusing to recognize superiors other than himself religious in his own way, building up for himself a mode of worship that departed from the forms of the Catholic belief, in which he was raised, and yet adhered to its main tenants, and in politics so much a believer in equality he tore up a composition dedicated to to Napoleon when he saw that the man he had believed a deliver of mankind was fast becoming its tyrant. He was, in a word an individualist. Pictures of the places where he dwelt in Vienna showed he did not lack for the squalid atmosphere of poverty and dirt that is sometimes considered necessary as Mr. Bridle remarked, for the proper development of genius of any sort.

The "Hymn of Joy," written by Schiller, with musical notation by Beethoven, was played by Mr. Bridle, also excerpts from the Adagio movement of the Sonata Appassionata, from the Sonata Pathetique and the Moonlight Sonata.

Alluding to the deafness which tortured and harassed Beethoven during so many years of his later life, Mr. Bridle spoke of its peculiar compensation in the fact that he was enabled to do some of his best work after this affliction shut him off from the sound of his beloved music, and to the conflict aroused against the Creator by this trial, a conflict which never left the bosom of the man during his lifetime. His struggle against the immutable forces of destiny was manifested in the last hours of his life, when he shook his fist at the raging elements without, in great contrast to the peaceful death of his milder contemporary, Schubert.

Of Schubert, Mr. Bridle spoke briefly, referring to his great prolific quality as a composer. Six hundred songs flowed from his pen during his lifetime, for many of which he received the small sum of twenty-two cents, selling their rights for many years to a publisher for this contemptible amount.

Schubert and Beethoven, although both residents for many years of Vienna, seldom met. Schubert recognized well the genius of his great contemporary, but was of a shy, reserved disposition, spending much of his time in the coffee houses with his chums. Like Beethoven, he never married. He was an indefatigable searcher after good words and ransacked literature for expressive words for the songs to which he set music.

"Even in that day," remarked Mr. Bridle, "the words for many beautiful songs were very poor. Like our modern songs, the words of some of which are rotten. Leave the words out, and you could stand the music in many instances."

Schubert was so filled with music that he composed incessantly and at all moments. He even went to bed wearing his spectacles, so that he might be saved the trouble of donninb them in the morning, before starting to compose.

With Miss Mary Agnes Logan at the piano, illustrating some of the beautiful backgrounds of music that Schubert provided for his songs, Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park sang two of the numbers to which he has set accompaniments, the "Ave Maria" and the "Weigenleid," or "Slumber Song." Seldom has Mrs. Park's fine voice been heard to better advantage than in these two numbers, with the melodious Latin of the beautiful prayer to the Blessed Virgin and the soothing cadences of the old German lullaby, was wonderfully interpreted in the pianissimo effect given both songs by the singer. An extremely artistic rendition combined with the pure, clear quality of the soprano voice to make these real gems of song. The violin obbligato for the "Ave Maria" was played excellently by Arnold Spencer, using muted strings.

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. Bridle thanked his audience characteristically for their close attention. "I have seldom had an audience that made less noise," he said, probably appreciating a quality in local audiences that is very apparent at most public meetings, an attribute of careful and considering attention to the speaker's remarks or music. It has been said by visiting artists and performers that Peterborough audiences are cold and chary of applause, but it can never be said that they are inattentive.

The president of the Music Club, Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, expressed the appreciation of the members to Mr. Bridle for his entertaining address, also expressing thanks to Mr. R. Haddow of the Heintzman Company, who loaned the piano; to Miss Logan and Mr. Spencer, and to Mr. V. Henry, who operated the slides in his usual proficient manner.

Four Months in Hospital Didn't Help Rheumatism

T-R-C's did, giving immediate relief

What a cruel disease Rheumatism is! Albert Richardson, 3457 St. Urbain Street, Montreal, was in despair with it. He suffered terribly, spending four months in hospital without relief from the nagging torment.

Then along came a friend suggesting Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules. Mr. Richardson refused. He had no faith in anything. But the friend persisted, practically forcing T-R-C's on Mr. Richardson, who later wrote us:

"I had been suffering terribly from rheumatism for 18 months. After leaving hospital, where I had been 4 months, I was obliged to use a stick.

"One day a friend of mine, seeing me suffering, induced me to take three doses (6 capsules, which he gave me) of Templeton's Rheumatic remedy. They worked like magic. I was so pleased that I used two large-sized boxes and am now completely well.

"I strongly recommend T-R-C's."

Here is good common sense advice for you, if your body is tortured by Rheumatism. Ahead are cold, damp, stormy days, weather that aggravates Rheumatism. Be wise. Lay in a supply of T-R-C's. Get rid of that Rheumatism NOW. Enjoy life. T-R-C's help your body threw off those poisons which cause Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Neuritis, Lumbago, etc. You can take T-R-C's without fear. three little girls taking part, was much enjoyed by the audience, and the little things were tiny exponents of the excellent tuition given by Miss C. Littlefield, physical directress of the Y.W.C.A., to whose careful training and constant attention is due the expertness and lack of fear with which even these little bits of humanity face the water and go through races and diving stunts. This cup was won by small five-year-old Marjorie Boyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boyle, with her sister, Dorothy, and small five-year-old Evelyn Hill, as close competitors.

Other trials of skill and speed were in the Junior Race, a contest of twenty-five yards for girls under twelve years of age, won by Mary Kingsbury; the School Girls' Race, for contestants over twelve years of age, won by Viola Harvey; the Babies' Race, won by Marjorie Boyle, with Evelyn Hill, second, and Swimming under water, won by Mary Brooks. Swimming under water to collect plates was a difficult feat won by Sadie Levine, and Ina Terrace won the contest with hands and feet tied.

A good deal of amusement was given the audience by various humorous races, such as the egg and spoon event for seniors, won by Jean Harvey; the tub chariot race, won by Margaret Rogers and Ruth Sutton, carrying in a tub little Frederick Fowler, a small boy whose antics in the pool added to the joy of the evening; the umbrella race, won by Gladys Johnson, in which the words of the mother's famous admonition to her swimming daughter were remembered in the admonition "Dont' get your umbrellas wet"; the candle race, won by Margaret Rogers; the umbrella race for seniors, won by Ruth Sutton, and the blindfold race, won by Viola Harvey. A relay race was another exciting event.

An instance of the skill of Miss Littlefield in teaching her girls was instanced last night in the excellent work in the pool done by a deaf and dumb pupil who has been taught swimming by the sign language

In the absence of Mayor Holloway, the chair was taken last night by Rev. J. D. Paterson. The presentation of prizes was made by Miss E. Morrow. Judges were Rev. J. D. Paterson and Dr. J. J. Craig, assisted by Dr. N. H. Sutton, C. H. Rogers and I. McNabb The Kiwanis Club takes a direct interest in the swimming classes of the city.

Marchers Well Fed In Aristocratic Town

MAIDENHEAD, Eng., Nov. 18. (Canadian Press.) — Much to their surprise, A. J. Cook's little "Cozey's Army" which is marching on London to tell Parliament of the troubles of unemployment in the Welsh mining district, were given the best supper, beds and breakfast that they have encountered since their trek started, in this aristocratic town on the Thames. Each marcher was also given a gorgeous red lapel ribbon

The men's breakfast consisted of sausages, mashed potatoes, bread and butter, and tea, with loads of sugar, which was a great treat. Sympathizers from the working districts here accompanied the marchers for a few miles when they took the road to-day for Slough. The little army probably will get to London by the end of the week.

TO BUY NEW CAR FOR DETECTIVES

Mayor and Chief of Police Committee To Purchase Light Automobile.

COAL CONTRACT LET.

Mayor Holloway and Chief Constable Samuel Newhall were appointed a committee at the meeting of the Police Commission this morning to consider the purchase of a light car for the Police Department. Chief Newhall reported that the old car had gone nearly 40,000 miles, and in the near future the purchase of a new car would have to be considered. He suggested that as the work of the Department requires two cars, the old car might be overhauled and a light car purchased for the detectives in their work and for other light police work in the city.

The contract for twenty-six tons of egg coal and four tons of nut coal for the heating of the Police Station was given to Sanitary Ice Company.

The Chief was authorized to purchase the necessary winter clothing for the members of the police force. The Peterborough Automobile Club wrote the Commission suggesting centre suspension lights at six of the main street intersections of the city. The letter was received as the matter at present is being dealt with by the City Council.

The correspondence received from the Board of Health regarding the unsanitary condition of the Police Station will be forwarded to the City Trust, with the recommendation that such steps as are necessary be taken.

The question of insurance for the police force was left with the Mayor and the Chief of Police. The plan proposed is a $2,000 twenty year endowment policy, with the premium on $1,000 paid by the city and the premium on the other $1,000 paid by the policemen themselves. This [illegible] endorsed the plan, but it was turned down in the City Council. The matter will be brought up again at the December meeting of the City Council. The total expenditure of the Police Commission up to the end of October was $19,616.31.

Intense Pains in the Back

This remedy gave great relief

Recommends it to hundreds of people

Wm. Hollis, Birmingham, England, learned of Gin Pills in Montreal, ten years ago. He suffered intense pains in the back, caused by deranged kidneys. Gin Pills were recommended to him. He writes:

"I had great relief from kidney trouble after using Gin Pills. I have recommended them to hundreds of people in England and Scotland. I have given many Gin Pills to people troubled with their backs, and everyone has given them the best of recommendations.

"A friend of mine, Wm. Osbund, of Birmingham, suffered a long time with rheumatism and swollen feet. I gave him twelve Gin Pills and for the last year he has felt no pain.

"Thanking you and Gin Pills for the relief given me and scores of others that I recommended them to."

If you have pains in the back, swollen feet or hands, brick dust deposits, constant headaches, failing appetite, suppressed or too frequent urination or feel dizzy, look to your kidneys. Deranged kidneys lead to sciatica, rheumatism, lumbago and other painful maladies. Get a box of Gin Pills at once. 50c at all druggists. Big Turnover Registered Bidgood Climbs Twenty

TORONTO, November 19. Canadian Press. — Sales topped the two million share mark in the hectic session of the Standard mining exchange this morning, when the higher priced issues continued to firm and occasional soft spots broke out in the list. One of the session's strong spots was Bidgood which climbed 20 at 1.79 on the heaviest turnover of any stock on the board. Amulet, Barry Hollinger, Crown Reserve, Potter Deal, Laval Quebec, Tough Oakes and Amity Copper, all had considerable gains. Kirkland Lake eased 7 at 275 and Teck Hughes was 5 lower at 11.95 while Area lost 13 at 45.

Demand For Wheat Leads To Higher Price

CHICAGO, November 19. — Unexpected higher prices at Liverpool led to an early upturn to-day in the wheat market here. The Liverpool advance was ascribed to speculative buying and to the scarcity of sellers. Opening 1-8c to ½c higher, Chicago wheat reacted a little but then hardened again. Corn, oats and provisions were also firmer. Corn started unchanged to ½c up and later held near to initial figures.

Heavy Dealings Recorded In Many Liquor Stocks

TORONTO, Nov. 19. — (Canadian Press.)— Heavy dealings in distillery and liquor stocks and activity in Brazilian, Massey Harris and Canners Preferred in regular list, were high lights of the week's closing session of the Toronto stock exchhange. Brazilian climbed 1¾ at 210¾, Canners Preferred two at 113 and Massey Harris 2¾ at 38. Carlings led liquors both in strength and activity with 1¾ point gain at 31¾. Canadian Malting and Canadian Brewing were fractionally higher and Hiram Walkers steady. The Oils were unsteady, British American being unchanged at 35½, McColl a half lower at 54 and Imperial a half higher at 61. Int. Petroleum lost fractionally.

Many Issues Mount To New High Levels

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Speculators for advance retained control of price movement in to-day's stock market, which was unusually broad for a half holiday session. More than a score of issues mounted to record high levels, on gains running as high as seven and a half points. General Motors and United States' Steel Common received better support than they had earlier in the week. List of new highs included such diversified issues as Sears Roebuck, Reynolds Tobacco, B, Brooklyn Edison, National Biscuit, International Paper, Shubert Theatres, Congoleum and Inter-Continental Rubber. A jump of more than five points in Rutland Preferred and new highs by Norfolk and Western and New Haven Preferred featured the rail group. The closing was strong.

DAIRYMEN HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Members of Ontario Association Will Visit De Laval Plant.

COME FROM TORONTO.

The delegates to the Dairymen's Association which is meeting in convention in Toronto next week will be the guests of the De Laval plant of this city on Tuesday, November 22. Over 250 delegates are expected to come to this city on a special train, arriving here about 11.00 o'clock in the morning. The De Laval Company will take the men to the Empress Hotel for luncheon after which they will be taken through the local plant and then taken for a drive around the city. A dinner will be held in the Empress Hotel at night, after which the delegates will return to Toronto.

Merchants and those having flags are asked to make Peterborough as bright as possible for the visitors who come from all parts of Ontario.

MANION DENIES QUARREL RUMOR

Refuses To Confirm or Refute Talk of Resignation.

TORONTO, November 19 (Canadian Press).—Over long distance telephone from Fort William to-day the Hon. R. J. Manion declined to deny or confirm reports that he would resign from the Ontario Liquor Control Board. He merely reiterated the statement that he had not quarreled with D. B. Hanna, the chairman.

Yacht Breaks Bridge; Grain Boats Held Up

Montreal, November 19.—Canadian Press. — Some 25 grain boats from Port Colborne remain tied up at the entrance to the Lachine canal through wrecking of Blacks bridge in the centre of the city, struck by the New York pleasure yacht Vidor, yesterday. The officials expected to get the bridge working again and out of the way of freighters late to-day.

GILES MAKES FALSE START

Turns Back On Encountering Bad Weather Over Pacific.

MADE GOOD TAKE-OFF.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—(Canadian Press)—Capt. Frederick Giles, British aviator, returned to-day after starting off on a projected 9,600 mile flight to New Zealand via Honolulu. He found conditions too bad. This is 2,400 miles away. He had no navigator, life raft or radio, flying alone.

The plane Wanda got off to a bumpy start at 8.17 a.m. Pacific time, for the long journey. In spite of the heavy load of fuel which it carried the take-off and fight for altitude were made without trouble. The machine was a Hess biplane built in Michigan.

The lone flyer took off on the long journey, which has taken the lives of six aviators and a woman, in spite of warnings of the weather bureau that the weather conditions were bad. About all he had for safety was the plane itself, a life belt, and signal flares. He had food and water to last three weeks. He was born in Norfolk, England and is thirty years of age.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE CANADIAN-BUILT CHRYSLER FOR CANADIANS

Commission Suspends Sharkey and Dundee

BOSTON HEAVYWEIGHT WILL BE REINSTATED UPON ACCEPTANCE OF NEW DATE FOR HEENEY BOUT

Surgeons Find Sharkey Suffering From Severe Finger Injury.

SUSPENSION AUTOMATIC.

Dundee Violated New York Rules in Fiasco at Los Angeles.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Two prominent pugilists, Joe Dundee of Baltimore world's welterweight champion, and Jack Sharkey, the Boston heavyweight, were put under suspension yesterday by the New York state Athletic Commission, but the sting was extracted from Sharkey's ban by approval of his excuse of an injured finger for not fighting Tom Heeney at Madison Square Garden last night.

Dundee is suspended for his part in the recent fiasco at Los Angeles, where the welter king refused to go into the ring for a match with Ace Hudkins at the last minute because his entire purse was not forthcoming. Although the New York Commission does not have a working agreement with the California boxing authorities, it took the position that the participation of Dundee and his manager in a dual contract arrangement violated the New York rules and thereby subjected them to suspension here.

Although Sharkey had been declared in condition to meet Heeney by Boston examiners, two physicians of the New York Commision found the Boston heavyweight suffering from a finger injury which they considered sufficient to keep him out of the ring for the present. The commission, accepting this verdict announced that its suspension of Sharkey was automatic under the rules governing fight cancellations, but explained that he will be reinstated upon accepting a new date for a bout with Heeney.

Walt. Johnson Wanted Berth With Senators

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Walter Johnson, who leaves the Nationals after 20 years of continuous service, is said to be disappointed at the final turn of events in his case.

Johnson has often expressed the desire to end his career with the club he started, Washington. It is also a well known fact that he rather cherished a desire to try his hand at managing the local club before bidding adieu to the majors.

Had Clark Griffith been in need of a manager he would have named Johnson, but with Stanley Harris, present leader, having another year to his contract, there was no place for Johnson in the managerial scheme.

Walter's future as a manager is decidedly uncertain. There are many players who fear he will be too easy with his men to get the best results.

HAS A "BABY FACE" BUT HE CAN FIGHT

BY JIMMY POWERS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Well, if we haven't got "Baby Face" back in our midst again. And it looks like the chubby cheeked little rascal is going to stay quite a spell. He has signed for three big appearances this coming winter.

The story is about Mr. James McLarnin, who is nicknamed "Baby Face" and who, among other things, is a lightweight box fighter and quite a good one too, if a sensational and totally unexpected knockout over Mr. Kaplan-the-Keed means anything.

Fight fans' tongues are buzzing as they speculate and mull over his chances with Sid Terris, Billy Wallace and Sammy Mandel, the lineup made for him this coming indoor season. His first appearance is scheduled for Detroit on Nov. 23, against Billy Wallace.

We've discovered he's a "foreign menace." Everyone figured McLarnin a Californian. He is nothing of the sort, he'll remind you earnestly. He is an Irishman and he was born in the "ould country" and came across the seas when he was a "wee bit of a spalpeen." He was born Dec. 17, 1905.

"He's one sweet kid," says Benny Leonard, the undefeated lightweight champion of the world. "He has put plenty of kick into my favorite fighting division.

"I remember boxing with him in an exhibition out on the coast. He was clever and fast then but was growing too quickly and I understand that sapped his vitality. That explains why he quit the bantam ranks and is now blossoming out as a full-fledged lightweight. He may go on and be a heavy yet—and a good one, too. He is a bit slow of foot but packs a mean punch in either hand and is SMART."

McLarnin, who stands five feet six inches, started his career four years ago. He had the usual amateur introduction and went well, shining as a "powder-puff" type.

"Baby Face" was the monicker pinned on the kid at that time. He is unusually young looking and seems to be the same Celtic type as Tunney that matures slowly.

The high spot of his opening professional year is a decision over Fidel LaBarba, and a draw with the same gentleman. He also beat Frankie Sands, Joe Dillon, Abe Gordon, Young Nationalista and Cammy Lee.

The next season he knocked out Jackie Fields in two rounds, beat Fidel LaBarba again in ten, Young Farrell, Teddy Silva and Pancho Villa and Bud Taylor—not a bad year at that.

Then he began to grow. His ring labors became to strenuous. Taylor beat him twice, Johnny Farr and Doc Snell coped the duke over his tossed pompadour and he faded out of the picture.

He's back now. Strong as a young bull. The way he flattened Mr. Knaplan-the-Keed was a picture.

Messrs. Terris, Wallace and Mandell are ahead of him. They have not been setting the world afire of late. Maybe Benny Leonard's hunch is right. Maybe he will be the next champion. Maybe.

CANADIENS-MAROON TILT AT MONTREAL

Inter-City Battle at Canadian Metropolis Staged For To-night.

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—Pro hockey in Montreal will strike with full force here Saturday night when the first of the six classics of the local National Hockey League campaign—the meetings between Canadiens and Montreal Maroons—will be staged before a crowd that bids fair to jam the rink to its capacity.

This year there is an additional fillip to the now annual struggle, through the donation of a trophy for the Canadien-Maroon series of games—the George Kennedy trophy—donated in memory of the late Geoorge Kennedy, former owner of the Canadiens, who died in 1921 as the result of influenza contracted in Seattle when he took the Canadiens to the Pacific Coast seaport in quest of the Stanley Cup in 1919.

With Maroons apparently stronger than last season and Canadiens rated much more effective, speculation is rife as to the possible outcome of the struggle between the two local pro teams this winter. Last year Canadiens held a distinct edge. Saturday night, however, the Canadiens will be handicapped by the injury to Howie Morenz, centre. Yesterday Morenz, his back still paining as a result of his crash in the game with the Americans on Tuesday, went out for a skating practice. It is doubtful if he will be started by Manager Cecil Hart against Montreal.

Maroons may be handicapped by an injury to Babe Siebert, whose left side was severely bruised in the game with Chicago Thursday night. Siebert did not work out yesterday with the Maroon squad, and was ordered to have an X-ray taken.

The game will introduce two new officials to the N.H.L. roster this year, Mickey Ion, leading official in the old Pacific Coast and Western Canada loops, and Louis Berlinquette, Berlinquette is a former pro. player, having been at various times with Canadiens, Montreal Maroons, Pittsburgh, Saskatoon, and last year managed Quebec in the Canadian-American League.

Gehrig Buying Home With Season's Profits

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. — Lou Gehrig, born and reared on Manhattan Island, is soon to move away from the big city, where he gained nation-wide fame as a ballplayer. But he isn't going very far away, and he will continue to cover first base and hit 'em a mile for the Yankees.

Gehrig has had a big year financially, with the winner's share of the world series pool and handsome barnstorming dividends coming to him after the regular season. He has invested in a nine-room house and some land in New Rochelle, and will soon move his parents to that city.

"It'll seem strange to live anywhere except New York," said Lou, "but I will continue to work here for some time, I hope."

Football Games

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. — Major games in various section today with bearing on championship situations:

East—Yale, undefeated in east, meets Harvard in an effort to keep title claims intact.

Middle West.—Illinois, undefeated in "Big Ten," favored to defeat Ohio State and clinch conference championship; Minnesota, also undefeated but tied, encounters Michigan.

Missouri Valley.—Missouri, with clean slate of four conference victories, favored to defeat traditional foe, Kansas.

South.—Unbeaten Georgia team expected to keep slate clean against Mercer; North Carolina State also meets non-conference foe, Duke, while Vanderbilt plays Maryland.

Rocky Mountain—Colorado Aggies, meeting Colorado University, and Colorado College, opposing Colorado teachers, expected to keep pace for pace in conference title hunt.

Pacific Coast—All three conference contenders in major games, Stanford playing California in main classic, while Southern California faces Washing State and Idaho tackles Oregon Aggies.

Western Conference

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—Two of the most desperate gridiron combats in western conference history are promised for the closing chapter of the 1927 Big Ten season today, with three of the four teams involved fighting for a portion of the glory of the conference football championship.

Minnesota and Michigan wind up, temporarily, the historic annual meeting, before an indicated throng of 86,000 in Michigan's new stadium at Ann Arbor.

For four years out of the last five Michigan has held or shared the conference championship and they can throw the title into a three-way tie again, by downing Minnesota—if Illinois finally skids into defeat at the same time at Columbus.

Snow last night covered all the battle fields today, but protective coverings promised good turf.

TEAMS ARRANGE FOR QUARTERS

Orleans Trying To Get Some of Majors To Locate There.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. — Major league ball clubs are already scratching around on maps of the southland in preparation for the spring training camp season. As usual, the big caravan will trek into Florida, but Texas and Louisiana have some bids in and California is expected to draw its usual quota of teams.

Julius Heinemann of the New Orleans club is trying to get some major league team to go to the Crescent city to train in the spring. The Boston Americans have been there in recent years but the Boston club owner and manager think their young hopefuls will thrive better in Florida. New Orleans has been so far away from the scenes of pre-season toil in the last three or four years that a team training there thinks itself isolated.

If it is impossible for a major league team to go to New Orleans, one of the class AA teams probably will train there. Some major team will drift into the city for exhibition games before starting north. It is a good intermediate point for St. Louis, Cleveland or Chicago. Cincinnati find it handy also.

There has been some talk that the Chicago Americans might desert Shreveport. Last spring their stay at Shreveport was a sad affair after the Mostil incident.

Detroit will return to San Antonio. There is no better training quarter, and the mileage, after all, is not so great for a team that is located in the west. In 1926 the St. Louis Cardinals trained at San Antonio and won a pennant. The Detroit team left San Antonio in good condition last spring but had the misfortune to run into contrary weather in St. Louis as the season opened.

The Phillies go to Winterhaven, Fla, next spring and that will leave a vacancy at Braden town, which may be taken up by the Boston Red Sox. There will also be a vacancy at Tarpon Springs because the St. Louis Browns will go to West Palm Beach to train.

The St. Louis Cardinals will train at Avon Park and the Philadelphia Athletics will again visit Fort Myers. As the Cleveland team is interested in the field at Lakeland, it is expected the new owners will send the club back to that city for training. Washington is tied to Tampa and the New York Yankees and the Boston Nationals will go back to St. Petersburg.

There is said to be some doubt about the New York Giants going back to Sarasota. That yarn starts every winter and then the Giants go to Sarasota. The Giants once received a most favorable proposition to train at St. Petersburg. This was turned down and the Yankees made a profit out of the Giants' loss.

Inside Sportin Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, the pros. has pried the lid off of the hockey season, and the bugs what think they ain't nothing like the old winter game is in their glory. Our delegates to Kansas City, Mister Dwyer, Mister McLeod and Mister Ranger, ain't got into action in their own league yet, but the lads has had some exhibition stuff, and meanwhile they has been washing themselves in the Gulf of Mexico, and they was rumours that Mister Dwyer caught a tarpaulin or whatever they call them big fish that get their pictures in the Sunday papers so often. The story don't say whether Mister Dwyer caught it in his baseball mit or not. If the fish is as big as they looks in the pictures the chances is he didn't. 2 of our graduates, Mister Bailey, with the Leafs, and Mister Bogardis, with the Stratford Can. Pros., was busy this week, and both the lads done well. And Mister Pack Adams' hired help just naturally knocked Pittsburg for a row.

Locally they ain't much to record. The seniors and the Saint John's jrs. has started to work out. It is kinda gruelling labor, this stuff of training for hockey before they ain't no ice, but the lads that stick at it faithful now will find it easier when old Mister Jack Frost hits his stride. They ain't nothing better a hockey player can trot out there for the first time on skates than a healthy body in 1st class shape. The rest comes easy after that start.

The city dads next week is going to feed the senior ball team and other teams what made a good showing during the season. The Council has the right slant. While no titles was brought here, the Petes come closer than the next second to copping the senior flag from the Hams, and they give Peterborough a lotta good publicity. Other local teams done well, and it is nice to have the representatives of the people recognize what the boys has did and let them know that their work has been appreciated by 1 and all. Just now all the veterans sez they is through for keeps, but next spring ain't a million miles away, and they can't get a whole lot older by then, so the chances is when the sun begins to shine both sides off of the fence we may be able to see most of the old guard still up there taking a cut at the ball.

Well, Mac, by the time this is read Mister Mike Rodden's Tigers will have settled their argument with Queen's. I ain't going to try to pick a winner of this bout, 1st because I been guessing them wrong all fall, and 2nd cause I'm kinda interested in both gangs. They is baseball friends on the 2 linesups. Queen's has Mister Harry Batstone and Mister Bubs Britton, and the Tigers Mister Bert Gibb and Mister Tommy Languay. All 4 of them helped 1 time or another to put the skids under the Petes, but they is all 4 good fellows, and nothing but the best of luck, sez I, tho they can't all be winners.

Right now, Mister Sporting Editor, I gotta go and try and pinch a umbrella somewheres, so I'll have to cut this now.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

SPORT BITS

The funeral of Theodore "Tiger" Flowers will be held at Atlanta Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Everybody prominent in boxing circles has sent floral offerings. The colored boxer left $100,000 to his wife and child, and he owned one of the finest residences in Atlanta.

The "Tiger" will stand as an example of the possibility of a religious man engaging in boxing or any other form of sport. It did not hurt his religious principles or practices nor did it handicap him in his fighting.

It may be news to most people not in close touch with boxing to know that a large percentage of boxers say a prayer—or many of them when in the ring. And there has yet to be found a spectator to scoff at it. Jem Driscoll, the famous British fighter, was wont to actually go down on his knees in the ring before his battles.

Chicago Black Hawks blew into Toronto late yesterday for their engagement with the Maple Leafs at the Arena to-night. There has been a complete change in the Chicago ranks since last season. Barney Stanley, one time famous western star and idol of Winnipeg, is Major McLaughlin's smiling little boy. "Barney" has rounded up a dangerous aggregation. Their draw game in Boston and the winning game they put up in Montreal marked them as a team of merit.

Not many hockey players are privilege to become the centre of international complications. But Charles "Chuck" Gardiner, the Winnipeg net minder who was secured by Chicago Black Hawks for $17,500, recently was the centre of international interest when United States immigration authorities halted him at the border. Gardiner, who is twenty-three years old, is a Winnipeg boy who played all his hockey in the prairie city. He was with the Winnipeg team last year. He weighs 147 pounds, is 5 feet 7½ inches in heighth, and is likely to replace old "Eagle Eye" Hughie Lehman, one of the old guard of hockey. Gardiner was for a time refused admission to the United States under the quota law, but finally was passed.

Win Championship

FREDERICTON, N.B., Nov. 19 (Canadian Press)—University of New Brunswick is inter-collegiate rugby champion of the Maritimes by the virtue of a most decisive victory over Nova Scotia Technical College here yesterday afternoon, the game ending 20 to 0. Six tries were scored, but Jack Babbitt converted but one of them, the greasy ball hindering his other efforts. The game started with a fine rain falling.

Matched January 6th

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (Canadian Press).—Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, recognized in New York and Pennsylvania as the world's light-heavyweight champion, was matched yesterday to defend his title against Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Washington, in a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden on January 6.

In making the match, Promoter Tex Rickard sidetracked plans for a bout between Loughran and Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, the champion of the National Boxing Association.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

New Chaney Role in "Mockery."

Playing a primitive, half-animal character requires more study and preparation than playing a character of intellect.

So says Lon Chaney, famous character star of the screen, who in his wide experience has played every type of mentality from the strange scientist in "The Monster" to the gnome-like "Hunchback of Notre Dame", and who recently has finished what he believes is his strangest character of all in "Mockery", his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle coming Monday to the Capitol Theatre.

In his new role he has a character in which loyalty and treachery, savagery, brutishness, and childishness are all mixed in a complex blend that depicts the average Russian peasant at the time of the revolution, a person ground down by ages of oppression into a mixture of traits that even a gifted novelist would require pages to describe.

Chaney expresses it all in a few flashes of action and a remarkable makeup.

The new character is "Sergei" a strange, almost animal peasant, thrust into the red whirlpool of the revolution, where he becomes in time a dangerous menace and later the savior of an aristocratic girl with whom his lot is cast. The character is something of Caliban, something of Quasimodo and a little of the monster of Frankenstein, all rolled into one.

Weeks of study were necessary before Chaney worked out the hundred little details by which in actions, he characterized all this before the camera. As a mental problem, the actor holds the character is one of the outstanding achievements of his career.

Benjamin Christensen, the famous Danish director of "The Devil's Circus", directed the new play, with a notable cast that includes Barbara Bedford as the heroine, Ricardo Cortez in the romantic lead, and Mack Swain, Emily Fitzroy, Charles Puffy, Kal Schmidt and others of note. It is an original story by Director Christensen, scenarized by Bradley King.

AT THE REGENT.

"DESTROY WOMEN" IS THE MOTTO OF SCREEN DON JUAN.

John Barrymore as "Don Juan!"

That is the treat promised for local picture-goers at the Regent Theatre next week, where this spectacular Warner Brothers production opens for a run of three days.

Barrymore plays a dual role. First he appears as Don Juan's father, Don Jose, a courtly, punctilious, subtle Spanish aristocrat, who, discovering his wife is unfaithful, dies with this warning to his boy, Juan: "Destroy women or they will destroy you."

Next Barrymore appears as Don Juan, grown to manhood amid the magnificence of the Rome of the Borgias. The role, as developed in the picture, bears points of resemblance to that memorable character of the Renaissance lover which Barrymore played on the stage in Sem Bellini's "The Jest"; a silken, sensuous, seductive lover, who, with a smile on his lips, poisons the minds of the women who yield to his irresistible fascinations. Thus he becomes the destroyer.

The romance has been screened against backgrounds of splendor that ravish the eye. Here is the pomp and pageantry of the Eternal City in its most gloriously beautiful period. And through it all is the tingling excitement of love as realized by the greatest lover of all ages.

WILL PROBATED.

Miss A. M. E. Le Visconte Leaves Property To Sister.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The will of Adeline M. E. Le Vesconte, who died on May 14th last and was a sister of Philip M. Le Vesconte of No. 323 Simcoe street, Peterborough, Ont., Canada, on file for probate here today with Surrogate John P. O'Brien, gives her entire estate, estimated at about $6,000 in personality, after all debts are paid, to her sister, Henrietta M. Le Vesconte of No. 640 Madison avenue here.

As yet not date has been set for the proving of the document, which was executed on May 27, 1926, witnessed by Ruby F. Carlson and F. De Lauder, whose addresses are not given, and fails to name an executor for the estate.

In addition to her brother and sister, Miss Le Vesconte, who lived here at No. 480 Park avenue, is survived by another brother and a sister, Robert C. Le Vesconte of Ardleigh, Clarkson, Ont., Canada, and Sarah W. Buller of No. 1846 Kingsway, Vancouver, B.C., Canada.

The exact value of the estate left by Miss Le Vesconte will not be known until under the direction of the court, the property left by her is appraised for inheritance taxation.

FARM PROBLEMS ARE DISCUSSED

Value of Electricity Stressed By F. G. Sandy at U.F.O. Meeting.

At the first meeting for this season of the Peterborough U.F.O. Club, in the Foresters' Hall F. G. Sandy, M.P.P. for North Victoria, was the speaker of the evening and delivered a fine address, speaking of the problems encountered by farmers.

"Other businesses are organizing," declared Mr. Sandy, "and they have found that in organization is strength." He went on to speak at length of the benefits accruing from Hydro to dwellers in the rural districts, saying that the use of electric power was an absolute necessity in promoting the success of the farming communities. Labor-saving devices were being demanded by those who were not content with a lower type of living.

A musical programme given at the conclusion of the address included comic songs by Messrs. Winslow and McCamus, and instrumental numbers by the Misses Ivy and Mae Petrie, all of which were well received. Mrs. Harold Lewis also received applause for her piano solo.

Dainty refreshments were served, bringing the evening to a close.

Pains in the Back are Thing of the Past

William Sullivan praises Dodd's Kidney Pills

"I had pains in my back and would often have to get up two or three times a night to urinate," writes Mr. W. Sullivan, a resident of Grey Rapids, N.B. "I got two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and after I had finished taking them I was all right. That was two years ago and I have not felt any sore back since."

People all over Canada have tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and found them excellent. They have been used by thousands of people suffering from various forms of kidney trouble, such as rheumatism, dropsy, sore back and weakness.

TRUE STORIES ABOUT LIFE INSURANCE
By a Mutual Life Representative

He Paid Only ONE Premium

I CANVASSED a Toronto manufacturer of well past middle age. He admitted that he was inadequately insured. He owned his home and a good business. His family was self-supporting all but one. He relied on his business to provide for the future.

"When your time comes to go—as come it will and must—will your family get out of the business what you have put into it during all these years?" I asked him. "You have put your very life into it. You have built it up. It is a good business—with you at the head of it—but what will happen to it when you are no longer there?"

He was impressed with this presentation. I sold him a $25,000 ordinary life policy and a $100 monthly income policy in favor of his wife.

On each of these policies he paid one premium. Eight months later he died of pneumonia. He had never been seriously sick before.

The business he had spent the best part of his life in building up is dwindling. It is still sound, but it is not paying dividends. Over and over again my experience as a Mutual Life Agent has proven to me that there is no guarantee of the permanence of business income. In life insurance there is a guarantee.

A man may work and plan to develop his business in peace of mind if he carries adequate life insurance.

In more than half a century The Mutual Life of Canada has proved a tower of strength to its policyholders. There is a Mutual agent near you. Call him and let him explain the Mutual principle of life insurance. He will counsel you as to the policy most suitable to your needs—ordinary life, limited payment life, Endowment, Monthly Income or whatever it may be. Or write to us for literature on any of these policies you prefer.

John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Fabien, a good and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood, but meeting Manon Lescaut, a beauteous orphan, being taken to a Convent by her only relative, a rascally brother who doesn't want to be bothered with her, Fabien falls in love with her. Manon's brother, seeing Ravoir, a rich connoisseur of women, smitten with her, realizes her worldly value, and barters her for gold to Ravoir. But Fabien, forgetting his plan to be a priest, steals Ravoir's coach and carries Manon to Paris. There, Manon innocently covets a diamond bracelet.

CHAPTER IV.—Continued.

"You wait here and watch these things—I will be back in a moment," Fabien advised as he put down their luggage on the street beside Manon and strode into the store.

Unfortunately it was one of the most exclusive and expensive shops in Paris. It was an ornate jewel in itself. But Fabien did not think or know anything at the moment except that Manon wanted something and that he was there to get it for her.

He entered with all the confidence of a man possessing unlimited funds. Being a gentleman by birth, it was quite natural for Fabien to ignore the smirk of the foppish and elegantly attired owner and demand that he bring the little diamond locket from the window.

Rubbing his hands in keen anticipation and bowing obsequiously the while, the dapper owner soon placed in Fabien's hands the priceless medallion which Manon in her childish desire had so coveted and which Fabien in his eager ardor to please her was now examining with more attention.

With assumed carelessness Fabien brought forth his nearly depleted purse and casually inquired the price.

"Ah, monsieur, the price? It is a mere trifle!" bowed the jeweler and only one thousand Louis D'Or."

With a gasp of dismay Fabien staggered back, pathetically clutching the slim purse. Gone in a moment was his beautiful dream of placing in Manon's hand the lovely bauble her heart so desired. In its place came a true vision, one of stern realities and the immediate necessity of replenishing his small hoard of gold coins.

Glancing over his shoulder, through the window he saw Manon with her beautiful young face pressed eagerly against the glass. Her trust in Fabien was implicit and her faith in his ability to please her was unbounded.

With strengthened courage Fabien turned back to the jeweler and said, "Have you something for about a Louis?"

Turning his back, with a withering glance of disdain, the jeweler spun about with a pompous dignity that to Fabien would have been ridiculous had it been less serious, and stalked off to the rear of the store. He signaled for his junior salesman to take care of the trifling wants of a customer whose flat purse was an insult to the traditions of the fashionable shop.

Fabien completely lost his grand manner and apologetically made known his wishes. Much to his chagrin he found that even the cheapest locket in the establishment was beyond the amount in his purse, and even the apprentice salesman looked upon him with scorn.

But Manon must be pleased.

Her eager childish face was still pressed against the window. Desperately Fabien searched his pockets for anything that might possibly be turned into money to add to his pitifully small amount.

Suddenly his downcast eyes lighted up as he noticed the ornate silver buckles on his well fitting shoes. Here at last was something that would keep the smile on Manon's pretty lips.

Fabien gave a short despairing glance at Manon and turning to the salesman said, "If monsieur will accept these buckles in exchange for the locket—"

With a glance of disgust the salesman turned away and sought the owner. In a moment they returned and after carefully examining the buckles grudgingly agreed to the trade.

With a light heart and smiling face Fabien received the precious package and eagerly returned to Manon, who, having already grown tired of waiting, had turned away from the window and was ardently watching each elegantly gowned woman who passed.

To Manon's childish mind the sharp contrast of the beautiful silks and rustling gowns to her own meagre outfit brought a pang of envy to her heart, but she smilingly turned to meet Fabien with outstretched hands. The beautiful medallion would soon make her forget her envy of these other women. Besides, would not Fabien buy her all the pretty things that the shops had to offer?

Anxiously Fabien watched as her dainty fingers quickly unwrapped the small package he had given her. Eagerly she undid the last cord and as eagerly raised the cover. The tiny cheap locket met her gaze—the locket for which Fabien had been forced to exchange his silver shoe buckles in order to meet the price.

A startled cry of disappointment escaped Manon as she said, "Fabien, this is not the locket—" then her lifted eyes caught the look of agony on his face. She dropped her head in shame. Her lowered glance took in Fabien's shoes—without the buckles. Then she understood. Her arms gripped him spasmodically, her eyes filled with tears and, with a holy smile lighting up her face she said, "Fabien, it is the most beautiful locket in the world."

CHAPTER V.

And so once more it was wonderful to be alive. The world again was smiling on these two lovers as hand in hand they continued on their way, with eyes only for each other, and satisfied with the message they conveyed.

A thunder clap and the sudden pelt of rain brought them to their senses, and realizing the immediate need for shelter, they hurried along.

The shabby little door of a pension across the way offered them shelter, and guiding Manon through the hurrying throng, Fabien was relieved to take what small protection it gave.

The door of the pension suddenly opened behind them as they stood there, and completely framed therein stood a fat landlady. She eyed them curiously for a moment, then smiled knowingly and said:

"Does the gentleman wish a room for himself and his pretty wife?"

With a startled glance Manon and Fabien looked at each other. For a moment they did not grasp the real purport of the words.

Without waiting for them to reply the landlady continued, "I've just the place you're looking for and very cheap, too."

Again Manon and Fabien gazed earnestly at each other. Then as the necessity for shelter was so alarmingly important Fabien decided that they had no choice in the matter and nodded his head affirmatively.

* * *

The interior of the pension was even shabbier than the outside. It was fortunate that an economic lighting system could conceal rather than display the untidy walls and faded carpets.

Marie, a starved, yet wise little soul, was the maid of all work. Her greatest pleasure was to peek into the lives of others and find out how they spent their time. To her house cleaning was as uninteresting as the life of an irreproachable boarder.

In short, Marie reveled in dirt—of all kinds—and that is one reason that this particular pension had more on the surface than is usual with such places.

When the landlady summoned Marie to show the new arrivals to the vacant room she left her dust broom and pan on the stairs and clattered down with excitement enough to make one believe she had been invited on an all day's excursion.

"New people—men? Where are they from? Wonder what they're like?" she thought as she came toward them in the dimly lighted hall.

Marie prided herself on the fact that nothing could surprise her, so it was quite a tribute to Manon when the slavey's mouth dropped open and her eyes stared in amazement.

"Glory be!" thought Marie. "She's an angel!"

CATS AND DOGS COLOR BLIND.

Cats live in a grey world. So do dogs, and raccoons, reports Popular Science Monthly. All are color blind, says Prof. F. M. Gregg, of Nebraska Wesleyan University, who tried to teach them to come for meals by colored signals. He succeeded; but he found that when grey signals of equal strength were substituted, the animals behaved in the same way.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — XII — by Nicholas Afonsky

"What is the use of a balloon, anyway?" somebody asked Benjamin Franklin at the time of the Montgolfier exhibitions in Paris. "What is the use of a baby?" countered Franklin, smiling. Americans showed interest in the development of ballooning, and in 1783 there was an ascension at Philadelphia.

M. Blanchard and a Benedictine monk, in 1784, took up a balloon fitted with wings and a rudder. An accident brought the balloon bumping to earth, and the monk, frightened, got out. But Blanchard went up again, and was almost overcome with cold at the great height to which he soared.

A little later Blanchard succeeded in making the greatest balloon trip up to that time when he crossed the English Channel with Dr. Jeffries, an American physician, in January, 1785. Halfway across they began to descend, and threw out sandbags, bottles, their compass, rope and boxes.

In spite of their efforts to lighten the balloon they continued to fall. Finally they began to throw overboard some of their clothing. Just then they caught sight of the distant French coast. Suddenly the balloon stopped falling, and a little later they floated safely over land and descended near Calais.

MAN IDENTIFIES CLOTHING FOUND NEAR ST. PAUL'S

Police at Stratford Step Nearer in Solving Mysterious Murder.

MAN FROM MARITIMES.

'George Glovers' Now Believed By Police To Be Impostor.

STRATFORD, Ont., Nov. 19.—Police came a step nearer the solving of the St. Paul's mystery yesterday when Wilfred Kelly, Downie Street, positively identified a portion of the cloth ing found on the dead man as worn by a stranger who, on or about September 20, accosted him on the street and requested some tobacco.

With the first real clue in their possession since the body of the man was found near St. Paul's on October 21, the officers working on the case are renewing their efforts to clear up the mystery that has attracted widespread attention.

Puzzled Over Motive.

With the partial identification of the man, police are puzzled over the motive that could possibly have led to foul play. That the man met a violent death is certain. Two bad fractures of the skull and the back of his mouth stuffed with paper, are taken as positive proofs.

It was only a day or so ago after it was reported that police were tracing a man who had disappeared from the city, that Mr. Kelly recalled the conversation that took place between him and the stranger.

He was walking along Wellington Street on the day in question, when he was approached by the stranger, who appeared to be about 50 or 55 years of age. He was short, well built and wore khaki trousers and shirt and military shoes, and carried a kit bag. Obviously he was an ex-service man.

He told a story of having come all the way from New Brunswick after working in a number of lumber camps.

The man asked the way to London, and Mr. Kelly directed him along the way. On the same day a strange man answering the same description was seen around St. Paul's. He went into the store there and purchased a few biscuits and a bottle of pop, and then departed.

The next day he was seen in the neighborhood again, and during a rainstorm found shelter in an old barn. That was the last seen of him. He disappeared, leaving no trace.

Identifies Shoes.

Yesterday Mr. Kelly, in company with county and provincial officers, went to the private morgue of Greenwood's funeral service and after looking at the clothes taken from the dead man found near St. Paul's, positively identified the shoes and khaki shirt as those worn by the stranger.

This is the net result of the investigations so far. Other than the fact that police have definitely ascertained that blood was seen on the road near the spot where the body of the man was found.

It was stated that a farm hand living near St. Paul's saw a car stop one night as he was coming along the road. When he came closer the car suddenly moved off and when the young man came to the spot he noticed a pool of what seemed to be water or blood.

This has been analyzed and it is now positive that what he saw was a pool of human blood. If the body was there before being taken to its final hiding place, this fact would tend to account for the absence of blood around the place where the body was found.

"Glovers" An Impostor.

The discovery that the man who represented himself to a south-end storekeeper as George Glovers, brother of a Mitchell man, was not George Glovers but an impostor, who on the same day claimed he was Jim Kent, uncle of a local man, shot to pieces another theory in the St. Paul's case but brought police closer to a solution of the mystery than they have yet been.

In the lights of facts which turned up Thursday night, police have discarded all clues except one, which they are now working on and which it is expected will ultimately result in the clearing up of the identity of the man.

On October 4, a man entered the Kruspe grocery store on Downie Street and in a subsequent conversation with the proprietress, learned of the whereabouts of Charles Glovers. To the amazement of Mrs. Kruspe he revealed himself as George Glovers, the long-missing brother of Charles, and then left stating he was going directly to Mitchell, to be re-united with the brother, whom he had been long seeking.

He left the store and a few minutes later called Mrs. Glovers, in Mitchell, from the New American Hotel, stating that he was on his way there. That was the last the Glovers heard of him.

These facts led to the belief that Glovers might be the man whose body with skull fractured and mouth stuffed with paper, was found near the railway tracks, three-quarters of a mile from St. Paul's on October 21. Only one important fact did not tally, the blood seen near the place where the body was found, was seen ten days before the man appeared in Stratford.

Posed As "Uncle."

Now, however, comes the strange story that clears up the Glovers case and at the same time created another mystery which has no connection with the St. Paul's case whatever. After leaving the New American Hotel, it is now believed that the same man, who posed as Glovers, went to the apartment of W. Kent, Waterloo Street, and there claimed he was a brother of a rich uncle in Australia, seeking relatives to share in a fortune of more than a million dollars.

The man stayed there three days during which time he established his identity so far as the Kents were concerned by telling them of their family connections. Mr. Kent had never seen his uncle before and had no reason to doubt his word.

He was described as an elderly man probably in the early sixties about 5 feet 6 inches tall, wore a rough tweed suit, light top coat, slightly frayed around the bottom; very old felt hat, new army shoes, khaki shirt, purple tie and light grey socks, his hair was turning grey and he had a moustache, on right hand he had a ring, a heart and a cross tattooed. The description tallies with that given the police by Mrs. Kruspe.

Three days after coming to the Kent apartment the man disappeared for no apparent reason and has not been heard of since. Thinking that he might be the man whose body was found at St. Paul's, Mr. Kent attempted to identify the clothes but he states positively that the clothes were not the same. Police stated yesterday that they were satisfied that "Glovers" and "Kent" were one and the same man and that he could not have been in Stratford on Oct. 4 if he had had any connection with the St. Paul's case.

MOULAY YOUSSEF DIES IN MOROCCO

Sultan Succumbs To Long Illness—Son Succeeds To Throne.

RABAT, Morocco, Nov. 18.—(A.P.)—Moulay Youssef, whose reign as Sultan of Morocco, is looked upon as covering a period of most brilliant growth and progress in all forms of civilization and economic development died Wednesday, after years of suffering, without seeing the end of the work of regeneration to which he had given unstinted support.

The heir-presumptive is his eldest son, Moulay Idris, who, if he is acceptable to the Sheriffian and French governments, will ascend to the honor of "the Sheriffian Umbrella," which is hereditary to the dynasty of Alides. Moulay Idris will be the eighteenth of his dynasty, which was founded by Moulay Ahmed ,and is the thirty-seventh in lineage from a son-in-law of the Great Prophet Mohammed.

The Sultan, Moulay Youssef, died at Fez at one of the four royal palaces which are in Morocco. He had frequently been reported in ill-health lately, but recently was said to have shown marked improvement, and was not thought to be in any danger.

The Sultan made his first visit to France in the summer of 1926, although he took over the power in Morocco in 1923 shortly after the French Protectorate was established by the convention signed in that year between Great Britain, France and Spain.

Moulay Youssef was born at Meknes, Morocco, in 1882. He was a son of Sultan Moulay Hassan, who reigned from 1873 to 1882. Following the abdication of his brother, Moulay Hafid, he was proclaimed Sultan on August 18, 1912. He is the seventeenth Sultan of his dynasty. The Sultan resided in the French zone, usually at Rabat, but had there other capitals, Fez, Marrakesh and Meknes. The formation of the protectorate in 1923 established Youssef in power.

EXPERT DEVOTES FULL TIME TO RADIO

Peter H. Smedmor Takes the Agency For Mohawk Set—Service a Specialty.

After seven years of experience in the installation and repairing of radio sets, Peter H. Smedmor, who was one of the first men in Peterborough to have a set, has decided to devote his full time to this work.

Mr. Smedmor was one of the earliest dealers in radio parts and sets in this city, starting in when it was almost necessary to buy the parts and make or have made your own set, and has had experience with every type on the market. The sets he has made or installed are numerous and are without exception giving satisfaction.

In determining which set he would sell, Mr. Smedmor was guided by his long experience in choosing what he considers to be the best machine on the market to-day, the Mohawk sets. For selectivity he favors the Mohawk, which will bring in programe in spite of most unfavorable weather conditions or interference from other sets or electrical apparatus.

His office at 318 Charlotte street is open at all hours. 1d-119-3555.

OBITUARY

SARAH M. ROSEBOROUGH.

Following a short illness, Sarah M. Roseborough died at 721 Elcome Crescent to-day. She was born in Norwood and has resided in Peterborough for the last 25 years. Mrs. Roseborough was a member of George Street United Church. Her husband predeceased her by 25 years.

Surviving relatives are a daughter Mabel at home, four sisters, Mrs. James McMillen, Norwood, Mrs. S. McFadden, Mannville, Alberta, Miss T. M. Ennis, Peterborough, and Miss J. E. Kelly, Oshawa; and two brothers, Richard Ennis, Norwood, and Nathan Ennis, Toronto.

Funeral service will be held at the family residence, 721 Elcome Crescent, on Monday, November 21, at 2 o'clock. Rev. J. E. Todd officiating. Burial will be made at the Lakefield Cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE SAUNDER.

Mrs. George Saunder, of Toronto, formerly Priscilla Bestard, of Peterborough, passed away on Tuesday, November 15, in her 74th year. She was a daughter of the late James and Mary Bestard, of Peterborough. Mourning her demise are her husband and family of five, two sons, George and Harold, of Toronto; three daughters, Mrs. John Williamson and Mrs. Harry Andrews, of Toronto, Mrs. Charles Renahack, Detroit, four sisters, Mrs. John May, of Walkerton, Mrs. Reed Size, and Mrs. J. W. Grice, both of St. Thomas, Mrs. S. Kemp, of this city, and one brother, James Bestard, of North Monaghan.

Rev. Mr. Marshall, of the Castle Field, Avenue Baptist Church, Toronto, conducted the services at the home of her son-in-law, Harry Andrews, 109 Helendale avenue, Toronto. Beautful banks of flowers testified to the regard with which she was held by her acquaintances gained during her 45 years of residence in Toronto.

WEDDING BELLS

DUTTON—JAMES.

The marriage took place at half past twelve o'clock to-day in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, which was beautifully decorated with flowers and palms for the occasion, of Doris, eldest daughter of Mrs. A. M. James, Sherbrooke street, and the late Charles H. James, to Thomas Marshall Dutton, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dutton, Stewart street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wm. Allan. Mr. M. B. Chenhall played the wedding music and Mr. William Harmer of Oshawa, sang "For You Alone," during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by an old friend of the family, Mr. Wm. Gatfield, wore a pretty frock of honeydew georgette, the tiered skirt being knife-pleated and the blouse portion plain, with rounded neckline and long sleeves, the bertha of the georgette which finished the top ending in long streamers over the sleeves. A draped sash was caught by a brilliant buckle.

The hat was a large shape of black satin with flat brilliant trimming at the side. Black satin slippers were worn and hose to match the frock, with a string of pearls and an arm bouquet of ophelia roses and maidenhair fern, tied with honeydew tulle.

The bridesmaid, a sister of the bride, Miss Daisy James, was in rose georgette made with a deep hem of ecru Spanish lace, the yoke of the same on the waist extending to the long sleeves of lace, finished with tiny cuffs of georgette. Hose to match and black satin slippers, with a little close-fitting hat of rose and gold and bouquet of columbia roses and maidenhair fern, completed the costume.

Mr. James Dutton acted as best man and ushers were Gordon Cuthbertson and Fraser Watson.

After the ceremony, a dainty wedding breakfast was served to about thirty-five guests, at the home of the bride's mother, where decorations were in white streamers and flowers and the bride's table was centred by the bride's cake. Mrs. James, mother of the bride, was in black satin and lace, with black hat, and Mrs. Dutton, mother of the bridegroom, wore a frock of grey chiffon trimmed with black and silver lace and orchid velvet, and a hat of silver lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Dutton left later by motor for Toronto, Niagara Falls and Windsor. On their return, they will reside at 255 Reid street.

The bride travelled in a dress of rose beige canton crepe with pleated skirt, trimmed with little gilt buttons and finished by a narrow belt of gilt leather. She wore a cloche hat of blue and silver, brown shoes and hose and a coat of Venetian blue Velviella, with black sable collar and cuffs.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a fox neckpiece, to the bridesmaid a silver vanity case, and to the best man, ushers and soloist monogrammed bill folds.

SALT MAKERS' TARIFF CLAIMS IS COMBATTED

Representatives of Fishermen Oppose Request For Higher Duty.

CONTAINERS DUTIABLE.

Salt Producers Say Boxes Taxed When Empty, But Not When Full.

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 (Canadian Press).—Considerable opposition was voiced today to the application made on behalf of the salt producers of Canada to the Tariff Advisory Board for an increased duty on salt for the use of sea or gulf fishermen, and also an upward revision of the tariff on table salt. Most of the hostility developed from Nova Scotia and took the form of a large number of letters, telegrams, and resolutions which were read by the Secretary of the Board, the great majority of which came from fish exporting companies in the Maritimes.

The case of the salt producers was presented by E. C. Long, K.C., whose brief was supported by the Canadian Salt Company, Windsor, Ont.; the Dominion Salt Company, Limited, Sarnia; the Exeter Salt Works Company, Limited, Exeter; the Goderich Salt Company, Limited, Goderich; the Kincardine Salt Company, Kincardine; the Western Canada Flour Mills Company, Limited, Goderich, and the Western Salt Company Limited, Courtright, Ont.

Mr. Long, in presenting his brief, contended that considerable expense was entailed in purifying salt and also that the containers used and transportation charges represented a larger proportion of the ultimate cost to the consumer than was the case with most other commodities. The containers, when imported empty were dutiable, but when filled with salt they were admitted free. He asked that they be subjected uniformly to tariff rates. The contention of the opponents to the request in general was that since there were many thousand of men engaged in fashing it was only equitable that they be given more consideration in this matter than the few hundreds engaged in salt production.

BUSINESS MEN ARE ADVISED TO CO-OPERATE

Mr. Dutton Thinks They Might Find It Profitable To Get Together.

TALKS TO ROTARY.

Co-operation in Accounting, Advertising and Purchasing Suggested.

The desirability of business men and manufacturers in the same line of business getting together to work out their problems and co-operating along lines of mutual interest was stressed by James Dutton in a most interesting address upon "United Efforts in Business," before the Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon to-day.

Mr. Dutton pointed out that in this time of chain stores and merger business was entering upon a new era. The independent trader, he felt, could, however, enjoy many of the advantages enjoyed by the chain store without suffering the disadvantages. Personality entered largely into business and it was an element that disappeared when the chain store succeeded the independent dealer.

The value of co-operation among such merchants and among manufacturers was emphasized by the speaker, who referred to the conferences held during the war when men in the same lines of business often came together to discuss their problems. There were several fields in which Mr. Dutton thought there was a chance for men to get together. He instanced among others co-operative accounting, co-operating in advertising, co-operating in purchasing and co-operation in investigation and research. Along these lines Mr. Dutton believed there was a splendid opportunity for business men to arm themselves against the competition they were called upon to meet under present day conditions.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Geo. A. Gillespie, who referred to him as the father of Rotarian Tom Dutton, one of the best Rotarians in the city and in acknowledging this introduction the speaker expressed his appreciation of the contribution made to the life of his son as a result of his association with the Rotary Club.

Past President John R. Marshall, of the Kiwanis Club was present to tender an invitation to Rotarians and their ladies to attend the charter anniversary of the Kiwanis Club on Friday evening, when Hector Charlesworth is to be the speaker.

Ray Harding was introduced by Rotarian Jack Seels, chairman of the Membership committee as a new member of Rotary, succeeding to the classification held by Robt. A. Browne.

Opposition Leaders Act As Pall-Bearers

MOSCOW, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Leon Trotzky, Gregory Zinovieff, Leo Komenoff, Christian Rakovsky and Karl Radek, outspoken foes of the present Soviet administration, acted as pallbearers yesterday at the funeral of Adolph Joffe, one of the great leaders of the Russian system, who committed suicide on Thursday night. They walked alongside of Georges Tchitcherin, Maxim Titvinoff, Lew Karackan, M. Lejavo and M. Gorbunoff, representing the Government.

The body of Joffe was interred in Novodevichf Cemetery — not placed in red square where Lenine and other notable men lie—after farewell speeches by M. Tchitcherin and most of the oppositionary leaders.

COOK'S ARMY REACHES GOAL

Contingents From Labor and Communist Organizations Join in Procession.

CONDEMN GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 21.— (A.P.)— The 200 mile hike of "Coxey's Army," begun 10 days ago in the Rhondda Valley, came to an end yesterday when A. J. Cook, secretary o fthe Miners' Federation, led his band of unemployed Welsh coal miners into Trafalgar Square to listen to a stinging address condemning the Baldwin government.

Mounting the base of Lord Nelson's statue, Cook told his "army" and a great crowd of spectators that included many policemen that the battle of Trafalgar is past—"we are fighting a battle for bread."

"It is not bolshevism," he went on, "but Baldwinism that we workers must contend with. We came to London to give Baldwin notice to quit. We maintain the right to live."

Despite a heavy rain which started during the address, the crowd remained intact, and as darkness came on the miners lighted the lanterns which they brought with them. Cook, with a lantern in his hand, continued speaking for an hour after dark.

Contingents from Labor and Communist organizations in London attended with bands and banners. Irish pipers led the march into Trafalgar Square.

Ended at Trafalgar Square.

The little army of hikers came into the centre of London from the west, and the mass meeting at the base of Nelson's column ended the trek. The miners had plodded in from Chiswick, with Cook heading the procession. Swinging past the national gallery facing the square, the marchers waved their red flags.

The carefully laid plans of the leaders to visit Runnimede Meadow where the barons nagged King John into signing the magna charta, went askew when the police authorities sent word in advance that it would be better not to do so.

Runnimede Meadow is part of the crown lands near Windsor Castle and the police are extremely particular about whom they admit to these parts. Leaders of the marching unemployed miners had planned an elaborate ceremony at Runnimede Meadow and had prepared to have the nine points setting forth their grievances against the government signed on parchment on the very spot where King John signed the articles of the barons.

AYRSHIRE OWNERS HEAR FINE SPEECHES

Alexander Hume, of Campbellford Presides at Banquet.

Alexander Hume of Campbellford president of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, which earlier in the present year held a Field Day at Pine Crest Farm, the home of J. Gordon Mann of Bridgenorth, presided at a dinner of the Association held in the Carls-Rite Hotel, Toronto, on Friday evening. The meeting was addressed by Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Federal Minister of Agriculture; by John Young, of Dumfries, Scotland, judge of the Ayrshire class at the Royal Winter Fair, by Dean Barton of MacDonald College, and other speakers noted for their knowledge of, and interest in, the Ayrshire cow Mr. Motherwell discussed the problem of bovine tuberculosis, so far as it relates to Canada and emphasized the fortunate position held by the Dominion in its comparative freedom from the dreaded disease, and its superiority over Europe in this respect.

Mr. Young, who brought greetings from breeders in the old country, declared Canada had attained a high standing not only in breeding superior cattle but in exhibiting them.

LOCAL EXHIBITS GRANTED PRIZES AT WINTER FAIR

Lakefield Creamery Placed in Second Prize Butter Group.

OMEMEE WHEAT WINS.

Vincent Jones' Eight Sheaves Awarded Eighth Prize in Their Class.

Lakefield Creamery Company, and Vincent Jones, of Omemee, are two competitors from this neighborhood who are included in the Royal Winter Fair prize list issued on Saturday. The Lakefield Company was placed in the second prize group, comprising the sixteen competitors in the butter class who were awarded 96 points or better, in a contest which attracted entries from all over the province. Mr. Jones received eighth prize for eight sheaves of wheat in the grain sheaves class, which was also a Dominion wide competition.

The butter classes were heavier than in former years and competition between Ontario and Manitoba was very keen. There were almost 100 entries in the 14-pound butter October class which was headed by Peel County Creamery, Brampton, with a total of 98.9. In the first prize group there were 26 Ontario creameries, 24 from Manitoba, 2 from Saskatchewan and one from Alberta. Ontario's improved position this year, as compared with preceding years is attributed by dairymen to the splendid spade work of George Barr, dairy director of the province.

Practically all the cheese entries came from Ontario.

Dairy Cattle.

The large number of prize winning dairy cattle which were brought into the arena before the ten thousand spectators late on Saturday night was a revelation to many of the high standard that has been attained in the breeding of these cattle, especially to the older provinces and conveyed a striking lesson as to the importance of the industry to the nation as a whole. Contrary to general expectation, the Ayrshire female grand championship came to Ontario in spite of the fact that the great strength of this breed lies in Quebec. H. A. Swart, of Simcoe, with Springburn Lady Beauty captured the grand championship, Quebec's favorite entry, Burnside Blossom Andrietta from Houwick, Que., winner of 39 consecutive championships, going down to defeat for the first time.

The ancient province, however, atoned for losses in Ayrshires by scoring a big victory in Holsteins in spite of Ontario's great preponderance in that breed. Mount Victoria Farms, Hudson Heighs, had senior and grand champion Holstein female on Oakland Colantha Abbekerk.

To Survey Soil.

Premier Ferguson has announced that next year the Provincial government will again entertain several hundred young farmers who succeed in gaining the prize at the local competitions. It is considered unlikely that the youths who qualified for the trip this year will be elegible for the competition in 1828. Mr. Ferguson announced that the government contemplates making a survey of soil conditions throughout the province in order that Ontario agriculturists might have the benefit of intensive scientific research.

"We are at the opening of a new era and the status of agriculture, its importance and its dignity will receive proper place," said the Prime Minister. "There is no more scientific industry in existence, and we are rapidly establishing new methods of production and specialization. It is realized as never before that what is needed is the education of the young farmer himself."

The operation of the systems of accredited herds has been highly satisfactory to Canada was a remark made by Hon. W. R. Motherwell during a visit to the Fair.

ONE INJURED IN CAR CRASH

George Barker, of Lindsay, Hits Post While Driving in Fog.

CARS COLLIDE.

George Barker of Lindsay met with rather a bad accident on the Cobourg-Port Hope Highway. Due to the fog, his car struck a post. He was badly cut by flying glass and it is not known yet whether he has internal injuries or not. His car is almost a total wreck.

Two cars collided at the corner of Stewart and Dublin Streets on Saturday night about 8 o'clock. One had the bumper stove in and the other had a rear fender bent, but were able to proceed on their way.

Pleasure Palace Being Built In Berlin; Seven Large Halls For 10,000 Guests

BERLIN, November 21. — While the German capital has no money to end housing misery, it will soon have the largest and most luxurious palace for festivities in the world. The building now under construction near the State Opera House in the fashionable Tiergarten, will contain no less than seven large halls offering room for more than 10,000 pleasure seekers.

The new building takes the place of the famous old Kroll property, which is partly used but is being entirely re-modelled. The principal hall is a wonder of beauty, consisting entirely of white, yellow and red marble, and has a seating capacity of 2,000. One of its features is the gorgeous marble stairway.

The ground floor contains two other sumptuous halls, while four smaller ones are on the second storey. All the halls will be equipped with loud speakers so music played in any part of the building can be heard in every room. Other attractions are an enormous bar, a barber shop and hairdressing establishment, and a special women's dressing room where women may change their costumes during balls. The building will be surrounded by flower-lined terraces offering room for thousands of additional guests.

The new pleasure palace will be opened on February 2, with a great ball of the Actors' Society.

CONSERVATIVES GAIN VICTORY ELECTION OF COUNTESS IVEAGH

Seventh Woman Member Elected at South End on Sea By-Election.

HEAVY MAJORITY.

Is Twenty-second Member of Her Family To Sit In Commons.

LONDON, November 21 (Associated Press). — Another woman enters the British Parliament with a thumping majority. Countess Iveagh, Conservative, was returned in the by-election at South-End-on-Sea on Saturday to fill the seat vacated by her husband, Lord Iveagh, on his elevation to the House of Lords. She polled 21,221 votes.

The Liberal candidate, Dougal Meston, received 11,912; Erskine Harpier, Labor, 4,477; and Ernest Hallwood, Independent, 917. The voting shows little change from the last general election.

The Prime Minister, Stanley Baldwin, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Winston Churchill, and the noted novelist, H. G. Wells, all took a hand in the South-End by-election.

Mr. Wells, in a letter, endorsed the Liberal candidate as opposed to Lady Iveagh, on the ground of the warlike policy of the Conservative Government.

Chancellor Churchill hit back at Wells, declaring: "It is wrong to make an untrue statement like this and indescribably mean to make an untrue statement for the paltry purpose of cadging votes."

Premier Baldwin wrote to Lady Iveagh warning the Conservatives of the danger of apathy in the voting in the election.

"It has been one of the great aims of our party," said the Premier in his letter, "to break down the barriers of class and sex."

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE.

SOUTH-END-ON-SEA, England, November 21 (Canadian Press). — Lady Iveagh, in a speech after her election to Parliament as the conservative candidate, declared:

"South-End has sent a decisive vote of confidence to Mr. Baldwin. The result also, I think, reveals the hollowness of the new agitation against the so-called flapper vote. I hope this ludicrous stunt will now go on the scrap heap, along with the other rejected rubbish of political controversy."

TAKE SEAT TO-DAY.

LONDON, November 21 (Canadian Press). — Lady Iveagh, the successful candidate in the recent South-End election to fill the seat in the Commons vacated by her husband when he was elevated to the House of Lords, is losing no time in getting into Parliamentary action. She takes her seat this morning, making the seventh woman member of Parliament.

Lady Iveagh is the twenty-second member of her family to sit in the Commons. Commenting on her election yesterday she declared that aside from politics, "the voters' verdict proves South-End people, at least, have confidence that a wife may represent them as faithfully as her husband."

Two Weeks Left For Christmas Mail

Parcels and other mail for delivery in European countries before Christmas should be mailed at as early a date as possible, preferably within the next two weeks, and at the very latest to connect with the S.S. Montclare from St. John, December 6.

Open First Service Since Recent Floods

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Direct through service between Montreal and Boston for the first time since the disastrous New England flood will be opened by the Boston and Maine Railroad today, railroad officials announced last night.

A train will leave the North Station, Boston, tonight at 7.30, opening the restored service. The through traffic to Montreal has been made possible by the restoration of the Rutland railroad which connects with the Boston and Maine at Bellowa Falls, Vt.

Direct service between Boston and Burlington, Vt., also will be resumed today for the first time since the flood.

13 NEW CASES IN EAST YORK

Brings Total Smallpox Sufferers in Township To 74.

6,000 VACCINATED.

TORONTO, November 21 (Canadian Press).—Thirteen new cases of small pox reported over the week-end brought the total of cases in East York Township to seventy-four today. No new cases were reported in the adjacent section of Toronto, where thirty cases are under treatment. Approximately six thousand residents of the township have been vaccinated. No deaths have so far been reported in connection with the outbreak.

LADY'S WRIST BROKEN IN FALL

Mrs. A. N. Robinson Hurt On Way Home From Church on Sunday.

ON REID STREET.

Coming from Knox Church yesterday morning, Mrs. A. N. Robinson, 508 Bolivar Street, fell on the slippery sidewalk on Reid Street and suffered a painful fracture of one wrist. It was necessary to carry her into a nearby house until medical aid arrived.

The broken wrist was set at the Clinic, and Mrs. Robinson is at home at present under the care of Dr. Eastwood.

Several other reports have been received from ladies who fell while returning home from the same church. They escaped with a few bruises.

THE ROTARY DANCE WILL BE SUCCESS

Excellent Arrangements For Opening of Westclox Building.

CONTROL ACT WOULD AID U. S. OFFICIALS

Enforcement in New Brunswick Will Be Great Assistance Along Border.

CONTROL LIQUOR TRADE.

Would Clean Up Bootleggers, Opinion of Col. Frank Hume.

PORTLAND, Maine, Nov. 21 (Canadian Press).—The enforcement of the new Provincial Liquor Control Act in New Brunswick will be of "great assistance" to United States customs officers on the Canadian border, in the opinion of Col. Frank M. Hume, collector of customs, in that it will mean the pursuit of Canadian bootleggers by Canadian officers.

Returning from an official trip into Maine Saturday night, the collector expressed the belief that control of the liquor trade by the provincial government in New Brunswick will relieve customs inspectors at the border of a great burden of liquor law enforcement.

The New Brunswick Supreme Court ruled Friday that the Canada Temperance Act, a wartime measure, was not in force in Carleton Country, which for 50 miles adjoins Aroostook County in Maine. As a result of that decision the Provincial Liquor Board now possesses a mandate to proceed with the establishment of Government liquor stores in almost half the province, where such stores had not been opened because of the contention that the Temperance Act was still in effect.

Broken-Up Trade

Already the provincial police in small numbers have broken up the liquor trade in stores just beyond the border of the State of Maine. "If these line stores are closed," Col. Hume declared, "it will be a boon to our customs officers on the border.

"It will become a case of the Canadian officer against the Canadian bootlegger. Up to the present time it has been possible to go to these places and buy an unlimited supply of liquor, even up to twenty cases if that amount were wanted.

"It will mean the end of unlimited and unlicensed buying of liquor from these former sources of supply and a lessening of the flood across the border. If this act is enforced, it will be of great assistance to us in the enforcement of our liquor law.

WIDOW SUES TWO COUNTIES

Wife of A. W. Crane Asks Damages For Fatal Accident To Husband.

CHARGES NEGLIGENCE.

The wife of A. W. Crane who died as a result of injuries received when his car crashed through a bridge at Canton recently, has issued a writ against the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland, claiming $10,500.

The coroner's jury requested in its verdict that a new bridge be built at the point where Mr. Crane met his death.

In the statement of claim the plaintiff's allege that Mr. Crane met his death through negligence or default of the defendant in failing to keep the bridge in repair. Seven thousand five hundred dollars is asked for the death of Mr. Crane; $500 for damages to the automobile and $2,500 for personal injuries to Margaret Crane, who was riding with the deceased at the time of the accident.

Game Warden Finds Deer Slain In Quebec

PEMBROKE, Ont., Nov. 19.—Acting on instructions from the Provincial Department of Game and Fisheries, Game Warden S. J. McClelland has probed the reported slaying of a deer by two women using an oar. He has notified the department that the story was unquestionably correct, but the killing took place in Quebec waters.

Mrs. Remi Fortier and Mrs. Jack Cecile themselves told of their feat when they returned to Pembroke from Deep River, on the Ottawa River, where the animal was slaughtered. Last night hey refused to comment further on the case.

Indignation regarding the deed is reported to be very high in this district.

AVIATORS TELL OF BATTLE WITH BLINDING SNOW STORM IN ATTEMPTED NON-STOP HOP

Alan Cobham Arrives At Port of Bordeaux

BORDEAUX, France, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Sir Alan Cobham, en route to Africa to survey a proposed trans-African air route, arrived here in his all-metal seaplane just as darkness fell yesterday evening.

Leaving Southampton yesterday morning on the second leg of the 20,000-mile journey, Sir Alan encountered very bad weather and Lady Cobham was somewhat seasick. The four other members of the crew and the pilot, however, were in a good shape.

Sir Alan has a crew of three engineers and a photographer, and Lady Cobham, who is cook.

The expedition will carry the party through the darkest jungles of Africa for the purpose of surveying a proposed trans-African air route.

London Newspaper Carries a Graphic Recital of Dangers Encountered.

COVERED 2,800 MILES.

Were Unable To Discern Any Landmarks in Utter Darkness.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(A.P.)— Two British aviators, Captain R. H. MacIntosh and Bert Hinckler, who started from Upavon, England, Tuesday for India, a land of summer skies, drove for many hours through a blinding snow storm and finally landed in an exhausted condition in Southern Poland. Their own story of their flight is told in the Sunday Times, and is a graphic recital of the dangers through which they passed:

'After flying for 24 hours through continuous storm and fog," they said, "we landed ten miles within the Polish border, having previously reached a point estimated to be in the vicinity of Astrakan (Bessarabia) and having covered a total mileage of 2,800.

"The ground was not discernable after leaving Flushing, and we both agreed that the twelve hours of flying through utter darkness and continuous sleet and snow storms, depending solely on our engine and our Reid turn indicator, was the most terrifying experience either of us had ever had.

Repeatedly Lost Control.

"Throughout Wednesday night there was an exceptionally heavy storm, with insistent and terrific bumps, so that at a height of 5,000 feet we repeatedly lost control, which was not regained until the altimeter showed only a few hundred feet above the ground.

"After many hours of blind flying we found ourselves trapped among the mountains, flying up and down the valleys and dodging mountain peaks that loomed up out of the gloom, for two hours waiting for dawn.

"When dawn at last came, it showed us the whole country shrouded in a heavy blanket of fog, extending to a height of 8,000 feet. The cold up there was intense; ice covered the machine, and our hands were so frozen that accurate and sensitive control became unbearable.

"We carried on above the fog for another three hours, but as weather conditions were rapidly becoming worse we realized that further progress was hopeless and turned back in an endeavor to land in a friendly country.

Landed in Ploughed Field.

"Just before dusk we managed to land in a ploughed field, almost surrounded by a crowd of peasants. Leaving the machine, we were escorted to a police station six miles distant in a farm wagon over appalling roads. We were detained several hours at the police station and interrogated in a language we did not understand. We were left wondering waht was gonig to happen. Finally an interpreter arrived and relieved our anxiety, our credentials being accepted.

"On Friday we started again in an attempt to reach Warsaw, but approaching Lemberg the weather again became impossible, with visibility nil, forcing us lower and lower. Eventually we were forced to land in a field several inches deep in snow. We made a perfect landing and had practically come to a standstill when the left side under-carriage collapsed. The machine fell forward on its nose, damaging the propeller and wing tip and shooting us forward from our seats, but without injury. We are now waiting until arrangements can be made for the return of the machine.

"The sealed barograph shows an interesting record of our flight, which, looking back on, now seems like a terrible nightmare.

"Despite total absence of visibility we maintained an average speed of over 110 miles an hour for nearly 24 hours day and night and had completed over half our journey when we were forced by overwhelming odds to turn back. Had the weather been less severe, the flight would certainly have been successful."

G. S. CAMPBELL DIED TO-DAY

President of Bank of Nova Scotia Dies in Montreal.

BIG FINANCIER.

MONTREAL, Nov. 21 (Canadian Press).—George S. Campbell, 76, of Halifax, President of the Bank of Nova Scotia and one of the leading financial men of the Maritime Provinces, died at the Windsor Hotel early today.

Mr. S. Campbell rose from the obscurity of a small clerkship in a Halifax shipping office to the head of a big steamship agency of his own and the presidency of one of Canada's foremost banking institutions and to a leading place in the social, business and public life of the city of his adoption. He was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, July 8, 1851, his father being Duncan Campbell, author of "A History of Nova Scotia." His family came to Halifax when George was scarcely through with his schoolbooks and here he plunged at once into the business world. His first employment was with the firm of James Scott and Company, after which he became a clerk in the office of F. D. Corbett and Company, and eventually head of the firm, which was re-organized under the name of G. S. Campbell and Company. The firm holds the agencies of several steamship lines, notably the Red Cross line of steamers operating between New York, Halifax, and St. John's, Newfoundland, and also operating a fleet of two boats.

Mr. Campbell's capacity for business and his good judgment brought him into demand in other businesses than his own and he became a director of the Bank of Nova Scotia and later its president. He wa salso director of the Nova Scotia Building Society and President of the Halifax and Canso Steamship Company. He was chairman of the Board of Governors of Dalhousie University.

In 1887 Mr. Campbell married Miss Helen Kennedy of Edinburgh, member of a family internationally famous in musical circles. Their only son, Lieut. George Campbell, was killed in action in the European War.

He was greatly interested in education and gave freely of his time and money in that connection. In recognition of his public service and interest in education he was given an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws of Dalhousie University.

Mr. Campbell was prominent in church, business, and shipping affairs in the Maritime Provinces. He arrived here last Wednesday from Toronto, where he attended a meeting of bank directors. The body was removed to an undertaking parlor, and will be taken to Halifax to-night.

PARIS DOUBLES WHEAT TARIFF IN NEW ISSUE

Duty For Frozen Meats Also Heavily Increased By New Decree.

EFFECTIVE AT ONCE.

Ascertained the Degree Applies Equally To All Importing Nations.

PARIS. November 21. — A new tariff issue between France and the United States became a possibility on Saturday when a Government decree effective immediately, was published in Journal Officiel instituting heavy duties on frozen meats and doubling the rates on wheat imports. A close examination of the decree disclosed the disquieting fact that American shippers will be among the severest sufferers.

American meat packers who have been quietly waging a strong fight to prevent the Government's action, are disheartened over the situation. Frozen beef and all other meats except pork will henceforth pay a duty of 85 francs per 200 pounds.

Since the American meat packers, operating from Argentina, Brazil, and Uruguay ship considerably more than 100,000,000 pounds of meat each year into France, the extent of the blow can be readily appreciated. Frozen meats have paid no duty since 1914.

The tariff on wheat was increased from 18.20 francs per 200 pounds to 35 francs. American imports in 1927 will approximate 2,500,000 quintals, or 8,750,000 bushels. France imports wheat only to meet crop deficits.

This year the crop has been bad, and the import estimates for 1928 call for 15,000,000 quintals, of which the United States will supply between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 in francs. Therefore the American wheat importers next year will pay between 7,000,000 and 8,000,000 instead of 3,500,000 under the old tariff, a difference of $137,550 to $176,850 at the present rate of exchange.

No Washington Protest Expected.

From an official quarter it was ascertained that the American Government probably would make no protest against the new tariffs. So far as can be ascertained, the decree applies equally to all importing nations and the basis upon which Washington acts in tariff tangles, namely, discrimination against American products, does not exist.

Officially, the reason for the new tariffs is a domestic one. In the case of meats, the market is said to be overstocked and the French producers have been complaining for some time. As far as wheat is concerned, the net result, in the opinion of commercial experts, will be to increase the price of domestic wheat raisers who have been demanding relief, due to the long-drawn-out agricultural crisis. The volume of imports from the United States and other countries is not expected to be affected by the decree.

What is likely, however, is that the meat shippers, who represent a powerful section of the industrial life of America, will bring pressure to bear upon Washington. A similar effort may be looked for from the American Agricultural interests, according to the view expressed here.

Right of France Unquestioned.

In this case Washington would be called upon to make representations. But the chances of obtaining redress are believed to be slight, for no one challenges the right of France to raise tariffs to meet pressing domestic problems. America, least of all, has never questioned this right, the sole point against France in the recent controversy being that American manufactured goods were being discriminated against in favor of those of Germany.

Another decree raises the duties on chilled meats, but with the exception of a limited amount of horse meat. American shippers are not touched by this rise.

It was explained on Saturday that American meat packers do practically all their continental business through direct branches or subsidiary firms established in Argentina, Brazil, and Uruguay. By so doing a great saving is made in shipping and other overhead charges.

The decree is effective at once, but all goods now on the high seas will pay the old rates. To a certain extent the meat shippers have anticipated this and a considerable amount of frozen meats are in transit.

American wheat imports vary from year to year, according to the success of the French crop. It is quite possible that in any year our wheat imports might reach very high proportions, assuming that the French yield is low.

Rain-Soaked Runway Delays Giles Flight

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., November 21 (Associated Press). — A rain-soaked runway at Mills Field, San Francisco's municipal airport, will prevent the scheduled start of Captain Frederick A. Giles for Honolulu to-day. A continuous rain during Saturday night rendered the field useless for the take-off in a bi-plane, with a gross weight of more than 5,000 pounds.

Captain Giles made a start on Saturday for Honolulu, his first hop to New Zealand, his destination. He got no further than the San Francisco lightship, off the Golden Gate, when he turned back rather than plunge his plane into a heavy fog with the prospect of stormy weather offshore.

The present stormy and wet weather will delay the take-off until Wednesday, should the downpour continue until Monday morning, it was said at Mills Field.

INSTITUTE MAKES QUILT FOR MEMBER

Exchange of Christmas Gifts Planned By Rylstone Ladies.

RYLSTONE, November 21. — The Rylstone Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. F. W. Barnum on Wednesday last, with an attendance of 22. The programme was very short, most of the afternoon being taken up in quilting a quilt for the Institute's latest bride, Mrs. Stewart Nelson. It was decided to have an exchange of Christmas gifts at the next meeting, no gift to exceed 25c in price. Donations for the Children's Shelter in Belleville will also be handed in. The December meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Minnie Petherick on December 7th. The topic is, "What service can you render to your Institute?" The roll-call is "How to make others happy at Christmas."

The Institute will hold a concert in the Union School House on Friday evening, November 25. A good programme is being prepared.

Grant Melklejohn has been very ill, but is recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew Stiles and Mr. William Stiles, of Bonarlaw, and Mrs. Carter of Strathclair, Man., were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. W. S. McKeown.

Mrs. George Gibson is slowly recovering after an illness of about two weeks.

Percy Gibson had some toes crushed while working with a threshing machine last week.

Mr. and Mrs. William McKeown and Tom attended the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mathews of Bonarlaw on Monday evening.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Nov. 21.—There was a furry of good trading in the first hour on the wheat market on Saturday, when there was good buying by seaboard houses. Trading thereafter, however, was very thin, and the half cent gains were rubbed out, with final quotations from ¼c. to ⅜c. below Fridays close.

Broomhall, in a message, stated that the Canadian Pool was pressing wheat for sale at prices below the market, but did not confirm any business.

The Chicago market again lost ground to Winnipeg, but there was no trace of appreciable spreading operations between the two markets.

Wintry weather in Canada is not preventing Western farmers from hauling their grain to elevators, and daily marketings are being maintained at the ratio of 3,000,000 bushels a day of wheat alone.

The cash markets were featureless.

WEDDING BELLS

WANNAMAKER—CHALLERTON.

MADOC, Nov. 21.—A quiet wedding took place on Wednesday, November 9th, at the Bridge street church parsonage in Belleville, when Miss Viola Challerton became the bride of Mr. Walter Wannamaker, both of Madoc township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Mallott.

UNITED STATES MUST SPEND TO AVERT CRISIS

Purchase Goods in Foreign Markets, Says British Economist.

NINTH OF INCOME.

Would Establish New Source of Credit For Foreign Buyers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—The United States must spent at least one-ninth of its annual income in foreign markets to avert a world credit crisis, said Sir George Paish, noted British economist, in an article in The Tariff Review.

"The United States ought to spend $1,000,000,000, or better $2,000,000,000 out of its annual income of $9,000,000,000 in foreign countries to permit these countries to purchase American produce in return and to enable them to meet their obligations to this country for the capital supplied since the war," said Sir George.

"The present situation is a serious one," he continued. "The amount of credit granted both at home and abroad by the United States in the 13-year period since the beginning of the World War has been so vast that the great reservoir of new credit which alterations of the bank reserve law and the immense gold imports created has been largely utilized.

"There is no present indication of monetary stringency in the United States. Figures show that there was $4,000,000 worth of new capital issued during the first half of 1927. Nevertheless, should new credit continue to be created after the manner of recent years, it is evident that the available supplies will be exhausted in the not-distant future."

Purchase Abroad

Sir George stated that in order to sell good abroad, the United States producers must purchase abroad to give foreigners working capital and to establish new sources of credit for foreign buyers.

"Already the farming industry of America," he continued, "is finding great difficulty in meeting its liabilities. Certainly any further contraction in the demand for foodstuffs, accompanied by still lower prices for agricultural products, would have disastrous consequences.

"On the other hand, if America were to purchase more freely from foreign countries, then these countries would continue to purchase freely from her, and at the same time, better meet their obligation to the United States. In this way the solvency of American producers would be preserved, together with that of their customers and a great world credit crisis would be averted."

PREMIER DINES AT LEGATION

Will Be Guest of Honor at Dinner Given By Hon. Vincent Massey.

Suspected Spies Held In London

LONDON, Nov. 19. — James McCartney, said to be an Irish-American, and Thane Hansen, said to be a German, who were arrested here on Thursday night as suspected spies, will be charged with espionage against Great Britain at the Bow Street Court to-day. The police, as usual in such cases refuse to give any details of the case and it is likely that at to-day's hearing nothing but the formal evidence of arrest and charge will come out. They then will be remanded to prison and further proceedings against them will be secret.

M. BRATIANO DENIES REPORTS

Characterizes Rumors Concerning Establishment of Rumanian Republic as Ridiculous.

NOT DICTATOR.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Leaving a sick bed to receive the Associated Press correspondent, Premier Bratiano yesterday characterized as ridiculous and fantastice reports that he intends to establish a republic in Rumania.

"The Liberal party," he said, "has affirmed constantly that Rumania can prosper and develop only with the hereditary monarchy, which is the foundation of its constitution. The monarchy must be kept aloof from political dissension.

"I represent a party which for 70 years has striven for an absolute constitutional regime. How can I do otherwise than be faithful? It is sheer nonsense to refer to me as an absolute dictator, for I did not come into power by force, but at the wish of a man whose competence has never been questioned—King Ferdinand—who, realizing he was dying, believed the government would be safer in my hands than any other.

A certificate of that kind from the late Sovereign is the highest compliment that can come to any man."

The premier, who has been ill with influenza for the past three weeks, characterized as contemptible reports that he was threatening to establish a republic if Queen Marie attempted to go to Paris to see former Crown Prince Carol.

"Are you convinced that the present regency can last 12 years?" the correspondent asked the 63-year-old statesman, who has held the office of premier for 12 years.

"Yes, I am sure all attempt to upset the regency will fail," he replied.

Denies Any Friction

M. Bratianu denied there was any friction between himself and the regency, saying: "The fact that the Liberal government is in power is sufficient proof that it enjoys the confidence of the regency, which has the authority to make or break governments. The strongest spirit of unity prevails among the members of the regency."

Premier Batriano denied emphatically the declaration of M. Manoilescu, recently acquitted of the charge of conspiracy, and others, that King Ferdinand desired passionately to see Carol before he died.

"This is utterly fantastic," he asserted. "All the manifestations of the late King proved to the contrary."

Asked if he would allow Carol to return either as a member of the regency or as king, provided the Rumanian people desired it, the Premier answered: "It does not depend on my will or that of any other person. The constitution expressly prohibits any modification of its text during the minority of the present sovereign."

Explaining why the government had prohibited the national congress of peasants at Alba Julia, M. Bratiano responded: "The government is determined to prevent any manifestation which is not pledged to respect the terms of the constitution."

The correspondent inquired if the premier had seen the four-page hand-written document alleged to have been sent by Carol to King Ferdinand giving the former Crown Prince's reasons for leaving Rumania.

"No such document exists," asserted M. Bratiano.

The custom of calling Boston the Hub comes from a saying by Oliver Wendell Holmes in his "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" that "Boston Statehouse is the hub of the solar system." The saying was corrupted to "hub of the universe."

RIFT DEVELOPS AT RADIO CONFERENCE

Regarding Compulsory Arbitration For Settlement of Disputes Between Nations.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.— (Canadian Press.)—A rift developed at the international radio conference Saturday in a plenary session regarding compulsory arbitration for the settlement of disputes between nations arising from the wireless convention.

A motion in favor of compulsory arbitration was carried, 28 to 10, but not until opposition had developed unexpectedly and efforts to effect a compromise had failed.

Japan and Great Britain led the fight against compulsory arbitration. Uruguay, Mexico and Argentina opposed them, as did the United States' delegation, which voted in favor of arbitration, thus foreshadowing American agreement, for the first time, to a treaty containing an unconditional arbitration clause.

The fight over the arbitration question had not been expected generally, as the proposal had been approved in committee and unanimous ratification by the conference had been forecast.

The allocation of wave lengths among radio services, the chief problem confronting the conference, was approved as reported by the technical committee.

OTONABEE PEOPLE RECEIVE PRESENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Shaughnessy and Family Are Moving Into Peterborough.

On Thursday evening a number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Shaughnessy, who are leaving Otonabee to reside in Peterborough, met at their home and presented them with the following gifts: To Mr. and Mrs. Shaughnessy, a chesterfield suite and bridge lamp; to Jack, two rockers and half a dozen dining-room chairs, and to Carrie, a china tea set.

Mr. Joseph Crowley read the following address:

"With feelings of deep emotion, we, your friends and neighbors, have assembled here tonight to express our sorrow at your departure from our community, and to show in some tangible way our appreciation of your kind and generous dispositions. Words are inadequate to enumerate all your good qualities and the many acts of kindness you have bestowed upon us, being always ready with a helping hand when anyone required assistance.

"Be assured, Mr. and Mrs. Shaughnessy, as years roll by, though you are not living in our midst, we will always cherish with fond remembrance the days of Auld Lang Syne.

"We hope in your retirement from active life you will enjoy many years of comfort and happiness, and often visit your old friends in Otonabee.

"As a token of our esteem, please accept these gifts with the assurance that they are accompanied by our best wishes.

"We would also ask you, Jack, to accept these gifts which convey to you our kindly feelings.

"We ask you, too, Carrie, to accept this gift as a memento of our kind regard for you.

"Signed on behalf of the community, L. J. Clancy, S. Lancashire, F. Dixon, T. Slattery, J. Crowley."

Mr. Jack Shaughnessy, on behalf of his father, mother and sister, made a grateful reply, thanking all their friends for their kindness in making such a generous presentation.

All joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Dainty refreshments were served, and the rest of the evening was spent in dancing and games.

During the evening the members of the U.F.W.O., of which Mrs. Shaughnessy is a member, presented her with some beautiful table linen.

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, Nov. 19.—Despite inclement weather, the annual chicken supper served by the Ladies' Aid of the Marmora United church at the Council Chambers on Thursday evening proved to be a very successful affair, patrons and patronesses being present from North Marmora and Deloro as well as from the village.

Rev. A. B. Caldwell officiated at the funeral of one of his old parishioners at Elmvale on Wednesday.

OLD MASTERS

As toilsome I wandered Virginia's woods,
To the music of rustling leaves kicked by my feet (for 'twas autumn),
I marked at the foot of a tree the grave of a soldier;
Mortally wounded he and buried on the retreat (easily all could I understand),
The halt of a mid-day hour, when up! no time to lose—yet this sign left,
On a tablet scrawled and nailed on the tree by the grave,
Bold, cautious, true, and my loving comrade.

Long, long I muse, then on my way go wandering,
Many a changeful season to follow, and many a scene of life,
Yet at times, through changeful season and scene, abrupt, alone, or in the crowded street,
Comes before me the unknown soldier's grave, comes the inscription rude in Virginia's woods,
Bold, cautious, true, and my loving comrade.

—Walt Whitman: As Toilsome Wandered Virginia's Woods.

OBITUARY

JAMES FAULKNER.

EAST EMILY, November 21. — The funeral of the late James Faulkner, of Toronto, was held from the residence of his mother on the Second Line of Emily on Tuesday afternoon. Interment took place in Emily Cemetery, Rev. E. W. Rowland officiating.

The late Mr. Faulkner leaves a sorrowing wife and five small children. The bearers were his four brothers and two brothers-in-law, Elwood, Harry, Lloyd, and Norman, and George Magee and Leslie Burgess.

MRS. JOSIAH ROBERTSON.

After a short illness, Mrs. Josiah Robertson, of 177 Aylmer street, passed away at the Nicholls Hospital early this morning. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goodfellow and was born in North Monaghan. She has resided in Peterborough for the last 45 years, and was a faithful member of St. Paul's Church duirng her residence here.

There are left to mourn her loss of her immediate relations, her husband, Josiah Robertson, and one brother, John R. Goodfellow.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 from Comstock's Funeral Home, and will be conducted by the Rev. William Allan of St. Paul's Church.

F. F. FITZPATRICK.

Edward Carlow of Indian River received word on Friday of the death of his nephew, F. F. Fitzpatrick, of Larchmont, New York.

There are left to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, one daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Watkins, and two sons, Paul and Freddie, all of New York; two brothers, John of Cleveland, and Robert of Texas; two sisters, Mrs. Theodore Allen of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Tom McNally of Missouri.

Burial will take place in New York.

D. N. KELLY.

MADOC, Nov. 21.— Word was received by James McCaw, on Thursday last of the death of D. N. Kelly at Kellfield, Sask., a former Bancroft citizen, on Wednesday, Nov. 2nd.

Mr. Kelly was well known here and in the surrounding district, having at one time served the township of Faraday as Reeve. Since moving west several years ago, the whole family, Mrs. Kelly, Harry and Brucie, have joined the silent throng. Mr. Kelly paid Bancroft friends a visit about four years ago.

TROTZKY REMOVED.

MOSCOW, Nov. 21. Canadian Press. — The Soviet government has issued a decree removing Leon Trotzky from the chairmanship of the concessions commission. Vladimir Nikolaievitch Ksandroff, the Vice-chairman, has been appointed to fill the vacancy.

The Alco-Meter
Winter Service is not complete without MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE and ALCO-METER Service. Only MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE dealers give ALCO-METER Service. It is FREE. Have your mixture tested often. It takes only a few minutes.

IF the Service Station man tested your car to twenty below and you froze up, he didn't have an ALCO-METER.

IF you ask him for an ALCO-METER test, and he hesitates and offers to make a test with a tester, he hasn't got an ALCO-METER.

IF he displays a MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE sign, he will be glad to show you the MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE Alcohol drum and the ALCO-METER. Take a look at it. You will find it different to the common ordinary tester.

IF he won't show them to you, let us know, and we will investigate for your protection.

There are no "ifs" in connection with MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE Alcohol and ALCO-METER Service. Four years of Dominion-wide service without any complaints is sufficient evidence that it is the only SCIENTIFIC RADIATOR PROTECTION.

You only buy the quantity of MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE necessary to give protection to the cooling system of your car and add the water which costs you nothing. It will not injure any part of the cooling system or pump.

ALCO-METER tests are free and gladly given and guaranteed, because the service man knows he can't go wrong with an "Alco-Meter."

Avoid preparations with a high boiling point as they give no warning when the engine becomes overheated to a point that would cause injury.

Remember the usual crop of new preparations will appear this year same as before. Stick to the tried and proven MAPLE LEAF ANTI-FREEZE and ALCO-METER Service.

In Peterborough Churches

AT KNOX UNITED.

Interest in missionary enterprise was stimulated, and the desire to serve inspired by the sermon preached by Rev. Murdoch Mackenzie, of Honan, China, in Knox church on Sunday morning.

Taking his text from Mark 1:1, 'The beginning of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God,' Dr. Mackenzie said that Jesus, during His short ministry on earth, began many things, but finished few. Jesus finished His work of atonement on the cross, but that was but the beginning of the spreading of Christ's message to the whole world. The history of the Christian church, through all the generations, is the story of a series of beginnings, beginnings which shall terminate in the great era when 'Jesus shall reign where'er the sun shall his succ[illegible]ive journeys run.'

"It is 120 y[illegible] since Robert Morrison, the pio[illegible]r of Christian endeavour in Chi[illegible], began his work in that country. [illegible] is 39 years since Dr. Mackenzie landed on the shores of China. At that time there was not one Christia[illegible] among the 7,000,000 people in North Honan. Dr. Mackenzie found the Chinese a shrewd, careful observant people. The missionary by his mode of life, by meeting the ordinary events of life and in them letting Christ work through him, can do much toward leading the Chinese to God. The missionary must not only learn the language, but he must learn to use the language for Jesus Christ. He must go through the villags, (and in that land there seems to b just a succession of villages very close together) and, like Jesus, he must preach the Gospel, teach the people, and heal their diseases. Many converts are made by reaching the people in the latter way. The first convert in North Honan was a man cured of blindness by a Christian doctor. Just at this point Dr. Mackenzie made an appeal to young doctors to go to foreign lands where the need of doctors is so great, instead of working so hard to obtain a practice in this country.

Dr. Mackenzie then spoke of the opposition that Christian teachers have to contend with, but of their success, despite it. At the present time there are 5,000 Christians in North Honan, and from 250 to 280 villages, with some Christians residing in them, concluded the speaker.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Rev. P. Costello preached at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday, from the text, "They shall see the Son of Man coming in the clouds of heaven with much power and majesty," taken from the Gospel according to St. Matthews 24, 15-35.

Asking, "How are we prepared to meet the Lord" and quoting the words, "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom," the reverend speaker referred to the signs which will precede the coming of the Judgment Day, in war, pestilence and famine, and the arising of false prophets who will deceive even the elect of God. "Then shall arise in the heavens the sign of the Son of Man, the Cross of Christ, glittering and refulgent—the sign that was so hated by many of God's creatures during their lives and was so loved by others, the Cross of Christ—that sign that was used in pagan days to put the criminal to death and later was purpled by the blood of the Son of God.

"Christ said: 'Unless ye take up the cross and follow Me, yet cannot be my disciple.' That sign will be a symbol of joy to those who have striven through life to walk in the way of the Cross, who have mortified themselves and turned away from the things of the flesh, but it will be a sign of fear to those who have followed the ways of the world, the flesh and the devil.

"Not as the humble Babe of Bethlehem will Christ come on that day, nor as the Criminal on the Cross of sacrifice, but as a Judge of great power and majesty. What then shall it profit the man who may have gained the world and lost his soul? What shall it profit him who has spent his time here in drunkenness and revelry and the scandals of the world, when he shall be placed on the left hand of the great Judge. He who has been unjust and uncharitable and thought only of himself and nothing of God or his fellow-men, shall have cause to fear on that day, while the man who has been pure of heart and mind and body, upright and charitable and kindly, will have cause for joy when he is numbered amongst the elect.

"Man must die and he must inevitably be judged for his actions here on earth. We belong to God, in body, mind and soul, and according to the manner in which we serve Him shall we be judged."

UNITED CHURCH, MILLBROOK

Rev. W. R. Archer, B.A., B.D., of Havelock, preached both morning and evening in the United Church on Sunday, delighting the congregations with his discourses. Rev. F. H. Howard, the pastor, took charge of anniversary services on the Havelock circuit, and Mr. Archer expressed the gratitude "of my people to you for giving us the loan of Mr. Howard for this day."

The story to the Young Worshippers' League, which always preceeds the sermon at the morning worship, was from the last few verses of Luke 18, and the minister greatly interested the boys and girls as he told how the blind man was brought to Jesus and healed; and how the little man, Zaccheus, also wanted to see the Saviour and his need, too, was fully met.

The choir rendered the anthem, "The Lord is My Strength," and the text was taken from 1 Chronicle 22, 5, "The house that is to be builded for the Lord must be exceedingly magnifical, of fame and of glory throughout all countries"; and from Ephesians 2, 20-21, "And are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the chief corner stone; in whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord"

Contrasting the glory of Solomon's temple with that spoken of by Paul which is not made of material things, but is builded in the lives of men through the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, the speaker went on to mention in detail what it cost Christ to become the corner stone in this temple; what it cost the martyrs to become its foundation stones, and lastly what we are contributing, in our daily living ,to its upbuilding.

Leaving the glory which He had with the Father before the world was; coming unto His own and His own received Him not; for our sakes renouncing the riches of heaven and choosing instead a poverty so great He had not where to lay His head; foregoing the bodyguard of ten legions of angels which, had He willed, might have been His protection when the Roman soldiers came and took Him prisoner; failed in His hour of dire need in the garden by human friends; so that indeed His Father did send angels to minister unto Him, the shame and suffering of the Cross meant the culmination of what it cost Christ to become the corner stone in the temple spoken of in the New Testament.

The cost to the apostles, and the martyrs of a little later date and on through the centuries, was well told, and the words of Josephus quoted: "How well these Christians die"; truly the foundations were laid in blood, and trials, and scourging, and the taking of life itself in hundreds of instances.

"What then of the superstructure? What is my life giving in service and sacrifice? Think of what the missionaries contribute—we hardly appreciate what it means to be separated, in many instances, from their children that the latter may come to the home land to be educated; what it means to respond to God's call and leave home and kindred here, and go to far fields; neither do we understand what it is meaning now to native Christians in China to stand firm for their religion—they are proving that they are of the spirit of the first disciples, and so are the missionaries who are remaining at their post in the face of a very real danger."

Living, day by day, so that it is evident to all around us that we are laying up treasure in heaven—"a cup of cold water given in the name of Christ"—was shown to be the way we may be "builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit."

WINDSOR CHIEF RESIGNS OFFICE

Chief Thompson's Resignation Makes Delivery of Decision Unnecessary.

COURT ROOM CROWDED.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 21.—Twenty minutes before the decision of the Police Commission was to be made public Saturday afternoon, Daniel H. Thompson, suspended chief of the Windsor constabulary, handed in his resignation at a private meeting of the board.

The ruling of the board was to have been announced at a public meeting at 2 p.m. Thompson's resignation was handed in and accepted at 1.48 p.m. Thompson had been under fire for some time, with charges of neglect and inefficiency.

Announcement a Surprise.

When Judge Coughlin, mounting the roster in the council chamber of the City Hall began to speak what the packed chamber believed would be the decision of the Police Commission, an ominous silence settled over the crowd. But the first words of the jurist were even a greater surprise.

"On behalf of the Board of Police Commissioners I wish to announce that at a special meeting of the board at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon the resignation of Chief Thompson was put in," was the fashion in which the latest act in the city's scandal drama was staged.

LOCAL RUNNERS WIN AT LINDSAY

Senior Relay Team Wins Cup, While Juniors Finish Second.

ON SATURDAY.

Peterboro Y.M.C.A. sent two teams to Lindsay on Saturday to compete in a ten mile relay race. In the senior grind the Petes won the cup in the fast time of 56 minutes, 10 seconds. The junior marathoners lost out by a matter of seconds, the Lindsay color bearers coming through in 1 hour, 2 minutes and 45 seconds, while the blue and whites were clocked in 1 hour, 3 minutes, 30 seconds.

The event was staged by the newly formed Lindsay Monarch Athletic Club at its opening attempt. Four men comprised a team, each runner having 2½ miles to cover. Small trophy cups donated by the Lindsay Kiwanis Club, were presented to each of the winers.

Times of the runners in minutes and seconds were as follows:

Juniors: N. Grosse 15.45; S. Levine, 17.35; W. Ward, 16.10; A. Goheen., 15.00.

Senior: B. Sturgeon, 14.00; N. Hamilton 13.45; D. Bates, 14.05; H. Tranter, 14.00.

Morning Mine Trade Breaks All Records

TORONTO, Nov. 21 (Canadian Press).—Huge turnovers in Barry Hollinger, which had a remarkable advance, and in Bidgood and Potter doal, swelled the volume of trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning to record breaking proportions, 2,589,167 shares in the first session. Barry Hollinger had a net gain of twelve at 140 at noon after touching 156, and most other stock advanced. Bidgood was an exception, losing twenty-one cents at 158. Crown Reserve, Dome, Potter Doal, Pioneer, Tough Oakes, Vipond and Amity Copper all gained subsequently on heavy turnovers.

Up Movement Continues In New York Exchange

NEW YORK, Nov 21 (Canadian Press).—Major speculative activity in today's stock market, which was unusually broad in character, continued on the up side. Gains of one to six points were scattered throughout the list with more than twenty-five issues breaking into new high ground for the year. Call money continued in plentiful supply at 3½ per cent. In the copper group, Kennecott, Anaconda, and Calumet and Arizona topped their previous peak prices of the year. Other issues to attain new maximums were Packard and Hupp Motors, Detroit, Edison, Radio, Shubert Theatre, Fox Film, International Paper, Fleischmann and Sears Roebuck.

New Brokerage Firm On Standard Exchange

A new brokerage firm, Stratton, Hopkins & Hutson, has begun business on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange. H. A. Hutson is acting as the floor member of the firm, which will transact a general brokerage business, specializing in mining securities.

J. R. Stratton, son of A. H. Stratton of Peterborough, is an ex-cadet of the Royal Military College, who joined the Imperial Army in 1915, and gained a captaincy and M. C. and Bar with the Royal Engineers. He was associated with the Canadian Packing Company as a director until he resigned to enter the new firm. L. W. Hopkins, who attended the University of Toronto, and was a Flight Commander with the Royal Flying Corps in France, has for the past few years been associated with the financial house of Wood, Fleming & Company. H. A. Hutson is a graduate of the Royal Military College and Osgoode Hall, and has been a partner in the firm of Hutson and Walker for the past three years. —Toronto Star.

Heat In Argentina Causes Rise In Wheat

CHICAGO, November 21 (Canadian Press). — High prices for wheat resulted early to-day from less favorable reports on crop conditions in Argentina. A heat wave with temperatures of 112 in some places in Argentina was reported. Opening at ⅝c to ¾c up, Chicago wheat soon scored further gains. Corn reacted from an early advance, starting at ¼c to ½c higher, and substantially receding to below Saturday's finish. Oats were weak. Provisions showed little firmness.

Opening prices were: Wheat. December 127⅛, March 131⅛. Oats, December 87, March 91. Oats December 49, March 50¾.

Carlings and Bakeries Lead In Active Session

TORONTO, Nov. 21.— (Canadian Press.)—Stocks gained some ground in heavy trading on the Toronto stock exchange to-day, led by Carlings and Northern Bakeries, in which the heaviest turnovers were recorded. Carlings climbed 1¼ at 33 and Bakeries two at 43. Massey Harris was steady around 38. Brazilian Canners Preferred, International Nickel and Shredded Wheat improved fractionally, while Smelters and Winnipeg had substantial gains at 251 and 109. Seagrams sold up a point at 32. The ils were mostly stationary.

BENNETT BEGINS WORK AS LEADER

New Conservative Chief Takes Over Duties in Ottawa Office.

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 (Canadian Press).—Hon. R. B. Bennett, the Conservative chieftain, took over the reins of the party leadership today. Early this morning, Mr. Bennett reached the capital from Calgary and after spending only a few hours at his hotel, proceeded immediately to his offices as Federal Opposition leader in the Parliament buildings.

BELGIAN CABINET GIVES UP CFFICE

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 21.— (Canadian Press.) — The Belgian Cabinet, of which Henri Jaspar is Premier, resigned this afternoon afternoon after a meeting which ended at 5.30 p.m. A crisis arose over profound disagreements between Socialist and non-Socialist members of the Ministry concerning re-organization of the army. Socialists insisted upon a reduction in military service from ten to six months, a stand that brought the unanimous opposition of the Catholic and Liberal members of the government.

TOMORROW'S VISITORS.

Some two hundred and fifty delegates to the Dairy Association convention in Toronto this week are to be visitors in Peterborough tomorrow, the guests of the De Laval Company, and merchants are being asked to put out their flags to let these leading dairymen know that their presence is appreciated.

The delegates, The Examiner is sure, will be impressed by what they see when they visit the fine plant of the De Laval Company, but while the products of that company will perhaps provide the chief interest attached to their visit, it is hoped that Peterborough as a city will also make an impression upon the minds of the visitors.

The habit of putting on our best bib and tucker when such delegations visit us is a good one; visitors carry away with them pleasant or unpleasant memories as the case may be, and the community which does not show itself glad to act as host usually suffers.

The display of flags in Peterborough's business section tomorrow should help to create among the visiting dairymen an impression of this city as alive and hospitable.

THE QUESTION OF PARKING.

Somebody inquired of The Examiner the other day as to where Peterborough got the idea of allowing parking on its main business street, and we were unable to answer the question.

Certainly the scheme of angle parking—or any other kind of parking for that matter—did not originate with The Examiner.

Our view of the problem is that the city authorities should be more concerned in preventing parking in the business section of George street than in planning ways of getting more cars jammed into that section.

The confusion will not be so great during the next few months, but it will return with the spring, and in the meanwhile the city fathers would do well to give the whole question much consideration and have a solution ready for the advent of traffic congestion.

Most certainly there should be a time limit on parking in the business section, and it should be in such a form that it can readily be enforced.

Half an hour, in the opinion of many people, is too long, and it may be that a fifteen-minute parking limit, strictly enforced, would prove more satisfactory.

Car owners will continue to clutter up the business section just as long as they are allowed to do so, and the time has surely come to clean up the situation.

PENNY BANKS.

The decision of Peterborough's Board of Education to introduce the penny bank system in the local schools reminds The Lindsay Post of a similar experiment in Lindsay which our contemporary declares did not have very satisfactory results.

The Post says that valuable time of the teachers was wasted in looking after the receipt of deposits, and that when the Home Bank failed the penny bank was abolished in the Lindsay schools to the joy of the school staffs.

The fear that the operation of the penny bank encroaches too much upon other school work is not, however, shared by Premier Ferguson, whose circular on the subject declares:

"The time required for the work done by the teacher is not great and certainly is not wasted."

As to the expense, Mr. Ferguson points out that the only cost to be borne by the school board is that of stationery, and adds: "This cost is very small and should be considered as a real investment in citizenship."

Thrift, the Minister of Education declares, is a national as well as a personal virtue which needs to receive attention from all educators at the present time.

CANADA'S OLYMPIC TEAM.

The Ontario Hockey Association has set a good example to other athletic bodies and given a lead to the Federal and Provincial Governments by making the substantial grant of $5,000 toward defraying the expenses of Canada's Olympic athletes next year.

Canada can afford to do the job well, or perhaps it might be a better way to put it that Canada cannot afford not to do the job well.

Her Olympic athletes will have the eyes of the world upon them in Europe, and they must be looked after in a manner befitting a young prosperous nation.

Nothing would be more harmful to the prestige of the Dominion than to have her representatives at this world's competition niggardly and cheaply treated.

The people of Canada want to know that the men chosen to wear the Maple Leaf will be given every chance to be successful, and that their housing and training will be such as will do credit to the reputation of the land from which they come.

The O.H.A. has set the pace in a manner that deserves general thanks.

The hockey body has set the seal of its approval upon a generous policy in regard to the Olympic team, and other organizations will not be slow in following its

* * *

A pleasant event occurred at School Section No. 14, Otonabee, when the Dominion Agricultural Representa-

[illegible]derstood that among [illegible] States. Of these 175 were native-born Americans and 400 were internes in United States' hospitals, having gone there for special training, with the intention in most cases, doubtless, of returning to Canada. This reduces the number of emigrating students to about 600—not at all an alarming figure for ten years, in view of the large number graduating from the university.

We have every reason to believe that this satisfactory state of affairs applies to the other Canadian universities, including, of course, Queen's. The demand for trained university students has increased in Canada, especially in science, the development of mining in Northern Ontario requiring such men particularly. In medicine, as has been pointed out already, many men go to the United States, but it would appear that generally this is for post-graduate or other special courses, and that eventually they return to Canada.

But not only can we take comfort from this, we can also point out that not anything like the same complaints are heard of the exodus of Canadians generally to the United States as were heard not so very long ago. The attractions for skilled working men to go there are nothing like so strong as they were. It would seem that the tide has turned, that there are more chances of remunerative employment in Canada than on the other side, and that Canadians are wiser to stay at home in what will evidently be this century's land of opportunity.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

A SILENT CITY?

The fair and ambitious city of Hamilton, sheltered behind the mountain down near Dundas, is troubled greatly by noises. People foreign to the chaste and elegant reserve of the community persist in driving about the streets after dark, in talking above a whisper, and even indulge in the enjoyment of music within their own homes. It is perfectly apparent to everyone that such a state of affairs must not continue. There are the days for loud voices and brass bands and crude, commercial noises—the nights must be preserved sacred to sleep and silence.

So Hamilton proposes to pass a law about it, and in particular the Board of Health wants to prohibit the use of radio, phonographs and other musical devices after ten o'clock. There are some who will dispute the classification, but let that pass. The plan is all very well, but think of the possibilities which remain of annoyance to the serious sleepers! The Board's moderation is quite amazing. No doubt street cars should suspend at ten o'clock, an hour at which all good citizens—in Hamilton—should be abed. It should be illegal to operate an automobile after that hour. Walking on the streets should be suppressed unless the pedestrian is equipped with rubber soles. Crying infants present a real problem, but possibly they could be banished. Public oratory and private conversation would cease on the stroke of ten, and hardened devotees of bridge would rejoice in a game relieved of post-mortems and explanations.

Presumably there will be created—when all of this comes to pass—an enforcement brigade of spotters and snoopers, soft-shoe men who will listen at key-holes and spy at windows for evidence of a muffled saxophone or a wagging tongue. Possibly it will be found practicable to seal loud-speakers and gramophone horns during the hours of municipal silence, that the genteel Hamiltonians may not shudder under the appalling possibility that KDKA may proclaim through the six-tube set next door the imminent presentation of the Anvil Chorus.

Hamilton is to be congratulated on its courage in seeking to exterminate nocturnal noises. It is an excellent thing—for Hamilton.—Ottawa Journal.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS.

The Markham Economist and Sun backs up the suggestion of Police Magistrate Browne, of Toronto, that the taking out of a permit to purchase liquor should automatically cancel the license of any man to drive a motor car. The Whig-Standard believes that men who undertake to drive motor cars while under the influence of liquor should be very severely punished, but we do not agree that because a man takes out a permit to purchase liquor it should automatically cancel his license to drive a car. There are many men who never touch liquor except for medicinal purposes, yet they have to take out a license to purchase it. There are men with semi-invalid wives who, on doctor's orders, keep liquor in the house. They, too, have to take out a permit in order to purchase it, but because they do not drink any, it does not in the slightest interfere with their ability to drive a motor car safely.

We don't want to get things mixed up. The Provincial Government is now controlling the sale of liquor in this Province, and they are selling it only to permit holders. Every man who wishes to purchase liquor for beverage or medicinal purposes must take out a permit. It is a perfectly respectable proceeding, just like taking out a permit to drive a car or to go hunting. We have a good deal of sympathy with Magistrate Browne's desire to curtail the "drunken driver menace," but we do not believe that such a drastic measure as he proposes would be effective. Men who will undertake to drive a car while under the influence of liquor will not be deterred by the mere formality of a Government permit to purchase it. They will get it in some other manner. Every sane man is agreed that the drunken driver is a terrible menace to every motorist. If the penalty of thirty days in jail is not having the desired effect, then let us adjust the punishment to fit the crime. Let us increase the penalty to ninety days in jail and take away his license for one year. If this does not rid the streets and highways of this Province of the drunken driver then let us increase the jail term to six months and take away the license to drive a car for five years. By all means let us rid this Province of the "drunken driver menace," but, in our desire to do this, do not let us get it confused with other matters. Let us deal strictly and summarily with the man who commits this crime against society, but do not let us attempt to becloud the issue by trying to deprive a lot of innocent people of something which they are justly entitled to under the new Ontario law.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Ills., Nov. 21 (Canadian Press).—Indications that the United States visible supply total today will be enlarged 1,500,000 bushels, acted as a weight on wheat values on Saturday. Besides Southern Argentina reported splendid rains. Despite early upturns, wheat closed heavy, ⅝c to ¾ and ⅞c net lower; corn ¼c to ⅝ off; oats varying from ¼c decline to a shade advance, and provisions 3c off to 5c up.

At first Saturday's wheat market was dominated by unlooked for higher prices at Liverpool that were ascribed here to speculative buying anticipated smaller world shipments and to scarcity of sellers. In turn the lightness of selling pressure abroad was attributed largely to conservative marketing on the part of the Canadian Growers' Pool, a policy apparently intended to avoid undermining the world's markets with unduly large offerings. Early advances in price tended to induce general profit-taking sales here, however, and with domestic visible stocks expanding, the market underwent a gradual sag.

Late declines in Chicago on wheat Saturday were in the face of some signs of a better export demand for hard winter wheat at the Gulf of Mexico. Premiums at the Gulf were decidedly firm, but the Atlantic seaboard said export business appeared slow. Chicago exporters, too, said it was difficult to make sales owing to Canadian competition, and that there was but little business in domestic wheat. Nevertheless, Duluth was said to have sold 500,000 bushels of Winter wheat to exporters, the grain to be shipped east for storage.

In corn and oats as well as in wheat, profit-taking set in after an early show of strength. Country offerings of corn to arrive were small and receipts decreasing, although the percentage of new corn is steadily being enlarged.

Provisions were dull, and prices but little changed.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 21 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in wheat here Saturday was of a very limited character, there being practically no demand from United Kingdom or Continental buyers. The domestic trade in coarse grains was also quiet, but the tone of the market was steady.

The flour trade was without any new feature to note, prices for spring and winter wheat grades being steady under a moderate demand.

Owing to the colder weather prevailing of late the consumption of all lines of millfeed has increased and a large volume of business was done with both domestic and United States buyers. The tone was firm and prices were unchanged. The movement for standard grades of rolled oats was also good and values were unchanged.

A feature of the egg trade was the demand that developed from English importers for Canadian storage eggs and a moderate amount of business was done in firsts at 42c to 42½c per dozen, f.o.b. seaboard. The undertone to the local market was stronger and prices were marked up 1 to 2 cents per dozen.

The demand for fresh eggs continued active and a large volume of business was done at firm prices. The receipts were 141 cases.

Prices for all grades of butter were well maintained but the demand was quiet. The receipts were 195 packages.

A moderate amount of business was done in cheese for export account, and the spot trade was also fair. Prices ruled steady. The receipts were 3,845 boxes.

Jazz Band In Church Attracts Large Crowd

LONDON, Nov 21. (by The Canadian Press).—A jazz band in St. Stephen's Church, Blackpool, Lancashire, on a recent Sunday morning proved such a popular attraction that the church was crowded half an hour before the service began. The band was a dance band from the Winter Gardens of Blackpool and the service at which it played was held in connection with the Actors' Church Union, of which the vicar, Rev. F. B. Freshwater, is the local chaplain.

The vicar, in his sermon, referred to the fact that the ark was brought to the Holy City with shouting, the sound of the cornet, with drums and cymbals making a noise, and with psalteries and harps. He did not suppose they had the word jazz in those days, but it read uncommonly like a jazz-band.

He mentioned this he said to illustrate the absurdity of the conventional ideas of narrow-minded people as to what instruments should be heard in church.

The band played "The War March of the Priests" (Mendelssohn).

OLD LIGHTSHIP OUT OF SERVICE

Vessel Off Liverpool Being Replaced By Bell Buoy.

GUIDED SUBMARINES.

LIVERPOOL, Nov 19 (by The Canadian Press).—The North-West lightship, whose complement consists of the master, an engineer, a lamp trimmer, and three seamen, is to be brought from her lonely station eight miles west of the Mersey Bar, and replaced by a bell-buoy, 35 feet high, with an unattended light of 300 candle power, giving a quick flash every second visible for eight miles. Thus, one of the last romantic links with the earlier days of the port of Liverpool will have been severed. It has been found possible to abolish the North-west lightship by fitting the Bar lightship higher up the river with a wireless beacon, a new invention, capable in any weather of giving directions to ships over a range of 50 miles.

Seafarers and passengers in the lines will miss the human touch of the century-old vigil maintained by the North-West lightship and her predecessors. The North-West lightship has had some stirring experiences both in peace and war. During the earlier part of the Great War, German submarines used the North-West lightship as a rendezvous. Often at night time the lightship's crew could discern the U-boats moving about on the surface recharging their batteries. The lightship crew had instructions not to disturb the submarines, for a lightship on another part of the coast which showed an offensive spirit had been promptly torpedoed.

The Germans evidently found the lightship a useful guide, and the decision arrived at by the German authorities was that if the lightship did not interfere with them they would not interfere with the lightship.

The Admiralty, however, eventually decided that the lightship must be withdrawn, and under cover of a dark misty night she was brought into Liverpool and only replaced after the Armistice.

WOULD EXTEND 'TOC H' SOCIETY

Padre Harry Ellison Touring Canada In Its Behalf.

ORIGINATED IN WAR.

LONDON, Nov. 21 (by the Canadian Press).—Canada will have the opportunity during the fall of hearing more than it has yet done of this widespread movement. To many Toc H is at present merely a name and a quaint one at that. Others know little more than that it has the Prince of Wales as a keen member and Patron and that it lights lamps. They have seen pictures perhaps of the Annual Birthday Festival at the Albert Hall in England, and of the Prince lighting from his own, the Parent Lamp, the Lamps of new Branches from many parts of the world. They have yet to discover that Toc H is a name to conjure with in the minds of thousands of men of all classes and conditions and in many parts of the world, and that, as the Prince recently said of it, "We are standing now at the beginning of a great movement which will remain young when the youngest of us here grows old." There are indeed many indications that Toc H will in due course hold in the world of men much the same position that the Scout Movement has gained the hearts of men and boys.

It is not without interest to note that both the movements may be said to have had their origin in the midst of the furnace of war, the Scout Movement, indirectly indeed, from the South African War of a quarter of a century ago; Toc H directly out of the Great War. At Talbot House, Poperinghe, in 1915 there was in the words of Punch "a corner of Heaven in the Hell of officers' and men's lives," the initials were twisted by army signallers in their own alphabet into "Toc H" and Toc H is the name for what has well been described as the "Beloved Society" which has sprung from that beginning.

Though born in that great period of history, Toc H is not limited to ex-Service men. It exists indeed to keep alive and to hand on to those coming after the greatest traditions of those years as expressed in the spirit of brotherhood between men of all classes and sections and of unreckoning service to the community. The "Lamp of Maintenance" is lit at every meeting in memory of those whom Toc H honors as the "Elder Brethren." These include not merely those who fell in the War but any who down the age have given themselves "all out" for their fellows. Toc H indeed is more of a spirit than an organization and in no way conflicts with any existing societies.

The Movement in Canada has till now been confined to a very few centres, which have deliberately refrained from any organized attempt at extension. It is felt now that the time has come for widening its scope, and a three months' "campaign" will be held throughout the Dominion with this object, between October and Christmas. The speaker will be Padre Harry Ellison, who has recently returned from South Africa, in which country a wonderful response was made to the Toc H appeal. The campaign will begin in Ontario on October 4th and in succession the Prairie Provinces, British Columbia, and Quebec Province will be visited.

After Every Meal

LONDON, Nov 19 (by The Canadian Press).—The Lord Mayor-elect of London, Sir Harold Moore, who is at present an alderman of the city and will succeed Sir Rowland Blades at the expiration of Sir Rowland's term of office on November 8, 1927, is a man of outstanding ability. He has built up by his own energies, and at an age when most men have still a long way to go for their success, an immense and international practice as a chartered accountant, and yet finds time not only for city affairs, but for a very wide range of artistic and intellectual interests. In these he is enthusiastically supported by his wife, a charming American lady of conspicuous dramatic gifts.

Sir Harold Moore is 50 years of age and has been an alderman of London since 1921.

Flaring Silhouette Retains Prestige

Gay and delightful is this charming frock for semi-formal wear, developed in pastel-toned crêpe de chine. The simple bodice is joined to a circular skirt under a wide sash of ribbon which ties smartly in a big bow. The long flaring sleeves are of special interest, and may be omitted from the frock, giving an off-to-the-party air. No. 1254 is for the miss and small woman, and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years, or 34, 36 and 38 inches bust only. Size 18 years (36 bust) requires 4¾ yards 36-inch material. The sash requires 1¼ yards ribbon 5 inches wide.

Home sewing brings nice clothes within the reach of all, and to follow the mode is delightful when it can be done so easily and economically by following the styles pictured in our new Fashion Book. A chart accompanying each pattern shows the material as it appears when cut out. Every detail is explained so that the inexperienced sewer can make without difficulty an attractive dress. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

SAINT and SINNER

In spite of Cherry's excited urgings, Faith and Bob decided to wait a few days before sending for Nils Jonson, Rhoda's brother, for the girl was so plainly terrified of being sent back to the lonely, winter-bound Minnesota farm that Faith had not the heart to jeopardize her new independence.

"Are you afraid of Nils?" Faith asked sympathetically on Sunday morning as the family, including Rhoda, sat together over a late breakfast of Rhoda's inspired cooking.

"No, ma'am, I'm not afraid of him exactly," Rhoda answered nervously. "But he will want to take me back to the farm. I don't think he'd like for me to be a famous singer, even if I could be. Nils is sort of old-fashioned. He believes girls should be satsified to stay at home until they get married, and then be satisfied to be wives and mothers."

"And you, Rhoda?" Faith prodded gently. "Would you like to be a great singer or would you rather get married young and have children?"

"I don't know," Rhoda confessed, blushing scarlet. "I know I want to get married, but I do want to sing, too. But if I just have a phonograph and can sing with the records, I guess I'll be happy."

Bob, who was reading the Sunday paper, heedless of the excited discussion that swirled about the breakfast table, interrupted suddenly:

"Here's a bit of luck for you, Rhoda! The San Remo Opera Company arrives today to give us a week of opera. They take pride in discovering and presenting American singers. Carla Remington is their soprano, and I'll wager she'll be glad to give you an audition and that the conductor, San Remo himself, will, too, if we manage things properly."

"But how, Bob?" Faith asked eagerly. "Of course we'd want to be sure before we asked Nils to give her lessons, but I imagine San Remo is always beseiged by young candidates who think they can sing."

"I can manage it, I think," Bob said, a trifle grandly, evidently pleased with himself in the role of fate. "The manager of the theater where they'll give their operas is a friend of mine—an old friend who's under some obligation to me. If I tell him Rhoda can sing, he'll see that she gets a try-out."

"I'll have to sing with a phonograph and they'll laugh at me," Rhoda protested, but hope was shining in the pure, blue depths of her eyes. "But maybe I could sing some of Miss Remington's records. I've sung lots of them. She has a lovely voice that I can imitate so you can't tell who is singing—she or me."

"She or I," Cherry corrected her severely. "I'd give anything to see their faces when she starts singing! Could I be present, Bob? Please!"

"I imagine Rhoda would feel less nervous if none of us was listening," Faith deprecated. "I think your plan is wonderful, darling," she turned to Bob. "When do you think you could arrange for her to be heard?"

"They'll undoubtedly be rehearsing in the morning," Bob answered. "I'll drive over to see my friend, Gerson, today. He'll arrange it for me if it's humanly possible."

"I—I can't go," Rhoda began to sob. "I haven't a dress fit to wear!"

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND AUNT LETTIE'S WINDOW.

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Just ahead of him, through the bushes, Uncle Wiggily could see Nobby Hop, the toad boy, jumping over the dried leaves along the woodland path. Nobby—which was the nickname the other animal boys had given him because of his warts—Nobby carried in one paw a sheet of sandpaper the rabbit gentleman had let him take.

Nobby, or Bobby, which was his real name, had said the rough, scratchy paper was for a secret, but Uncle Wiggily thought he could guess why the toad boy wanted it.

"He's ashamed of his warts, is he?" chuckled Mr. Longears as he hopped along after Nobby. "Ashamed of his warts! Ho! Ho!"

The little toad boy had said this to the rabbit gentleman as I related to you in the story last night.

All of a sudden, as Nobby was skipping along, he disappeared as if the ground had opened and swallowed him up.

The rabbit gentleman kicked his hat.

"He must have gone down in the hole where the road family is going to take their long winter sleep," thought the bunny uncle.

Toads, as you know, cannot live in snow and ice. So, when winter comes they find some warm hole, deep in the ground or in some hollow tree, where Jack Frost cannot find them, and there they sleep until warm spring comes.

Hopping carefully up to the hole, down which Nobby had jumped, Uncle Wiggily saw the little toad boy sitting on a small shelf of rock that stuck out on one side of the hole. Nobby did not think anyone saw him, but the rabbit gentleman did.

"Just as I thought!" whispered Mr. Longears to himself. "Nobby is trying to sandpaper off his warts! How silly!"

For that is just what the little toad boy, hiding down in the hole, was doing. He tore a small chunk off the large piece of sandpaper the rabbit gentleman had given him, and began rubbing the warts on one leg. Uncle Wiggily watched and said nothing.

"Oh! Ouch! It hurts!" croaked Nobby after rubbing away for a moment or two. "But I'm going to take these warts off! I hate 'em!"

Again he rubbed the harsh sandpaper over his skin, but he had to cry out with pain and then Uncle Wiggily thought it time to say something.

"Look here, Nobby!" suddenly exclaimed the rabbit gentleman. "Don't you know it is silly and wrong to try and get rid of your warts?"

"Oh, how you frightened me!" croaked the toad boy, trying to hide the sandpaper behind him. "What did you say, Uncle Wiggily?"

"I said it was silly and wrong of you to try to sandpaper off your warts."

"Oh! did you see me?" asked Nobby in a sort of ashamed voice.

"Yes, I did," answered the rabbit gentleman. "So this is your secret, Nobby? I guessed it, and that is why I followed you through the woods. You shouldn't try to sandpaper off your warts!"

"But I don't like 'em!" sighed Nobby. 'They are so lumpy and the boys all call me Nobby and I thought if I could make my warts go away it would be better."

"Nonsense!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Toads are made to have warts. They wouldn't be toads without warts. It is all right for little boys or girls, who have warts, to get rid of them, though sandpaper is not the thing to use. But it is just as natural for a toad to have warts as it is for rabbits to have long ears. I'm not ashamed of my ears and you should not be ashamed of your warts."

"Shouldn't I?" asked Nobby.

"No, never!" said the rabbit. "Now give me that sandpaper, let your warts alone and hop down in the hole for your long winter sleep."

"All right, I will," croaked Nobby. "Thank you for making me feel better, Uncle Wiggily. I won't be ashamed of my warts any more. And I'll see you in the spring," he added as he crept into the warm hole.

Uncle Wiggily hopped away with the piece of sandpaper. He was wondering what he should do with it when, all of a sudden, he heard a voice bleating:

"Oh, this window! How it sticks! I never can push it up or pull it down! I must send for Mr. Flat Tail, the beaver gentleman carpenter."

Uncle Wiggily looked across the path and saw Aunt Lettie, the goat lady, straining and pulling at a window which was open, but which had stuck, so she could not shut it.

"I'll fix it for you," offered the rabbit gentleman. "I'll sandpaper the sides of the window smooth so they will slide up and down easily." And when he had used the sandpaper the window ewnt up and down as easily as a balloon. "It's a good thing Nobby tried to get rid of his warts, else I might not have had this sandpaper," said the bunny gentleman as he hopped away after Aunt Lettie had thanked him. So it all happened for the best and if the gas stove will take the kitchen oilcloth down cellar to play tag, I'll tell you soon about Uncle Wiggily and the frozen apple.

Hints On Etiquette

1. What is the first rule about personal letters?
2. Should members of a family feel free to open each other's mail?
3. Should a husband or wife form the habit of reading private letters of each others that are open and lying around?

The Answers.

1. Keep them private. Destroy those telling very personal affairs to you.
2. Never.
3. No.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The difference between an inexpensive fur coat and an expensive one is very much the same as the difference between a flivver and a car ten times as expensive. The cheap per coat keeps you warm—and the flivver gets you there and back.

But to many women there is an infinite satisfaction in wearing a fur coat or driving in a car that does more than these bare essentials. And to drive millionaires' cars and wear mink or ermine some women are perfectly willing to do their own housework and forego most of the luxures that one usually associates with fine furs and costly cars.

In late Victorian days they say it was the dream of the average middle-class matron to wear diamonds, ostrich feathers and sealskin. Those were the outward visible signs of a well-to-do husband or a fat bank account, which were, as a matter of fact, often non-existent.

Some women now look forward to the possession of a mink coat somewhat as their grandmothers did toward a sealskin coat. And the fact that a good mink coat costs as much as the initial payment on a substantial suburban home does not deter some women from choosing the former in preference to the latter.

Caracul coats have much to recommend them and are chosen by many women in preference to costlier furs. Usually the collar and cuffs are of contrasting fur dyed to match. A brown caracul coat may have a brown fox collar. The gray caracul coat shown has a collar of silver dyed fitch.

Some of the newest coats of the sports genre are of antelope, susliki and calfskin, raccoon and leopard cat. Among the most expensive coats are some of ermine, black, gray or brown caracul of the finest sort, mink, true broadtail. There is still a demand among well-dressed women for Persian lamb and beaver. Natural squirrel, though not so much worn as it was once, enjoys some favor and so does Japanese mink, which cannot always be told by the inexpert from the true American mink.

WHO WROTE THIS ?

1. "I profess not talking: only this,
   Let each man do his best."
2. "Blessings star forth for ever, but a curse
   Is like a cloud—it passes."
3. "Sin has many tools, but a lie is the handle which fits them all."
4. "Late, late, so late! but we can enter still;
   Too late, too late! ye cannot enter now."
5. "In proportion as society refines, new books must ever become more necessary."
6. "In every sorrowing soul I poured delight,
   And poverty stood smiling in my sight."
7. "What's done we partly may compute,
   But know not what's resisted."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1927

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

Benefic aspects dominate today, according to astrology, which finds the planetary government favorable for many activities on the Earth.

The forenoon is an auspicious time for conferences with bankers and for financial negotiations of every sort.

There is a promising sign for all sorts of advertising while this rule prevails.

Publicity of every sort should be beneficial under this direction of the stars, which is especially favorable for newspapers and magazines.

Writers are now to reap unusual returns for their work, and a new interest in American literature is indicated.

Although there is a sign encouraging to intrigue and misrepresentation, business deals are subject to a fairly lucky sway today.

Agitation regarding the prices of gasoline and other by-products of oil is forecast.

The late afternoon is read as beneficial to women and their ambitions. This is an auspicious date for entertaining friends.

Theatres should benefit from this rule, which foreshadows much interest from scholars and persons of wealth.

Art students will multiply during the winter, which should develop new demands for architectural and other designs for ornamentation.

Beauty applied to all things practical will be widely preached in the coming year, it is prophesied.

Persons whose birthdate it is should succeed in intellectual pursuits during the coming year.

Children born today, probably will be endowed with strong mentality. Many famous surgeons are born under this sign.

AGED COUPLE ARE VICTIMS OF COAL GAS

Friends Find Toronto Couple Dead in Their HOME.

LIVED ALONE.

Police Officers Almost Overcome in Making Entry.

TORONTO, November 21. — With every evidence of having tried to escape the poisonous gas fumes which filled their home at 266 Doverrourt Road during Sunday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Charles McCoy, aged 65 and 60 respectively, were found dead about 4.50 on Sunday afternoon. Poison fumes coming from the furnace had filled every room, and the police had to open windows on the downstairs floors before they could fight their way upstairs in search of the bodies of the victims.

The couple lived alone in the house. On Sunday afternoon Robert Morrow and his wife ,of 293 Willard Avenue ,called at the house to have dinner with Mr. and Mrs. McCoy. Unable to get any response when she rang the door bell, Mrs. Morrow tried the door, which was locked. The front parlor windows were still fastened, and, fearing something had happened his friends, Mr. Morrow went next door to the home of Mrs. Richard Polley. He was told that the McCoys had not been seen about during the day, and Mrs. Polley telephoned the police. The officers climbed in a cellar window. On reaching the kitchen both men were almost overcome by the poisonous gas. After hoisting windows the plainclothesmen rushed upstairs.

Both Found Dead.

Mrs. Emma McCoy was found on the floor at the entrance to the bathroom. Her husband had also wakened from his sleep and had endeavored to get out of the bedroom, as he was found lying on the floor. Both were in night attire.

UNKNOWN WOMAN QUESTION IS RAISED

Memorial To Such Heroine Suggested But May Not Be Carried Out.

LONDON, Nov. 21 (by The Canadian Press).—Is there an "Unknown Woman?" This question is raised in the Daily News by the suggestion to erect a memorial to the nurses and Englishwomen who lost their lives in the war near the tomb of the Unknown Warrior in Westminster Abbey. A writer in the journal of the National Citizens' Union urges a petition to the authorities to further the object.

Many women lost their lives during the war, the number of officers alone being 152, but it is doubtful whether one remained unidentified, the Daily News says. It was a sadly simple task to exhume the body from one of the countless graves of unknown soldiers in Flanders, but it would be a vastly different matter to find the grave of an unknown woman.

The general secretary of the National Citizens' Union, Col. H. D. Lawrence, has told the Daily News that no steps are being taken to forward the scheme at present.

"There is a memorial to women who lost their lives in the war at York Minster, where 'The Five Sisters' window has been re-erected to their memory. Whether this represents all the women who gave their lives in the war or merely the women of York, I do not know," he said.

Captain Stanley Abbott, late secretary-general to the National Citizens' Union, considers that the memorial to the Unknown Warrior included all who lost their lives in the war, and that women were included in the great idea.

SPORT AND LIFE ARE COMPARED

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe Speaks at Meeting of Friday Night Club.

RULES MUST BE FOLLOWED.

Rev. Joseph H. Sutcliffe drew a happy analogy between sports and the game of life, at the meeting of the Friday Night Club. A forceful speaker, he held the eager attention of his audience until the conclusion of his address.

Mr. Sutcliffe, formerly of Philadelphia, is the new minister at the Murray Street Baptist Church. His message was couched in the vernacular best known to teen age boys and proved a decided departure from the stereotyped style of inspirational talks. Speaking as one sportsman to another, he aptly compared the similarity of baseball and rugby with every day existence.

One must ferret out and eliminate one's weaknesses as far as possible or descend to lower ranks. No matter how good a ball player is at the bat there is usually some weakness. Just as soon as the opposing pitchers 'get on to' that weakness, his value is greatly lowered and unless he can overcome it he is rapidly headed for the minors.

It is possible to make an error and still have an opportunity of redeeming oneself, but if the rules of the game are broken the transgressor is literally kicked out. The same is applicable in life. If conventional laws are deliberately and flagrantly broken the guilty one is by common opinion ousted from society and even if one does get back in there is always a gulf between.

Success in any game or any phase of life comes only as the result of energetic and consistent training. More than anything else a teen age boy would prefer to be one of the scintillating stars of the sporting world than to top the list of social, business or political life. Consequently he will train for such a success, because he knows he has to. In the great game of life, however, there is a decided tendency to shirk all this preliminary training. If it is necessary in the one it is more so in the other. Some day each one will enter upon the crisis of his life and if not prepared for it will have to go into the minors and be a discredit to himself, his talents and to society generally.

SHORT STORY

(By Dorothy Douglas.)

Connie pulled on her sensible little hat and glanced down to see that her low-heeled walking shoes were clean and tidy, put her check book into her bag with a little flutter of the heart and started off to inspect a small farm in New Jersey that had been advertised in the morning paper.

And in a tiny flat, at the opposite side of the city, a sturdy, well set up man, cast a swift look at himself in the mirror to see that his tie was straight, felt in his inner pocket to make sure his check book was safely placed and went out with a slight feeling of elation. He was going to New Jersey to inspect a small chicken farm that had been advertised in the morning paper.

And these two from the opposite ends of the city caught the same ferry boat across the Hudson, boarded the same train for the suburban village on the outskirts of which lay the farm and arrived at the local station at the same time.

As a matter of fact there was only one snorting taxi beside the wooden platform, and both Connie and John McGuire went swiftly toward it.

"I want to go to Orchard Farm," said Connie and looked up and into the steady eyes of the man whose words almost echoed her own.

The taxi driver scratched his head.

It was McGuire who sensibly settled the question. "I'll sit outside with the driver if you don't mind—since our destination is the same."

So the taxi with its curious burden grumbled a bit at having to leave the platform but was soon speeding through lovely scenery to a spot of considerable isolation.

And because Connie was a waitress in a first-class restaurant they had each saved a decent sum because of the tips they had been given over a period of years. Each hoped the check book, so joyously brought on this trip, would be sufficiently indicative of wealth to allow of purchasing Orchard farm—should it prove the ideal spot.

"Oh," exclaimed Connie to herself as the taxi stopped, "what a heavenly place!"

"Ideal!" was McGuire's inward comment, "but a bit far from the station. I'd have to motor everything in." And by "everything" McGuire referred to the hundreds of dozens of eggs and chickens he hoped to be producing for the city restaurant.

"I suppose you want me to wait," said the taxi driver.

The situation was certainly funny but somehow Connie and McGuire took it all very calmly and entered the old-fashioned farmhouse to ask the price.

Connie's face fell and so did McGuire's when they heard that price. Five thousand dollars was more than either had bargained for. Each had saved $3,500.

"I wanted to raise poultry and make butter and jams to sell to the tea-room where I work," lamented Connie. "I have it all fixed up with the owner—she will buy all I can supply."

"And I had fixed up with my boss," confided McGuire, and tried not to show his keen disappointment.

"I'm so fed up with carrying trays of food to people that I don't see how I can go on with it," moaned Connie, "and this farm is simply the place I've had in my dreams for years. Someone else will surely get it before I save enough to make up the difference."

"You've said it," groaned McGuire. "I've gone to bed nights just planning a place like this and thinking of getting up at dawn while the dew's on everything and the sun coming up behind that hill and feeding the chickens and the cows and lighting the kitchen fire. Instead of that it means carrying dinners to business men for another year or two."

They both sighed heavily as they emerged from the house after giving the caretaker a tip for showing them all over the small farm.

"If you don't object I'll sit inside on the way back," said McGuire, "perhaps we can cheer each other up a bit."

And inside the taxi there was a tremendous amount of conversation going on. The two farm seekers had become very intimate regarding their financial status.

"If we could just have pooled it," laughed Connie, "it would have been easy, and we'd still have $2,000 to buy stock and carry us along until things got going properly."

McGuire turned and looked very steadily into Connie's honest eyes and had a brainstorm.

"How would you like to pool in with me? I'll buy the farm, start it going and get everything in fine shape in a month or two and maybe—maybe——" McGuire foundered just a wee bit and Connie's eyes fluttered downward, "we might sort of get better acquainted and —well you never can tell, we might——"

Connie laughed softly because he was getting so mixed up with a problem that was as plain as the nose on Katie's face

"Don't be silly," she said laughingly. "I don't think there's any 'might' about it. I liked you the very minute you were so thoughtful about sitting outside on this taxi."

"And I liked you the minute you let me come along—it almost looks like what folks call 'love at first sight.' My name's John McGuire," he added. "What's yours?"

"Connie—Connie Weldon."

"I say—Connie—shall we tell this driver to take us back so we can put down a desposit for—our farm, and what do you say to calling it Twin Tips Farm?"

"Fine," said Connie, and McGuire called out to the driver.

ELEPHANT RESENTS ORCHESTRA MUSIC

Monkeys Like Some Instruments and Resent Others.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 21.—"Poetre," a 12-year old Asiatic elephant at the Philadelphia Zoo, blew a trunkful of water over an orchestra which had come to play for her in behalf of science the other day.

The act was done during the playing of a rag-time piece. "Poetre," chained 10 yards from the orchestra, stretched forward until the end of her trunk dipped in the water of the pool in which the elephants bathe each afternoon.

With deliberate movement the elephant's trunk was raised and aimed at the musicians who upset their chairs in a scramble to escape. That was "Poetre's" reaction to music.

The orchestra played for the animals at the zoo so that Emerson Brown, director of the Zoological garden, could record their actions.

Classical music achieved a victory over jazz in the monkey house.

The first rumbles, squeaks, chirps and bleats from the instruments as they were tuned up in the monkey house brought consternation to the occupants. Big and little monkeys, chimpanzees, orang-outangs, mandrills, marmosets and all the others betrayed the most lively curiosity, mingled with other emotions.

Noticing the diverse reactions, the musicians tried each instrument separately. So the drummer tapped a rat-a-tat-tat on his drum and the monkeys cowered in corners of their cages in evident fear.

Then the violinist swung his bow over the strings and instantly the monkeys became quiet. Some came forward to the bars of their cages and gave evidence of finding the sound soothing. But the saxophone and the trumpet, each in turn, sent shivers of fear once more over the audience and the moment the musical instruments were stilled the monkeys set up an angry chattering.

But when the bass violin grunted out a few notes, the monkeys gazed at each other and at the instrument in seeming amazement. They crowded to the bars and blinked their eyes as if trying solemnly and with all the power at their command to understand.

Who Likes Washing Dishes?

Washing dishes occasionally may be pleasant—but to wash them 3 times a day, 365 days a year — that's different! Especially when there is all the other work to do. Still—they must be washed. But you can make the job much easier by using Gillex in the dishwater. Gillex softens the water and loosens the grease, thereby doing away with hard scouring. Use Gillex for dishwashing and all cleaning. You'll be delighted with it.

NEW RINK OPEN BY CHRISTMAS

Building Operations Commenced On Saturday on New Campbellford Rink.

DAVIDSON'S ARENA.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 21—Building operations for the new hockey rink are well under way. The lots on the southwest corner of Market and Front Streets have been cleared of the frame buildings which previously occupied them and the forms for the concrete foundations of the new building are already installed. The first of the concrete was poured Saturday afternoon.

The structure will be of sheet metal and concrete and will have an inside area of eighteen thousand square feet. The ice sheet will be slightly smaller than regulation size but large enough to be recognized by them as official. It will be 170 by 70 feet in place of the regulation 180 by 80. George Gibson of Stirling is under contract to have the building ready for ice December 17 this year and it is hoped that the new rink will be a going concern before the Christmas holiday.

The management will be in the hands of a local syndicate and the rink will be known as Davidson's Arena. It is expected that this move on the part of the local sportsmen will put Campbellford in the running again for hockey honors.

S. S. WORKERS DISCUSS WORK

East Fenelon and Verulam Association Meets at Dunsford.

ATTENDANCE GOOD

DUNSFORD, Nov. 21.—The Sunday School convention for East Fenelon and Verulam townships held here on Thursday afternoon and evening was a very great success in every way. Despite the soft snow which fell steadily all afternoon about 100 people were present for the afternoon session and in the evening nearly every seat in the spacious auditorium was taken.

The devotional services were taken by the pastor, the Rev. J. F. Everson, and the following hymns were used, "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty," "What a friend we have in Jesus," "There is work to do for Jesus," "All Hail the power of Jesus' name" and "Stand up for Jesus." John 1 and 1 and Ephesians 4 were the Scripture lessons read. Prayer was offered by Mr. Everson, who, before handing the meeting over to the president welcomed the delegates and expressed his satisfaction that the inclement weather had not kept the people away, and stated that the interest and enthusiasm manifest spoke well for Sunday School work.

The president, in his address, stressed the fact that Sunday School work was most important and should receive every attention from the people in our communities.

The treasurer reported 12 cents on hand. The roll call showed nearly all the eleven schools in the district represented with 41 present from Dunsford. During the afternoon, Isabell Thurston and Phyllis Thurston sang a duet. Berenice Thurston gave a recitation, "My Dime," and Norman Miller gave a reading entitled, "Give us men."

A memorial to the effect that North Emily United church Sunday school be admitted into the East Fenelon and Verulam association was introduced by the Rev. J. F. Everson, moved by P. H. Skitch and seconded by W. M. Thurston and unanimously carried.

Rev. J. H. N. Norton, of Cobourg, conducted the round table conference, and light was given upon several important questions touching Sunday School problems.

Rev. M. L. Hinton, of Bobcaygeon spoke on "Evangelism in the Sunday School," and stated that it was the business of the Sunday School not only to teach but to evangelize and character building was an essential to evangelism.

During the evening session the choir rendered a beautiful anthem, the Misses Mary and Jean Elliott a duet and Mr. Vernold Thurston, Mrs. Newton Thurston, P. H. Skitch and Milburn Thurston a quartette, all of which added greatly to the success of the service.

Rev. R. M. Paterson, of Janetville and Mr. Norton both gave addresses which were instructive and inspirational and well received.

Between the sessions the ladies of Dunsford served a hot supper in the hall to over 75 people.

It was recommended that the convention meet next year in Bobcaygeon during the first week in November.

There are to be three group conferences in the near future at Dunsford, Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls to lay further plans for carrying on the work.

The following are the officers elected for the ensuing year.

President, J. J. Robertson, Dunsford; vice-President, P. H. Skitch, Dunsford; Secretary and Treasurer, R. W. Gamble, Fenelon Falls. Children's Work, Mrs. G. M. Littleton, Fenelon Falls; Girls' Work, Miss Mammie Naylor, Fenelon Falls. Boy's work, Jefferson L. Ashmore, Lindsay; Young People's Work, J. J. Devitt, Bobcaygeon; Adults, Mrs. Roy Robertson, Dunsford; Home Department, Mrs. J. H. Taylor, Bobcaygeon; Teacher Training, Mrs. (Rev.) M. L. Hinton, Bobcaygeon, Missionary, Miss Grace Robertson, Temperance; G. W. Scott, Bobcaygeon.

GIRL GUIDES PRESENT PLAY

Three Pegs Put On By Girls of Campbellford Friday Night.

WELL ACTED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 21. — In the auditorium of the High School, the local Girl Guides presented a lively three-act comedy on Friday evening. Throughout the entire play, there was a strong appeal to the sense of humor, but underneath the light surface, ran a tale of love and devotion which would afford anyone food for thought for many days. The characters were nine in number and the organization was able to select their actresses from among their own numbers.

Miss Irene Stephens as Emily Weston, a rich, cultured woman of thirty-five, was one of the leading amateurs. Her's was the most important role with the possible exception of that of Muriel Kingston as Aunt Euphelia. She played a prominent part throughout. The parts of the two Irish domestics in the household of Emily Weston, were taken very acceptably by Marjorie Ackerman and Elsie Connor as Lizzie and Sarah respectively. Elsie Bertrand as Mrs. Conti, a talkative Italian woman, took her part very well. Ruby Townsend showed considerable ability as Mrs. Barclay, a friend of Emily Weston. 'The Three Pegs' which was the name of the play, were: Madge, Miss Dorothy West; Peg, Reta Palliser, and Marguerite, Ivey Ray. It is concerning these three girls that the story was written.

Emily Weston has for some time been the more or less unwilling hostess to her mother's sister, Aunt Euphelia. This estimable lady is at last about to depart, much to the relief of her niece and the delight of the two servants. They do not conceal their delight. But a telephone call at the moment she is departing arouses the aunt's curiosity and when she finds Emily is about to adopt a girl companion, considers it her duty to remain and interview the girl, and be on hand to assist in her training.

The girl, Madge, who is really Margaret, an American girl, arrives escorted by Mrs. Conti. It develops that she is not the girl who is expected, but her frail condition and her apparent breeding, prey on the sympathy of Emily and the girl is allowed to remain temporarily. This is much to the aunt's disgust. She has sent for a distant relative of her own and will move heaven and earth in order to keep the money in the family and finally gets most of it into her own hands. In a few minutes her bid for the family fortune arrives in the form of Marguerite, a brazen sort of girl who has a mania for gum chewing and movies. Her fondness for gaudy clothes and her very apparent lack of breeding are not points in her favor. Almost immediately the third Peg arrives. She is a lively, lovable little thing who has been recommended for the position and who has given up her job in the factory in order to come. She is the girl who has been recommended by the doctor.

When the maids find that the aunt is not leaving, they give notice to Emily. She raises their wages and they remain in her service. Then the battle begins. It is a mixed affair and some time is required for it to come to a crisis. Two of the Pegs and the maids are arrayed against the aunt and her niece, Marguerite. The latter are successful in having Peg ejected from the house in disgrace. But by the crafty employment of artificial ghosts and such things as spiders in the aunt's bed, stones in her biscuits, thorns in her hose and a multitude of things calculated to irritate her into departing, they finally wring confessions from the lady that she has been the cause of breaking off the marriage that was to have taken place between Emily and the doctor. She accomplished her end but the simple expedient of intercepting mail and writing a few untrue letters herself.

Naturally, Emily is furious and, after fifteen years, orders her aunt from the house. It also develops that she has done all this in order to obtain money to pay for expensive operations on the eyes of her stepson. It appears that the boy was suddenly stricken with blindness when his father died and had been undergoing expensive treatment ever since. This fact is disclosed by a telegram that arrived. The result is that Emily and the doctor resume the love affair. Marguerite is secretly married and divulges her secret. Madge locates her real mother after fourteen years and Peg is taken as the adopted daughter in the house of Emily Weston.

DEATH THWARTS DISCOVERY

Dr. Sidney Rawson Wilson, whose death attracted worldwide attention, was believed by his friends to have been on the eve of a great discovery when he was killed while experimenting on himself with a new gas. He was found dead in his study wearing a gas mask. Beside him was the latest apparatus for administering gas. A daring experimenter with anaesthetics, he often experimented on himself, and he told his friends that he was trying to invent a mixture of gas and oxygen under which a person might be conscious of everything except pain.

Canadiens and Maroons Tied 1-1 at Montreal

MONTREAL TEAMS PLAY TO TIE IN WHIRLWIND OVERTIME GAME

Both Teams at Mid-Season Form To Play Speedy Battle.

PLENTY OF THRILLS

Canadiens' Defense Shows Itself Capable of Holding Their Own.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press).—That Canadiens and Montreal Maroons will continue this season their closely fought, low scoring matches was shown Saturday night at the Forum when ten minutes of whirlwind overtime hockey failed to break a one to one tie. The teams were at mid-season form and the game was speedy and packed with thrills for the entire seventy minutes. Canadiens, opening their National Hockey League season here, introduced to the fans two substitutes who made good from the start, Lafrance, formerly of the middle west, was relief centre to Pete Lepine, and turned in a splendid performance while Martin Burke, formerly of Port Arthur, gave Herb Gardiner, Canadiens veteran defenceman and captain, frequent reliefs. 11,000 fans witnessed the struggle.

Dunc. Munro, Maroons captain, snared a loose puck at centre ice half way through the second period and stick-handled his way around the Canadien defence. He held his shot until two feet from Hainsworth and the latter did not have a chance. Not until nine minutes of the third period was over did Canadiens tie the score when Joliat caught a rebound about ten feet in front of the Maroon goal and flicked an ankle high shot past Benedict.

Checking was heavy and penalties frequent especially in the second period and the first half of the third. Rarely during this time were the teams at full strength. During the hectic second period trouble flared up that for a minute looked serious. Mantha considering he had been checked unfairly by Dunc Munro, started punching the chunky Maroon. Although the latter confined himself to guarding the blows both were banished for major penalties and fifteen dollars fines imposed. In the meantime most of the other players became involved although no serious scrapping occurred. The referees banished Leduc, Larochelle, Stewart and Carson. As Martin Burke was already in the penalty box this left Lepine guarding Hainsworth with Dutton and Seibert in front of Benedict. Lepine successfully ragged the puck until Burke returned and the period ended.

Howie Morenz, star centre of the Canadiens, was out of the game through injuries. However Pete Lepine's sweeping stick held down the centre ice position. Canadiens outskated their heavier opponents and outshot them on goal, but the Maroon defence was forcing the Habitants shots and the sting was taken from most of them. With the exception of an occasional combination play between Carson and Stewart, and Stewart and Seibert the Maroons depended upon one man rushes and it was from one of these that their goal was scored.

Canadiens defence, Gardiner, Mantha, Leduc, and Burke, showed itself as husky and capable of exchanging heavy checking. Joliat was at his best, being easily the star of the Canadiens forward line. He earned penalties, however, through a tendency to scrap.

Sir Henry Gray threw in the puck. Right at the start Mickey Ion, the new referee from the West, showed he intended enforcing the defence rule when he benched Gagne for being the third man behind his blue line. The Canadien supporters thought their team was in the lead early in the game when Mantha batted in an offside goal.

The third period opened with Gardiner and Lepine facing Seibert and Dutton. Lepine almost scored as their teammates came pouring on the ice at the conclusion of their penalties.

Line up:

Maroons—Goal, Benedict; defence, Dutton, Munro; centre, Stewart; wings, Phillips, Seibert; subs, Ward, Touhey, Oatman, Emms, Carson.

Canadiens—Goal, Hainsworth; defence, Gardiner, Mantha; centre, Lepine; wings, Gagne, Joliat; subs, Lafrance, Leduc, Larochelle, Hart, Burke.

SENATORS TAKE 3 TO 1 DECISION

Enter Winning Columns of N. H. L. for First Time This Season.

SPEEDY GAME

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press).—By playing their opponents with their own form of attack—speed, plus more speed—Ottawa's Senators downed Pittsburgh by a 3 to 1 tally here Saturday night and entered the winning columns of the National Hockey League for the first time this season. The Senators brandished the same masterful variety of puck-chasing that carried them to the world's championship last season and for the most part had the swirling, dashing Pirate band overwhelmed. Capt. Roy Worters, the mite goalie for the Pittsburgh sextette was forced to raise to phenomenal heights in net-tending to keep the score down to the close figures.

Standing out in bold relief in the ranks of the victors was the podgy figure of Hec Kilrea, the youthful wing who only this season was graduated to a berth on the regular front line of the titleholders, was a thorn in the side of the Bucaneer crew from the opening whistle until the final gong. His rushes on the offensive were a continual menace to the visitors' citadel, and twice he pounded venomous shots past Worters that gave the Pirate pilot no chance to save. The Ottawa captain, George Boucher, rammed home the other counter for the locals.

It was not for want of trying that the young Pirate team did not succeed in handing the titleholders their third straight defeat of the present schedule. The canary clad clan charged always with the lightning-like speed for which they are noted but the Senators were backchecking like demons and only in the final period did the thrusts of the visitors really threaten. It was in this frame that Harold Darragh and his milks crashed through the Ottawa rear guards with the wingman flipping the disc over to the center player who in turn back-handed the rubber past Goalie Connell for the sole Pittsburgh tally.

Despite the fact that the first period went scoreless there was enough real hockey jammed into the frame to keep His Excellency Lord Willingdon, his vice-regal party, and the other 3,000 odd fans in the Auditorium off their seats almost continuously. Worters exhibited many gymnastic feats to turn the Senators back as they outshot his men 19 tries to 6, but in the second, he could not save the drive Kilrea let fly as the latter cut across in front of his cage three and one-half minutes after the stanza had opened.

Boucher bagged his counter seven minutes later by feinting to the left and letting the rubber go after he had split the pirate defence with a terrific rush the length of the ice.

The final frame was pretty much give and take. Miles notched his goal near the start. Kilrea bagged his second after six minutes more of torrid bombardment.

The Pirates were very much on the offensive at the last but they could not trick the Senator net guardian.

Two of Ottawa's newest recruits, Milt Halliday and Len Grosvenor, were injected into the fray and both showed up well, especially young Halliday who replaced Nighbor for the greater part of the final period and gave a sparkling exhibition of back-checking.

The teams lined up:

Pittsburgh—Goal, Worters; defence, Langlois, McKinnon; centre, Milks; wings, Arbour, Darragh; subs, McCurry, Drury, Cotton, White, R. Smith, McGuire.

Ottawa—Goal, Connell; defence, G. Boucher, Clancy; centre, Nighbor; wings, Finnigan, Kilrea; subs, A. Smith, Broadbent, Halliday, Grosvenor.

Referees—Billy Bell and Alex Romeril.

The summary:

First Period.

No score.

Penalties—Langlois, Drury, Nighbor.

Second Period.

1—Ottawa, Kilrea, :30.
2—Ottawa, Boucher, 10.55.
Penalties—McKinnon.

Third Period.

3—Pittsburgh, Milks, :55.
4—Ottawa, Kilrea, 6.25.
Penalties—White, Langlois, Smith, Boucher.

Shots on goal—Worters: 19-13-13—45. Connell: 6-6-10—22.

When you get that tired, lay-me-down-and-die feeling take 15 to 30 drops of Seigel's Syrup in a glass of water. Does the trick and safely. You'll feel like new.

MONTREAL JUNIORS DEFEAT RIDEAUS

Advance Step Further in Quest for Dominion Football Honors.

MONTREAL, Quebec, November 21. Canadian Press. — The Montreal Amateur Athletic Association Juniors advanced one step further along the road in their quest for Dominion foot ball honors when they defeated Rideaus of Ottawa, 18 to 7, here Saturday. The Quebec Rugby Union champions will meet the University of Toronto, Junior champions of Ontario, in the Dominion finals here next Saturday. By their victory Saturday M. A. A. A. eliminated the Paddlers from Ottawa by a round score of 40 to 9.

M.A.A.A. proved to be much the superior team in their game with Rideaus on Saturday but did not dispose of their opponents with the same ease as when the two teams met in the first game of the play-off in Ottawa a week ago.

Although M.A.A.A. outplayed the visitors in practically every department of play and were leading 7 to 1 at half time the Ottawa team staged an attack in the opening moments of the last quarter that for a time swept all before it. Probably it was because M.A.A.A. with a good lead in the game and an overwhelming margin on the round score began to take things too easily, but Rideaus, nevertheless showed more concerted fight than at any time during the game and finally saw their efforts rewarded with a touch that brought the score up to 8 to 7 and a fair chance of at least tying up the game.

It was at this point that the wheelers rallied and proved themselves a stronger team than Rideau, for faced with the possibility of defeat on their own grounds, they went on a rampage that saw two touchdowns scored in less than three minues of play. Both touches came after the headlinesman had given the referee notice of the three minutes of play warning.

Bruins Show Speed To Defeat Cougars

BOSTON, November 21 (Canadian Press). — Superior speed and mauling power gave the Boston Bruins a 5 to 2 edge over the Detroit Cougars on Saturday night in the second game of the National Hockey League season. The Cougars, although light and fast, were outskated by the heavy Boston outfit, and at the same time found the Bruin defence pair almost impossible to crack. Frank Frederickson caged two of the Boston goals.

BLACK HAWKS LOSE TO LEAFS

Toronto Team Uncovers Defence-Piercing Combination To Win.

SCORE 4 TO 2.

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—The class of hockey that enabled Chicago Black Hawks to hold Bruins to a tie in Boston, and to subdue the rugged, hard-checking Maroons in Montreal was not good enough to send Maple Leafs fluttering down to defeat here Saturday night.

It may have been that the third game in less than a week was too much for Hawks so early in the season, but be that true or otherwise, the whirlwind, high-geared attack by the men in blue and white probably would have beaten any team under any and all conditions.

Certainly it stopped the soaring Hawks, who were outplayed and outscored the last forty minutes of the game. Four to two was the final score after the teams had come off the ice at the close of the first period, each credited with one goal.

Speed and combination gave the Leafs the honors of the night. Then they checked the Hawks so closely along the rail and in centre that Barney Stanley's athletes dashed around at times so much like bewildered sheep that they were unable to consistently penetrate the Toronto defence.

The first period failed to provide the hockey or excitement that popped out in the last two. Neither team appeared able to get going and the twenty minutes was pretty well taken up with much scrimmaging around after the puck in "No Man's Land."

Wasted Opportunity.

The Leafs had a chance when Went worth and Irvin drew penalties, leaving the Hawks with but four men on the ice against their opponents' six, but the only real shot during the advantage was stopped by Chuck Gardiner, who took Bailey's drive cleverly.

Then McCaffery was dropped over the boards to relieve Patterson, and the wily Mac soon had things straight ened away. Leading attack after attack on the Hawks' cage, McCaffery finally was rewarded, when, flashing through the centre, he tipped the rubber over to Day as he came to the defence and the captain glazed it past Gardiner so fast that the youngster did not have a chance to save.

That goal added some impetus to the game and the teams commenced to show signs of what was to come later on. Combination oozed out in spots with the Leafs having the best of the play. Then Carson and Bailey drew penalties within seconds of each other, and while Beattie Ramsay struggled mightily to hold the Hawks out until the two players could get back on the ice all was to no avail and Dick Irvin finally jockeyed into a scoring position to beat Roach with a low shot into the corner of the net.

The second frame was under way about three minutes when Wentworth drew a major penalty and while he was off McKay displeased the officials and he also was jugged. It was an opening that the Leafs, now playing sparkling hockey, could not pass up, and when Keeling raced along the rail, passed the puck into centre, Carson pounced on it to whistle in a shot that completely baffled Gardiner.

DEMPSEY MAKES COUNTER CHARGE

Says Kearns Misappropriated Half Million and Enters Suit For It.

NEW YORK, November 21 (Canadian Press). — Jack Dempsey has charged that Jack Kearns, his former manager, with wrongfully appropriating half a million dollars of his earnings, it was revealed to-day. In answer to Kearns' suit for $333,333 damages for breach of contract, Dempsey demands half a million, with interest, since they parted company in 1925.

PILES

Messy Salves

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in hundreds of cases with a marvelous record of success such a wonderful record that HEM-ROID is now sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Bond's Drug Store, McDermid and Jury, and McDermid Drug Company today. It has given quick and lasting relief to thousands and must do the same for you or money back.

EVERTON CLUB DEFEATED BY SUNDERLAND

Losers Are Unable to Tie Goal Scored in the First.

ENGLISH SOCCER

Aston Villa Thoroughly Outplayed by Manchester United.

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 21.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Everton, leading team in the first division of the English Soccer League went down to defeat at home before 35,000 spectators on Saturday. They were beaten by Sunderland. The one goal which decided the match was scored by Hargreaves after twelve minutes of play. Everton played like wild men and once appeared to have equalized. The ball seemed to pass the line from a corner, but the referee would not allow it was a goal.

Twenty-five thousand saw Newcastle United miss a chance to get to the head of the league averages. They could only draw at home with Burnley. McDonald missed a chance to score for Newcastle in the first half from a penalty. Beel put Burnley ahead seven minutes after the interval and Gallagher equalized seven minutes from the finish.

Manchester United thoroughly outplayed Aston Villa at Manchester in the presence of 25,000 people. Patridge scored twice and Spence, Macpherson and Johnson for the United. The Villa goal was secured by Cook.

Birmingham and Arsenal played a one-all tie at Birmingham. Hoar scored for the Arsenal after half an hour's play and Crosbie equalized late on in the second half. Stan Davies, the Welsh International left winger, made his first appearance for Birmingham. He played last season with West Bromwich Albion.

Another close match was that between Tottenham Hotspurs and Sheffield United at White Hart Lane. Osborne and Elkes registered for the Spurs and Gillespie and Patridge for the United.

Blackburn Rovers got their one goal— and the one which won the match—from the West Ham United through Mitchell, who headed in a pass. Mitchell later missed a chance for another counter from a penalty.

Cardiff City had Derby County three down at the end of the first half hour, goals having been scored for the Welsh team by Len Davies (twice) and W. Davies. Then the County got a brace in quick succession through successful readers from Stephenson. Crooks put Derby on even terms with their opponents shortly after the interval. Matson added a fourth for Cardiff and Bedford equalized for Derby just before the close.

Huddersfield Town owed the three goals they secured to blank Bury through Brown who netted twice and Smith.

Leicester City's two goals came from Chandler and Hone. Trotter gaoled for the Wednesday.

The issue in the Chelsea-Nottingham Forest match in the second division games was in doubt till near the end. Thain opened the scoring for the Londoners and Barrett missed an easy chance from a penalty. Gibson equalized just after the interval, but Crawford sent Chelsea ahead again minutes from time.

The surprise of the whole series of English soccer matches was the win of Notts County over Barnsley by nine goals to nil. In the first half Stainforth netted three times and Mills once for Notts. After the turn round Mills bagged four goals and Haden one. The Notts' total was the largest number of goals scored in the English second division games for some years.

REDS SHOOT AT "HATE TARGETS"

At 30 per cent of the Soviet factories in Russia the workmen engage daily in rifle practice. The propaganda department of the commissariat of education is supplying them with targets, which take the form of popularly hated persons. One of the favorite targets is a representation of Sir Austen Chamberlain wearing his famous monocle. The factory chiefs give a prize to the workers who hit the monocle. An effigy of Vice-President Dawes is also used, the bull's-eye being the general's pipe.

QUEEN'S SQUAD LOSE TO TIGERS IN SEMI-FINALS

Pep. Leadley Kicks First Eleven Points After Tri-color Touchdown.

SCORE 21 TO 6.

Tigers Cross Inter-Collegiate Line Twice in Second Half.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 21—Frank "Pep" Leadley was the juggernaut that destroyed the hope of a Dominion title for Queen's University Saturday afternoon at George Richardson Stadium. The professor of punt and drop kicks booted eleven points, three field goals and a pair of singles, in a little more than twenty minutes from the start of the second period, and his Tiger teammates added ten more to enable the Interprovincial banner-bearers to win by 21 to 6 and qualify for the O.R.U. senior finals against Balmy Beach.

For four years Leadley was the idol of the Tricolor supporters, and the Queen's worshippers at his shrine cheered his climb to the heights of gridiron fame. On Saturday he returned to his Alma Mater wearing the yellow and black livery of Hamilton Tigers, and his kicking pulled Tigers from behind to overcome a five-point deficit and started them on the way to one of the most decisive victories of the year.

And while Leadley was hitting heavy blows at the morale of the Tricolor team, Harry Batstone, his greatest rival and friend, sat on the Queen's bench unable to play in the game which was to end the five-year controversy of which was the better of this pair of backfield kings. Huddled in a welter of blankets, Batstone was a figure of despondency as he watched the Tricolor droop and fade before the battering-ram attacks of the Tiger plungers and the uncanny booting of his rival. Six thousand fans, a meagre crowd for a game which promised so much interest, were sadly disappointed when it became known that Batstone's bruised knee would prevent him from taking his regular place on the Queen's rearguard, and in the latter stages, when the Tiger supremacy became apparent to even the most partial Tricolor rooter, much of the glamor was taken from the proceedings.

A Brilliant Substitute

But if Queen's spark of hope for Dominion honors was quenched, the Tricolor supporters were at least somewhat commensurated by the uncovering of one of the most promising backfield prospects in years. Howard Carter, a freshman from Sarnia Collegiate, filled the gap left by Batstone's enforced absence, and his superb punting and all-round play caused the Tricolor supporters to forget for the moment the loss of the sorrel-top field general. Carter's long lifts kept the Tricolor in the hunt for half the game, and his running back of punts and clever passing indicated that he will be the bulwark of next year's team. At one stage of the game, when Tigers, having tasted blood, were pressing the Tricolor vigorously, Carter ran three punts out from behind his own goal-line and relieved the harassed Queen's machine from threatening situations.

Though the spectators were disappointed in not seeing Batstone and Leadley on the opposing rear-guards they were theated to a duel between two of the best flying wings in senior rugby, "Bubs" Britton, the lad who broke up the McGill game last week, and Glen Small, two hundred-pound youngster from Hamilton. Britton scored Queen's lone touchdown on a fumble, and Small scored Tiger's first try on a similar misplay. There was not much to choose between the pair defensively, but Small's smashing plunges were the best offensive bets of the Big Four team. He smashed through the Tricolor wing-line time after time, and in the fourth period broke into the open field, passing to Leadley when tackled, and the Tiger star was only downed on Queen's twenty-yard line. Britton was a marked man. Eddie Wright and Jack Baker dogged his every move, and he was unable to get away on any of the runs which featured his play against the Shagmen.

Belgian-American Team Win Cycle Race

DETROIT, Mich., November 21 (Canadian Press).—The Belgian-American team of Gerard Debaets and Anthony Beckman won the international six-day bicycle race here on Saturday night, finishing three laps ahead of the French team of Faudet and Marcillac, runners-up. The winners assumed the lead at the start of the grind last Sunday, and were never headed.

The finish of the race was featured by a spectacular sprint by the French team, which came from fifth to win the second place berth, occupied during most of the contest by the Zucchetti Brothers team of Italy. The Zucchettis were reduced to fourth in the final standing. Wyndau and Vermergerben, the Belgian pair, were third.

During the past season the St. Paul club of the American Association made 209 double plays, a new world's record.

The record of 56 two-base hits made by E. J. Delehanty in the season of 1899 still holds good in the National League.

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, November 20:

Sunday.—Breakfast: French omelet made of the whites of eggs in milk, stewed figs, melba toast. Lunch: Buttered macaroni, cooked spinach, raw celery Dinner Jellied tomato consomme broiled chicken, string beans, baked eggplant, cauliflower salad, ice-cream.

Monday.—Breakfast: Coddled egg, two or three slices of crisp bacon, stewed prunes, melba toast. Lunch: Eight-ounce glass of grapejuice. Dinner: Vegetable soup, Salisbury steak, spinach, turnips and tops, salad of sliced tomatoes with celery, gelatinized milk with whipped cream and prune juice.

Tuesday.—Breakfast: Cottage cheese, melba toast, applesauce. Lunch: Baked ground beefs, combination salad of celery, tomatoes, and small peas on lettuce. Dinner: Mushroom soup, roast mutton, steamed carrots with parsley, salad of cold asparagus (canned), baked apple.

Wednesday.—Breakfast: Baked egg, melba toast, stewed raisins. Lunch: Oranges as desired. Dinner: Broiled lamb chops, string beans, cooked celery, McCoy salad, pineapple gelatin (shredded pineapple in gelatin).

Thursday.—Breakfast: Coddled egg, Melba toast, stewed apricots. Dinner: Ripe olives, salted roasted nuts, roasted turkey or chicken, melba toast dressing, baked egg plant, mashed carrots and turnips, prune whip. Supper: Cold roasted turkey or chicken, combination salad of celery, tomatoes, cucumbers and chopped cabbage.

Friday. — Breakfast: Re-toasted breakfast food with cream (no sugar), ripe or stewed figs. Lunch: Raw apples as desired. Dinner: Clear vegetable broth made of celery and tomatoes, baked white fish, spinach, salad of sliced tomatoes and celery; no dessert.

Saturday.—Breakfast: French omelet, melba toast, stewed raisins. Lunch: Sandwiches made of real wholewheat bread with lettuce and peanut butter, raw carrot salad. Dinner: American cheese, cooked cucumbers, asparagus, combination salad of tomatoes, cucumbers and celery on lettuce, pineapple sponge.

Cauliflower Salad: Separate the tender flowerets of a head of cauliflower and arrange on a nest of shredded lettuce and endive. Over all pour a dressing made of peanut butter thinned with a little milk, when ready to serve. If you have never eaten raw cauliflower, you will be surprised at its pleasing, nutlike flavor.

Questions and Answers.

Question—M. M. C. asks: "Will you please write an article giving your views on childbirth (first child) at the age of 39 as compared with the woman of 29? Is it exceedingly risky for a woman to bear her first child after the age of 35? Please also state if you think a woman who has led a sedentary life is taking a greater chance than the woman who has led a more active life."

Answer: Theoretically, it should be more difficult to bear a child at the age of 39 than at 29, but by actual observation I have found that the woman at the older age can have almost a painless childbirth if she will diet and exercise properly during pregnancy. Some of the easiest births I have observed have been with women around 40 who have trained properly for this important event in their lives.

Question—M. F. H. writes: "Kindly state in the column what fruits contain acid. Or, if all fruits do contain acid, does cooking destroy it? I would like to eat fruit but cannot if they contain acid, so I am very desirous of knowing which fruits do not contain acid, either cooked or uncooked."

Answer: Fruit acids are changed somewhat by cooking. Also, dried fruits have less acid than when fresh. Many people are afraid of using fruit because of the acid, but could do so if they understood how to use the fruits properly. It is better to use only the stewed fruits with meals, and take fresh fruits by themselves, making an entire meal of one kind of fruit. Practically all fruits contain some acid, but because of their effect upon increasing the flow of bile their final reaction in the body is alkaline. If you have overacidity of the stomach, you will find that a fruit fast of a few days will greatly benefit you.

ILLINOIS HOLDS 'BIG TEN, TITLE

Outcome of Six Out of Seven Sectional Championships Still in Doubt.

FOOTBALL RACE

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 21.—(Associated Press). — The football race is nearly run but the outcome of the six of the seven outstanding hectional championships throughout the country remained in doubt today as the college forces poised for the dash down the home stretch.

Bob Zuppke's well drilled Illino's eleven hold the only major title definitely bestowed so far. The surprisingy successful drive of the Illinois to the top of the western conference "big ten" closed Saturday with a 13 to 0 victory over Ohio State while Minnesota was taking the measure of Michigan, 13 to 7. Both of these teams finished their conference campaigns undefeated but where the Illini boasted five straight victories. Minnesota won only three and had its record marred by a tie with Indiana.

Yale's victory over Harvard by 14 to 0 further strengthened the claims of the Elis to eastern supremacy and the onward sweep of Georgia to its eighth straight triumph over Mercer, were other features of Saturday's battles. With one notable exception it was a rarely successful day for favorites all along the line, but the outstanding upset saw Missouri's Tigers knocked from their lofty perch in the Missouri Valley conference at the hands of the Kansas Jayhawkers.

As a result the Tigers found themselves yesterday in a tie with Nebraska, which concluded its conference slate with an easy win over the Kansas Aggies. Missouri can lift the conference title on a percentage basis by conquering Oklahoma on Thanksgiving Day.

In the east there are few dissenting voices to the award of major team honors to Yale. The Elis, beaten only by Georgia, have finished their season, but Pittsburgh meets Penn. State on Thursday in a battle that may decide whether the Panthers can continue to dispute Yale's championship claims. Washington and Jefferson, also unbeaten, can remain in the debate by overcoming West Virginia.

There was no week-end shift among the leaders in the southern, south-western, Rocky Mountain, or Pacific conferences, in all of which decisive battles are yet to come.

Georgia's unbeaten and untied array added Mercer to its victims, 26 to 7. Vanderbilt defeated Maryland, 39 to 20, the only other southern conference tilt.

All three of the Pacific Coast title contenders were victorious, with Stanford overthrowing California, 13 to 6, in the big classic before a crowd of 90,000, the largest of a day which also saw a crowd of 86,000 at the Michigan-Minnesota joust of all-American talent. Southern California, strongest rival for conference honors, defeated Washington State, while Idaho kept in the race by defeating the Oregan Aggies. The principal two Rocky Mountain contenders, Colorado Aggies and Colorado College, scored decisive victories as final tune-ups for their own decisive tilt on Saturday.

Marking time, the pace setters in the south-western conference look forward to the big climax on Thanksgiving Day when the leading Texas Aggies battle Texas University, while Southern Methodist, now in the runner-up role with Arkansas, plays Texan Christian.

CRIMSON LOSE TO ANCIENT RIVALS

Harvard Defeated by Yale 14-0 in Annual Gridiron Classic.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Down trodden Harvard cuffed and battered by minor foes in a season as erratic as the Crimson ever has known, rose savagely Saturday to paste in the gridiron book of 1927, a final page of glory—but the glory of defeat.

Triumph came to Yale, huge and powerful and flushed with successes that have swept the bulldog to the pinnacle of eastern football, while Harvard fumbled about somowhere near the bottom of the heap. Victory in the 46th meeting of these ancient rivals came to Yale by a score of 14 to 0, but to Harvard came also everlasting satisfaction in an eleven that "never knew when it was licked", that nearly tore itself to pieces "trying," and closed the combat with a surge halted only by every ounce of the bulldog's strength.

Only twice did there flash in that crack backfield at Yale the brilliance that mowed down Army, Dartmouth and Princetown with drive and precision. Dogged crimson forwards battered their way into the heart of critical plays. Harvard backs broke up forward pass after forward pass, and forced Yale to win through execution of two perfect plays.

Yale had two new heroes tonight to add to those that have glinted through the generations of gridiron conflict that have made the meetings of Harvard and the Eli the annual football classic of New England. And they were the heroes of the two perfect plays.

One was John Garvey, flaming successor of Bruce Caldwell, in the hub of the bull dog attack, the other was Bill Hammersley, chief of the blue kicker.

It was Garvey who took the ball two yards back of mid-field near the close of the first period and raced around Harvard's right end, cut back to the centre of the field, then with perfect interference of Becker and Scott, galloped the full 52 yards to a touchdown. Just two periods later it was Hemmersely who turned the same end on Harvard's 45 yard stripe, followed an almost identical path, and finally outran the tail end of the crimson defence to shoot over the line for the final score.

These two thrusts of Yale's young horsemen, riding hard along the trail Caldwell blazed before ineligibility forced him to the sidelines, were enough to clinch the victory and send the 55,000 who jammed every neck of the huge Harvard horseshoe into thunderous applause. For Harvard could fight, battle desperately on defense, without showing more than faint indication of offensive power until the final period.

Then Dave Guarnaccio and Art French teaming in a flair of perfectly executed lateral passes, Harvard drove 40 yards in five plays for Yale's 30 yard stripe only to forward pass recklessly into the arm of a waiting Eli back. Yale battered her way out of danger, drove Harvard back to her own 18 yard line, but Harvard held and again the Crimson laterals took hold.

French tossed one to Guaraccia for ten yards and when the play was reversed, French fooled the entire Yale team and raced 35 yards to Yale's 43-yard line. Once more with French carrying was the ball stopped with a clear field ahead when Lampe, a substitute Yale back, caught the Harvard star by one foot from behind on the Eli 23-yard line.

The Harvard offensive for the day was over when Yale held there for downs. Only once previously had the Crimson threatened and then only for a moment in the first period when Johnny Hoben, Yale's quarterback, fumbled a punt at midfield to set the stage for a Harvard drive that reached the blue 17 yard line before collapsing.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

MIGHT HAVE BEENS.

The saddest man I ever saw
Was not a fellow down and out.
The fellow with the drooping jaw
Had something else to fret about.
I said, "I hear not long ago
You made some money in a trade."
He answered sadly, "Yes, it's so—
But think of what I might have made."

There always is a corner lot
We might have purchased for a song;
But, since it happens we did not,
We think the world has done us wrong.

This life has many kinds of cares,
If counting cares a man begins,
And quite the foolishest are theirs
Who worry over might-have-beens.

If you must think of something sad,
The way that certain people do,
Then think of mumps you never had,
And wells you never fell into.
The corner lot you might have missed,
But, if you stop and think a bit,
You'll find that there is quite a list
Of troubles that you never hit.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—Fred Clarke, member of the Kingston police force for the past eight years, died early to-day, following an operation for appendicitis. The late Constable Clarke was a native of Petworth, in the northern part of Frontenac county.

No Sale When Twenty Dollars Is Offered For a Nickel

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press.) — The New York Daily News to-day says that perfectly good twenty dollar bills cannot be sold to New Yorkers for a nickel each. Two reporters for the News offered bank notes in Times Square and along Fifth avenue at five dollars each and found no takers. Then bills were offered at one dollar. When dropped to a nickel a man in Fifth avenue called a policeman. Patrolmen also refused to make purchase at bargain rate.

WHAT BARRYMORE HIMSELF THOUGHT OF HIS 'DON JUAN'

"A Ruthless Amorist With Extraordinary Recuperative Physique."

John Barrymore, who appears as the greatest lover of all ages in the spectacular Warner Brothers production of "Don Juan," now playing at the Regent Theatre, had this to say about the picture when it was completed:

"I enjoyed creating the character of Don Juan particularly because it is totally different from that of Ahab Ceeley in 'The Sea Beast,' my last picture. The character of Don Juan follows in a straight, honest line without palliation or subterfuge. If the picture is successful it will be because he doesn't reform or fade out in an aura of respectable domesticity with cows browsing peacefully in the distance and a row of milk bottles on the front stoop.

"He's true to his psychology as an engaging, ruthless amorist, a seeker after perfection with an extraordinarily recuperative physique. It might be well to remember that this is a character part.

"The difficulty with a character of this kind lies in keeping it from becoming repetitive. It might be pleasantly stimulating for the leading character to bounce from one lady to another, but could easily be rather dreary to watch.

"This difficulty was happily transcended in the scenario, greatly assisted by the extraordinary cast which the Warner Brothers with great trouble and expense assembled. In fact, the Warners and myself were at one in wishing to engage the strongest cast seen in a picture for years."

AT THE GRAND.

BRINGING UP FATHER IN POLITICS.

With a number of old friends in the cast, Gus Hill junior's annual production of Bringing up Father this time in Politics, delighted good sized audiences, at the Grand Opera House, on Saturday afternoon and evening. Tuneful ditties, snappy stepping, and witty repartee some of it new, and some not so new, featured the performance.

Jiggs, Maggie and Dinty were as usual the favorites. John W. Jess was back in the title role, while Emma Weston and Ed. J. Morris again played the other leading parts.

Maggie's efforts to get Jiggs elected to congress formed the basis of what little plot there was, and Jigg's lack of interest in the campaign somewhat irked her.

The love interest was provided by Jigg's daughter Kitty and Jimmy McCormick, who promised they might get married if Jiggs were elected, refused to take the chance, and eloped.

Dinty's favorite advice to Jiggs in his difficulties was 'Laugh it off," advice that Dinty didn't like when it was given him in return. Dinty's effort to get rid of his mother-in-law by having Jiggs pose as his mother, and fight with the other old lady, was spoiled when Dinty's wife, who turned out to be Katie Clancy an old friend of Jiggs, discovered the ruse, and fell in love with her "mother-in-law."

Possibly the best of the musical numbers was the "Doll Number," a catchy piece helped out by the affection of Kitty and the ladies of the Chorus for a number of Mamma dolls. Another popular number was Maggie's Specialty, in which Emma Weston got over some new songs, a few steps, and wound up with her customary yodelling. Jiggs, Maggie, Dinty and McQuirk, the professional politician, collecting from all three candidates and working for none, sang an old song, "Sing for Your Father," but introduced a number of much older favorites after the chorus. The fashion parade, with the song, "Beautiful Faces need Beautiful Clothes," was a colorful scene while "Football" provided some excitement for those who happened to be in the line of fire of the girls' attempts at drop kicks.

Cheers for Jiggs' election brought the show to an end.

CAUGHT BAD COLD WHILE OUT PLAYING NOT PROPERLY DRESSED

Mrs. L. Mantie, Millet, Alta., writes:—"My youngest child had a very bad cold which she got by going out playing in a strong, cold wind not properly dressed.

"She got so hoarse she could hardly speak, and her throat and chest were very sore.

"I used everything available, but she received no relief until, finally, I secured a bottle of

BOY IS INJURED IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

Steps in Front of Car and Sustains Concussion of Brain.

MILTON, Nov. 21.—Glaring headlights were the cause of a serious accident about 11 o'clock on Saturday night. Charlie Meacham, who lives with Stanley Beatty, and another boy, was walking home from Milton to Omagh. A short distance from the village they met a car going west, and stepped to one side, but owing to the noise of the car and the strong lights they failed to see or hear a car going east, driven by Herbert Galbraith, who was also blinded by the glaring lights. Young Meacham stepped directly in front of Mr. Galbraith's car and was knocked down, but fortunately the other boy escaped.

Meacham was unconscious when picked up, and is in a critical condition with concussion of the brain.

A.Y.P.A. DEBATES MERIT OF HEIGHT

Supporters of Short People Win Humorous Argument at St. Luke's.

A very enjoyable social evening was spent by the A.Y.P.A. in St. Luke's Parish Hall, on Thursday.

A special feature of the program was the lunch which in this case was provided by the young men of the association.

An interesting and humorous debate in which the relative merits of short and tall persons were discussed, resulted in favor of the former.

The speakers for the affirmative were the Misses Hope, Wheeler, Sedgwick, Simmons, Ephgrave and Mr. J. Grierson.

The negative side was upheld by Mrs. Hepburn and the Misses Long, Adams, Lawrence and Simpson.

Other amusements provided were contests and charades, after which items of business were transacted.

SYNOPSIS

Fabien, a good and handsome youth of France, training for the priesthood, meets and loves Manon Lescaut, a beauteous orphan who is being taken to a Convent by her only relative, a brother who doesn't want to be bothered with her. Ravoir, a rich connoisseur of women, smitten with Manon, barters her from her rascally brother; But Fabien saves Manon by carrying her to Paris. Poor and friendless, they wander into a boarding house and are put into the lame room by the landlady, who thinks them married. The maid, Marie, thinks Manon is an angel.

CHAPTER V—Continued.

A quick scrutiny of Fabien proved disappointing. According to her views, he was far too refined and gentle. If Marie could have selected a man for herself or the lovely girl who stood before her he would have a beautiful, sharply waxed moustache, shoulders full of glittering finger curls and a great diamond shining from wide, fluffy lace at his neck. He would wear a crimson satin coat and sky blue breeches and a strongly scented lace handkerchief would dangle from a big ruby finger ring. That was the kind of a man for a lady to have—or at least it was Marie's idea of a prospect.

However, people seldom met with Marie's ideas of perfection. With a jerk she brought herself back from her dream and said: "Come to your room. It's on the top floor, so I hope your wind is good. You'd better hold to the railing so you won't fall," she turned to advise, then continued, "yours is a nice room when you get to it, but it's the going up and coming down that's bad.

Marie chatted incessantly all the way up. Finally she threw open a door at the top of the last flight of stairs and disclosed a cosy attic room with dormer windows. The few pieces of furniture were cheap, yet some bright prints on the wall and gay curtains at the window gave the welcome interior an air of artistic shabbiness that was really attractive.

Even with Fabien's help the climb had wearied Manon, but standing in the doorway she clasped her hands in childlike delight at this welcome haven of rest. Crossing to the bed, she released Fifi. "Poor little darling, you are all cramped and tired, aren't you?" said Manon stroking her pet with gentle fingers.

QMarie followed the motion of her graceful hand with envy. Then as she noticed Manon's ringless wedding finger her tongue went into her cheek with a wise little smirk, and she thrilled at her discovery.

There was just a little bit of sarcasm in Marie's voice as she said, "I hope the room pleases Madam." And with an understanding glance at them both she insolently banged the door and went hurrying down stairs.

Fabien understood her insinuation and was furious. He would like to have followed and rung her neck. It was intolerable to think of his idol being subjected to insult because of him. People were blind fools not to hold Manon in the high esteem she deserved. Yet why let a servant make him angry when Manon's sweet innocence had protected her from being hurt at the smirth.

Manon had stopped in her survey of the room to look from the cunning window. "Oh, Fabien, come here!" she called in delight. "See the lamplighter down there brightening up the rainy street—it makes the room seem so much more homelike." She smiled at Fabien throug h a half suppressed yawn.

"My dear, you are tired from your long trip," sympathized Fabien. "Give me your hat."

"I cannot—I am too weary." She collapsed into a chair, and just to prove how tired she was she let her arms hang limply at her sides.

"Then it is my privilege to do it for you." With trembling fingers Fabien removed the big, floppy hat and quickly turned away to hide his emotion.

Rain was falling on the roof above their heads. They were alone, and Fabien thrilled with a supreme sense of mature pleasure that it was his fortune to take care of Manon.

"You must be hungry. I am. I will run down stairs and get something for supper," said Fabien.

"Yes, do!" Manon adored having Fabien so attentive. "And—wait—bring something especially nice for Fifi."

With a reassuring waMe of his hand Fabien picked up his hat and reluctantly left the room.

For a moment Manon's heart sank. She loved Fabien tenderly and was sure that she wanted to spend the rest of her life with him alone. It was not easy to be parted and left in a strange room, but of course they must eat and he would be back with some food before very long.

Manon threw herself down on the bed beside Fifi and played with the pink ribbon around her neck. Suddenly she remembered her new locket and took it out of the little box with an ill concealed feeling of disappointment.

"I am ashamed of myself! It is much better than I deserve, and Fabien was a darling to get it for me!" Manon always talked aloud when she and Fifi were alone. It had made her solitary girlhood days seem less lonely. "I think I should wear it—don't you, Fifi, dear? But I have no chain— I know what I will do! I will just borrow your necklace for awhile." Manon removed the ribbon collar from Fifi's neck and used it as a chain for her little locket—the locket for which Fabien had exchanged his silver slipper buckles.

"Fifi, dear, I am so sleepy I cannot stay up a moment longer." Manon kicked off first one slipper and then the other. "YoM are lucky, preciouskins when you get tired all you have to do is curl up and drop off to sleep—I wish I could do that!"

In the meanwhile Fabien dashed about in the rain from one little store to another searching for food that he thought Manon would like.

Since the beginning of time it has been man's duty to supply food for his mate, but never before had mortal man taken as keen pleasure in stalking home with laden arms as did Fabien on that first night to the little attic room.

Not even Marie's wise smile as she let him in the door could destroy his happy contentment. Manon was his very life, and she was waiting for him!

As Fabien opened the door to their little attic room he whispered, "Manon!" No answer. "God, what has heppened?" he cried as he rushed in and looked wildly about.

Then he paused in speechless reverence as he saw Manon, in a little white, high necked night dress, curled up on the bed, fast asleep, with Fifi at her side.

For a long time Fabien stood and looked at her. Knowing her had made a different man of him. Her love, beauty and trustfulness had eaten into his very soul. His only sin—if anyone dares call it that—was that he loved Manon to the exclusion of all else. There were many who were saying that a girl had ruined his life, but if they could have heard the prayer he uttered would they have been so sure in their condemnation?

"Dear God in Heaven," he prayed, "help me take care of her! Help me to keep her always as good, as sweet, loving and tender as she is now. Help me to protect and provide for her always. I am grateful that she has been assigned to my care and I pray that I shall prove worthy of her trust. Help me, dear God! Amen!"

After this prayer Fabien resolutely turned his back on Manon and went over to the table with his bundles as though he had just entered the room. With trembling fingers he fumbled at the knots to untie the packages. The picture of her, lying asleep, was so vividly impressed on his mind that he could concentrate on nothing else.

Unable to resist the temptation any longer, Fabien turned and again feasted his eyes upon Manon. She was still asleep. To him her beauty was incomparable. Her golden curls were spread out on the pillow and her beautiful pink lips were parted in a sleeping smile. Pressed against her cheek with the palm of her hand was his locket!

To have such forbidden loveliness so temptingly near was almost more than Fabien could endure. With labored breath and clenched fists he turned resolutely away to keep from seizing her in his arms. He strode to the open window and stood looking out at the approaching storm. The storm within himself was at the moment just as impossible to control. With set face he peered unseeingly through the rain. Mad thoughts were setting his brain on fire, his temples throbbed, his blood flooded his heart so fast and furiously that he thought it could never stand the strain.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — XI — by Nicholas Afonsky

Montgolfier and de Rozier know nothing of the recent experiments with hydrogen, but inflated their balloons with heated air. The French brothers Robert and a M. Charles decided to make a hydrogen balloon. They experimented with the envelope, finally making it of fine silk, varnishing it with a solution of gum elastic.

At last they had it finished. Through a stopcock in the neck of the bag they inflated it. They had raised money for it through a popular subscription and were to give an exhibition on August 27, 1783. Long before daylight it was tied to a cart, and dragged to the Champs de Mars outside Paris.

At five in the afternoon a booming cannon gave word to the waiting crowd that the balloon was about to rise. As it was released from the chains that held it it shot up into the sky over three thousand feet, and finally disappeared behind heavy rain clouds which had come up.

Far above the rain the balloon floated safely along, and finally after floating for fifteen miles it landed safely in an open field. The three men who were responsible for it had successfully conducted the first ascension of a hydrogen-filled balloon and opened a big future for this type of air travel.

OMEMEE CLUB HAD GOOD YEAR

Reports to Annual Meeting of Farmers Shows More Business.

..OFFICERS ELECTED

OMEMEE, Nov. 21.—The annual meeting of the Omemee Farmers' Club was held in the club rooms on Tuesday evening. The weather was very stormy and the number present was not large, but the enthusiasm which prevailed made up for what was lacking in numbers. Probably more than ordinary interest was shown because of the fact that it marked the completion of 10 years shipping of stock.

Promptly at 8 o'clock, the president, Mr. Percy MaGahey took the chair and called the meeting to order.

W. R. Robinson, the Secretary, gave his report, which showed that he had brought in eight cars of produce, besides five tons of binder twine and other smaller lots for a total business of over $8,000.

W. N. Brown, the treasurer, showed the total receipts as $1066.88 and payments of $998.89, leaving a balance on hand of $61.99.

Harry Deyell, auditor, presented the report of the Scales, showing a total business of $276.60.

The report of the shipper, S. D. Vaughan showed an increase of business over 1926 of about $1000, despite the fact that the average price per hog had dropped from $26.80 in 1926 to $20.30 in 1927.

The figures in detail are: Hogs, Omemee 3101; Reaboro, 265; Downeyville, 290. Total—3656; value $75,383.35.

Balance in bank, Nov. 1st, $686.25; Outstanding cheques, $102.79.

Cattle Account—Omemee, cattle 505, calves 776, sheep 522; Reaboro, cattle 50, calves 29, sheep 37; Downeyville cattle 57, calves 43, sheep 134.

Totals, cattle 612, calves 848, sheep 693.

Value $59704.41; total business $135,087.76; balance in bank $1286.93.

On motion of David Weir and Harry Deyell all the reports were adopted.

The retiring president, in a neat speech thanked the members for their support and consideration during the year. It had been an enjoyable year to him and he bespoke for his successor the same assistance.

After a ten-minute intermission, during which all present paid their membership fee for 1928, Mr. David Weir was voted to the chair for the election of officers.

A number of nominations were made for president and after balloting, Hubert Gardiner was declared elected president, with Arnott Boate as vice-president.

Other officers elected were: Secretary, W. R. Robinson; Treasurer, W. N. Brown; Auditors, D. Weir and Harry Deyell.

Directors: W. C. Veals, Percy MaGahey, Melville Elliott, George Henderson, C. E. Mitchell, D. H. Dick, and Herman Franks.

Shipping Committee: T. A. McConnell, R. H. Johnston, Joseph Bradley and Vincent Franks.

Delegate to the Convention: Hubert Gardiner.

The new President was then called on to take charge of the meeting and gave a short but interesting description of former club activities. He spoke of the importance of organization to the farmer, and concluded by assuring the members that he would do all in his power to advance the interests of the organization during his term of office.

A number of resolutions to come before the Annual Convention were read and considered and the meeting adjourned.

The Omemee Farmers' Club got off to a good start for the coming year with one of the most successful years in their history behind them, and bright prospects for the future.

Perhaps one of the discouraging features to the average farmer is the continued low price for hogs, but an encouraging feature is the higher prices for cattle. In this connection a few figures from past records might be interesting:

In 1918 the average price per hog was $38.00; 1919, $38.40; 1923 the price dropped to $15.10; in 1924 the average price was $16.60; in 1925, $23.40; 1926, 26.80; in 1927, $20.30.

RAINS BENEFIT TO FARM LAND

Make Fall Work Easier and Provide Water For Stock.

WORK NEARLY DONE.

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 21.—The steady rains which continued all day Wednesday and Thursday will, no doubt, be of great benefit to the land. The farmers of this district feared that the ground was going to freeze before the rains came to give the soil the much-needed soaking. The ground during the entire fall has been quite dry, and in some cases where the soil was heavy clay the owners could not finish their full ploughing. However, the much-needed rains have come in time to do their good work and not only is the soil full of moisture, but the springs and wells are also well filled with a bountiful supply of water which should last until the warm, early spring sun brings on the spring freshets.

The farmers of this district claim that it means a poor lookout for a crop on the following year when the ground freezes up while dry. Also, it means a hard winter's work for the farmer who is not blessed with a good natural spring on his farm where he can obtain water for his stock the year around and has to depend upon a cistern to water his stock. If there are not some heavy rainfalls during the fall season, the water supply in a cistern is soon exhausted and he is forced to haul water from a creek or lake perhaps several miles from home for his entire herd.

The farmers have taken advantage of the excellent weather which has prevailed during the past two months, and in the majority of cases are well up with their work. They are now mostly all set for winter whenever King Winter sees fit to thrust his white blanket over the land.

The practice of boycotting gets its name from Captain Charles C. Boycott, agent of an Irish lord, and the first man boycotted by the Irish people in their movement against landlords in 1880.

The usual number of Nobel prizes each year is five—for distinguished merit in physics, chemistry, medicine, literature and the promotion of peace.

NORMAL STUDENTS GUESTS AT SOCIAL

St. Paul's Young People Entertain in the Church Parlors.

On Friday, November 18th, the students of the Peterborough Normal school spent an enjoyable evening as guests of the Young People's Society of St. Paul's Presbyterian church.

As the students arrived each was presented with a package of 'money,' which was to be spent at the 'Huge Midway,' then getting under way upstairs.

All the elements of a Fall Fair were contained in the varied forms of amusements such as Bingo Hoop La! Five Pins! Baseball, etc., housed in the alcoves around the room. The main hall was tastefully decorated in blue and white supplemented by flags and balloons.

After the guests had spent their 'money,' they gathered in the main hall, where Mr. James Dutton welcomed them on behalf of the session of the church. Further entertainment was furnished by Mr. Wm. Grieves, who sang a number of Scotch ballads.

Later in the evening lunch was served in true 'Cafeteria style,' from a counter on one side of the room.

Mr. Lawrence Allen, in a pleasing manner, tendered the thanks of the Normal school students, which were replied to by Mr. Mel Turner, the president of the Young People's Society. The singing of Auld Lang Syne brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

ST. THOMAS', MILLBROOK.

MILLBROOK, November 21. — Rev. W. N. Bell-Smith of Toronto, representing the Lord's Day Alliance, preached in St. Thomas' Church on Sunday evening, setting forth in a clear and forcible manner the necessity and importance of the work of this organization.

Rev. P. C. Howard read the lessons and prayers, the rector's health not being sufficiently good to permit him being present at both morning and evening worship.

Rev. Mr. Smith chose most appropriately the text, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy," developing the thought that we should look upon Sunday not as a day of prohibitions, but of obligations and privileges; not emphasizing the negative but the positive side of its joys and opportunities.

"Sabbaths properly observed are to time what the mountains are to the earth, eminences from which we may survey glorious prospects with the world beneath our feet."

"And God blessed the seventh day and hallowed it," hence to "desecrate the Lord's day is a suicidal act to the Sabbath-breaker, and the example is so corrupting to children that they soon outrage parental authority; for in nothing are the restraints of the Sabbath more needful than in maintaining family government."

Declaring that he admired the Americans, the speaker went on to say that their ideals are different to ours, and to point out that on the other side of the line they have no Federal law compelling the keeping of the Sababth; this has a reflex influence on Canada, because we have American business interests investing capital here; we have American tourists in large numbers, and we have citizens who have come to us from the States.

The Lord's Day Alliance has an uphill task, for there are many interests opposide to it, and the ideal it stands for; only by eternal vigilance can the proper observance of God's day be retained. Several concrete instances were given of the opposition, and the plans which the Alliance meets and must fight against.

By prayer, by a definite interest in the cause, and by financial assistance all those who, as good citizens, and as Christians, desire to have the command of the text permanently observed as an integral part of our national life, may materially help.

"There is no one duty on which so much good depends, as the keeping of the Sabbath and reverencing God's sanctuary; and of course the neglect of no other duty can be so fatal to good morals and to national prosperity as the neglect of this."

A special offering was asked for, envelopes being distributed, and apparently a fairly generous response was made. The claims of the Alliance will be presented in the other churches of the community at a later date this winter.

SETTEE PRESENTED LAKEFIELD COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. White Receive Gifts From Church People.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 19. — A social evening was held in the parish hall of St. John's church on Tuesday evening to extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. S. E. White on their marriage which took place recently and in a tangible way to express the felicitations of St. John's parish. In spite of the inclement weather which prevented a number of the older members of the parish from attending, between 50 and 60 assembled for a social hour. Rev. W. J. Creighton, M. A., in his happiest vein, extended the good wishes of the Parish of St. John's to the happy couple who have both been so faithful to the church, and so generous in its service. Mr. White has served as warden for several years and has never failed to render loyal service to both rector and parish, and Mrs. White has been a member of the choir for nineteen years, and also an efficient worker in several of the church organizations.

Messrs. W. S. Remnant and M. C. Hampton, carried in a handsome wicker settee, which was presented to Mr. and Mrs. White as a token of regard and remembrance from the parish by Mr. Creighton, and Mrs. J. W. Todd, organist of the church, presented a white gold flexible bracelet set with saphires and brilliants to Mrs. White from the choir, who joined with the good wishes already expressed.

A committee composed of members of the A.Y.P.A., the Chancel Guild, and the W. A. served refreshments, and a pleasant evening was brought to a close.

The only guests outside the parish of St. John's, were Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Spence, who have been for years the kind neighbors of the parish hall, and who have a broad conception of the meaning of the word "neighbor" as they have assised many times at parish festivities.

A.Y.P.A. Party.

At the regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. on Monday evening, Nov. 14th, held in the parish hall, a rather unique celebration was marked: it was the birthday of both the rector (Rev. W. J. Creighton) and the president of the branch (Mr. W. Chappell).

After the regular business had been arranged progressive euchre was played and a pleasant evening spent. Refreshments were served at one long table with the members seated, family fashion, about it. The cake contained beside the usual ingredients, a couple of buttons, a cent a five cent piece, a ring and a thimble, which were the cause of much merriment as they were discovered by various members of the association. Prizes for euchre were won by Miss Odell Watson and Mr. W. Hamblin. Mrs. Mahood and Mr. Stenner won the consolation prizes.

STIRLING NEWS

STIRLING, Nov. 21. — The Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club held a very successful card party in the agricultural rooms on Wednesday evening, Nov. 16th.

The guests were received at the door by the president, Mrs. Roswell Coulter.

The room was tastefully decorated with flags and the tables gleamed with silver baskets and vases of flowers.

Nine tables of 500 were played.

The committee in charge of party consisted of Mrs. Will Whitty, Mrs. R. Coulter Mrs. Wallie Wright. In charge of lunch, Mrs. Dr. Potts, Mrs. H. C. Martin, Mrs. Annie Bailey. Prizes were won by (1) Mrs. Roger Meikiejohn; (2) Mrs. B. Belshaw. Gentlemen: (1) Rev. Mr. Byers; (2) A. G. Mackenzie.

Proceeds of evening were $20.00.

WEDDING BELLS

JAY—CAIRNS.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at eight o'clock this morning, in the Church of the Sacred Heart, when Christopher Jay, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Jay, 258 Aylmer Street, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mary Monica, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cairns, 275 Prince Street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. Moloney. During the progress of the nuptial mass Mrs. H. LaPlante sang an "Ave Maria," with organ music played by Harold Armstrong.

The bride wore a lovely dress of crabapple shade flat silk crepe, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Violet Creighton, wore tangerine flat silk crepe, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of yellow 'mums. Mr. Harry Griffin acted as best man.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Jay left on the afternoon train for a honeymoon trip to Toronto, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, and Buffalo. On their return they will reside in Peterborough.

OBITUARY

EARL C. HATCH.

Word has been received of the death at Lancaster, Ont., of Earl C. Hatch, who for some time was a resident of this city. While residing here, the deceased occupied the position of advertising manager for Farm and Dairy magazine, severing his connection with this firm about a year ago to accept a similar position with the Consolidated Press at Montreal.

He was an active member of George Street United Church Men's Club, and a member of Royal Arthur Lodge A.F. & A.M.

The deceased leaves a sorrowing wife and one child, besides his mother and two sisters.

WALTER DYER

An impressive military funeral on Saturday marked the obsequies of the late Walter ("Dad") Dyer, 429 Chambers Street, who died at Nicholls Hospital, Wednesday evening after a short illness. The funeral services were under the auspices of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, and by 2 o'clock the hall at the Legion headquarters was filled to capacity by friends and former comrades in the World War. Service was conducted by Captain the Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., Rector of St. John's Anglican Church, of which the deceased had been a faithful member.

Banks of beautiful flowers surrounded the coffin, which was draped by the Union Jack. At each side stood four silent sentinels with arms reversed. A reverential hush followed the appropriate address by the chaplain.

A profound silence pervaded George Street as the funeral cortege proceeded to the Little Lake Cemetery, led by the Peterborough Rangers' Band, augmented by the Salvation Army Band, playing the Dead March. A number of the representatives of the city militia units and members of the Legion followed and a long line of automobiles completed the procession. The bearers were six bandsmen of Peterborough military bands.

At the grave three volleys were fired by the firing party, which comprised by members of the Peterborough Rangers and the 4th Battalion C.M.G.C., in charge of Sergeant J. Gaskell. The Last Post was sounded and the Reveille.

There were many beautiful floral offerings, including a pillow from the family; harp from the members, Peterborough Rangers' Band; harp from the Musicians' Union, No. 191; gates ajar from the Polishing Dept. Lock Works.

Wreaths from the Employees Peterborough Lock Works; C.G.E Porcelain Dept.; Standard Bread Co., Ottawa; De Laval Co.; Buffing and Plating Dept., Westclox Co.; Officers, Non-Coms and Men of the Peterborough Rangers; Officers and Members of the Canadian Legion No. 52; Salvation Army Band; Warrant Officers and Sergts. GOLD SMUGGLED FROM MINES TOTALS $200,000 IN MONTH

Trial of Eight Men Causes Intense Interest in Mining District.

A TON A YEAR.

President of Hollinger Consolidated Tells Impressions of Systematic Thieving.

COCHRANE, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—More than two hundred thousand dollars in gold was smuggled from Hollinger Mine by high graders in one month, declared Noah Timmins, President of Hollinger Consolidated, before the opening of the trial here today of eight men charged with having ore illegally in their possession. Intense interest prevails throughout the Northern Ontario and Quebec mining district in the cases. Depredations have been going on for years, Mr. Timmins said, but recently they have been increasing and are "undoubtedly robbing shareholders of the mines of more than a ton of gold ore a year," he estimated. In Quebec the gold is usually mixed with copper and an elaborate process is necessary to separate it; but in Ontario, the gold is usually almost pure and easy to carry away. Mr. Timmins intimated that private and official police were not encouraged in their efforts by the sentences given to offenders they captured.

CONFER WITH LABOR MEMBERS

Miners' Deputation Discuss Plans For Presenting Petition to Baldwin.

WILL MEET CABINET.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(A.P.)—A deputation of fifty of the miners who marched from Wales to lay their unemployment plight before parliament held a consultation yesterday afternoon in a large parliament committee room with a small number of labor members of the house of commons.

The deputation was under the guidance of A. J. Cook, secretary of the British Miners' Federation, who organized the march. Plans for presenting a petition to Premier Baldwin personally were discussed at the meeting.

After the consultation Cook said arrangements to meet Premier Baldwin and the ministers of health and labor were left in the hands of the labor members from South Wales who hope to complete them by Wednesday or Thursday.

The remainder of the 250 demonstrators who survived the 200 mile march spent yesterday resting and in being feasted by friends, who listened to accounts of their long hike from Wales. They are quartered in the Bethnal green community in London's east end. The Bethnal Green town council is Socialist and saw to it that most of the little army found hospitality and entertainment.

POULTRYMEN SEE PICTURES

World's Poultry Congress Movies Exhibited at Meeting of Association.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Two motion picture films were shown last night to the members of the Peterborough Poultry Association by F. Walsh, special demonstrator for the Quaker Oats' Ful-'O-Pep Poultry Food. F. H. Dawson, president of the Association, had charge of the meeting.

The first picture illustrated the latest methods of feeding, housing and caring for poultry. Several reels were then shown depicting the scenes of most interest at the World's Poultry Congress at Ottawa. Prize winning birds were featured.

Following this part of the program Mr. Walsh held an open session and answered questions that were puzzling certain poultrymen. In this way a great many practical and valuable hints on the proper methods of raising poultry were learned. Special attention was devoted to the best ways of breeding.

Wharf Workers Strike Against Overtime

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's).—Following the decision of the Waterside Workers' Federation to strike against overtime, work ceased on the Melbourne wharves at 5 o'clock Sunday evening. Overseas vessels affected by the strike include the Peninsular liner Mooltan, and the Orient liner Oronsay. The former was due to sail for London at noon yesterday but was held up several hours. The Oronsay planned to sail for Sydney last evening whether her cargo had been discharged or not.

Steamship owners declare the Waterside Workers are violating the award of the Industrial Arbitration Court following the last strike. The Waterside Workers declare the strike is the result of the conditions laid down by the presiding judge in connection with the hearing of their claim before the Arbitration Court.

JAIL AND LASH FOR HOLD-UPS

John Walker Sentenced On Several Robbery and Assault Charges.

TWENTY STROKES.

TORONTO, Nov. 22. — (Canadian Press.)— A total of sixteen years in Portsmouth penitentiary and twenty strokes of the lash, was the punishment meted out by Magistrate Edmund Jones in police court to-day to John Walker, who pleaded guilty to two charges of robbery while armed and to three charges of theft of automobiles.

The sentences were ten years and lashes for the robberies and two years on each of the three automobile stealing counts, to run concurrently. Walker had been arrested yesterday in connection with the recent hold-up of the Campbellville, Ont., branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, robberies from summer cottages north of Toronto, hold-ups of two Toronto stores and assaults on county constable, in all of which the police asserted he was implicated.

FIRE DAMAGES LINDSAY HOTEL

Guests Have Considerable Difficulty in Escaping Through Smoke.

CAUSE UNKNOWN.

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Fire in the Elsmure Hotel did considerable damage yesterday. The guests had difficulty in escaping through the smoke, but the fire was soon extinguished. The cause is unknown.

HUNTING FATALITY MARKS FIRST DAY

Two Men Reported Shot in Manitoba—One Fatally.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—The big game season opened in Manitoba yesterday, and today Provincial Police officers were investigating the report of a fatality in the woods near Boblin, Manitoba. James Davidson, of Boulton, Man., is alleged to have accidentally shot and killed a man named McArthur. The same shot is reported to have wounded McArthur's cousin, whose name has not been ascertained. The cousin, meagre reports said, was not badly injured.

EARTHQUAKE RECORDED.

Toronto Observatory Seismograph Writes Story of Two Hour Shake.

TORONTO, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—A fairly large long distance earthquake was recorded yesterday on the seismograph of Toronto observatory. The first wave arrived at six hours, 25 minutes, 20 seconds p.m. and the maximum earth movement was recorded at seven p.m. The record lasted for two hours.

Blue Geese Feed At Miner's Farm

KINGSVILLE, Ont., Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Jack Miner is used to the annual visits to his sanctuary here of flocks of Canada geese in the spring and fall migrations, but at present he has some unusual visitors. These are blue geese which this year have changed their usual migratory route, which is generally far away from Kingsville. They have been feeding at the sanctuary daily since November 15 in company with the Canada geese.

GANGSTERS TRY TO SHOOT CHIEF IN CHICAGO WAR

Murder of Member of Gang Shows That Hostilities Have Begun.

POLICE AT WORK.

Motor Car Squads Given Machine Guns For Drive Against Gangs.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—The first victim of Chicago's new gang war was found shot to death in a doorway on the south side early today. The body was that of Frank Herbert, brother of "Big" Herbert, bodyguard of Joe Saltis, beer baron, recently acquitted of murder. Police believe Herbert died while trying to crawl to his home after becoming a target of rival gangsters.

That the war has begun is realized by the police of the city. An attempt was made against Chief O'Connor's life yesterday, and the finding of armed men loitering near detective headquarters brought a stern realization of the imminence of a gangland outbreak.

"It is God's mercy that no one has been slain in the last fortnight," was the exclamation of Chief O'Connor last night when he called together leaders of his roving motor car squads, 105 of them.

To these motor equipped officers he gave orders to shoot to kill when they should come upon known gangsters. His orders named gang leaders who have been regarded for years as backers of organized gambling, vice, and bootlegging. O'Connor told his aides to bring in these men, to beat them down if they murmured, and to kill them without mercy if they showed armed resistance.

"I don't care for Barney Bertsche, George Moran, or Al Capone," O'Connor said. "I want you to go and get them. There will be machine guns on the cars that go after them. We'll meet gangsters on equal terms. These gunmen are dangerous men and they'll be glad to kill you. I had to take a gun from one of them right in my office today. He meant to use it."

He explained that the gang war has started among the gangsters. Lombardo, Capone, and their gang are on one side. Barney Bertsche, George Moran, and the Aiello Brothers are on the other.

TRIBUTE PAID

Chamber of Commerce of Peterborough Praised by Washington Official.

A letter received by Frank G. Stinson, secretary of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, from Colvin B. Brown, of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, pays the following compliment to the local organization:

"All communities seem to be clamoring for factories, and it seems that Peterborough has been unusually successful along these lines. Let me congratulate you upon the recent acquisition of a branch of the Cosmic Crayon Company, of Bedford, England."

Coming as this does from a man who is in touch with many of the Chambers of Commerce throughout the United States and Canada, it is indicative of very high commendation. It is very gratifying to know that Peterborough has one of the best organized and aggressive Chambers of Commerce in the country.

RAYNOR ON BAIL.

Ill Health Releases Bankrupt Auto Dealer From Picton Jail.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 22. Canadian Press. — R. H. Raynor bankrupt auto dealer, who has been confined in Picton jail for the past three months, was admitted to bail to-day by Judge Deroche of Belleville. D. E. Ward appeared for Raynor and Crown Attorney Allison for the prosecution.

All parties concurred in the bail which was given on the grounds of ill-health. The bail was set at $75,000 cash, for which seventeen prominent men in Prince Edward county gave their bonds, ranging from three to ten thousand dollars.

Mr. Raynor was released from confinement and proceeded at once to his home.

APPOINTED CHAPLAIN

New K. of C. Chaplain for Ontario.

OTTAWA, Ont., November 22 (Canadian Press). — Right Rev. M. J. O'Brien, Bishop of Peterborough, Ont., is the new chaplain for Ontario of the Knights of Columbus. He succeeds Right Rev. M. J. Fallon, Bishop of London, who recently resigned after sixteen years' incumbency of the office—a period marked by an increase of membership in Ontario of from 4,000 to 18,000 and wonderful prosperity generally. This announcement was made here yesterday by T. E. Brown, state secretary.

Bishop O'Brien was born in Peterborough, and received his early education there, and Peterborough has been the centre of his clerical activities, except for a few years spent at the Grand Seminary in Montreal and two years in Rome, where he obtained his degree of Doctor of Divinity.

After his ordination in 1897 he was attached to the Peterborough Cathedral till 1909, when he became the first pastor of the Sacred Heart Church in that city. On the death of Bishop O'Connor, he was chosen to succeed him, and his consecration took place in 1913.

BELGIAN SUCCUMBS TO KNIFE WOUND

Fellow Countryman at Sarnia Held—Self-Defence Claimed.

SARNIA, Ont., November 22. — Jean van Hoff, aged 39, a Belgian, who was admitted to the Sarnia General Hospital early last week with a knife wound in his body, died late on Sunday from the effects of the wound, from which at first it was thought he would make recovery.

Alidor Buyse, a fellow-countryman, is held in the Lambton County Jail on a charge of doing bodily harm, and it is probable that the charge may be amended to a more serious form, following the inquest into van Hoff's death, which will be held on Thursday evening. Buyse was arrested by High County Constable R. J. Whiting on Friday night, when a serious turn in van Hoff's condition was reported. A quarrel occurred at van Hoff's home in Plympton Township, on Sunday night of last week, and it is alleged that van Hoff threatened Buyse and other guests at his home with an axe, and that Buyse used the knife in self-defence. It is also alleged that members of the party had been drinking.

Chamberlain Plans New Air "Flivver" Produce Plane of "Fool Proof" Type

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Clarence Chamberlin, who holds the long-distance flying record by his hop from New York to Germany with Charles A. Levine, will begin in a few weeks the manufacture of light airplanes, as nearly "fool-proof" as he can make them. Chamberlin has been experimenting for some time with a light plane which will take off in sixty feet and land at from ten to fifteen miles an hour, a plane which is almost stall-proof and which, as a result, can be floated down to the ground even by an inexperienced pilot.

A company is being formed, probably under the name of the Chamberlin Aeronautical Corporation, to build the planes, and at first they will be constructed somewhere near New York. They will sell at first at about $2,500, and the purchase price will include flying lessons. Chamberlin says the purchaser of an airplane should be taught to fly just as the purchaser of an automobilee is taught to drive.

The "fool-proof" plane will be a monoplane with a wing spread of about thirty feet, a large enough wing so that it will reduce the wing loading on a light plane and give the ship the characteristics which he wishes it to have. It will really be a flying flivver, and he hopes to have a large enough production so that he can get the price down to $1,200 or $1,500. The motor will be a 75-horespower, light, air-cooled motor of foreign design, for the American rights of which he is now negotiating. There is no plane of this type in the United States.

Chamberlin feels that many of his customers will be boys now growing up, who are taking naturally to the air. He told of an 11-year-old boy he took up a few days ago who handled the controls and did turns and banks in a few minutes of flying practice.

He revealed yesterday that the United States not only did not give him a medal or other recognition for his long flight, but actually taxed him about $100 for the medals he received from foreign countries.

Drunks Go on Diet Of Bread and Water

SYDNEY, Nebraska, Nov. 22.—(United Press).—Nebraska's bread and water punishment for liquor law violators has been revived.

Ralph Simpson and N. J. Griffith must spend half their sixty days' sentences on the bread and water diet. Judge Elmer Kahl has decreed. They were sentenced for drunkenness.

"These men are habitual offenders," Judge Kahl explained. Simpson and Griffith will be served the bread and water in alternate weeks of their imprisonment.

SOLDIERS HOLD STRIKE AREA OF COLORADO

National Guardsmen Take Control of Mine District After Clash.

UNDER MARTIAL LAW.

Killing of Four Strikers During Attack On Mine Property Causes This Step.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 22.—(A.P.)—National guardsmen were in control last night of Northern Colorado's strike-ridden coal fields where four strikers were killed and 20 wounded yesterday in the first open hostilities since the strike was called five weeks ago by Industrial Workers of the World.

Gunfire from the barrels of weapons held by 20 officers blazed into the ranks of 500 unrushing pickets who stormed the Columbine Mine, in Weld county, the only mine still operating in the northern fields. Of the wounded brought down by the hail of bullets, four were not expected to recover.

Soon after the smoke had cleared, five companies of infantry, two troops of cavalry, two armored tanks and a medical detachment of the Colorado National Guard were on their way to the scene. Guardsmen took charge of the situation and were declared by state officials to have the same jurisdiction as under martial law.

Governor W. H. Adams issued an executive order declaring a state of riot and insurrection in Weld and Boulder counties and he cloaked Adjutant General Paul P. Newlon with full powers to proceed as he saw fit to command the situation.

Reports from State's representatives, describing the skirmish at the Columbine, declared the strikers opened fire on the gate to the mine property at dawn and began an advance. Louis N. Scharff, chief of the state law enforcement department, in command of 20 state policemen, gave the order to disperse.

The advance of the strikers continued and hand to hand combat followed, officers using their guns for clubs, while the strikers hurled rocks, sticks and knives. Overwhelmed by the larger force, Scherff called his men together and formed a line in front of the mine gates. The order to halt again was given and two warning shots were fired over the heads of the strikers.

Failing to heed the warning, the strikers swept toward the property and Scherff sounded the order:

"Fire."

A hail of bullets felled the ranks of the pickets and the advance was stopped.

COUNTY TEAM IS PLACED 17TH

Young Stock Judges From Peterborough Make Good Showing.

LOSE ON REASONS.

Peterborough County was again represented this year in the junior farmers' live stock judging competition at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto. In the strongest competition that has yet been held, there being 32 county teams, the Peterborough team secured 17th place. The members of the team were as follows: Edgar Clarke, R. R. No. 2, Norwood; Clarence Robertson, Keene; Clarence Mann, R. R. No. 4, Peterborough.

C. A. Robertson of Keene did particularly good work. He secured 20th place among over 100 competitors, was high man in dairy cattle, and tied with a member of the O.A.C. judging team for the E. H. Stonehouse Memorial Trophy for dairy cattle.

Considering the fact that Peterborough County boys have not been entering for as many of the other counties, the coach, J. B. Nelson, is well pleased with the way the boys did. Their placings were as good as many of the winning counties, but they fell down a little on reasons.

Henry Stewart Dies After Auto Accident On Hunter Street

Elderly City Resident Struck By Taxi at Sheridan Street Intersection in the Mist Last Night—Coroner Has Not Decided On Inquest.

POLICE SAY HE STEPPED BACK INTO PATH OF CAR WHICH WAS BEING DRIVEN

Injured Man Attended By Dr. J. M. McCulloch, Who Withholds Statement Until Official Inquiry—Death Occurred Just Before Noon To-day.

Henry Stewart, 406 Sheridan Street, an elderly man, died this morning as a result of injuries received last night, when he was knocked down by a car owned by H. Stinson's taxi service, and driven by Clayton Greatrix.

The accident occurred about 7.30, at which time, because of mist, visibility was poor. The aged man, according to the evidence of by-standers, given to the police, started to cross Hunter Street at the end of Sheridan Street. He was clear of the car but, apparently becoming confused, he turned back and was struck down. The driver, who was proceeding slowly, stopped the car in about its own length, the police said.

Dr. J. M. McCulloch attended the injured man, and Police Constable John Naples investigated the accident. Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young has not yet announced whether there will be an inquest. Dr. McCulloch refused to make a statement until the official inquiry is held.

Mr. Stewart was born in Hastings seventy-four years ago and came to this city eighteen years ago. For a number of years he conducted the Stewart House, better known as the Temperance House, on the south side of Hunter street, immediately opposite his residence.

Besides his widow, one son and two daughters survive. They are W. D. Stewart of Campbellville, Ont., Mrs. R. B. Carson of Toronto, and Miss Laura at home. Two sisters Mrs. Sarah Tudhope of Peterborough, and Miss Mary Stewart of Toronto, are also left.

Mr. Stewart was a devout member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church.

The funeral will take place on Thursday to Hastings, where interment will be made. The time of the services here and in Hastings will be announced later.

UNREST FELT IN RUMANIA

Foreign Capitals Buzzing With Rumors of Further Troubles.

ORDER STILL PREVAILS.

LONDON, November 22. — Ever since the acquittal of Mihail Manoilesau at Bucharest, where he was court martialled for alleged conspiracy in behalf of former Crown Prince Carol, foreign capitals have been buzzing with speculations and rumors of further troubles in Rumania.

The acquittal is regarded as a triumph for the Tsaranist or national peasants party, which advocates the recall of Carol. The congress of this party at Alba Julia was forbidden by premier Bratiano, but the executive committe of the party has met in secret session to discuss the overthrow of the Bratiano government.

Similar rumours of disturbances in Rumania have been current for a long time in connection with the Carol agitation, and are fostered by a press censorship imposed by the Rumanian government. Up to Saturday Associated Press despatches from Bucharest indicated that complete order in Rumania still prevailed.

Bratiano in Control.

Bratiano appears to have control of the situation. The peasants party, however, after the acquittal of Manoilesca, devoted its attention against the Bratiano regime, which the peasants maintain is leading the country to a dictatorship and national calamity.

The Tsarantists first tried to engineer cohesive coalition of the opposition parties and with this object called a conference of the party for Sunday. The government however prohibited such meeting and in an interview with the correspondent of the Associated Press M. Bartiano reiterated his determination to prevent any manifestation which threatens the constitution. He declared that his government possessed all necessary forces to govern alone and declared that under the precise terms of the constitution it was impossible for Carol to return.

Notwithstanding the government's order, the executive of the Peasants party held a secret meeting, and according to Vienna advices adopted a resolution in favor of using all parliamentary means to save the country, but, if "thwarted by illegal and arbitrary government action" would resort to what is vaguely described as "organizing Bourgeoise resistance." This in Vienna was regarded as tantamount to a declaration of rebellion.

Up to the present the attempts of the Tsaranists to form an alliance with the People's party, led by Former Premier Averescu are reported to have been ineffectual. Until some working agreement between the Opposition parties is attained Bratiano's position is considered safe according to the latest advices from Bucharest by way of Vienna. There is no indication of any disturbance of public order, but apparently Bratiano's supporters are talking about the need to impose martial law in order to counteract the opposition threats.

AROUND THE CITY.

At 11.59 yesterday morning, the fire department answered a call to 387 Mark Street where overheated pipes were giving trouble.

Workmen for the Utilities Commission were engaged this afternoon in adding to the moisture on George Street. One of the big mains was broken, and it was necessary to break through the pavement to make repairs.

DOURO RESIDENT DIES SUDDENLY

James Dalton Found Dead in Bed at Son's Home This Morning.

HAD NOT BEEN WELL.

DOURO, Nov. 22.—James Dalton, an aged resident of the township, was found dead in his bed at his son's residence this morning. Since the death of Mrs. Dalton last June it has been remarked that Mr. Dalton has been failing fast, although he had not complained of being ill. He lived with his son James on the family homestead. One other son and three daughters survive.

DAIRYMEN HERE VISITING PLANT

Members of Ontario Creamery Men's Association Are De Laval Guests.

TOUR OF FACTORY.

Coming by a special C. P. R. train, a host of the members of the Ontario Creamery Men's Association are stopping over in Peterborough for the day en route to Toronto where they will hold their annual convention tomorrow. They came here as guests of the DeLaval Dairy Supply Company and were transported to the Empress Hotel immediately upon their arrival, where they were entertained at luncheon.

Following the luncheon several brief addresses of welcome were made by City Clerk, S. R. Armstrong, in the absence of the Mayor; V. Eastwood, manager of the Royal Bank, and G. A. Gillespie, manager Peterboro Milk Products. W. R. Breyfogle, manager of the De Laval Company, acted as host, and after extending the official welcome of the Company, outlined the afternoon's program.

At the close of his remarks the visiting creamery men left by automobile for the De Laval plant. Before taking a tour of the factory, a panoramic photograph was taken of them, a print of which will be given to each visitor as a souvenir of the visit.

To-night they will all assemble at the Empress Hotel for a banquet.

SEIZED BONDS MAY BE LINKED IN OIL FRAUDS

Hint That Blackmer Securities May Be Traced To Fall.

NEW INQUIRY NEAR.

Oil Jury Decision Likely To Be Made Public This Week.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. — Despite the fact that straightening out the tangled threads of the Government investigation into charges of tampering with the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy jury is all that remains to be done, as the grand jury inquiry enters its fourth week, there is an evident feeling that more important developments will occur before this is concluded.

The inquisitors while holding a short session Saturday did not consider the jury tampering case. On Friday District Attorney Gordon explained to the members the laws which it is charged, were violated.

Blackmer Bonds Untraced.

Gordon was so busy with the case yesterday that he had not taken notice of suggestions that the $100,000 in first 3½ per cent. Liberty Loan bonds seized from H. M. Blackmer, a missing witness in the conspiracy hearing, might be of the same $3,000,000 the government traced to the Continental Trading Company, Ltd. The government alleged that $230,500 of the bonds reached Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, after he had leased Teapot Dome to Sinclair.

The bonds were seized yesterday by the government after Blackmer refused to return from Europe to testify regarding the Continental Company. The action was taken under the recently-passed Walsh act, which empowered the court to seize up to $100,000 of the property of the witness. The bonds were deposited by Blackmer's attorneys, who plan to test the constitutionality of the law.

New Inquiry Near.

Aside from the Grand Jury investigation the committee appointed by Justice Siddons to determine whether contempt of the court had been committed, was expected to begin its investigation this week. The committee is composed of John E. Laskey and James E. Easby-Smith.

A long statement was issued by Frank J. Hogan of Washington, who was counsel for Edward L. Doheny, found not guilty of conspiracy charges growing out of the leasing of the Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve.

Hogan demanded a retraction from Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, for a statement in a speech in which Hogan quoted Fish as having said in referring to Sinclair and Doheny:

"Not only have they attempted to rob but evidently they have tried to tamper with the jury, and if the word goes out that rich men who do these things can escape justice by these methods it will do more to undermine confidence in the government than all the vaporings of misguided men.

Denies Charge.

Reviewing the history of the Doheny trial, Hogan declared:

'The truth is there is no foundation whatever for your charge. There is no ground upon which to base even an insinuation of such a fact. There is no vestige of truth in it. There is no warrant for any man making such a statement at any time in any place regarding Mr. Doheny."

Hogan enclosed a letter from Owen J. Roberts, special government oil counsel, saying that there had never been any intimation of "jury tampering" in that trial.

WASHINGTON, November 22. — Action of the Grand Jury as the result of its investigation of the Fall-Sinclair jury-tampering will be known before Thanksgiving, one of Government counsel, who has been active in the inquiry, indicated yesterday afternoon. If indictments are returned as many as three offences may be charged, namely, intimidation of the jury, subornation of perjury, and conspiracy to obstruct justice. It is also possible that contempt proceedings may be under way before many days have passed.

District Attorney Gordon and Neil Burkinshaw, Assistant District Attorney, were busy with Court stenographers yesterday afternoon, and it was not denied that they were drafting a document which may be of vital importance in the investigation.

Twenty-two persons have been mentioned as having played a more or less prominent part in the alleged jury-tampering transaction. Of these nineteen are Burns Agency men, two of them William J. Burns and his son Sherman. The others include Harry F. Sinclair, Henry Mason Day, vice-president of the Sinclair Exploration Company, and Sheldon Clark, vice-president of the Sinclair Refining Company. The last two, the Government alleges, were "contact men" between Sinclair and the Burns Detective Agency.

MR. GEORGE M'KEE HOLDS FARM SALE

Stock and Implements of Cavan Farmer Bring Good Prices.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Nov. 22.—The sale of farm stock and implements, and grain and fodder on the farm in Cavan of Mr. George McKee, just west of Mount Pleasant, was well attended and the weather being fine, the articles being good, and under the managemnt of Mr. Morden of Emily, brought a good sum. Horses and cows and young cattle and every thing brought good prices. As Mr. McKee has rented his farm in Cavan and is moving to a small farm close to the city of Peterborough.

TORONTO CRIMINAL TAKEN AT NEWARK

Wanted For Capital Jewelry Company Robbery at Montreal.

NEWARK, N.J., November 22. — Associated Press. — Pleading with the police to conceal his identity from the Canadian authorities, Alex. Paul, who said he was a member of a reputable Toronto family, yesterday was held as the man who, with a woman companion and three other men, stole diamonds valued at $31,000 in a hold-up of the Capital Jewelry Company in Montreal last August. The police said that Paul confessed that crime as well as the hold-ups of four chain grocery stores with the woman accomplice here since his arrival from Canada.

The victims of his robberies here from whom he obtained several hundred dollars, identified Paul. Despite a severe grilling which produced a complete confession, Paul refused to reveal the identity of the woman.

"You have police for that work," he replied shortly to questions as to the woman's name. Police records picted her as "young, pretty and refined." Her raids with Paul in the city were conducted early in the morning, the woman cleaning out the cash registers while Paul bound the victims in a rear room.

Paul said that he received only $700 for the jewelry stolen in Montreal. He brought the woman here with him and failing to find a male confederate used her, according to his confession.

Paul was arrested last midnight, after an alleged attempted robbery of Charles Spormstein, a tailor, of 286 Sixteenth avenue. Police said he attempted to shoot the tailor but his revolver failed to fire. He was captured by Patrolman Shea after a struggle during which he again attempted to fire the weapon, the police said.

AIRMEN AWAITING REPAIRS TO PLANE

McIntosh and Hinkler Guests of Polish Officials During Stop.

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press)—Capt. D. H. McIntosh and Bert Hinkler, the British airmen who made a forced descent in Southern Poland last week while on a non stop flight from England to India, are planning to remain in Poland until repairs can be made to their plane, the Princess Xenia, damaged in landing. The British airmen, who stayed at Lwow over the week end, are being entertained by Government officials.

FALLEN COMRADES HONORED BY UNIT

Officers of 38th Battalion, C. E. F., Hold Service of Remembrance.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—The memorial chamber of the peace tower was the scene of a brief but impressive ceremony here on Saturday when the officers of the 38th battalion, C.E.F., Eastern Ontario regiment, held their reunion. They preceded their festivities by a service in memory of fallen comrades. Rev. H. I. Horsey, chaplain of the unit, conducted the service. Dinner was held later at the Chateau Laurier, at which were present Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, Lieut. Col. H. H. Matthews, director of military intelligence, Major Willis O'Connor, A.D.C. to the Governor General, and a number of other distinguished guests.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22.—Reports of crop damage in the Argentine and moderate buying by exporting interests lent strength to the grain market here yesterday. Following an early advance of 1¾c, values reacted fractionally when profit-taking developed, net gains at the close ranging from ¾c to 1c.

The Canadian Pool was credited with the heaviest sales, although commission houses were fairly active throughout the session.

Excellent demand prevailed for barley, with this commodity advancing about 1½c in the November option. Germany was the most active buyer. The other coarse grains were dull.

LIGHTNING ARRESTER IS BADLY BURNED

Damage To Pole Done By Fire at Norwood Factory.

NORWOOD, Nov. 21.—On Wednesday night the lightning arrester attached to the transformer on the Hydro-Electric power line to H. G. Buck & Son's factory burned out. The fire alarm was sounded and several hurried to the spot. Superintendent Goden soon cut off the power. Later, he climbed the pole and cut out the arrester. One of the big poles was set on fire but this was soon put out by the use of the chemical engine. The damage amounted to about $25.

Anniversary services were held in the Baptist church on Sunday last. Two very splendid sermons were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Spencer of Lakefield. Special music by the choir added much to the services which were very largely attended. The church was very beautifully decorated about the altar with fruits, vegetables, and flowers.

On Monday night the ladies of the church held a very successful fowl supper in the Sunday School room. This was followed by a program which consisted of speeches from the visiting clergy and music by the choir. Solos were also very ably rendered by Miss Una Duffield and Mrs. N. C. Porter.

The members of the Young People's Association of the Anglican Church and their friends had the pleasure of hearing a most interesting address at their meeting on Monday evening. The speaker for the evening was the Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Church, Peterborough, who spoke on the great Scottish War Memorial. Miss Hill of Peterborough sang a number of Scotch songs which were greatly appreciated. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the ladies of the society.

The Catholic Women's League held a progressive euchre in the town hall on Wednesday evening. Although the weather was very incliment, there were twenty-two tables and those who attended spent a very enjoyable evening. Miss Gertrude Coughlin, of Hastings, was the winner of the ladies' first prize, which was a pair of ducks. The ladies' second prize, a chicken, went to Mr. J. McFadden of Hastings, who took the place of a lady. Mr. Armstrong, also of Hastings, won the gentlemen's first prize, a goose; while Kenneth Montgomery of Norwood, was the second winner and received a chicken. Mrs. W. H. Hurley, of Asphodel, won the lucky door number prize.

OLD MASTERS

The common street climbed up against the sky,
Gray meeting gray; and wearily to and fro
I saw the patient common people go,
Each, with his sordid burden, trudging by.
And the rain dropped; there was not any sigh
Or stir of a live wind; dull, dull and slow
All motion; as a tale told long ago
The faded world; and creeping night drew nigh.

Then burst the sunset, flooding far and fleet,
Leavening the whole of life with magic leaven.
Suddenly down the long wet glistening hill
Pure splendor poured—and lo! the common street,
A golden highway into golden heaven,
With the dark shapes of men ascending still.

FILE PETITION ON THE BEHALF OF COMMUTERS

Restrain Immigration Officials From Preventing Commuting for Employment Purposes.

MANY AFFECTED.

Seek To Show Immigration Order of April Last is Illegal.

DETROIT, Mich., November 22. — A petition to restrain district immigration officials from preventing native citizens of Canada and naturalized Canadians from commuting between Canada and their places of employment in the United States, was filed yesterday in the Federal Court by M. H. Ely Goldsmith, consultant in immigration matters.

Goldsmith filed the petition on behalf of Walter Gammon and his wife, Ellen A. Gammon, of Windsor, and on behalf of 22 other Border Cities' citizens who commute to Detroit where they are employed.

The petition seeks to show that the Immigration Department order of April last, providing that commuters from Canada to the United States for employment purposes must obtain border-crossing privileges, is illegal. Commuters under the order must establish their status each time they cross the border, in accordance with the status they held the first time they entered the United States.

The petition was filed against John L. Zubrick, Acting United States District Director of Immigration, and Alexander M. Doig, Chief Inspector of the local immigration service. Under authority of the order, the petition states Zubrick and Doig threaten to debar Gammon, his wife and approximately 5,000 other Border Cities residents from daily entering the United States for employment after December 1 next. The petition sets forth that the plaintiffs are not immigrants into the United States, but are non-immigrants.

The petition further sets forth that repeated entry and daily exit do not make an alien an immigrant, and that any person of any nationality, except persons of such races as are ineligible to American citizenship, may lawfully enter the United States at any time temporarily, on business or pleasure.

SECOND CEREMONY IS PERFORMED

Princess Victoria Married With Full Rites of Greek Orthodox Church.

BOON, Germany, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press.) — Princess Victoria Schaumberg Lippe, sister of the former kaiser, and Alexander Sybkoff, young Russian refugee to whom she was married by civil ceremony on Saturday, were married here yesterday afternoon in accordance with the full rites of the Greek Orthodox church.

The bride, who is 61 years old, wore a plain gown of white satin which was capped by a veil once worn by the Empress Frederick, while Sybkoff appeared in a morning coat on which he wore a huge chrysanthemum.

The ceremony, which was performed before an improvised altar, erected in the observatory of the princess' palace, was followed by a wedding breakfast.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM POLLOCK.

BURNBRAE, Nov. 22.—Much sympathy is felt for Mr. E. C. Pollock, Burnbrae Corners, in his sudden bereavement, following the death of his mother, the late Mrs. William Pollock, Wellman's Corners. The deceased had been visiting relatives in the Kincardine district of Western Ontario and succumbed to an attack of flu and pneumonia after a very short illness, passing away early Friday morning. Funeral services were held at the family residence, 6th Concession, Rawdon, on Monday afternoon, with interment in the Wellman's cemetery.

The late Mrs. Pollack was held in high esteem by her many friends, both in her home community and in the Burnbrae district, who mourn her tragic passing and sympathize with the sorrowing family.

The "Flu"

Mrs. Beulah Demone, Pleasant River, N.S., writes:—"Having suffered with the 'flu' a few years ago, I was left with a very weak heart.

"I was unable to go about, and could not do my housework.

"I would get dizzy spells and would have to go and lie down.

"I could not sleep at night as the least little noise would wake me up.

"I tried different kinds of medicine, but they seemed to do me no good.

"A friend recommended MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS. I have used five boxes and am much better; do not get those dizzy spells, and can do my own work as well as ever."

FOWL SUPPER IS HELD TWICE

Not Enough Room for All Those Attending Keene Church Social.

TOTAL ATTENDANCE 1,000

KEENE, Nov. 22.—The most successful fowl supper and concert ever put on by the United Church, Keene, was furnished on Thursday night, despite the very bad condition of the roads owing to the recent heavy rain.

The supper and concert were originally carded for Wednesday night, but when supper-time arrived on Wednesday hundreds were waiting to sit down and avail themselves of the opportunity of getting a good feed of chicken, of which there was a great supply.

It was soon seen that the town hall, where the concert was to be held, would not hold the crowd that came to supper, and by seven o'clock the hall was crowded to capacity, with hundreds still enjoying the bountiful supper in the basement of the church.

The result was that it was announced that the supper would be continued on Thursday night, together with the full program over again in the hall.

Between seven hundred and seven hundred and fifty sat down to supper on Wednesday night, and the tickets held by those unable to get into the hall were honored on Thursday night.

On Thursday evening, promptly at five o'clock, the crowd started to come again, and when the last had been fed it was estimated that another two hundred and fifty had paid for their supper, making a total of approximately one thousand for Wednesday and Thursday night, the biggest event of its kind ever held in Keene.

The basement of the church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with colored crepe paper and the tables were very beautiful. Seven large tables were always loaded to capacity with everything that was good to eat, with fifty young ladies to help everybody eat more.

The concert in the hall was thoroughly enjoyed by all, judging by the amount of applause those taking part received.

To keep the crowd in good humor in the earlier part of the evening, musical numbers had been arranged, including a piano duet by Misses Margaret Bryce and Eva Taylor; musical trio, Mrs. John Henderson and Messrs. James and Stephen Miller; and orchestra selections by Miss Jean Knowles (piano), Dalbert Coward and Roy Francis (violins), and Wilfred Fletcher at the traps. Another number was a solo with encores by the ever-popular Michael McCarthy. Miss Bryce also sang "Moonlight and Roses," with Miss Minnie Edwards at the piano, and A. E. Fletcher playing the violin obligato; piano solos by Victor Foley, and Hawaiian guitar duets by Miss Minnie Edwards and A. E. Fletcher, with Mrs. D. Edwards at the piano were also enjoyed.

The feature of the program was a two-act play, "The Strike of the Ladies' Aid," put on by the members of the W. M. S.

The costumes were those worn by ladies about fifty or sixty years ago, and some of them were very striking.

The reason of the strike was that the ladies wanted a new Sunday school building and their husbands decided that what was good enough for them was good enough for their children.

The result was that each member decided to go on strike in her home and not cook her husband's meals.

It suited most of the men fine, as one of them went home to his mother to eat his meals, and had his food cooked "as mother used to do," while another cooked his own because the doctor said his food was too rich for him, and another one had a diet prescribed for him of milk and raw fruit, and so one by one they made out that the strike was a failure.

But the undercurrent assisted itself and a meeting of all the husbands was arranged, secretly, they thought, but they were overheard by little Prunilla Prunes, who, when everything seemed to be at its lowest ebb at the Ladies' Aid meeting, dropped in and told everything she had heard, with the result the men put out the money to start the new Sunday school building and everything was finally brought to a successful conclusion.

The characters: Mrs. Cheerbody, Mrs. S. M. Comrie; Miss Sadie Ragon, Mrs. Hugh McFee; Grandma, Mrs. James Shearer; Mrs. R. A. Croker, Mrs. James Gray; Mrs. Takem-Pills, Mrs. Jane Campbell; Mrs. O. U. Sliver, Mrs. Henry Weir; Mrs. O. B. Proudfoot, Mrs. Anderson; Miss Cherry Blossom, Mrs. Bertha Wilson; Mrs. Claude D. Weather, Mrs. F. A. Eason; Mrs. Gad-a-Bout, Mrs. G. Howson; Mrs. Stirafuss, Mrs. Robert Nelson; Miss Carrie Germs, Mrs. Harold Weir; Mrs. Ima Whatnot, Mrs. R. Humphrey; Mrs. Amelia Prunes, Miss Annie McIntyre; Miss Prunella Prunes, Miss Dorothy Chapman.

On Wednesday night, Mr. F. A. Eason auctioned an autographed quilt made by the members of the Bethel congregation. Mr. William Chapman was the successful bidder at a price of seven dollars and fifty cents.

In the United States more people live in the city than in the country. According to the 1920 census, the total population of towns over 2,500 was 54,304,603; the rural population was 51,406,017.

Lesson No. 8

Question: Why is the emulsified form the more efficient way for me to realize the health-giving benefits of cod-liver oil?

Answer: Because when cod-liver oil is emulsified it is more perfectly absorbed, and does not disagree with digestion. Take

CAVAN W. I. HOLD BANQUET

Social Gathering Held in Community Hall on Thursday Evening.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME.

CAVAN, Nov. 22.—On Thursday evening the Cavan Women's Institute held a banquet in Cavan Community Hall for themselves and their husbands. Each unmarried member had the privilege of inviting a friend. The Rev. J. O. and Mrs. Totten were guests of the Institute.

The banquet was under the management of a committee, Mrs. C. Carr, Mrs. D. J. Hunter, Mrs. H. Sisson and Mrs. Loyd Sutton. It was beautifully planned and well carried out.

Seventy-five sat down to supper. The tables looked very attractive. The decorations were in red and white with bouquets of sweet peas, poppies and 'mums.

Tall dishes of Malaga grapes added to the general appearance of the table.

The menu consisted of oysters and crackers, chicken pie, and bread and butter, cheese, celery, olives, fancy cakes and plenty of pie of various kinds, finishing up with after-dinner mints. The oysters and chicken pie were delicious, and were there in abundance, as was everything else. Healthy appetites did full justice to the fine supper provided.

The waiters were most attentive and everything was nicely served.

Great credit is due the committee of management who had entire charge of the banquet. They spared neither time, nor work to make the occasion a success.

The program was provided and prepared by the gentlemen and proved both jolly and entertaining.

There were choruses by Messrs. Reg. Sutton, Herb Syer, R. Matchett, Loyd Sutton and Vernon Hunter, with Fred Staples as pianist. Mrs. Kennedy played the accompaniment for a duet by Messrs. F. Staples and R. Sutton. Miss Eileen Hunter played for a duet sung by herself and brother Vernon, also for a solo sung by the latter. Mr. R. Matchett sang a solo. The Rev. J. O. Totten gave a humorous recitation, "Sam's Letter," while Mr. Loyd Sutton gave "The Cremation of Sam McGee," in fine style.

At the concluding numbers of the program, Mrs. Totten played for community singing led by the chorus of gentlemen, ending up with "Goodnight Ladies."

The singing of the National Anthem brought the entertainment to a close. The gentlemen were congratulated upon giving such a jolly entertaining program on short notice.

Mr. James Paul proved a genial and efficient chairman, giving a short address at the beginning, and his remarks as the program progressed kept things going cheerfully.

There was mutual satisfaction, which was nicely expressed by the chairman; the gentlemen were pleased with the sumptuous supper to which they had been treated, while the ladies enjoyed the program provided by the men.

After the supper and before the program, the president, Mrs. D. J. Hunter, held a short business meeting with the members of the Institute. It was decided to donate ten dollars to the Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, and five dollars to the "Santa Claus fund" of the Daily Star, to help spread a little happiness and cheer at the Christmas season, also to send flowers and Christmas greetings to "shut-ins" at Christmas.

The boys of the Durham judging team returned from the Royal Winter Fair on Thursday evening—Messrs. Carmen Seymour, Harry McLaughlin and Ray Staples.

On Thursday evening, from six to nine-thirty, they attended a banquet given by Lady Eaton to the judging teams from the different counties, the district representatives, and the five hundred boys who are guests of the Government.

The Durham team scored well, ranking tenth among thirty-two teams.

R. Staples was number seventeen among the one hundred and six boys who judged. His prize was ten dollars. The first twenty boys received prizes.

The old C. N. R. track between Lindsay and Port Hope presents a very deserted appearance since the ties have been lifted. The farms, through whose farms it passes, has been pasturing it.

It is said that the railway will rent it to the farmers for a very small sum on condition that they pay the taxes. So far no official offers have been made.

The officials of the Hydro have been trying to buy five acres of land locally on which to build a sub-station with a man in charge.

Mrs. I. Keegan has returned to her home in Cavan after a visit with friends.

ARMISTICE AT NORWOOD.

Memorial Services Held at the Town Hall and War Memorial.

NORWOOD, Nov. 22.—Armistice Day was very fittingly observed in Norwood on Friday last. A public service was held in the town hall at 10.30. The Rev. T. J. O'Conor-Fenton presided as chairman. The Bible reading was taken by the Rev. F. Stillman, the Rev. George Aitken offered prayer, and the Rev. J. P. McLennan gave the address. At the close of the service in the hall the audience, preceded by the school children in a body, proceeded to the war memorial at the head of Colborne street,—here the two minutes of silence was observed, prayer offered and the National Anthem sung. Wreaths were placed at the foot of the monument and also in Robus Memorial Park.

Police In Charge Of Water Supply

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 22. — (United Press).—A terrific heat wave with temperatures mounting to 108 in the shade, has forced the police in the Province of Sandago de Lestero to assume charge of the distribution of water. The heat wave began a week ago.

Inhabitants of the village of Aerolito, suffering from a shortage of water, destroyed a switch of the state railways in order to capture passing water tank cars.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

In several municipalities where daylight saving was rejected some years ago by the electors a bylaw proposing the introduction of the summer time system is to be voted upon at the coming municipal elections.

This matter was called to the attention of the local Council by the Canadian General Electric Social and Athletic Association some time ago, and it may be that local electors will also be given a chance to express their views on this highly controversial question.

It is to be hoped that if a vote is taken the period of daylight saving mentioned in the bylaw will not be too long; it certainly should not start until the beginning of June and should not run long after Labour Day.

Even with such limitations, it might be difficult to pass a daylight saving by-law in Peterborough; at all events, it is certain that it would be impossible to pass such a bylaw if the system included anything but the real summer weeks.

Apparently those communities that have tried out summer time over a period of years find enough merit in the scheme to wish to retain it, but Peterborough voters have twice rejected the plan.

DRIVING LICENSES.

If there are any motorists in Peterborough who can qualify for an operator's license without any examination they would be well advised to secure such a license before the end of this month.

After that date the Department of Highways has announced that it will be assumed that every experienced and capable driver has heeded the law and secured a license.

Accordingly no license will be granted after November 30 until the applicant has passed an examination of fitness and ability before an inspector of the department, a test that will take some time and involve a fee of $1.00.

Driving without a license involves a fine of $10.00, and as any motorist who has driven a car at least six months and for at least 500 miles still has the opportunity during the next eight days to qualify without an examination, it would be a very foolish car owner indeed who would not obey the law and take advantage of this opportunity to save time, inconvenience and expense.

Motorists have been given plenty of latitude in this respect, and those who are careless enough not to protect themselves will have no cause to complain if they find themselves in trouble.

THE CHRISTMAS MAIL.

Householders in Peterborough received with their mail yesterday a circular from the local Post Office, giving full details as to the last date at which delivery of parcels before Christmas could be guaranteed.

This circular contained the dates for the various Provinces of Canada, the United States, Great Britain and other countries.

This is a genuine demonstration of service on the part of the Post Office staff, and the information should be invaluable to those who are planning to send Christmas parcels to friends out-of-town.

The public should reciprocate by seeing to it that parcels are carefully packed, accurately and fully addressed, and posted well ahead of the dead-line, so that the huge Christmas mail may be handled with a minimum of congestion and work.

Under the most favourable conditions postal employees are facing busy weeks of nerve-wrecking labour in connection with the great volume of Christmas mail, and it is the duty of citizens to avail themselves of the information so carefully compiled and get their holiday letters and parcels into the Post Office as soon as possible.

Early mailing ensures delivery before Christmas and greatly assists the postal staff in a task that is little short of gigantic.

MUNICIPAL POLITICS.

Following upon the publication of several articles in these columns in regard to the municipal elections, The Examiner is in receipt of the following letter:

Peterborough, Nov. 19, 1927.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Why "a contest for the mayoralty . . . a fight for the chief magistrate's chair"? In your pertinent editorial of yesterday you seem to think a "fight" among the candidates for that office will stimulate public interest and thus bring out more voters. In today's issue you voice the question of most citizens when you ask, "Is it any use?"

Year after year we just let things drift, and as you so aptly say, that state of affairs leads to "weakness and lack of vision in municipal management." It seems to me that the customary "fight" for office by the men who seek it is beside the question. A fight against office-seeking would be more to the point and much more interesting. It's clear that if this city is to grow fast and be big, its affairs must be in the hands of big, far-sighted, public-spirited men—and women.

Why can't the citizens organize to find these big men and women? We are quite as able to organize as the office-seekers, and there are more of us. Maybe you will be good enough to suggest a way. A lot of people are interested and would gladly follow your lead. I for one am.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

In reply to Pro Bono Publico's invitation to The Examiner to "suggest a way" we must admit that the usual appeals to men who have the necessary qualities for efficient service in public positions have not been as successful as might be desired.

It might be that an organization of citizens keenly interested in the growth and development of Peterborough could, by working quietly and in co-operation, do something to secure the candidature of such men.

Brass band methods are not likely to succeed, but a quiet appeal from a responsible body of citizens whose motives in the matter would be above suspicion might possibly drive home to men with the necessary qualifications the duty of accepting a share of the responsibility of civic government.

There is a very real need of the best ability that can be secured for our municipal government—for no community should be satisfied until it has attained the best—and perhaps an organization along the lines suggested might be capable of splendid service.

WHISKERS AND THE MOVIES.

Hans Langseth, of Richland County, North Dakota —"famous," writes the reporter, "for his 17-foot beard" —is dead, and the world is made that much safer for uniformity and standardization. In a beardless age Hans took pride in his whiskers, and in the days of his circus career turned them into a tidy living. No doubt he entertained a hearty contempt for the smooth-faced multitudes, but Hans was out of place in this generation. Individuality even in whiskers is something not lightly to be sought. The levelling influences are too powerful for the average person, and the individual falls before the massed onslaught of the popular fashion.

Will H. Hays, the "czar" of the motion picture industry and president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., told a conference in New York recently ninety millions of Americans each week attend the 20,000 picture theatres in the United States. He added the illuminating fact that more than one million persons in New York City and its immediate area every day secure "their relaxation and principal amusement from pictures." Is it any wonder Main Street extends from the Battery to the Golden Gate? Is it surprising that the people not only of this continent but of all the world more and more are accepting the Hollywood conception of civilization?

The motion picture assuredly is the greatest engine of all times for the creation of mass opinion, and the most subtle and effective agent in the world for the dissemination of propaganda—whether in behalf of silk stockings or bathrooms or Spanish bungalows. The pictures, we hasten to add, are extremely respectable; the list of eleven "Don'ts" and 26 "Be Carefuls" adopted by the Producers and Distributors in the interests of "the highest possible moral and artistic standards" is a guarantee of correct conduct. But the vast flood of pictured plots pouring forth from Hollywood over the United States and Canada and all the nations of earth for the edification and instruction of the multitudes of all races, creeds and colors within the human family exerts a tremendous influence over thought and manners. Peoria is brought next door to Broadway, and the coolies of Canton laugh with Lloyd or envy the pompous glitter of Hollywood drawing rooms to the extent of starting a new revolution in the sacred cause of uniformity.

Ninety millions of people see the same pictures, experience much the same reaction to them, in general think the same thoughts about them. Perhaps it is a good thing, perhaps it is not. But in a race fitted to a standard pattern there was no room for a man with seventeen feet of beard.—Ottawa Journal.

ARMISTICE DAY AFTERTHOUGHTS.

It is discouraging to find the solemn ceremony of Armistice Day made the subject of an article jeering at the efforts made for international peace, and declaring that "force rules the whole world, has ruled it, shall rule it." Force must be reckoned with, but to say that it rules the world is a gross exaggeration. Peace within a nation may be said to depend ultimately upon force, but unless there were other elements at work peace would have to be maintained by a huge standing army instead of by a handful of police. The reason why only a small protective force is required is that the police are aided by the good will of the community—the willingness to obey the law and to co-operate instead of fighting and preying like wild beasts in the jungle. It is the aim of the peacemakers to establish among the nations relations like those of individuals within a law-abiding community.

The lesson of the Great War of 1914-1918 would be entirely forgotten unless persistent efforts were made to prevent the recurrence of such a calamity. Europe is still suffering from the effects of the conflict. Another such war, with all the deadly inventions which a perverted science is devising, might wreck civilization.

It is contended that we must be on our guard against nations that are practically criminals like the bank robbers. But the fact is that no nation is made up entirely of criminal or of saintly elements. Nine years after the war, in which we were fighting Germany as a menace to freedom and civilization, Premier Baldwin says: "Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, protagonists in the struggles of the day, now meet as equals and partners to advance the cause of peace, and they look forward to the convalescence of our common civilization." He pays tribute to Briand of France and Stresemann of Germany as far-seeing leaders who rendered a rapprochement possible, and asks where next a statesman would be found with the courage of Stresemann, the broad humanity of Briand.

This is remarkable language to be spoken by the Prime Minister of a country which a little more than nine years ago was engaged in a deadly conflict with Germany. It shows that, however Mr. Baldwin may hold the rulers of Germany responsible for the Great War, he does not regard the German people as hopelessly given over to militarism.

The rapid shifting of European favor, friendships end enmities is shown in the fact that Germany is now ranked as our friend; Russia, our ally in the war, as a possible enemy. And Mr. Baldwin is willing to meet even Russia in a spirit of good will if she will maintain the decencies of international intercourse. But suppose the worst. Suppose Russia, actuated by the most deadly enmity against Western Europe, she would be powerless against the group of nations referred to by Premier Baldwin, provided they maintain friendly relations.

If there is danger to Western Europe from Russia, it lies not in pacifism but in militarism. If the Western European powers quarrel and go to war among themselves, there will be a grand opportunity for any common enemy. The same would be true of a war between Great Britain and the United States. Such as war is described as "unthinkable," not merely on account of similarity of race, language, institutions and ideas, or any sentimental reason, but because it might wreck civilization. Absolute disarmament is not feasible at present. But the more friendly the leading civilized nations are, the less armament they require.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Christmas is less than five weeks away. It is none too soon to have your gift-buying campaign in full swing.

Premier Ferguson pitched horseshoes at the Royal Winter Fair last night. And his political success suggests that he has a number of those lucky articles to toss away.

Peterborough is glad to welcome the Ontario dairymen to-day. It is hoped that their visit has been both enjoyable and educative.

CATTLE GRAIN, AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—Receipts of cattle are still running high, but so far failing to shake prices, which are holding firm in a strong active market. Choice heavy beef steers are comparatively scarce and for extra quality are fetching anywhere from $9.00 to $10.00 on the odd fancy steer.

Spectators are in the market for choice heavy feeding steers, paying from $7.50 to $8.00, or even higher, for a fancy steer.

Prices on all grades of butcher cattle held steady to firm, best heavy beef steers selling up to $9.50 and good to choice butcher $8.50 to $9.25.

Stocker and feeders strong with a demand for choice heavy feeders for export, from $7.50 to $8.00.

Baby steers firm, choice $12 to $13.

Common steers and heifers, $5.50 to $7.50; medium, $4.50 to $5. Canners and cutters, $2.75 to $4.50.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—The demand from foreign buyers for wheat here yesterday showed some improvement and a moderate amount of business was worked. There was some inquiry from local exporters for wheat in the domestic market to fill ocean freight engagements and sales of some fair-sized lots of No. 2 Northern were made at fourteen cents per bushel over the Winnipeg November option, c.i.f. Bay Ports, and No. 3 Northern sold at 4 3-4c per bushel over c.i.f. Montreal. The trade in coarse grains was quiet and prices were unchanged.

A moderate amount of business was worked in Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour and the undertone was firm.

The feature of the millfeed trade continues to be the urgent demand from the United States for Manitoba bran. Bids of 38.50 per ton were made for car lots for December delivery, which millers in some cases were not disposed to accept. The local and country trade was fair and prices ruled firm. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was fairly good and prices were unchanged.

The exports of baled hay from the Port of Montreal to the United Kingdom for the week ending November 19, 1927, were 20,254 bales. The trade continued fair and firm.

The undertone to the egg market continued firm under a good demand from all sources. The receipts were 131 cases.

The demand for potatoes was confined to odd cars to meet immediate wants, but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 131 cases.

The demand for potatoes was confined to odd cars to meet immediate wants, but prices ruled steady. Sales of Prince Edward Island Whites were made at 1.25 to 1.30 per bag of 90 pounds; Green Mountains at 1.30 to $1.35 per bag of ninety pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at 1.25 to $1.30 per bag in bulk; Cobblers at 1.05 to 1.10 per bag in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 1.00 to 1.05 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

The market for imported beans was without any new feature to note, prices being steady with a fair demand. Sales of car lots were made at 2.50 per bushel, and to arrive at 2.60 per bushel, ex-track, while broken lots at $2.75 per bushel, ex-store.

The trade in butter showed no improvement, the demand being still confined to small lots. Prices were unchanged. The receipts were 210 packages.

A firmer feeling prevailed in the cheese markets which was attributed to the higher prices paid in the country at the close of last week, the increased demand from foreign and United States buyers and the limited offerings of some grades. On the whole a fair amount of business was done. The receipts were 2,945 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—Argentine crop damage as well as an unlooked for decrease of the United States visible supply total led to higher prices yesterday for wheat. Closing quotations on wheat were firm at ⅝ to 1c net advance; with corn unchanged to ¼c up; oats ⅜ to ½c off, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 5c.

Wheat values ranged upward yesterday from the start. Phenomenal hot winds were said to be injuring the quality of wheat in North Argentina, temperatures as high as 112 being reported. Advices of poor crops in South Argentina despite recent rains were also current, and it was likewise asserted that black rust is present in damaging quantities in the province of Santa Fe, Argentina. Buying here of wheat against sales of corn tended further to promote the wheat market advance.

Falling off of 1,062,000 bushels in domestic wheat stock gave the majority of wheat traders a decided surprise. General expectation had been that 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 bushels increase yesterday would be shown. On the other hand, world shipments of wheat for the last week were 1,000,000 bushels smaller than for the previous week, and expert demand for north American wheat yesterday at the Atlantic seaboard was slow, sales amounting to barely 300,000 bushels, most of it Canadian.

Corn values had a laterally, ascribed to prospect rain or snow over the corn belt and to a decrease of nearly 2,000,000 bushels in the corn visible supply. Beside, shipping sales of corn here were the best in some time, 319,000 bushels. Oats failed to overcome early losses that were associated with heavy selling attributed to the east.

Provisions averaged higher, responsible to the upward trend of hog values.

CHICAGO CATTLE

A GREAT FAVOURITE.

People often wonder how it is that almost in every home they visit in any part of the Dominion they will find The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal is the favourite paper of the household. But when one thinks of the make-up of that great publication at the extremely low price of one dollar a year, it ceases to be a wonder. The Family Herald and Weekly Star is undoubtedly Canada's favourite, and Canadians are justly proud of it. It is a wonderful combination—newspaper, agricultural journal, and family magazine—all three in one, at a cost of two cents per week. Our readers can make no mistake by giving it a trial.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

It's better to stop for a minute at a railroad crossing than forever.

One way for the farmers to make money this year is to sell their corn by the gallon instead of the bushel.

We are beginning to suspect faintly that Ruth Elder's flight was just propaganda for the short pants people.

URGES MEN TO BE CHIVALROUS

Toronto Pastor Says Girls That Drink Do So At Men's Behest.

CITES TWO CASES.

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—"There were two parties in Toronto during the past week where young women were carried from the dance hall because they were so drunk they could not continue to dance", was the assertion of the Rev. W. A. Cameron of Bloor Street Baptist Church, in his sermon at last night's service held in a local theatre, when he vigorously denounced such practices. He stated he could produce the facts and knew whereof he spoke. "I have no doubt that no young woman ever acted that way unless she was encouraged to do so by some young man", he said in urging young men to treat girls with chivalry and courtesy.

GOLD MOVEMENT NORTH CONTINUES

Premium on Canadian Dollar Makes Transaction Profitable.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—The gold movement to Canada continued yesterday with the shipment of a million and a half dollars to Montreal for the account of Harris Forbes and Company, Limited. The movement began recently with a shipment of three million dollars to the Bank of Montreal. The 11-64 of one percent premium at which the Canadian dollar is now quoted makes the transaction profitable.

FOUR OF FAMILY BURNED TO DEATH

Woman and Three Children Lose Their Lives—Father and Son Saved.

CONCORD, New Hampshire, Nov. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—Mrs. Charles Marshall and three children, Ruth, 13, Robert, 2, and John, 10, were burned to death early to-day when their home in the south part of the city was destroyed by fire. The father and one boy, Walter, 6, were saved.

A Thought For To-day

THE SAME FOOL MISTAKE.

It is a weak mind that magnifies troubles and an ungrateful heart that constantly clings to troubles.

Troubles! There have been thousands, yes, millions of men who have had more troubles in one week than you have experienced in a lifetime.

The same stars now rise and shine upon the plains of Shinar that shone six thousand years ago. The same old moon looks down upon the valley of the Nile just the same as it did countless centuries before Adam. Clouds came to darken our days just as they used to hover over the heads of humanity ages and ages ago.

The same sorrows, the same troubles rise and set in every age.

When troubles or sorrows come to you, just stop and consider the crosses others have had to carry. It will help you. We were born to trouble.

Humans always have had and always will have something to perplex and vex, something to make them sad, and the sooner you understand this and accept the situation, the less trouble you will have with troubles.

Whilst you live, you are sure to have troubles, and if you continue to nurse these troubles, by and by they will grow bigger than babies and it is mighty hard to rock "six-footers" to sleep. You will have your hands full.

The things you think are troubles today will furnish you with just the experience you need to escape such errors tomorrow, but here's the trouble. We go right on making the same fool mistakes and then find fault when we get into trouble.

Sorrow is a different thing.

COLD WAVE HITS NORTH-WEST AREA

Northern Parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan Record Very Low Temperatures.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Winter today was directing a concerted and relentless attack against the Northern areas of Western Canada, routing the milder elements before a zero onslaught which sent the mercury retreating to the lowest depths of season. Edmonton district was the centre of an Arctic offensive where a thirty below dip was recorded during the night. Battleford and Prince Albert in Saskatchewan also felt the full force of the cold wave with twenty-six below zero. Northern Manitoba in the path of the frigid blasts, reported from ten to twenty below. In the central and southern portions of the Prairie Provinces the descent of the mercury was more moderate but a heavy snowfall raging from one to three inches was fairly general. The cold wave was reported to be moving rapidly south eastward but the weatherman predicts the advent of higher temperatures within two days.

Mr. Charles Graham, of Toronto, spent the week-end at his home, Front Street.

The high westerly winds on Saturday blowing the waters from the head of the lake down the Trent River caused the water level here to be the highest it has been for years. The cellars along the raceway contained water to the depth of one foot, and in some, eighteen inches high. Plant's foundry, situated on the island, was practically flooded at times during the afternoon.

A family reunion was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Beavis on Friday night. It was the occasion of Mr. James Stevenson's ninety-fourth birthday. His sons and daughters and grandchildren were all present, with the exception of one of his sons, Dr. T. B. Stevenson of Wetaskiwin, Alta. Mr. Stevenson is still hale and hearty and conversed fluently of matters of the present and the past. He reads without glasses and delights in reading The Examiner.

Mr. William Killinbeck spent Saturday afternoon and evening in Cobourg on business.

Mr. Reginald Chapman is visiting at the home of his brother, Mr. W. H. Chapman, Front Street.

The Masonic at-home, held in the Masonic Hall on Friday evening was a great success. There were about one hundred present from Hastings and the surrounding district. There were twenty-two tables of progressive euchre, after which lunch was served. Mrs. W. M. Bowlds won the lady's first prize and Mr. William Whitred, Jr., won the gentleman's prize in euchre.

Mr. Harry Walsh, of Bassono, Alta., is visiting for a couple of weeks with relatives in Hastings and vicinity. Mr. Walsh brought a car-load of young horses with him, which he intends disposing of by auction.

ENNISMORE NEWS

ENNISMORE, Nov. 21.—Mr. D. Perdue of Toronto, spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Perdue, recently.

Mr. J. O'Connell of Downeyville, visited Mr. and Mrs. M. Twomey on Sunday.

Miss Hazel Cavanagh is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maloney of Peterborough.

The Misses M. Grisdale, K. Shanahan and Mr. W. Grisdale, of Peterborough, were the guests of friends here on Sunday.

The high winds on Saturday evening broke the bridge at Gannon's Narrows. A number from here who were in Peterorough were afraid of Chemong bridge, but as the wind was blowing with it, there was no danger.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Cadigan and family and Mr. Gerald Cavanagh moved to Cavanville last Sunday.

Mr. G. Sheehy and family, from Best Station, have moved to Mr. Shanahan's farm near Pigeon Lake.

The answer—"Yes, your manner has much to do with your success! Like some, you may be inclined to say, "I am what I am, and if people don't like me, I can't help it. I am as God made me.' But you are not as God made you. And you can help that about you that people don't like. In all probability you are as your circumstances, environment, and your own pig-headedness have spoiled you. Why should you let an unfortunate manner cling to you all your life just because you are too lazy or too proud to rid yourself of it."

The answer—"No! I certainly do not agree with any such statement. That is equivalent to saying that the Golden Rule will not work in this matter-of-fact world. That the Sermon on the Mount is idealistic and impossible. The fact is these have never yet really been tried. Most people only think they won't work. Anybody who says you must trim and accommodate and compromise to get along is either dishonest or has not got moral backbone enough to do anything else but trim and compromise."

"Under Suspicion."

Corinthians II.—8, 7-12, telling of the great propensity of giving of the Macedonian churches, was the theme of the sermon Mr. Allan delivered, following the prelude. Chapters 8 and 9, he said, should be read together; they were gems of literature which, if the remainder of the Bible was taken from us, would still leave two chapters sufficient to guide us the remainder of our lives. They concern themselves with one subject—they deal with church collections and the liberality of church folks. There existed a need which could only be met by money, and in these chapters the apostle is making the most difficult of all appeals—for a collection!

An Intense Love.

"We know how he wrestles with some great doctrine," he said. "His power has never been excelled. His logic is overwhelming, his sincerity is beyond the shadow of suspicion, while his love for Christ and humanity is like a volcano broken loose. It will be interesting to see how he deals with this thorny and delicate question.

Failure Maens Suspicion.

"A year ago they had promised to do something. But this promise had not as yet been redeemed. The Apostle does not suggest that they will not do it, but he does suggest that their failure up to that time is bringing all concerned under suspicion. Now," continued Mr. Allan, "no one likes to be under suspicion. For example, in murder, it happens many are brought under suspicion, even if innocent. Anonymous letters are an ugly means employed to bring certain people, innocent, maybe, under suspicion. And so also in church finances, all are more or less under suspicion. Let us suppose 450 families have an average income of $15.00 per week. The total weekly income of these families would reach the sum of $6,750. One-tenth of that would be $675 weekly. The annual income would amount to $351,000. One-tenth would be $35,100. So you can easily see how a church would have no trouble meeting its bills," said Mr. Allan, "and there would be no need to hold teas and suppers, if tithing was generally adopted among church members.

They Needed Help.

"Let us look at II. Corinthians, 8, 1-5," said Mr. Allan. "These Macedonians had said just a little while before, 'Come over and help us.' Europe at that time needed in their ignorance a teacher, and in their distress and hardship a liberator. Christianity supplied these needs. It is supposed to give a new nature—transforming from selfishness to sacrifice. And here we have an exhibition that is remarkable! They are now saying, 'Honor us by allowing us to give.' 'Can you do this?' they were asked. And they said, 'We can.' They were asked to consider the whole case, and they replied, 'We have done so.' 'Where have you done it?' 'On our knees.' 'From what standpoint have you looked upon this case?' 'From the Cross!'

Give Ourselves First.

"They gave themselves to the Lord. This settled, all else is settled. It is toilsome work to go where the heart had not been given. It is easy to give where the heart leads. So long as the church seeks only yours the church will have to fight for it and argue about it and worry it out of you. But when the church gets you yourself, with all your love, the rest is easy. Do not say you have given yourselves to Christ," concluded Mr. Allan, "if you are keeping anything back from Him. Do not imagine you can give your money and keep yourself back. That is not Christian giving. Give ourselves to Him first; then we will give of our means, and give freely and easily."

ST. ANDREW'S

On Sunday morning at St. Andrew's church the pulpit was occupied by Rev. J. O. Totten, of Cavan United church, who was exchanging with Rev. J. W. Gordon who was conducting anniversary services at the Mt. Pleasant congregation of the Cavan charge. Mr. Totten preached a striking, forceful and inspiring sermon from the text, "Nowadays." A comparison between present day conditions with the so-called good-old days was instituted to show that the world under the providence of God is progressive. The sermon was greatly enjoyed by all.

A feature of the musical service was a duet by Mrs. Doig and Mr. Hugh Niven, it being Mr. Niven's last Sunday in St. Andrew's choir before his removal to Toronto. Mr. Niven's promotion to greater responsibility in Toronto is gain to him, but serious loss to St. Andrew's church and choir, where his ability, kindly character, and faithfulness have meant so much during his residence in Peterborough.

The Presbyterian Church.

In the evening Rev. J. W. Gordon continued his series of studies on the general topic, "What the great denominations have done for God." Dealing with the Presbyterian church Mr. Gordon traced the growth of the church in Scotland previous to the Reformation. The Scottish church did not derive directly from Rome. Neither was it due to a northern extension of Augustine's mission to England. Its beginnings are clearly traceable to the work of an Irish monk named Columba who organized a strong church on the Island of Iona.

This church, while clearly Roman in its general faith and order, differed in many ways from the church in Italy and England. It was like the church in England, always of an independent, character and restive under the yoke which Rome sought to impose. Its learning was insignificant and its leading churchmen took little part in the political life of the nation. Scotland had not in its church life any men who took such a part in the national concerns as Laud and Cranmer took in England.

Slowly, its loose and irregular organization developed until Scotland had 13 dioceses and about 1000 parishes. The church owned one-half the landed wealth of the land and shared with the church everywhere the general corruption and weakness, characteristic of the age. The clergy were generally ignorant, corrupt and indolent. Children were created bishops to secure the financial rewards of the high office. Men held livings and received the emoluments of their office and did not even visit at any time their parishes. One man sometimes held eight or ten livings at one time. Sin came to mean not sin against God but disobedience to Rome. One of its bishops publicly thanked God that he knew nothing about either the Old Testament or the New Testament.

The second part of the sermon dealt with the Reformation period in Scotland. Led by John Knox who proclaimed himself to be but "a simple minister of the church withal." A full Presbyterian church was set up in Scotland, the distinguishing feature of which was its basic church court—the "Presbytery" composed of a minister and a layman from each congregation. These presbyters were equal and on the same level in all matters of legislation, organization and power. It was a democratic church as contrasted with all episcopal bodies and a carefully organized and supervised church as contrasted with all purely congregational bodies such as the Baptists. Elders were elected annually and the public worship was conducted according to a carefully arranged liturgy quite similar to the Anglican order in the "Book of Common Prayer."

Then came the civil war, and the temporary union with English Protestants which resulted in the drawing up of the "Westminster Confession of Faith" when the beautiful and historic liturgy of the first eighty years was lost to the church. It was in these days, when pressed by the Royalist forces of England, that the famous and immortal Scottish National Convenant was circulated in Scotland and signed by many men with pens dipped in their own blood. This covenant was a solemn undertaking to protect and to further the cause of pure religion in the land.

The coming of William of Orange to the land fully restored the whole Presbyterian system in Scotland, the sole link with the Crown being the pleasant fiction that the King summoned the annual assembly through his High Commissioner, who attended every assembly and sat with the moderator. Really, the King had nothing to do with it.

Sections three of this historical study covered the period subsequent to the Reformation. The steady growth in power, culture and general influence was outlined. The various secessions and divisions and the successive unions which later brought branches of the Scottish church together again were indicated, until in 1900 there remained but two significant divisions of the church, "The United Free Church" and "The Established Church." These two are now on the verge of union, and in a few years, said the speaker there will be a fully united church in Scotland.

Mr. Gordon closed by a summary of what the Presbyterian church, beginning in Scotland has contributed towards God's work in the world:—

(1) A church and school in every parish, a scholarly ministry and an educated people was its ideal. Great preaching, the teaching of the shorter catechism and the universal reading of the Bible developed a type of character, which for sincerity, earnestness and general spiritual culture was unmatched in the world. It made Scotland influential out of all proportion to its size, wealth and population.

(2) Men bred under its system of democratic church government were everywhere advocates of democrati c government in civil affairs. Men who are free in spiritual things make impossible slaves.

(3) Their doctrinal teaching of the Sovereignty of God was their single greatest contribution. Religion, said they is primarily something which God does for man. God takes the initiative in all religious experience. This they preached for four hundred years—the primary truth of religion.

Mr. Gordon announced that at the request of some of the congregation he would devote at least one evening to a study of the relation of the United church of Canada to those great denominations. Next Sunday evening the topic is The Methodist Church.

A pleasing feature of the evening service was a stirring rendering of a duet, "Watchman, What Of The Night?" by Messrs. E. Humphage and Jack Smith.

GILMOUR MEMORIAL

In the Gilmour Memorial church, on Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. W. S. Edgar, conducted a memorial service, in memory of the late Deacon William George Telford, taking as his text Psalm 73:24—"Thou shalt guide me with thy counsel and afterward receive me to glory."

He said, "This 73rd Psalm reminds me of the tumult of the forest, when the wind roars and swells and surges with wild discord among the trees, when the branches creak and crash against each other and every bough has a separate wail. But by and by the wind lulls and dies away and when all the forest is quiet then some bird on the tree-top sings out clear and sweet and his song goes floating over the wood, the very soul of peaceful joy. In the opening passages of the Psalm the discords clash against each other, and there is moaning and strife, and the sound of war, but at length out of the jar and conflict there comes a clear-flowing melody as sweet as the song of the bird and as gentle as the twilight rustle of the leaves.

"The Psalmist begins with a narrative of a great soul battle, a spiritual Waterloo, a hard and well fought field in which the half defeated becomes in the end wholly victorious.

"It is the old perplexing problem that he is up against, the material prosperity of the wicked and the poverty and hardship of the righteous. The Psalm might be justly termed, the trial and triumph of a Godly man. The Psalmist views life here from two standpoints, fact and faith. Life viewed in its own light, bounded by its own horizon, is a strange, tragic, disappointing mystery, a tangled web. Wicked men seem to prosper and get on in life. Good men are confronted with adversity and seem to fail. This fact almost caused the Psalmist to lose his faith in God's righteous government of the world. We also seeing these things from the standpoint of reason are smitten with a deeper agony because explanation is utterly impossible.

"But what is dark to reason is clear to faith when the Psalmist went into the sanctuary, when he looked on life from within the holy place, from the standpoint of the believer all was changed. What before had seemed but a dark and cloudy pillar, when seen from the other side flamed with the brightness of divine righteousness. Life is more than meat, more than gorgeous apparel, more than earthly satisfaction. Having settled this question, the Psalmist makes his choice. Looking up to heaven he says in the language of our text—'Thou shalt guide me with thy counsel and afterward receive me to glory.'

"This text naturally divides itself into two parts, guidance in this world and glory in the world to come; and our late brother Telford experienced this divine guidance and now he is experiencing the glory. Our brother was a good man, and when I say that I say a lot. I do not wish any higher compliment to be paid me when I'm gone than to have it said of me, that I was a good man for a good man is a godly man. William Telford fulfilled the duties devolving upon him in his station in life, faithfully and well. It will be many years before William Telford will be forgotten in this district and community."

The pastor closed by commending the sorrowing widow and relatives to their prayers and sympathy.

Most of the farmers have their ploughing finished for another year, as they expect the ground to be frozen up soon. Some finished taking in their turnips last week.

Mr. Russell Little, of Pine Grove Cheese Factory, has finished making cheese and butter for this year. Most of the farmers are now churning the cream, but others are sending it to the creameries.

The sale of farm implements and stock on the farm of Mr. William Dunford of Douro, just south of here, was well attended on Wednesday, November 16, despite the cold, disagreeable rain.

The goods, disposed of under the management of W. J. Hancock of Peterborough, brought a large sum. Horses and cows brought good prices, as did other articles offered for sale.

Mr. Dunford has been forced to sell his farm owing to ill-health for a few months. His son, Mr. Wellie Dunford, will soon take possession of it.

Mr. Dunford is moving to Lakefield, where he will reside in future.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Coons were visitors to Peterborough on Saturday.

Mr. William H. Down has finished stumping his field. He stumped two fields for Mr. E. Grier last week.

COLD WAVE PASSES.

Moderation Reported From the West, Where Temperature is Raised By Chinook.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—Pronounced moderation in the cold wave which swept Western Canada for the past week was reflected in the official weather report today. Edmonton, which shivered in a frigid blast of thirty below zero yesterday, was in the direct depth of a chinook which had sent the mercury to twenty-two above to-day. Elsewhere in Alberta a sharp rise in temperature was noted. The low pressure area was rapidly moving across the Prairies, promising welcome relief to Saskatchewan and Manitoba, where dips ranging from four to twenty-two below zero were recorded during the night.

KENT SENATOR PASSES AWAY

Hon. A. B. McCoig Dies at Home After Long Illness.

NEVER BEATEN AT POLLS.

CHATHAM, Nov. 22.—Chatham and Kent County are mourning the passing, late yesterday afternoon, of Hon. Senator Archibald Blake McCoig, Kent's favorite native son, and for many years one of the most prominent of Canada's public men.

Senator McCoig passed away at his home, 52 Lacroix Street. In poor health for several months, it was not until early in September that he finally consented to take a rest. He was confined to his home, but it was not until several weeks ago that his condition became critical, and for the past two weeks, both he and his family have known that he could not recover. Death was caused by cirthosis of the liver, and at least two minor operations were necessary during the last days of his illness to relieve the pain caused by his serious condition.

Senator McCoig was not only highly esteemed, he was deeply loved by all with whom he came in contact, and during his public career he held the affection and admiration of the people of this city and county to such an extent that he won every election he ever contested.

Archibald Blake McCoig was a native son of the county which he served in a public capacity for so much of his lifetime. He was born on April 8, 1873, in the small community in Tilbury East Township, in the County of Kent, known as Stewart. He was the son of the late Daniel McCoig and Christine Martin, both of whom were born in Scotland and came to Canada in the early days, to be counted among its most respected and honored pioneers.

Senator McCoig was educated in the Tilbury East and Chatham Schools, and at a very early age he left school to make a name for himself in the business world. His first job was that of a parcel delivery boy and his employer was Gordon Pelette, Chatham grocer.

He soon transferred his activities to the hardware store of the late George Stephens, ex-M.P. He served his apprenticeship faithfully, and it was a bright and popular young machinery merchant who, a few years later, decided to go into the farm implement business with his father. The firm succeeded in working up a very prosperous trade.

At an early age he accepted his duties of citizenship, and sought a place on the City Council in his home town. His great popularity made him an admirable candidate, and he headed the polls for Alderman through five elections, 1900-04. His strongest support in those elections came from the workingmen, and, in his Council record, he established the reputation of being the "workingman's friend," a reputation he carried through life until the day he died.

In the Legislature.

In 1905 the Ross Government at Toronto appealed to the people, and at the convention to select a Liberal candidate for West Kent, Alderman McCoig accepted the nomination.

In spite of the strength of his opponent, and also in the face of a Provincial sentiment which sent Ross to a crushing defeat, young McCoig emerged victorious from the conflict. When the rural districts were heard from, it was found that McCoig had piled up a majority. The same thing applied to all of the elections he contested as a candidate. A. B. McCoig was never beaten at the polls. In 1908 he defeated Herbert S. Clements for the Federal House.

His election to the House of Commons was in 1911, when his opponent was the late Judge Ward Stanworth. The next election, in 1917, when the question of a Union Government was the big issue, was a lively one. Once again the country went against the Liberal party, but it was found that McCoig had done as he did when Ross went down—he held Kent for the Liberals.

His last election was in 1921, when his opponents for the Federal seat of Kent were W. A. Hammond, Conservative, of this city, and D. R. McDiarmid, Progressive, of Ridgetown. He again emerged victorious.

Appointed Senator.

In 1922 Mr. McCoig received a fitting reward for the yeoman service he had rendered to the Liberal party in this riding, when he was appointed to the Senate of Canada, and the local seat was given by acclamation to Hon. James Murdock, who at that time was Minister of Labor.

But this did not keep Senator McCoig out of politics. Whenever there was an election fight, he seemingly had to be in it, and in all elections since that time he was found a staunch and valuable lieutenant of Liberal candidates.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Chatham, and a devoted and regular attendant at the services. He was a trustee of the church.

On January 25, 1898, Mr. McCoig married Miss Addie M. Demarse of Chatham. To them one son was born, Blake W. McCoig, of Chatham.

Senator McCoig was one of a family of four, of whom one sister, Mrs. Edward Cornhill of Chatham, is the only surviving member. He is also survived by a half-brother, Harry McCoig of Detroit.

Wheat Market Steady; Price Changes Small

CHICAGO Nov. 22. — Unusual steadiness showed itself in the wheat market early to-day, price variations keeping within ½c of yesterday's finish. Traders were watching Argentine crop developments sharply and in particular, reports that the weather in parts of northern Argentina is unsuitable for harvest. Opening at ½c decline to ¼c advance, wheat continued inside the initial range.

Corn and oats were also steady, corn starting at 3-8c off to 1-8c up, and fluctuating but little. Provisions tended to advance.

Opening prices were:
Wheat December 127 1-8; March 131½; corn, December, 66 7-8, March 90½; oats, Dec. 48 7-8; March 50 5-8.

Best Single Session Recorded On Standard

TORONTO, Ont., November 22 (Canadian Press). — A turnover of over half a million shares in Tough Oake; was the feature of the greatest single session in the history of the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Tough Oakes was sold up to 82, and then down again to 73½, a gain of 2½.

The general tendency was downward. The greatest loser was Vipond, slumping 22½ at 69½. Barry Hollinger lost ten and Bidgood a point ,both of these resigning leadership they held yesterday. Dome, Castle Tretheway, Granada Rouyn, Potter Doal, and Amity Copper all strengthened, while Amulet, Beaver, Kirkland Lake, and Lake Shore were easier. Sales, a new record, were 2,753,700.

Toronto Exchange Slumps After Opening Firmness

TORONTO, Ont., November 22 (Canadian Press). — After a firm opening the list on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day became unsettled, and a number of declines were recorded at noon. Northern Bakeries, the active leader, touched 44⅝ and closed at noon at 43½, a net loss of an eighth. British--American Oil was steady at 35⅞, and Seagrams ,the third active leader, lost a quarter at 23½. Abitibi, Massey-Harris, and Western Canada Flour were firm spots in the regular list, while Brazilian, Brantford Preferred, International, and Page Hersey lost slightly. The oils were unsteady, Imperial Oil and Petroleum losing fractionally while McColl steadied a point. Liquor stocks were also uncertain, Walker's, Carling's ,and Malting firming slightly, while Canadian Brewing and Gooderham & Worts eased fractionally.

Advance Continues; Specialties Are Leaders

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Speculators for the advance retained control of the price movement in to-day's stock market, which was largely a specialty affair. Standard Industrials and Rails again failed to make much headway. Gains of three to nearly eight points were scattered throughout the list with about a score of issues, including such favorites as Packard, Hupp, Radio, International Paper and Anaconda again touching new high records. Banks called about ten million dollars in loans during the morning, but call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of three and a half per cent.

The day's trade news was rather colorless in character. A brisk demand was apparent for several of the independent steel shares. Midland Steel Products Preferred continued its sensational advance by soaring 7¼ points to a new high. The revival of rumors that the stock holders of the Norfolk and Western would be guaranteed liberal dividends under an offer of the Pennsylvania railroad, which already owns about half the stock, to lease the road, sent that issue up to a new high record of 201½.

EARLY MAILING RECOMMENDED

Letters and Parcels Should be Sent Out in Good Time.

FINAL DATES

Just five weeks until that day of days when the Post Office will be called on to play the part of Santa Claus to the Canadian people. You can help the Post Office Santa Claus and incidentally make sure that your friends' enjoyment of the day will be increased by following that oft-repeated slogan, "Mail Early."

You will understand that if the great mass of mail which is thrown on the Post Office during the last few days just immediately prior to Christmas is unusually heavy, it means a certain portion of it may not be delivered by Christmas Day. This naturally is a source of disappointment to both senders and addressees, a disappointment which can be entirely avoided by carrying out the following suggestions:

If you have friends in overseas countries, you should get your gifts away at once and certainly not later than in time to connect with the SS. Montclare sailing from Saint John on December 6.

Parcels for United States should go forward early in December, as there is a possibility of considerable delay at the Customs, owing to the congestion at this time of the year. Do not overlook the necessity of complete customs declarations.

As regards parcels for British Columbia, December 14 should be considered the last day which will guarantee delivery.

Alberta parcels should go out not later than the fifteenth.

Saskatchewan parcels on the sixteenth.

Manitoba and Maritime Provinces parcels on the seventeenth.

Quebec parcels and parcels for Ontario generally on the nineteenth.

Parcels for local delivery not later than December 22.

These dates are all given from the long and varied experience of the Post Office and may be regarded as the latest dates which will ensure your parcels being delivered on time. You may, if you like, mark them, "Do not open until Christmas."

There are some other points which you should follow if your mail is to receive the best attention. These points are listed here:

Address fully.

Place return address in upper left-hand corner.

Prepay postage fully.

Insure your parcels.

Remember that if a parcel is worth mailing it is worth packing.

Yours for a complete delivery by Christmas,

—Chas. Lacheur, Postmaster.

ORANGEMEN BLAME LAXITY FOR CHANGE

Say Government Not Justified in Changing "Regulation 17."

TORONTO, Nov. 22.— (Canadian Press.)—It is expected that the official reports of the Legislative committee of the Orange Grand Lodge of British North America in regard to the recent changes in the Ontario school regulations abolishing "Regulation 17" will be available to-night. According to the Toronto papers this report will blame the Ontario government for "laxity" in enforcing this regulation and will declare there was no justification for changing the regulations regarding the teaching of French and English in the schools of Ontario. No statement was forthcoming on the matter to-day from Premier Ferguson, who is Minister of Education.

THE TALE OF TWO CITIES

(By Jeanette)

The story of Sidney Carton, "the man who found the secret of immortality—self-obliteration," was the theme of the entertainment given by the Rev. Andrew D. Robb, pastor of the Glebe Road United Church, Toronto, in Trinity Church last evening, in connection with the anniversary of the church's Sunday School, celebrated on Sunday and Monday of this week.

It is seldom that advance notices of an entertainer's talent are inadequate in expressing the scope of his work. A notice of Mr. Robb's entertainment spoke of it as "A rare opportunity to hear this gifted preacher, interpreter, reader, and dramatic orator." Anyone who listened to "The Tale of Two Cities," the word painting as Mr. Robb told it in Trinity Church last night, will agree that the above sentence did not do justice to his ability. It may only have been a happy choice of a tale that appealed especially to the narrator, but the creator of Sidney Carton, the master-novelist, Charles Dickens, could have found little to criticize in the spirit and manner in which the Rev. Mr. Robb made his people live and move and have their being before the audience that listened with intent, appreciative silence to the story, tragic and pathetic in its essence, but glorious and sublime in its conclusion, of Sidney Carton, the ne'er-do-well shyster bohemian lawyer of London who found on a French guillotine the way to immortality, when he laid down his life that the husband of his loved one might be spared to her.

The Rev. Mr. Robb took the main portions of the story of "The Tale of Two Cities" and, introducing his characters much in the manner of a moving picture drama that brings them in suddenly and effectively and then pieces together the story in which they live, presented finally to his hearers the heart of the tale of London and Paris that Dickens penned so many years ago. Just as the creator pulled the strings that made his puppets go forth on errands that led them to the strife of a Revolution-made France from the comparative security of a tranquil England, so Mr. Robb worked the inner mechanism, using only his voice and a few gestures. The effective simplicity of the recital lay in its absence of effect, in the facile voice of the speaker, imitating at will various characters, and in the mental background projected into the quiet church where, through the use of dramatic and well-chosen adjectives, the streets of Paris were seen to run red with the spilled wine that prefigured the bloody days of the Revolution, the echoes of coming tragic events had their being in the rooms of the quiet house in Soho Square, and the tumbrils creaked past, laden with victims for the knife and the knitting-women.

The story of Dr. Manette, imprisoned in the Bastille for many long years on account of his knowledge of the wicked deeds of the aristocratic French family, the Evremondes, and of the gentle Lucie, his only child, as it came from the hands of Charles Dickens, in his "Tale of Two Cities," unfolded itself rapidly before the eyes of the audience last night. Rev. Mr. Robb's marvellous memory did not need the use of notes to inspire it and there were no pauses in the graphic recital. Just as Dickens was used to do, weaving many threads into a complicated mosaic of beautiful form, so the speaker gathered up the various skeins in the story that brings in Sidney Carton, the drunken shyster lawyer of Old Bailey, and makes him finally the hero of the tale.

Lucie's lover and husband, Charles Darnay, was by birth related to the Evremondes of France, ferocious aristocrats who were among the first to fall at the hands of the Revolutionaries. Journeying to Paris on an errand of mercy, he falls into the hands of the blood-thirsty citizens, and is denounced by them. Darnay has borne a curious resemblance to Sidney Carton, and the latter, loving Darnay's wife with a pure and self-sacrificing devotion, takes advantage of this resemblance to impersonate Darnay on the scaffold.

"It is a far, far better thing that I do, than I have ever done; it is a far, far better rest that I go to, than I have ever known," the words of Charles Dickens, who never ended a book without leaving a noble thought behind, were the concluding quoted words of a magnificent recital of this dramatic tale, in which even the stilted mid-Victorian words of the declaration of renunciatory love made by Carton to Lucie Manette, as quoted by Mr. Robb, throbbed with the genuine passion and devotion of the broken man.

The numbers of the program last night, announced by the chairman, Mr. A. B. Gates, included songs by Miss Margaret Wolstenholme and Mr. N. Staples, the former singing "Sink, Sink, Red Sun," and the latter giving the "Invitus" number. Accompaniments were played on the organ by Miss Mabel Clarry, who also provided a sympathetic background of softly-played organ music for the recital by Rev. Mr. Robb.

CHARLESWORTH IS COMING TO CITY

Noted Editor of Toronto Saturday Night To Speak at Kiwanis Club.

Kiwanis Club is to be favored on Friday by the presence of Hector Charlesworth, essayist and journalist, managing editor of Toronto Saturday Night, as guest speaker. The occasion is the anniversary of the charter presentation to Peterborough Kiwanis Club, and the programme is under direction of the past presidents: John A. McKone, John R. Marshall, Charles D. Cook and Dr. John J. Craig.

This annual event, which takes the form of a Ladies' Night at the Empress Hotel, is the outstanding meeting of the year. As a special treat next Friday, it is hoped to have musical selections by the Scottish Rite Octette. The dinner and speeches will be followed by dancing until midnight.

The character of the speaker, who is known throughout Canada, prompts Kiwanis Club to extend an invitation to non-members, and any who are not members of the club, but desire to hear Mr. Charlesworth, should get in touch immediately with some club member before the few extra tickets are taken up.

COOLIDGE FROWNS ON ROUND ROBIN

Protests Circulation of Petition That He Be Re-Nominated.

WASHINGTON, November 22 (Canadian Press). — The first authoritative direct statement of President Coolidge's 1928 desires since the famous "I do not choose to run" edict came from the White House to-day ,and it was the expression of Mr. Coolidge's desire that petitions on his behalf be kept from circulation. Unlike the "I do not choose" statement which was typewritten and handed to newspapermen by the President himself, to-day's outline of the President's views came in the usual routine of giving to the press the attitude of Mr. Coolidge on various topics, without authority to quote him directly. To-day's exposition of White House views was brought about by the publication of the intention of a supporter of Mr. Coolidge to start an endless chain petition urging his re-nomination. Mr. Coolidge believed such petitions would do no good.

DISTRICT CHURCHES

MARMORA UNITED CHURCH

MARMORA, Nov. 22.—Anniversary Sunday was observed at the Marmora United Church on November 20th. The special preacher was to have been the Rev. G. R. C. McQuade of Odessa, Secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference, but sickness at his home unfortunately made his visit impossible, so that the ministrations of the day devolved solely upon the pastor, Rev. C. J. Beekley. The evening service of a bright and hearty character was attended by a good congregation. Geraniums and other flowers made a pretty decoration to the front of the preaching desk. With Miss Lorraine Bell at the organ, the augmented choir rendered very beautifully the anthem, "O Lord, How Manifold Are Thy Works." Marmora Male Quartette (Messrs. W. Sanderson, W. L. Rigg, W. M. Lester and J. Baker) were heard at their best in their three contributions, "Saviour and Lord of All," "O, How Sweet It Will Be," and "Softly Now the Light of Day." A rousing sermon was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Beekley upon the latter part of I. Cor. 10, 11, and John 4, 38. In using the former text, the preacher chose Dr. Moulton's translation which renders the verse thus, "The toil of all the ages has come unto us as an inheritance." Rev. Beekley, in naming his subject, "The religious progress of man," declared the idea of progress to be one that man refuses to relinquish.

"The history of man," said Fosdick, "is a river, not a pond, not a whirlpool." "It is not a whirlpool," said the preacher," for our fevered race does not end in itself. It is not a pool, for it is not stagnant. It is a river and it is bourne to God. The whole of life points unmistakeably to the fact that the human race is marching, is progressing, is evolving from good to better and goes on to the best. Its gradual regular development is under fixed laws. God is governing all things for a given end. It is time that there is much of human accomplishment in the past that we may never hope to see exceeded. You may go to Greece and see its architecture and feel that man may never reach that degree of perfection in that work again. You may go to the Vatican and view the masterpieces of art of the Middle Ages and again you may feel that man cannot hope today to supersede those masterpieces. Shakespeare in all probability will never be exceeded. He was not a master of English alone. He was also a master of men, for he understood men.

"I wish to affirm," he continued," that the human race is progressing and not going backward. Take the sum of knowledge today with what it has been in the past. Man is today master of the world as never before in the history of the race." Having enumerated triumphs of locomotion in illustration of the growing mastery of man, Rev. Beekley remarked, "Man is so much a master that the temptation is for him to think that he is sufficiently good in himself.

"Centuries ago when a plague overtook them, men invoked the aid of God in church. In the 20th Century, in the days of the "flu," man invoked the aid of the Health Commissioner. We have progressed along the lines of knowledge, understanding that the Health Commissioner is doing God's work for Him. Religion, however, has not kept pace in the main with our scientific knowledge. We dare not regard religion as something static. That spirit does not prevail in any line of thought except in religion. We do not hear such words from a farmer, 'It's the old-time machinery, and it's good enough for me.' Nor do we hear of the father desiring the old-time education for his boy or of the storekeeper saying, 'It's the old time store and it's good enough for me.' When there is progress in the world you have got to progress in religion or else your world will fall down like a pack of cards."

Concluding the reverend gentleman showed how the law of Moses, without being outdated, was superseded by the teaching of Jesus and further gave denial to the statements that the first Christian century was the best that ever was, and that when one goes to Heaven they become good all at once.

HAVELOCK UNITED CHURCH.

HAVELOCK, Nov. 22. — Havelock United church, formerly Methodist, celebrated its thirty-first anniversary on Sunday, Nov. 20th, with Rev. F. H. Howard, of Millbrook, as the special preacher at both services. The services of song by the choir, assisted by Miss Bessie Conley, of St. Paul's United church, Stirling, were of high order. Solos both morning and evening by Miss Conley were beautifully sung and enjoyed by the large congregation.

Rev. Mr. Howard took as his text for the morning discourse verses 19 and 20 of the 15th chapter of Matthew, "For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies. These are the things which defile a man, but to eat with unwashed hands defileth not a man."

'Men do not sin with their brains," the speaker said, "but it is ther emotions and passions that lead them into sin and men must leave sin through the door of passion. The heart is the seat of passion and men must grasp the story of Christ through emotions and passions. Crimes in our land come from men whose hearts have not been changed through Christ and this change comes through the new birth by being born unto things spiritual, receiving a new heart and right spirit.

Interest should be taken in the most helpful, directional institution in society, the church, whose value can not be estimated from the point of its elevating influence to mankind. If there had been no church in this community for twenty years," he continued, "it is a sure thing that we would not be as good as we are today and it is only reasonable to urge that we all come under and yield ourselves to those things which will bring the heart under the right influence giving particular attention to the church, the Word which is in the book of the heart and submitting to the Holy Spirit."

In conclusion Mr. Howard said that the United church recognizes the fact that she was brought into effect that she may serve the people of this Dominion and that people may live more effectively. Six hundred new communities, in a year's time are receiving the gospel brought to them through the agency of the United church. The office of the church is to bring men to the fellowship and sonship of the Almighty.

The subject of the evening service was "Profitable Disappointment," based on the first part of the 5th chapter of Mark, the story of Christ delivering the man possessed of the legion of devils followed by the Master's command to "go home to thy friends and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee and hath had compassion on thee."

"This man," the speaker said, "realized what Christ could do for him, and was converted, but his conversion was followed by a disappointment. When delivered from the demons which possessed him, he ought to enjoy Jesus, but he had to learn the lesson that indulgence even in Christian grace is not the first thing, because the command to the Christian is to testify. The joy of the Lord is always the consequence of duties done and the call to testify is the great test that comes to every young convert first to go home and talk to people who are not spiritual about spiritual matters, the reward being not based on the results of the testimony or preaching, but on the willingness to carry out the instruction.

"Jesus demonstrated this lesson in Christian love because He went first to His own people, and although they had rejected Him, the primary duty to His friends and nation had been discharged. This man of the story also learned that being a Christian means being under control not of the law but by love. Possessions, whether talents or material wealth, entail responsibility ,and the responsibility of administering these possessions, cannot be escaped. It is because God has reckoned that we are capable that we are entrusted with them. The motto of the church life should be 'Others.'

"Some may ask, will they get value if they yield their to-day to the world's to-morrow. "In conclusion, the speaker said that each is sure in some way to find that living an invested or normal life with Christ, acting as stewards of their talents, not living in the future, but accepting and discharging the responsibilities that arise from day to day, will bring great joy in the future.

EXTRA GUARDS AT COMMONS

Entry of Welsh Marchers During Session is Contrary to Law.

SEEK INTERVIEW.

LONDON, November 22 (Canadian Press).—Extra guards were placed on duty at the House of Commons today in view of the presence in London of "Coxey's Army," whose announced intention is to present a "petition in boots" to Parliament on unemployment in the Welsh coal fields. Any attempt to gain entry to the Commons by the marchers from the Rhondda Valley is contrary to the law.

A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Federation and organizer of the march, announced that with the aid of two Welsh members of Parliament, William John and Richard Wallhead, he had arranged for a conference this afternoon with representatives of the marchers in the hope of being able to bring about an interview with Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin.

Miners Meet Members.

The "petition in boots" carried across England from Wales by A. J. Cook's little "Coxey's Army" reached the House of Parliament this afternoon, but did not reach the House of Commons, which was the goal of its leaders. The delegation of Welsh miners headed by Mr. Cook, who is Secretary of the Miners' Federation, was received in Westminster Hall Committee Rooms by several members of Parliament representing the mining districts.

EIGHT-FOOT FALL KILLS WORKMAN

Stratford Man Dies From Broken Neck Received at Roundhouse.

STRATFORD, Ont., November 22. —Joseph Delafranier, 207 St. Patrick Street, died in the General Hospital here late yesterday afternoon, as a result of injuries which he received while working at the C.N.R. roundhouse on Saturday.

Delafranier, a pipefitter, was working on an engine when, in some unaccountable manner, he fell to the cement floor below, a distance of about eight feet ,breaking his neck, and causing paralysis to his entire body. An operation was performed by Dr. L. Robinson yesterday morning when a piece of bone which was pressing against the spine, was removed, but without avail.

No Back Talk From Soft Drink Machine'

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(United Press).—The handsome soda jerker is threatened with extinction by a new machine which has appeared on Broadway automatically vending soft drinks of "all flavors at a nickle a drink." According to Frederick E. Gray, the inventor, more than 3,000 persons patronized his "soda mat" of ten machines during the first two hours after it was opened.

"The beauty of it," said Gray, "is that eight seconds after you put your nickle in and press 'Sarsparilla' you get sarsparilla and no back talk. I spent five years and $100,000 to achieve just that."

TWENTY MILLION MEN AVAILABLE

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(United Press).—Lord Rothermere, newspaper owner, said yesterday that twenty million men could be mobilized immediately in case of war. Supporting Lloyd George, central figure of the recent "Alarmist" controversy, Rothermere said that within ten days France could have four million, Italy 3,500,000, the Little Entente 2,500,000, with the rest of Europe easily providing the other 10,000,000.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co. Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A Letter From Mrs. Santa Claus

To the Children of Peterboro and Surrounding Country:

Dear Little Children,—I feel as if I know you all well, for Santa Claus speaks of you often and often in his letters.

Between the visits to all his Toylands, he is at home rushing around about the Toy Shop, painting Sleighs, and winding Trains, and finding Dolls the head they want—running upstairs—and sometimes sliding down again to save time—dashing to the shed for saw-dust—and scrubbling through my sewing basket for needle and thread. Every day he is sending sleighloads of Toys to the Canadian Department Stores, Ltd., in your town. You can see them yourself any day, bright and fresh from Santa's home. So that on Christmas Eve all he will have to do will be to drive around to your house on his sleigh and drop them in your stockings. So just write to The Canadian Department Stores on George street and tell them just what you require for Christmas, after you have seen his Toys in Toyland on their Fourth Floor.

So good-bye for the present, and we hope to hear from you soon.

Yours lovingly,

MRS. SANTA CLAUS.

LAYMEN TALK ABOUT FINANCE

Members of Millbrook United Church Hear Rev. Dr. Bryce.

MEN'S MEETING

MILLBROOK, Nov. 2 .—The laymen's banquet held in the basement of the United Church on Thursday evening, beginning at 7 o'clock, was of a very enjoyable character, though the decidedly inclement weather subtracted to a considerable degree from the sum total of guests for whom covers were laid at the attractively-arranged tables.

In addition to the substantial menu provided, for which the members of the W.M.S. catered, there was as well a bill of fare upon which the mental and spiritual natures might feed with profit and enjoyment. Rev. Dr. Peter Bryce, of Toronto, was the chief speaker, delivering a message replete with information and inspiration.

At the head table, which was on the platform, were seated Rev. Dr. Bryce, the chairman; Mr. L. W. Smith, Rev. Joseph Wilks, Rev. F. H. Howard, Rev. H. W. Foley, Messrs. H. A. Fallis, H. A. Argue, Irwin Hatherly, A. J. Brown, M. McDowell, Miss Hetherington, the church organist, furnished music while the banquet was in progress, and presided at the piano for the community singing which opened the program, the lantern being used, and the hymns thrown on the screen.

After the chairman had extended a warm welcome to the guests, and explained that they were met to talk over the administration of the funds of the church, a subject by no means generally and fairly understood, the male quartette, Messrs. H. W. Johnston, W. H. Coombe, M. McDowell, and V. C. Lambert, sang, "May the Christ-like Life Be Mine."

Proceeding with the toast list, Mr. H. A. Fallis proposed the toast to "The King," and all joined in singing the National Anthem. Mr. Hal Argue proposed the toast, "Our Country, and Mr. Irwin Hatherly replied.

"Our Church and the Kingdom" was proposed by Mr. A. J. Brown, and the speaker of the evening, Rev. Dr. Bryce, was then called upon in reply.

After referring to the delightful and friendly spirit of the gathering, Dr. Bryce, who has travelled extensively in the interests of the Maintenance and Extension fund of the church, went on to refer enthusiastically to certain impressions he has gained of the marvellous country which Canada is, and the great future which lies ahead.

"I am beggared absolutely as I have attempted very imperfectly to describe to you what I have seen and learned of the amazing growth and resources of our wonderful country," the speaker said, mentioning in particular that McKinnon, of Caribou, has a parish 50,000 square miles in extent.

The Maritimes, the doctor had found, are the only part of Canada not growing in population, "yet everywhere you will find people from these provinces who are occupying leading places in church, in educational institutions, and in state."

"You cannot dissociate church and state; conditions in each have a reaction on the other, and we, members of His church, must stick together if we would keep Canada Christian which is our great task and opportunity."

Discussing the matter of immigration, and mentioning in particular the large percentage coming to Canada from southern Europe, it was pointed out that while Canada is great in the character of her people, "we have a far more difficult and delicate problem facing us in the immediate future, and in increasing volume likely to be confronting our children, than ever our fathers faced. Hence the great moral strength of Canada lies in places such as this, where we have the fine, sturdy, Canadian stock."

"The United Church was conceived in a spirit of unselfishness, and born in a time of unprecedented opportunity, and I believe God has called us into being to spread throughout every community the gospel of His abounding grace."

Speaking of the need that exists for ministry, it was told that in Saskatchewan alone there are 900 school sections where there is no religious service whatever, not even a Sunday school. "Since the Union 149 new stations, representing 600 preaching places have been opened up—these previously had not been served at all; 42.2 per cent of the whole budget goes to home missions; I think of the $3,400,000 asked for the maintenance and extension fund in terms, not of dollars, but of ministry; I think of the translation of the money into the beautiful things of love and service in the lives of Canada's citizenship."

Quoting J. M. Barrie's words, 'Memory is given to us that we may have roses in December,' the speaker went on to show that "living for Christ, following the gleam, practising the teachings of Him who has made life so beautiful for us, helping to extend His kingdom, we too, shall have our roses in December."

Warm applause followed Dr. Bryce's address, and the quartette sang, quite appropriately, "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me." Mr. M. McDowell led in the discussion which followed, and a number of questions relative to the financial needs, and the disposal of the funds of the church, were asked and much important information acquired.

A. J. Henderson moved the formal vote of thanks to the speaker of the evening, W. Fred Fallis seconding the motion. Councillor P. Stinson moved the vote of thanks to the ladies who had provided and served the banquet, and also mentioned appreciatively their zeal and interest in the missionary cause. P. I. Bentley seconded the motion.

The singing of the doxology, and the benediction, pronounced by Rev. H. W. Foley, brought a most enjoyable and profitable gathering to a fitting close.

Rumanian Ministers Are Politically Ill

The message indicated that the illness might be of political character.

TERRIBLE ECZEMA GOES QUICKLY

Strong, Powerful Yet Safe, Surgeon's Prescription Called Moone's Emerald Oil Has Astonished Physicians.

There is one simple and inexpensive way to reduce the danger of swollen veins and bunches, and get them down to normal, and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning, using the Moone's Bandage to support them during the day. People who have painful, enlarged veins should not neglect them for they sometimes burst and cause much misery and expense.

Moone's Emerald Oil besides being so marvelously antiseptic that it destroys germs and poisons caused by germs in such a remarkable healing agent that eczema, barber's itch, salt rheum and other inflammatory skin eruptions go in a few days.

For years it has been used for boils, ulcers, abscesses and open sores that discharge and with the most perfect success. C. M. Moncur, Bert McLeod. McDermid Drug Co., Ltd. and McDermid & Jury will be glad to supply you.

COUNCIL DELAYS LETTING CONTRACT

Millbrook Paving and Sewer To Be Discussed at Special Meeting.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 22.—Council met in regular session on Wednesday evening, Acting-Reeve P. Stinson in the chair, and present were Councillors J. R. Eakins, T. J. Lang, and G. W. Sayles.

Sayles-Lang: That the following accounts be paid: Martin Brock, $1.25; B. Raper, $21.95; S. Donnelly, $78.65; W. G. Russell and Sons, $15.50; H. Nattress, $25.00; Millbrook Telephone Company, $4.40; Hydro-Electric, $77.91; C. C. Garside, $2.10; Walter Widdis, $12.00; J. A. Vance, Division Court clerk, $52.00; G. A communication was received from Dr. L. J. Stuart asking rebate of $2.00 overcharge on dog tax. Eakins-Lang: That tax be refunded.

C. W. Richards submitted a statement showing $1,008 uncollected taxes to date.

The following tenders in connection with the proposed sewer and paving work were opened and read: From George W. Rayner, Toronto; from James Mitchell, Toronto; from John E. Russell, Toronto; from W. G. Russell and Sons, Millbrook; and also a letter from W. H. Lytle, Peterborough, offering to do the work by day labor.

Sayles-Eakins: That tenders and communications be received and dealt with at a special meeting of council. Considerable discussion of the matter preceded the motion which was finally carried.

A delegation consisting of Messrs. J. N. McGill and R. J. McKnight, addressed council asking annual grant on behalf of the Agricultural Society, and council agreed to accede to the request proffered.

Mr. McGregor, of Ottawa, representing the Standard Paving Company, was present and addressed council on behalf of the above company. No immediate action was taken.

Sayles-Eakins: That council adjourn to meet again at the call of the Reeve. Reeve W. T. Wood, who has been in the West on a business trip, is expected hom this week.

TROOPS ORDERED TO MINE DISTRICT

Fight Between Guards and Miners Results in Two Deaths.

IN COLORADO.

DENVER, Colo., November 21 (Canadian Press). — The Colorado National Guard was ordered to the coalfields of the State by Governor W. H. Adams to-day after the State Police and I.W.W. strikers engaged in a battle at the Columbine Mine of the Rocky Mountain Fuel Company in Northern Colorado that resulted in the death of two strikers and the wounding of many more.

Two unidentified strikers were killed and nearly a score of wounded when the State policemen opened fire on several hundred strikers and their sympathizers who stormed the mine thirty miles north of this city.

Warnings had been issued by officials of the Mountain Fuel Company, operators of the mine, that any attempt to invade the property would be met by gunfire. One of the injured was a woman dressed in man's clothing.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Of course it was Faith who managed the dress in which Rhoda was to appear before Carla Remington, the prima donna, and M. San Remo, the impresario of the San Remo Opera Company. For Cherry's dresses were far too small for the buxom young "maid." Faith was taller and more slender than Rhoda, so that it was necessary to spend all of Sunday afternoon altering a handsome black satin dress which Faith had made for herself early in the fall.

Jim Lane and his new wife, formerly Kate Lundy, general servant in the Hathaway home, called on Sunday afternoon, received Cherry's wedding present, the handsome silver tea service, with embarrassed gratitude, and departed much happier than when they had come, taking Joy with them. As Faith stitched at the black satin dress she was pervaded with a sense of well-being and of pleasant excitement. From Cherry's room came the muted, happy chatter of girl voices, interrupted occasionally by the gurgling laugh of the baby, Hope, for Cherry had completely capitulated to Rhoda's sweetness and admiration for her. She seemed determined now to make a bosom friend of the country girl whose presence at the family table she had so bitterly resented the day before.

"It's odd," Faith reflected contentedly, "how this girl whom we'd never heard of before yesterday has brought us all closer together, given us such a thrilling new interest in life. And I suspect," she quirked her lips in a smile of amusement at herself, "that I was sadly in need of a new interest. Bob must feel very grateful to her for diverting some of my attention from himself, the poor dear. And heaven knows Cherry needs someone toward whom she can be glamorously and profitably unselfish." And she smiled again at the thought of how Cherry was dramatizing herself at the moment in terms of the future. For Cherry had obviously made up her mind that future biographers of "the great soprano Rhoda Jonson" should devote at least a chapter to "Cherry Lane, herself famous for her beauty, who was the first to discover the genius of Rhoda Jonson."

It was odd, too, Faith reflected, stitching busily away, that she felt absolutely no jealousy of Bob's interest in the country girl. She was merely proud of him, glad to see him so excited and pleased with himself in his role of fixer. And of course she was a bit proud of herself, too, for having hired so exceptional a maid. She has risen many degrees in both Bob's and Cherry's estimation she felt, smiling at her own conceit.

When Bob returned just before supper time—dinner was served at two o'clock on Sundays—there was an unmistakable light of triumph in his brilliant blue eyes.

"Well, I turned the trick," he exulted to Faith, after kissing her more warmly than usual. "Gerson says he'll vouch for San Remo's giving the girl a hearing. And while I was there he got Carla Remington on the telephone and she fairly gushed her acceptance. I told him you'd bring the girl around to the opera house in the morning at ten, just before they start rehearsal on 'Aida.' Sure you're going to take her. I haven't time to fool with her," he silenced her deprecating protest. "Just promise me not to fall in love with the tenor. They say he's a devastating ladies' man.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE ICICLE DOGS.

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Hey, Jimmie, are there any big ones over at your place?" chattered Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel boy, to the Wibblewobble duck chap one morning. "Are there any big ones?"

"Big what ones?" quacked Jimmie. "Do you mean big duck eggs?"

"No, I mean big icicles," answered Johnnie with a laugh. "Didn't you hear about Uncle Wiggily's party?"

"No. What about it?" the duck boy asked, sliding along on the ice that covered his pond. For it was now winter and the pond was frozen over. The ice might melt for a few days when the sun grew warm, but from now until spring about all the swimming Jimmie

Jackie had a pitcher and Peetie a tin pail.

Wibblewobble would do would be on skates. "What about the party?" he asked.

"Oh, I thought you knew about it," chattered Johnnie. "Listen! Uncle Wiggily is going to give an icicle party tonight at his hollow stump bungalow. He's going to give a prize of a picture book to the boy or girl who brings the longest icicle, and a story book for the littlest, shortest icicle and a toy balloon for the funniest icicle."

"Oh, what fun!" quacked the boy duck. "I'm going to look for a long icicle right now."

"So am I!" chattered the squirrel. "I thought there might be some near your pond. That's why I came over."

It was afternoon, school was out for the day and all over Woodland the animal boys and girls were searching for the icicles to take to Uncle Wiggily's party. The larger boys and girls looked for long, hanging spears of ice. The smaller boys and girls looked for little icicles, for the smallest one would gain a prize as well as the largest sliver of frozen water.

That's what icicles are, you know, long spears of water that freezes, drop by drop, as it spills over the edge of a roof, or from a pump spout or even a kitchen faucet if it drips enough and there is no fire in the house.

Uncle Wiggily was busy getting his hollow stump bungalow ready for the queer party he had decided to give. He and Nurse Jane and Mrs. Longears were setting out plates of good things to eat and Baby Bunty, and the other forty 'leven bunny boys and girls of Mr. Longears, were so excited they hardly knew what to do.

"I'm going to get the prize for the littlest icicle!" cried Baby Bunty, who was a cute bunny rabbit, though rather mischievous.

"I'd like to find a funny one," said Jingle.

"So would I," said Jangle, her twin sister. "Let's go look!"

So the rabbits, the squirrels, the ducks, the guinea pigs and pussy cats were very busy, that afternoon, looking for long, short or funny icicles to take to Uncle Wiggily's party. And I must not forget the puppy dogs. No, indeed!

Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow went off by themselves early that evening, when it was almost time to go to Uncle Wiggily's bungalow. Jackie had a pitcher and Peetie a tin cup.

"Aren't you going to the party?" barked their mother.

"Oh, yes," yelped Peetie. "We're going there now."

"And we're going to take in two of the biggest icicles ever seen!" whined Jackie.

Now what those two little puppy dogs were going to do was this. They knew icicles grew on the edges of roofs. So they planned to climb up on the roof of Uncle Wiggily's bungalow, pour water over the edge from the pitcher and cup and let long icicles freeze that way. They thought, surely, they would get the largest, for it was a cold night and water would freeze almost as soon as it was poured out.

"We're icicle dogs; aren't we?" whispered Jackie to his brother as they climbed up on the roof by means of a step ladder.

"That's what we are," softly barked Peetie. "Listen! They're in the party now!" Up through the roof came the sounds of merry laughter and song. The party had started—the wonderful icicle party.

"But there will be no one there with icicles as long as ours," chuckled Jackie. "Go on, Peetie, start to pour. It's freezing now. Soon as we have two big icicles we'll break them off, go in and take first prize—one of us will."

Meanwhile, in his bungalow, Uncle Wiggily was making welcome all who came bringing icicles.

"But where are Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow?" asked the rabbit gentleman as he looked over the happy throng. "Where are the puppies?"

No one had seen them, but they would surely come.

"Hark!" suddenly mewed Tommie Kat. "There's some one up on the roof, Uncle Wiggily! Maybe it's the Bob Cat!"

They all listened. Surely enough, there was a noise on the roof.

TAVANNES WATCHES—right with the Sun

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Party frocks for little girls are made to reveal rather than to hide the charming lines of small bodies. This is embroidered light pink crepe de chine with trimming of lace and ribbon bows.

Crepe de Chine in pastel tones is the favorite material for the little girl's party frock at present. To be sure, one sees occasional frocks of taffeta or of velvet, but the lighter, softer material has much to be said in its favor. The more substantial sort of velvet is much too warm and the chiffon and transparent velvets ought not to be given the rough wear that children's frocks even for party wear usually receive. Crepe de chine goes through the cleaning process rather better than taffeta.

A recent collection of little girl's crepe de chine frocks from Paris showed a wide choice of colors—all of the light flower-petal sort—and a variety of dainty trimming. A number of these little frocks were smocked, some of them in rather complicated manner. Others had tiny tucks with feather stitching and other simple embroidery stitches between. Sometimes there were little geometrical figures cut from crepe de chine of contrasting color. Narrow ribbon bows appeared on some and there was discreet use of white or cream-colored lace.

But, you may ask, is the little crepe de chine frock made with short sleeves really warm enough for this sort of weather, or colder weather to come? To begin with—doctors have a disconcerting way of telling many of us that we bundle our children up too much indoors. Outdoors, too, for that matter. They are naturally warmer blooded than we and yet we make them wear clothes that we ourselves would find oppressive. Our houses are heated to suit ourselves in thin attire and we seem to think that our active children of four or five or six need as heavy clothes as when they were wee babies lying quietly in their cribs.

There are many children who should not go with short socks in cold climates. That I think is a question for the mother and doctor to decide for the individual child. But long-sleeved, long-legged underclothes are certainly not necessary. Most mothers are giving these up for soft, warm, partly wool little garments that provide ample warmth about the body. And with these little wooly undergarments the cotton everyday frock and crepe de chine party frock is all that any child needs indoors.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1927

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Benefic aspects again rule to-day, which should be rarely stimulating to all forms of industry.

This is a planetary government under which to test one's most ambitious plans, since it promises success to honest endeavor.

Early in the morning quarrels should be carefully avoided since a consciousness of power may increase natural egotism.

There is an especially good sign for all sorts of mercantile pursuits and a healthy holiday trade is foretold.

Large amounts of Christmas money will be spent for practical gifts, it is prognosticated.

Leather goods should be exceedingly profitable and a big demand is forecast. Novelties will be much in favor.

Changes in fashions will assure large profits in certain quarters and heavy losses elsewhere, if the stars are rightly read.

Florida, the West Indies and other winter resorts have the prophecy of increased patronage, for a cold season is indicated.

California is to enjoy increase in population, due to development of many lines of industry, astrologers foretell.

Again it is prognosticated that the Pacific coast is to command world attention, owing to unexpected conditions.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful of fire and explosives in the coming year.

Children born on this date probably will be much on the high seas during their active careers. Many naval officers are born under this sign. Girls are likely to marry more than once.

Hints On Etiquette

1. What are the first steps in learning poise?

2. If one is not quick at witty repartee, what is the best way to meet a compliment or a clever remark?

3. If you make an unfortunate ambiguous remark that might be taken to reflect on your hostess or some guest, should you try to explain what you meant?

The Answers.

1. Learn calmness and self-control, and overcome shyness and awkwardness by thinking of others instead of one's self.

2. Quietly smile your thanks or appreciation.

3. No. You only make matters worse.

Women Formerly Experienced

Uniquely Overcome

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

OLD-TIME "sanitary pads" are largely being supplanted now. They lacked efficiency in three embarrassing ways. 8 in 10 better-class women now employ a new way called KOTEX.

Kotex ends the fear of light frocks and long hours under the most severe hygienic situation. Filled with Cellucotton wadding, the world's super-absorbent, it is 5 times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad.

It ends also another worry—it deodorizes completely as it acts. And it ends forever the embarrassment of disposal. It discards like tissue; no laundry.

Get Kotex at any store. 12 in box. Look for name "Kotex" on box. If not there, watch out; it isn't genuine Kotex.

Advocates Humanity Towards Animals

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(A.P.)—Advocating humanity toward animals, Dean Inge of St. Paul's, in a lecture before the British Science Guild, last night declared: "If the lower animals could devise a religion, they would certainly represent the devil as a great white man."

Superstitions, birth control, faith healing and similar subjects afforded the Dean an opportunity to enlarge upon his previously expressed belief and disbeliefs. He predicted that due to science, many superstitions and antique ideas of the nature of God will have disappeared two generations hence; faith healing will be placed on a scientific basis; there will be progress in race and birth control and, with these, the disappearance of blood sports and a more human attitude toward animals, as well as a check in the destruction of natural beauty and wealth.

Breach of Contract Suit Against Dempsey Thrown Out

PLAINTIFF COUNSEL CHARGES FORMER HEAVY CHAMPION WITH "FRAMING" THE COURT

$333,333.33 Damage Suit Against Fight Shelved for Time Being.

COURT IN UPROAR

Both Sides Agree to End Trial in a "Voluntary Non-Suit."

NEWARK, N.J., Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—One of a pair of Jacks called the other yesterday and the ensuing uproar obliterated, for the time being at least, the $333,333.33 damage suit against Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, by Jack Kearns, his erstwhile manager, for breach of contract.

After counsel for Kearns had charged Dempsey and his lawyers with deliberately "framing" the court and Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, with having boasted that he had the case "in the bag", both sides agreed to end the trial in a "voluntary non-suit", a polite form of mistrial carrying no connotations of guilt.

Counsel for Kearns announced the case would be brought to trial again as soon as possible, but Dempsey's lawyers intimated that legal obstacles would be found in the path of such action and chuckled that Kearns had unintentionally got himself "up salt creek without a paddle" and would have a hard time getting back into legal stream.

Dramatic Session.

Yesterday's session of the trial was brief but it was one of the most dramatic scenes of the year. It was marked by shouts, threats, taunts, tears and tirades. Several times physical conflict was narrowly averted.

The trial had been put over to yesterday from the middle of last week, after jury selection and opening statements had been completed, on the statement of Arthur Driscoll, chief counsel for Dempsey, that he was suffering from grippe. The adjournment was made over objection of the plaintiff, Kearns.

When court opened yesterday Driscoll thanked the court for giving him time to recover and Judge Runyon as politely expressed the hope that recovery had been complete. Then Arthur Sager, chief counsel for Kearns, rose ominously in front of his dapper counsel, beetled his shaggy brows at the stolid Dempsey and the suave Rickard, and politeness fled from the court.

"Your Honor," said Sager, after he had requested that the jury be sent from the room and they had filed out, "what I have to say is against the wishes of the client, the plaintiff Kearns, but we, his lawyers, have overruled him.

"Last week this case was adjourned after Mr. Driscoll had delivered a most energetic opening address. He pleaded sickness though he was to all appearance, in the most robust health. The adjournment was granted over our protest and our subsequent demand that a juror be withdrawn and a mistrial refused.

"I now charge that since that time the defendant Dempsey has been travelling about the state trumping up public sentiment for himself. He has appeared at political meetings and has talked over the air. I charge his attorney with most unethical action in arranging this postponement. I charge his spiritual adviser, George L. Rickard, with having openly boasted that he had the trial in the bag."

Court in Uproar.

At this point the court was thrown into an uproar by Rickard jumping to his feet and shouting, "You're a contemptible liar." Everyone else seemed to be stunned by the suddenness and gravity of the charges, and Rickard was pulled back into his chair as Sager continued.

"Your honor," Sager said, "I move for withdrawal of a juror and declared of a mistrial, because if this trial is not halted such a scandal will develop because of the actions of this defendant, these lawyers and this George L. Rickard whose sinister shadow had been cast over this court room, that by comparison the actions of the Burns jury-shadowing detectives in the Fall-Sinclair trial will smell like attar of roses."

Lengthy argument followed the making of this motion, counsel for Dempsey charging that Sager had made his charges unsupported by affidavits solely for the newspapers, and that Kearns had never wanted the case brought to trial, but hoped by keeping it hanging over Dempsey's head to force him to make a settlement out of court.

Driscoll in a ringing voice asserted that Dempsey would never settle even if it could be done for one cent. Another defense lawyer questioned Sager's remark that he had 25 years of service at the bar and Sager rose in anger, tears glistening on his cheeks to defend his reputation.

At this point, Judge Runyon plainly indicated that he intended to declare a mistrial, not because he believed there had been any guilt but because "those charges having been made, the finger of suspicion would inevitably be pointed at the jury and even at the court."

Spit Thrown Out.

Sager hastened to assure the judge that he had not in any way intended to convey the impression that he believed the court had connived with plaintiff attorneys to provide time for the plaintiff to influence the verdict, but had aimed his charges entirely at the defense. The judge then ordered the alternative of a voluntary non-suit, and both sides accepted, Sager stipulating that it be understood such acceptance did not in any way affect the case, merely the trial.

The Dempsey-Kearns contract was made in 1923 in accordance with the regulations of the New York State Boxing Commission. The next year Dempsey, who had recently married Estelle Taylor, movie actress, and Kearns severed business connections. Kearns alleged that the contract still held and that under its terms he was due one third of all Dempsey made. Dempsey held that the contract had never been anything but a scrap of paper, to satisfy the boxing commission, and was terminable at will. The case has been buffetted from court to court and actually came to trial for the first time last week in the civil side of the United States district court here.

Belanger Gets Down To Work For Bout

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—Little Frenchy Belanger has a large week ahead of him. With his bout with Frankie Genaro only seven days away, the slant-eyed youngster who surprised Newsboy Brown some weeks ago, is entering into his training for the battle which may mean the world's championship to him with the greatest ardor. Belanger, unlike most boxers, is not afraid of work. He seems to revel in the hard grind and the tougher the going the better it appeals to him. He will be in even better shape for Genaro than he was when he fought Brown and it will be remembered that on that memorable occasion he never backed up an inch and the vicious swings of his opponent might as well have been love taps for all the effect they apparently had on him. A durable youth is the Toronto flyweight. Genaro will be here Thursday or Friday to round off his training preparations. He knows what is in front of him and doesn't intend to be caught out of line from a physical standpoint.

HEAVY DAMAGE.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 22. —(Canadian Press).—Estimates in the hands of Secretary Hoover place the New England flood damage at between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000. The figures were compiled from reports by the various State departments, by chambers of commerce and by railroads traversing the stricken territory.

Appointment of Three New Managers Aids Rumors of Other Changes in Big Leagues

NEW YORK, November 22. — Three changes having already been made in the list of National League managers, baseball fans are now wondering what shifts will be made in the American.

Jack Slattery, recently appointed manager of the Boston Braves, should be popular there. He is a Bostonian by birth and has been successful in handling the baseball teams of Harvard and Boston College.

The selection of Burt Shotten to manage the Phillies is simply the annual move of President Baker in changing pilots.

The passing of Bob O'Farrell was rather unexpected. While not possessing the supposed managerial necessities, fight and tact, the Cardinal catcher, in finishing second with his team, seemed to be deserving of another chance.

In the American League, a new leader at Cleveland is certain. When Jack McCallister took charge of the second place Indians of 1925, he accepted the toughest job in the majors. He was a failure, his team finishing sixth.

There is nothing certain about the Chicago situation. The White Sox under Ray Schalk disappointed, but perhaps the manager shouldn't shoulder all the blame. Even though his club finished seventh, Comiskey is strong for Schalk and may use him for another year.

While Stanley Harris has been a big success at Washington, he isn't popular there. He is accused of being a "high-hatter," but just why no one seems to know.

FAST MIDDLEWEIGHT

Victor Waintz, the French middleweight who made his debut in Canada recently by boxing a draw with that slugging clown, Friedman Pepper. Though a little under the middleweight poundage, he is considered one of the leading middleweights of Europe and was at one time matched with George Carpentier. He has the unique honor of having beaten the light-heavyweight champions of four countries, all European, of course, and recently defeated Rene Davos, the present European middleweight champion.

THRONG HONORS TIGER FLOWERS

Last Rites Paid Former Middleweight Champion of the World.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 22—(A.P.)—"No mo' Tiger, no mo' Tiger", screamed a sobbing woman's voice, and seven thousand people lapsed into silence to hear last honors paid to departed Theodore Flowers, negro middlweight boxer who once was crowned champion of the world.

For more than an hour, that one burst of emotion and a series of formal exercises were all that broke the stillness of Atlanta's municipal auditorium.

As the casket was borne in, preceded by a vested choir and Tiger's lodge brethren in full regalia, all swaying, moving even slower than the death march from the vast organ, the booming voice of Flowers' pastor chanted a sonorous benediction.

From the group of relatives seated near the rostrum, banked high with flowers, the voice of Tiger's sister Rose:

"No mo' Tiger, no mo' Tiger—hold the boat and let me go—I want to see him again."

From that dramatic point on the ceremonies were marked by a quiet, almost stiff formality, until one of Tiger's white friends had paid him the highest praise. When Morgan Blake, sporting editor of the Atlanta Journal, had completed a brief address, the assemblage broke into a long thunder of applause.

The funeral address was delivered by Rev. O. L. Work, pastor of the Butler Street Colored Methodist Church, of which Tiger was a trustee.

PASSENGERS RESCUED.

GIBRALTAR, Strait of Gibraltar, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—The salvage steamer Rescue arrived here yesterday with 54 of the passengers and crew of the German steamer Elberfeld, which was washed ashore Saturday at Cape Trafalgar, Spain.

OSHAWA TEAMS PLAY SIX GAMES

Locals Lose Four to Visiting Teams at Duffus Bowling Academy.

EIGHT OVER 600

On Friday night ten of Oshawa's high average City League bowlers visited this city and played two friendly matches with city teams at the Duffus Bowling Academy. The Oshawa Aristocrats won three straight games and the Canadian General Electric took two from the other Oshawa team.

Creamer, Mackie and Bedingfield rolled over 600 each. Copping had high 3 for Petes with 601 and high single of 248. Bedingfield had high single for Oshawa with 251.

Peterborough — Musther, 142, 202, 186—530; Copping, 248, 210, 143—601; Williams 176, 148, 238—562; McLeod, 185, 194, 219—598; Hodgson, 154, 174, 208—536.

Oshawa Aristocrats—Eagleson, 238, 142, 196—576; Bedingfield, 169, 190, 251—610; Lett, 151, 169, 200—520; Mackie, 228, 203, 215—646; Creamer, 243, 226, 228—697.

C.G.E. took 2 hard fought games from Oshawa. For Oshawa Wright had high 3 games with 638. Turner had high single with 262. McLeish's high 3 of 601 was C.G.E.'s best, with Bud Weese having high single of 237.

Oshawa—Whittington, 181, 184, 227—592; Davenport, 176, 126, 137—439; Turner, 262, 187, 159—608; Wright, 220, 205, 213—638; Roots, 178, 216, 213—607.

C.G.E.—Osterland, 207, 150, 191—548; Benson, 219, 183, 151—553; Ahern, 199, 156, 229—584; McLeish, 160, 219, 222—601; Weese, 237, 173, 168—578.

LOCAL BOY ONE OF WINNING TEAM

Francis Meyette Member of O. S. D. Relay Team at Belleville.

Seven teams took their marks in the Public school relay race which was run at the Exhibition track yesterday morning. These were as follows: Queen Alexandra, Queen Mary, Queen Victoria, King George, St. Michaels, Prince of Wales and Ontario School for the Deaf.

"The entry from the Bay Shore institution of learning proved to be the speediest quartette and when the representative of the Ontario School for the Deaf breasted the tape at the finish, he and his team mates received a great ovation from an enthusiastic group of their school mates. St. Michaels, last year's winners, would have finished in second place had not the last runner slowed down to a walk when he saw that there was no chance for the first place and thereby allowed a member of the King George team to go into second place. Although the track was rather heavy and the runners forced to travel against a stiff wind on the opening stretch, excellent time was made, the half mile being covered in two minutes, fifty seconds. Bob Brown, chairman of the Physical committee of the Association, acted as a starter for both events of the morning and got the runners away without a break. The members of the O.S.D. team were Robert Thompson, Francis Meyette, Nicola Jasson and Elwood Bell.—Belleville Ontario.

The above is from the report of the Y.M.C.A. meet held on Thanksgiving morning. All four boys belong to the fourth Belleville troop of boy scouts. Francis Meyette is a Peterborough boy.

SETS NEW RECORD

KEARNS' SUIT ENDS QUICKLY

Both Parties Agree To Non-Suit After Charges of Jury Tampering.

RICKARD ANNOYED.

NEWARK, N.J., Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Charge of attempted tampering with justice on the part of Jack Dempsey and Tex Rickard brough to an end yesterday to Jack Kearns' $333,333.33 court action against Dempsey.

Both sides agreed to ending the case by a voluntary non suit after Judge Runyon had told the defence, who wanted the trial to go on, that the only alternative would be a mistrial.

Just before Judge Runyon issued his ultimatum the court was thrown into an uproar by George "Tex" Rickard, who so resented a remark of Kearns' counsel that the promoter had boasted having the case "in the bag" that he called the lawyer "a contemptible liar" in open court.

The lawyer said that Dempsey is being sued for a third of a million dollars on an old contract, had been stumping the state during an unnecessary adjournment. "I feel that attempts have been made" he said, "to influence the jury in a way that would make the Falt-Sinclair trial

LADY BOWLERS HOLD BANQUET

Presentation Features Annual Meeting of Lawn Bowling Club.

PRIZES GIVEN OUT.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club, held at the Paragon Hall, was prefaced by a very enjoyable banquet, catered by Coleman Bros. The members of the executive of the men's club were present and occupied seats of honor. J. H. Sedgwick, president of the men's club, very ably and efficiently acted as chairman and in a few well chosen remarks congratulated the ladies on their success during the past season. He spoke particularly of the success of the ladies' lawn bowling tournament and the mixed tournament, at which there were so many visiting rinks.

After the minutes of the last annual meeting had been read by Mrs. F. Miller and the financial report given by Mr. C. Seymour, the routine business was proceeded with. It was unanimously decided that the directing of the club be left with the men's executive for the season of 1928.

A Social committee composed of Mesdames Miller, Graham, Borland, Johnson, Bredin, Coleman, Greenslade and Niven was appointed.

The prizes for the past season's bowling were then presented to Mrs. George Johnson and her rink, composed of Mrs. M. Bredin, Mrs. T. Skinner and Mrs. C. Wylie, are the holders for this year of the silver cup donated by R. Denne for annual competition. They also received prizes of silver casseroles, which were presented by J. H. Sedgwick. The second prize for rink games went to Miss Lottie Allen's rink, composed of Miss Allen, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Henry. The prizes were silver card receivers, which were presented by C. Seymour. Prizes for Scotch doubles were won by Mrs. Greenslade and Mrs. Williams. These prizes of silver bouquet holders were presented by H. Martin. Second prize for Scotch doubles went to Mrs. Niven and Mrs. Chenhall. The prizes were dinner gongs, and were presented by H. Freeman. The recipients expressed their thanks in a few appropriate words.

Mr. Martin was then asked to come forward and Mrs. Miller read the following address, while Mrs. G. Coleman presented Mr. Martin with a well filled leather bill fold.

Mr. Martin, although taken completely by surprise, in a neat speech thanked the ladies for their appreciation of his efforts for the welfare of the club:

Mr. H. R. Martin:

Dear Sir,—The lady members of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club felt that they could not let this occasion pass without endeavouring to express to you our gratitude for the interest you have taken and the time you have spent in guiding and directing the Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club.

When the executive of the Men's Bowling Club took over the supervision of our club it was in grave danger of total destruction, but under your careful and tactful direction, we have enjoyed a splendid summer on the 'green.'

In these few lines of poetry we again wish to express our thankfulness to you:

With grateful hearts and modest token,
And memory's fragrant flower,
For services so kind, unbroken
We mark this pleasant hour.

Our troubles on the green you shared,
To us so new, so strange,
Your guiding thought you never spared,
Tho' wide our errors range.

But erorrs change, the seasons roll,
When next we face the green,
Our lessons learned, we aim to bowl,
And prizes win between.

To you, 'tis much we then will owe,
And gratefully we say it,
For only in our hearts we know
We never can repay it.

We ask you to accept this small gift as a slight token of our appreciation of your services.

Signed on behalf of the Club—
L. M. Greenslades.
R. Bredin.
L. C. Coleman.

SPORT BITS

WINS CHAMPIONSHIP.

KINGSTON, Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Arts won the rugby championship of Queen's University yesterday afternoon when they defeated Science by the score of 17 to 1 in the inter-faculty game. Barney Reist, of Preston, was the star for the winners, while Lackie, formerly of Toronto Argos, also played well for Arts. Stavely, of Ottawa, was the outstanding man on the Science team.

CHANGE FOR ROWLAND.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Clarence Rowland, for several years a member of the American League staff of umpires, seeks to return to his former position as big league manager.

Rowland won a pennant and world series with the Chicago White Sox in 1917 and feels that he is still capable of turning in a good job as manager.

It is understood Rowland has let it be known that he would welcome a chance at Cleveland, to succeed Jack McCallister, doomed to go.

Rowland admits he much prefers a managerial job and says he took up umpiring merely to keep in close touch with the game.

PLAYER INJURED.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Duke McCurry, forward of the Pittsburgh Pirates who play the Canadiens here tonight, was seriously injured over the right eye in the Buccaneers' practice at the Forum yesterday. The workout of the Corsairs had hardly started when Hib Milks, Pirate centre, lifted his stick, the point accidentally clipping McCurry. A deep cut was opened across the eye lid towards the temple. McCurry was rushed to the hospital. Five stitches were required to close the wound.

Examination revealed no injury to the eyeball and it is expected that McCurry will be back in uniform within a few days, though he is not likely to start against Canadiens.

Makes Offer to Rothschild.

Manager Odie Cleghorn, of the Pittsburgh team, was in conference with Sammy Rothschild, left wing player who was a member of the Montreal Maroons for three seasons, but who was made a free agent a few weeks ago. Cleghorn made an offer to Rothschild. While the former Maroon did not definitely accept, it is probable that he will be seen in a Pittsburgh uniform before long.

PLAY REPEATED

"Lighthouse Nan" Given in Foresters' Hall, Bridgenorth, for Ladies' Aid.

The Ladies' Mission Circle of Mark Street Church repeated their play, "Lighthouse Nan," in the Foresters' Hall, Bridgenorth, on Friday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Bridgenorth United Church. Proceeds of the evening amounted to $18.60.

For the Olympic games to be held at Antwerp next year New Zealand has been systematically organizing for along time, and as the result of paying particular attention to the development of junior athletes the sport has already made striking progress, and the Dominion believes it has quite a number of potential champions in sight.

CHRONIC DISORDERS OF CHILDHOOD

I am convinced that faulty feeding is the principal cause of all disorders of children. This is true in the so-called children's diseases, which are only acute manifestations of chronic disorders, and, of course, likewise true of every one of the common types of disease which children develop.

The baby's troubles are mostly constipation, flatulence, enlarged tonsils and adenoids, bronchitis, worms, and skin rashes. Every one of these troubles are directly due to faulty diet and no other cause. As the child grows older these same troubles persist with perhaps the additional fault that the child is either underweight or overweight.

These chronic disorders and symptoms can be entirely prevented by careful feeding habits, and also can be easily cured if parents will take the time and trouble to study the science of food chemistry and conscientiously force their children to follow the proper dietetic rules.

I know from my experience with dieting thousands of children that it is impossible for a child to develop enlarged tonsils or adenoids unless he uses too many starches or sugars. When these foods are eliminated or greatly reduced and the proteins and green vegetables increased, the tonsils always reduce to their normal size, and can then properly perform their mysterious function of assisting in the balancing of the metabolism of the growing child.

Bronchitis is caused principally by the same indiscriminate use of the carbohydrates and hydrocarbons, and can be easily prevented or cured by very simple dietetic changes.

The child who is underweight is starving for proteins and the organic minerals and vitamins. It is never because he eats too little food, for stuffing on every kind of food will not bring about the desired increase in weight. The under-nourished child needs food of the right quality, and not an increased quantity. Often, cutting down the amount of food used will relieve the overburden of stuffing to which the child has been subjected, and he can then really digest and assimilate a small amount of the right kind of food elements.

Skin rashes are due almost wholly to improper combinations of food, such as the careless mixing of starches and acids, the combination of sugars and starches, and using several kinds of fruit at one time. Outside of the rashes caused y poisonous weeds there is no other cause of a rashy or itchy skin except the irritating poisons which come from faulty food combinations.

The under-nourished child is in a sorry plight due to his parents' ignorance, but the child who is overweight is also a fit subject for the development of such chronic disorders as diabetes and heart trouble, and has no resistance against the infectious and contagious diseases.

Parents must assume full responsibility for the health of their children and cannot blame fate, as the newer knowledge of nutrition is very simple and easily understood by anyone who will take the time and energy to learn.

Questions and Answers.

Question—A Reader asks: "What causes white spots to form on one's nails? Have been told they indicate that something is wrong with the system in a nervous form. Is that right?

Answer: The person who has white spots on his nails is usually nervous due to some form of acidosis from which he is suffering, which acidosis interferes with a normal distribution of silica to his growing nails.

Question: Mrs. E. R. writes: "I am 60 pounds overweight and would like very much to practice your famous fruit juice diet. However, one problem confronts me. I am in the second month of pregnancy. Would the diet prove harmful?"

Answer: The fruit juice fast would be decidedly beneficial to you at this time or any time during pregnancy. Fruits contain practically all the bone-building material you require, but while taking such a fast your body has a chance to eliminate impurities and your system will be cleansed to more easily meet the ordeal you are about to go through. After the fasting keep your diet well balanced, and do not make the mistake of thinking you must "eat for two." (See tomorrow's paper for full instructions on taking an orange juice fast.)

PRESTON OBJECTS TO LONG TRIP HERE

Delays Entry of Senior O.H.A. Team Until Matter Settled.

PRESTON, Ont., November 22. — At the annual meeting of the O. H. A. the Preston A.A. was represented by W. H. Helse, and by request of the local hockey executive, he carried out his instructions to enter a junior team, the senior entry being held in abeyance. The final date of entry for the senior competition is November 30

The local hockey executive is not overly pleased with the entry of Peterborough on account of the long jump from Preston to Peterborough, as it looks very much as though all senior entries will be in one group.

The group is said to consist of five teams: Peterborough, Kitchener, two teams from Toronto, and probably Preston. One group and a double schedule is acceptable to the local hockey executive, with the exception of the long jumps to Peterborough.

REVIEW OF SOCCER SEASON

Retrospect of Seven Months' Activities Among the Local Clubs.

PLAYERS SUSPENDED

Again another soccer season has come to a finish, with the weather man being the main factor in a very successful year, from a player's point of view, because they have received considerations that have never been achieved before in local history ,only one wet day during the season.

Executive Board of Three.

Under the capable chairmanship of Vincent Stewart, president, the season started under very peculiar circumstances, owing to the teams of the previous year failing to function at the end of the schedule and after overcoming unforeseen difficulties. the vice-president. Jack Hodgson and John Ward, drew up a schedule that met the approval of the club representatives. They opened up the season on the first Saturday in April and finished on the last Saturday in October—seven months of real relaxation to both players and fans.

The league games were intermingled with cup ties for the various trophies donated to the P. and D. F. A., by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., Rev. Father Phelan of Campbellford. E. A. Peck, M.P., White Sports and Athletic Company, Ltd., and Mayor Holloway.

Winners of Trophies.

The Masseys carried off the main trophies: The League Championship, the G. N .Gordon Cup, and Mayor Holloway Injured Players' Cup; the Clarke Shield (runners-up in the League), and Peck Trophy were won by the Thistle; the Quakers won the Phelan Charity Cup; the Prince of Wales won the local school championship for the Alex. Kay Challenge Cup.

Excellent Legislators.

The fans outside the jurisdiction of the executive should realize and appreciate the services of men who give their time and talents gratuitously to encourage and foster the scientific code. Johnny Wade has acted in the capacity of secretary and official referee to the satisfaction of all concerned; while Alex. McKinley rendered yeoman service to the association when he refereed all the charity matches. At the beginning of the season, the executive erected new goal-posts, graded the ground, and cut the grass, also supplying goal-nets. They approached the City Council with the request for dressing accommodation at the King Edward Park, and were rewarded with ample space in a pavilion where the players could be provided with the necessities of the game.

Club Bags as Gifts.

In previous years the executive presented medals to the league champions, but thy departed from the customary souvenirs to a more appreciative gift in club bags that the players were delighted to receive as recompense in winning the league honors

Players Suspended.

George Logan and William Logan, Massey players, were suspended sine dine at a meeting of the executive last night. The board takes this attitude in the interest of the game, and intend to keep the game clean, while R. Dawson ,of the Thistle, was exonerated from all blame.

School Boys Improving.

Year after year the Public School soccer gets better and better. It was very pleasant to watch the youngsters play the game, and are improving rapidly in positional and combination play. In fact, the Prince of Wales School boys had the tactics down to a science when they reached the final encounter. It is a great pity that there is no encouragement given to the youth of the city, although there was a juvenile league two years ago, but this did not materialize this season, which brought forth good material for higher company. Some enthusiastic players have promised to visit the schools next year so as to teach the boys the elements of the game; also give lectures on defensive and attacking methods. The teachers of the schools deserve credit in encouraging the universal game.

Only Minor Injuries.

It was gratifying to hear the report of the secretary on the Injured Players' Fund. He intimated a few minor claims that were fully adjusted by the executive.

Neutral Board Suggested.

When the general meeting comes along again, perhaps some of the fans may institute proceedings to create a neutral board of directors of no less than five members—three to form a quorum. If such a proposal be carried, it must be made concrete in the matter of an unbiased personnel having no association with any club, the board expressing candidly its opinion when difficult questions arise.

AT THE CAPITOL.

LON CHANEY IN "MOCKERY."

With the always-interesting Lon Chaney in the stellar role of the feature picture and a snappy musical act, the Capitol Theatre has a good programme for the first half of the week.

This actor has essayed many unusual roles, and the part of the Siberian peasant, Sergei, is his latest triumph in characterization. As the love-crazed clown in "He Who Gets Slapped," as the mad musician in the "Phantom of the Opera," as the preacher thief in "The Blackbird," as thedive-keeper in "Singapore Pete," to say nothing of his wonderful work as Quasimodo in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," he has captured the interest and the imaginations of thousands of people. To mention Lon Chaney is to conjure up a series of mental pictures of out of the ordinary and striking character parts, the majority being in features of a sombre type, with a sad ending

The picture "Mockery" (and why it is named in this way is inexplicable), affords another vehicle for his art as a character actor of unusual sincerity and genius, but it doesn't go very far. It is a bit disappointing in its plotting and denouement. The elements of a very strong feature peter out to rather a banal finale. But Chaney, the stupid Siberian peasant, dominates the story at all times, just as he always intends to do. Ricardo Cortez has a role that doesn't give him much scope, but the leading lady has an extraordinary bit of feminine acting as the Countess Alexandrovna, and this role of an intrepid aristocrat of dainty and proclain-like beauty is splendidly acted by Barbara Bedford.

Like all of Lon Chaney's pictures, "Mockery" is interesting and unusual and well forth seeing, from the point of view of remarkable characterization by the main actor. The story revolves around the episode in which a Siberian peasant, for some reason that the director neglects to explain, guides a lady of quality, also disguised as a peasant, to a place called Novokursk. Just why she wants to get there so badly and what her mission is, is left in the air—possibly in an attempt to start a new type of picture that will set its watchers to wondering what it is all about. At any rate, the peasant Sergei gets the lady safely to her destination, after suffering a cruel flogging at the hands of Tartar soldiers. Later he becomes enamored of the aristocrat and the counsels of the revolutionary Ivan lead him to attempt an attack on the lady's affections. Her courage and intrepidity save her from him and makes him finally her slave once more. The picture ends with Sergei smiling at the Countess and her lover.

The comedy is a farcical scream with plenty of laughs in its story of a delayed wedding ceremony, and the vauleville act is an exceptionally good musical one, with "Tom and Jerry" in a series of jazz and popular melodies rendered on the violin and piano accordeon, in a manner that brings them repeated and enthusiastic applause.

AT THE REGENT.

DOLORES COSTELLO COMING IN THRILLING MELODRAMA.

"Old San Francisco," the Warner Bros.' extended run production which portrays the lurid days of Chinatown and the Barbary Coast, before and during the "Great Fire," is acclaimed by New York reviewers as one of the finest melodramas of the generation.

Beautiful Dolores Costello plays the part of a Spanish heiress who is kidnapped by a half-caste boss of San Francisco's underworld, and goes through weird experiences and horrors which all terminate with the furious onslaught of nature and the Great Fire which relegates "the mile of hell' to oblivion.

Warner Oland, the celebrated character actor, is featured in support of Miss Costello . The photography is startling in its revelation of what may be done with the sensitive lens and the direction of Alan Crosland adds new honors to his already famous name.

The cast includes Josef Swickard, John Miljan, William Demarest, Anders Randolph, Charles E. Mack, Sojin, Angelo Rossitto, Anna May Wong, Rose Dione, Lawson Butt, Otta Mattieson , Walter McGrail, Martha Mattox, and Tom Santschi.

"O'd San Francisco" comes to the Regent Theatre to-morrow for a run of four days.

SOME REFLECTIONS WESTERN CHANGES

Three little curly heads were bobbing excitedly up and down before the front window of a large house as a car drew up before the entrance, and a white-haired gentleman alighted.

"Oh, mother He's here! He's here!" they cried in chorus, and they rushed pell-mell to open wide the door as Mrs. Jones hurried in from the kitchen with a broad smile of welcome lighting up her motherly face.

An hour or so later when the wanderer had been fed, and when all had settled down comfortably before the cracking fire in the library, the inevitable story was demanded.

"Well, father," said Mrs. Jones as she began her knitting, "so you had a good time on your trip, did you? You most certainly are looking well. What all did you do out there?"

"Yeth, grandpa, tell uth all about it," lisped little Dot, with a great hope in her blue, blue eyes.

"Huh!" laughed grandpa, "I suppose you think you are going to hear all about bears and Indians and the like, just because your old grandpa has been out West. But, no siree! I didn't see one all the time I was there." And forgetful of his disappointed youthful audience, he gazed at the fire in silence for a moment.

"Well, it does beat all," he mused, "how things change in a few years! Do you know, daughter, when I went out West I expected to see the country as little as it was in the old days. Fifty years—hum!

"I can well remember when we marched day after day across that lone prairie. Nothing to eat much of the time but hard-tack and bully beef, caps made out of potato sacks and not a village in sight. Why, do you know, one night we camped for the night around a huge rock, not a shack to be seen in any direction, nothing but the red sun-set and then the deep, black night. And that rock is where Calgary now stands!

"Calgary, a growing, thriving city, throbbing with the lives of thousands of men, women and children, who go about their every-day occupations with never a thought of the weary soldiers who rested there not so very many years ago.

"Then Winnipeg, beautiful Edmonton, and the cities still farther west in British Columbia! Really, I almost thought my good old eyes were playing tricks on me when I arrived at those places. Edmonton, with its colleges, its beautiful homes and its railroads—all the railroads in that great West My, my, my! I think I must be getting old. And now, when I come to think of it, look at ourselves. I can well remember the days when my grandfather used to tell me of his young days hereabouts. Those people lived amid hardships, leaving good homes to come out to this strange land, settling down in the midst of dense forests previously peopled by only the birds and the wild beasts. How changed they would find it, should they come back now! Here we have our comfortable home with every convenience—then they had the open forest with, later, but a tiny log hut. No pleasure entered into their lives, as we have it now. Day after day they struggled along, fearing everything from the bears to they knew not what else.

"You remember the story I've told you of Gatrie and the bear, don't you children?" And the old man looked down with a reminiscent smile at the children on the floor, who were nodding drowsily. Then he glanced at their mother. She, too, had snuggled down in her chair and was peacefully sleeping, unaware that the children's bedtime had long ago passed. So gently and quietly, grandpa carried each child upstairs, wondering as he looked into their flushed faces just what changes they would be spared to see in the years to come, what great cities they should see spring up, and what little children they should see grow up to be great leaders and nation-builders.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water.

When you wake up with headache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have a backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two of thre times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and make a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

JUNIOR S.P.A. SERIES STARTS

St. Michael's College and Marlboros Win Opening Games.

SOME GOOD HOCKEY.

TORONTO, November 22. — St. Michael's College and Marlboros won the opening games of the S.P.A. junior series at Arena Gardens last night. The games were well patronized, and the fans saw some good hockey, considering it was the opening of the season.

St. Michael's defeated Danforths by 6 to 3 in a see-saw struggle, which was not decided until the closing minutes. Marlboros' collection of junior stars gave the St. Andrew's College team a 13 to 5 trimming.

The first game of the bill was the more interesting of the two, as the closeness of the score made it exciting all the way.

TRENT RIVER NEWS.

TRENT RIVER, Nov. 22.—The Ladies' Aid have had numerous quilting bees at their dining hall adjoining the church. These quilts are quilted to order for different persons and the price for them goes into the Aid treasury.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Greenley have gone to Havelock for the winter months and will occupy Mr. Easterbrook's residence.

Mr. Herbert Rose of "Ye Olde Mill" was successful in landing a fifteen-pound 'lunge, while trolling down the river one day recently.

Mr. N. Garneau has been employed with the Brown Brothers threshing Machine Company.

Mr. Thomas Wight, Senior of Cedar Isle, Resort, who is enjoying fairly good health for a man over eighty-six years of age, still has one over the younger spots of the day by landing a ten pound lunge while trolling on the river recently. Mr. Wight is thoroughly at home in a boat and takes his daily outings and can land the big ones without any assistance from outsiders.

Mrs. Frank Pollock and little son, "Bill;" Mrs. E. Parsons and Mrs. Cook, were visitors Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Claud Insley, Healy Falls.

A bazaar is to be held on Friday, Nov. 18th at Mrs. George Longmuir's, Seymour west.

The regular meeting of the Seymour West Womens' Institute was held at Mrs. George Longmuir's on Friday. Reports of the delegates to the convention at Belleville were heard.

John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Fabien, a good and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood; but meets and loves Manon Lescaut, a beauteous orphan being taken to a Convent by her rascally brother, who doesn't want to be bothered with her. Manon's brother, seeing Ravoir, a rich connoisseur of women, smitten with her, realizes her worldly value and sells her to Ravoir. But Fabien elopes with her to Paris, where they wander into a boarding house and are put into the same room. Fabien goes out to buy food. Returning, he finds Manon has innocently undressed and gone to bed. He is tempted.

CHAPTER V.—Continued.

Exhausted from the strain of this first fight with himself, Fabien sank into the big chair by the window and buried his burning head in his hands.

The storm outside became more furious. A blinding flash of lightning lit up the room. Fabien did not move.

A resounding clap of thunder awakened Manon, and with a terrified start she sat up in bed and looked wildly about. Sleep had been so sound and the awakening so sudden that she did not realize where she was. But when a second zig-zag of lightning opened the heavens and filled the room with light she saw Fabien and rushed over to him without a moment's thought or hesitation. Like a terrified child she threw herself into his arms and cuddled close—her face hidden against his shoulder to shut out the terrifying storm.

Fabien's face was white and strained. Just when he had about conquered himself it was difficult to have Manon precipitate herself so appealingly into his lap. He tried to pat her shoulder reassuringly, but a still more vivid flash of lightning seemed to set the room on fire and Manon's arms went tightly around Fabien's neck as she clung to him in terror.

Surely this was a strange answer to Fabien's prayer. No possible power could help him fight his passion any longer. With a cry of happy relief, his arms went about Manon and strained her to him. He kissed her neck—the first kiss he had ever given a woman. He buried his head in her shoulder and kissed her again and again.

Manon looked at him bewilderingly. His eyes tried to convey their passion. He bent reverently and touched her lips. In a moment he was holding her tighter and kissing her wildly. Manon was no longer frightened. Her beautiful Her eyes filled with flaming love and adoration were at the same time dreamy and elusive. Fabien again held her close and kissed her madly.

The little candle on the table flickered in its stem, sputtered and went out.

CHAPTER VI.

Love, Youth and Poverty.

A company of three, Manon, Fabien and poverty, lived happily together in the little attic room. They were concerned only with their great love and meagre wants.

Their project of marriage was forgotten. They innocently defrauded the church of her rights and found themselves uni ed as man and wife without thought or fear of consequences.

So absorbed was Fabien in his passion that he gave little thought to his family. He never dreamed of the distress that his mysterious absence was causing his father. Not for a moment did he doubt Manon's power to captivate and win his family's admiration and blessing. Back of it all was the idea of obtaining his father's consent to their marriage, and Fabien explained to Manon that aside from filial duty and love it would be wise because his father had unlimited means, and their slim finances were already sadly reduced with no available means of replenishing them.

For the time being, however, life was too sweet to mar it by the slightest change. Thoughts and things that might have been worries were forgotten in the ecstacy of a kiss or the forgetfulness of an embrace.

Even poor little Fifi was neglected. Her milk saucer was not always full, and she probably wondered why her fish bone was dry and hard instead of juicy with luscious flesh.

One morning as Manon was holding Fifi in her arms, explaining that lack of food did not matter because she always ate too much anyway, Fifi playfully clawed at the ribbon around Manon's neck and the locket came untied and rolled off on the floor.

"You shall have a fine gold chain for your locket when we become rich," said Fabien as he returned the trinket.

"Oh, you darling!" Manon rushed to him and snuggled impulsively into his arms. "Fabien, you must promise never to scold me for liking beautiful things, especially jewelry, for I adore it!"

"I shall never scold you, sweetheart. I, too, like beautiful things, and we shall have them—some day. In the meantime, do you suppose you could help me fix the lace in my cuffs?"

With his arm around Manon, Fabien lead her to the window, where his coat was spread over a chair, disclosing a pair of badly soiled lace ruffles.

"They seem to be hopeless," said Manon sympathetically.

A whiff of wind blew the window curtain across the chair. The creamy lace net flouncing on the bright colored chintz seemed to offer itself as a solution to their problem. Quickly Manon tore off the bottom ruffle and fastened a fresh neat lace in each cuff. It was ingenious and they laughed happily at their success.

Back of them the door opened without warning and Marie unceremoniously burst into the room.

"The old lady says you got to dig up the rent," she announced without hesitation.

An empty purse forced Fabien to face stern reality. He wondered why the landlady insisted upon the rent being paid. Was it a streak of meanness? Surely she did not need the money.

Manon's reaction to the demand was quite the opposite to Fabien's. To her it seemed funny for anyone to ask money from them. She could scarcely suppress her laughter.

Marie always wanted to smile when Manon laughed, but this was business. Besides, she hated Fabien as much as she liked his mistress, so she kept a straight face, and turning toward him belligerently she said: "Well, what about it? You've been here a week today."

"A whole week!" broke in Manon suddenly. "Fabien, today, then is our anniversary!"

A rueful nod was Fabien's only answer.

With upturned palm Marie continued to hold her ground, and her presence and demands so infuriated Fabien that he glared and said, "Get out!"

Knowing that this attitude would do no good, Manon rushed to the door and whirled the angry girl about just as she was ready to flounce from the room.

Marie had worshiped Manon since the first time she saw her in the hall way that rainy night, so it needed just a little coaxing and pleading for Manon to persuade her not to report to the landlady about the unpaid rent.

With one arm about Marie, Manon signalled for Fabien to leave the room. Marie was antagonized by his presence, and she could handle the situation better alone. Fabien interpreted the signal correctly and, greatly amused, gathered up his wraps and quickly departed, with a final kiss blown from his finger tips before he closed the door.

Marie looked after him in disgust, then back at Manon appraisingly. "You are a silly little fool to waste your time on a pauper. With your looks you ought to be rolling in money—and you could if you set your mind to it."

But Manon shook her head and said, "I would never think of such a thing—we love each other."

Knowing the ways of pretty young women in Paris, Marie smiled wisely when she replied: "You'll come to it—Paris will teach you that diamonds give a lot more light than penny candles."

With a laughing shrug Manon dismissed the idea.

"Marie, come here," she coaxed. "I want you to do a very special favor for me—promise before I explain!"

"Well, yes, I'll do it. What is it?" It was impossible to refuse Manon anything, besides, there was a touch of mystery in this, and Marie loved mystery.

"I want you to take my locket, go to the first jewelry shop that you come to on the Boulevard and ask the owner to take it back in return for the gentleman's buckles that were left there a week ago. Can you remember that?"

(To be continued?")

BOY CANDIDATES SPEAK TOGETHER

Hold Joint Meeting at Garden Hill To Seek Support.

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 22.—On Wednesday evening Archie Deyell, the candidate of the Union Victor Tuxis Square of this village, who is running for the Boys' Parliament in Toronto, attended the first campaign meeting at Garden Hill. The meeting was held as a joint meeting, with the three candidates who are running in this district all present and stating their platforms.

Robert Wardell of Garden Hill acted as chairman, while the speakers were Messrs. Franklin Bannister Mentor of the Garden Hill C. S. E. T.; Laurence Dunbar, candidate for the Parliament from Garden Hill; Archie Deyell, the local candidate, and Ralph Staples, candidate of the Cavan C. S. E. T.

Several of the young men of this district accompanied the candidate to Garden Hill, but the crowd was not as large as expected on account of the disagreeable weather. A three-cornered fight in this district is making the election a very interesting one. Each of the young men is putting up a big fight to gain the seat in the Boys' Parliament.

Archie Deyell, the local candidate, is planning to hold a meeting in the League hall the beginning of the week.

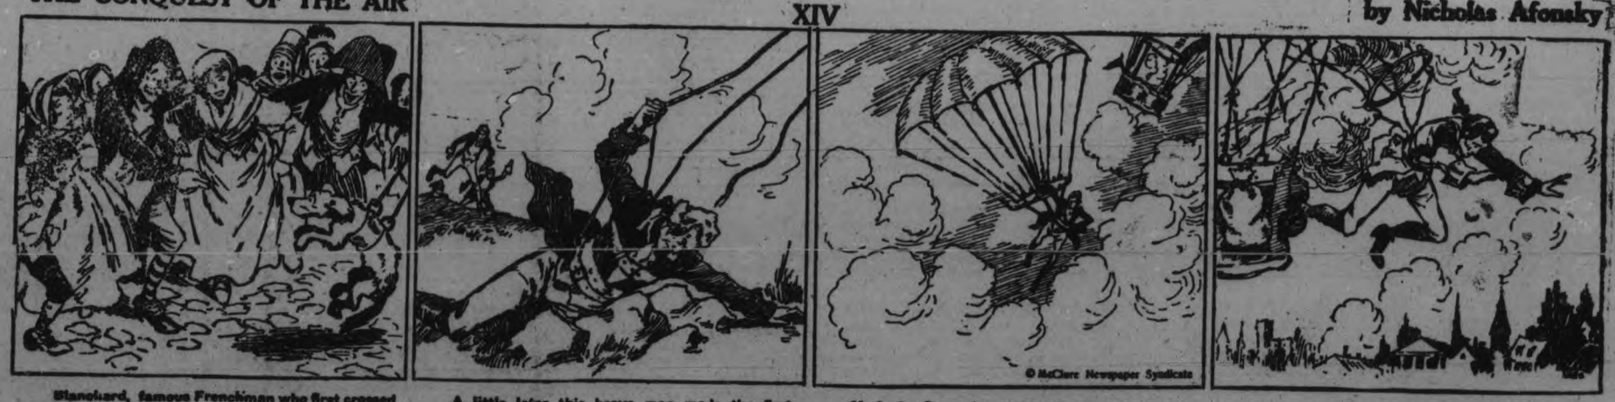
THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — XIV — by Nicholas Afonsky



Blanchard, famous Frenchman who first crossed the English Channel in a balloon, became interested in parachutes. In 1793, in a public ascension over Strasbourg, he dropped from his balloon a dog, with a little parachute attached to his back. The crowd below were wild with delight when it landed.

A little later this brave man made the first human parachute descent. Jumping from a balloon, he fell gradually until he was near the ground. Then his parachute gave way and he crashed to the earth with a broken leg. But he was still firm in his belief in the parachute as a "life belt."

M. Andre Garnerin, another Frenchman, a little later made a descent from a balloon at a great height without injury. He, like his predecessors, had a parachute umbrella that opened as the air rushed up under it. Garnerin later gave a demonstration in England and was badly injured by a fall.

But ten year later the parachute for the first time proved a life saver when a balloonist named Kuparanto, making an ascension over Warsaw, threw himself from his balloon which caught fire in mid-air, and, by means of his parachute, fell safely to the earth far below him.

MOSSOM BOYD HEREFORD WINS

Lycian 3rd Named Grand Champion and Junior Champion Bull of Class.

PRINCE'S HORSE WINS.

Two outstanding wins were recorded yesterday by Lycian 3rd, the fine one-year-old Hereford bull of the Mossom Boyd Company of Bobcaygeon, which captured the awards for grand champion and junior champion bull in the Polled Hereford Class in the live stock ring of the Royal Winter Fair.

The animal which captured championships at the Canadian National Exhibiiton and the London Industrial Exhibition during the present year, was not shown at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition on account of the fact that it was in the western part of the province early in September. C. Johnson, herdsman in charge of the Mossom Boyd cattle expressed the opinion last night that the Mossom Boyd herd would compete at Peterborough in 1928.

The Mossom Boyd Co., was also successful in securing two placings in the judging of calf steers in the market Hereford class. A senior calf steer of the company was assigned fourth position of the judge of animals calved between September 1, 1926, and January 1, 1927.

Fourth place was also given a junior calf steer of this year's class, owned by the Mossom Boyd Co.

A noticeable feature of the Winter Fair this year has been the success attending the entries of the University of Alberta, which captured four championships and finishing up by taking the blue ribbon for the championship steer of the show.

The quality of the market cattle of exhibition this year, surpasses that of any previous winter fair, says G. E. Day, secretary of the Dominion Shorthorn Breeders' Association. The number of entries is slightly smaller than that of 1926, a circumstance which may be accounted for by the low prices obtained for much of the best cattle at the conclusion of the fair of last year.

The total number of cattle on view is 1600, the pick of the North American Continent, representing a cash value of more than a million dollars. Two thirds are dairy cattle. Every province is represented among the entries, even to the smallest, Prince Edward Island, which has eight cattle exhibits at the Royal. The entry from the United States surpasses that of any former year.

The most famous name represented in the list of exhibitors is that of the Prince of Wales with the best of the Shorthorns, of the now world-famous E. P. Ranch, and a number of Percheron horses. His Royal Highness was awarded second prize in the Futurity Class of Percheron stallions foaled in 1926.

The Dog Show, according to schedule ought to have been well underway yesterday, was delayed by the failure to remove the foxes which occupied the place intended for the canine exhibition of the last three days of the Fair. It is expected that this section of the fair will get a good send off to-day.

Boy of Four Saves Smaller Playmate

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 22.—(United Press).—The so-called "hero business" is being taken up very seriously by the youngest of the younger generation here.

The presence of mind and unusual strength of Leonard Lipschitz, four, saved the life of his playmate, Barton Finkelstein, three, when the latter fell into a pool of water five feet deep. Leonard hauled Barton to safety by his coat collar and then called the half-drowned lad's parents.

Recently a five-year-old pulled a companion of the same age from the Hudson River here.

TIE AT WINDSOR IN PRO LEAGUE

Hamilton Plays 4-4 Game, Coming From Behind For Tie.

STRATFORD WINS.

WINDSOR, Nov. 22.—After leading by 4 to 1 at the end of the first period, Windsor could do no better last night than finish in a 4—4 tie with Hamilton in a Canadian Hockey League engagement.

Huard, Brown, Gregg and Palangio starred for Windsor, but combined efforts on the part of the local sextet were few and far between. Hamilton played the better class of hockey. After the disastrous first period the visitors' defence tightened and the forwards at times started some nice combination. Neville and Brydson were outstanding for Hamilton, but the whole team was well balanced.

London Loses at Home

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 22.—Stratford defeated London by 4 to 2 before a capacity crowd of 4,000 spectators in a Canadian Professional Hockey League game at the London Arena last night. For two periods Stratford outclassed London, but in the final period, the locals put up a stubborn battle, their offensive campaign coming too late.

Y.P.S. OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED

St. Paul's Young People Headed By T. Foulkes For Coming Year.

ADDRESS GIVEN.

The regular weekly meeting of the Yong People's Society of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was held Monday evening, at which the officers who had been elected at the annual meeting held the previous week were formally installed in office.

Before leaving the chair the retiring president, Mel. Turner, urged that all the members continue their loyal support to the new executive as they had to do the past and the success for the coming year was assured.

The following are those elected for the various offices:

Advisor—H. B. Cowan.
Hon. Pres.—Mrs. William Allan.
Pres.—Thomas Foulkes.
Vice-Pres.—H. Hope.
Secretary—Mary Sedgewick.
Treasurer—Sadie Lockie.
Group Leaders—Mary Greer, Cecil Jones, Hedly Vickers.

The meeting was favored by a piano solo by H. Vickers, followed by a very interesting address by Mrs. Allan on her tri pto Australia.

The group was dismissed after repeating together the Mizpah Benediction.

3 STUDEBAKERS SET THE PACE

Establish New World Records For Speed and Endurance.

GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (Special.)—Three stock automobiles—two Studebaker Commander Sport Roadsters and a Studebaker Commander Sedan—have established new world records for speed and endurance, each car travelling 25,000 miles in less than 25,000 consecutive minutes on the Atlantic City Speedway, according to an announcement made by officials of the American Automobile Association, under whose sanction and observation the run was made.

No machine made by man has ever travelled so far so fast. When the last car shot over the white line that marked the finish, the Studebaker Commander had, with previous records, gained every official stock car record with the exception of one.

The two Commander Sport Roadsters—a name which, to many, is synonymous with "the world's champion car"—finished the race together at 1.37 p.m., November third, 15 days, 22 hours, and 48 minutes, or 22,968 minutes, after the starter had whipped his flag down at the beginning of the run. The average speed for the entire distance was 65.31 miles per hour. All stops for gasoline, oil, water and repairs were included in the 22,968 minutes.

On the night of November 2nd, the third car, a Commander Sedan, while traveling at a speed of 65 miles an hour, skidded on the icy track and turned completely over. The car was righted, hurriedly repaired and sent on its way again soaring around the wooden oval. Despite the fact that practically two hours were lost in getting the sedan back on the track, this car finished the 25,000 miles with flying colors and set an average of 61.98 miles per hour for the distance.

A car travelling 25,000 miles in 23,000 minutes is a feat that can hardly be grasped by even the most active imagination. The Twentieth Century Limited, crack train which runs between New York and Chicago in 20 hours, averages only 48 miles per hour. Had it been possible for these three Commanders, instead of circling the speedway, to start due east of Atlantic City, they would have gone around the world once and then continued on a second circum-navigation, winding up their trip somewhere in Turkey.

The run was a unique one in every respect. Wind resistance—something barely considered by the average motorist on the highway— cut down the speed of cars as much as 15 miles an hour at times. All day and all night the timers checked the speeding cars by chronometers which were previously tested by the Bureau of Standards at Washington and certified correct within one tenth of a second in 24 hours.

Nor was the timing of the cars left to the probability of errors of a stop-watch in human hands. Electrical recording devices of great delicacy operated by a wire on the track which was tripped each time the cars passed over it, caught the exact time of every one of the 50,000 laps. At night, in spite of the fact that each of the cars bore a huge number painted in white on its hood, it flashed by with such speed that the timers and checkers could not tell which of the three cars had passed. Consequently a different colored riding light was mounted on the running board of each of the Commanders.

At the end of the run, the technical committee of the American Automobile Association tore down the cars and examined them completely. They were checked against factory specifications for stock cars and again checked against the same model Commanders taken from dealers' show rooms. At the end of this critical examination the committee announced that all three of the Commanders were fully equipped strictly stock models in every respect.

Messrs. Selkirk & Elliott, 171-175 Hunter street, are local dealers for Studebaker cars.

They would be pleased for you to come and see what has been done. The reception is from 4 to 6 and from 7 to 9. There will be no admission fee, but a silver collection will be taken at the door. All are welcome. 3d-123-3594

PEACE AT MINES.

Miners Advised To Remain In Their Homes to Avoid Clash.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 22.— (Canadian Press.)—The committee representing the striking miners in the Northern Colorado coal field to-day announced all idle workers had been advised to remain at their homes to avoid possibility of more outbreaks similar to the skirmish at the Columbine mine yesterday which resulted in the first bloodshed since the walk-out was called on Oct. 18 last. After reviewing reports of the fight at the mine which resulted in five deaths among the miners and left a score injured, several seriously, Governor Adams announced that he had relieved Louis Scherf, commander of the State police, of responsibility in firing on the miners when they attempted to invade the property.

OBITUARY

MALCOLM MORRISON.

Word was received on Sunday, Nov. 20th, of the death, at Kirkfield, Eldon Township, of Malcolm Morrison, aged 94. Mr. Morrison was born in the Island of Islay, Scotland, and came to Canada with his parents when quite young. The family settled in Eldon, and there he has lived his long life, being well-known and very highly respected.

For the past year he has been living with his daughter, Mrs. McGillivary, 508 Rubidge Street, and returned home only three weeks ago. The many friends which Mr. Morrison made while in Peterborough will regret very much to hear of his passing.

He leaves to mourn his loss two daughters, Mrs. McGillivary, and Mrs. McArthur, Eldon; also a brother, Neil, of Kirkfield.

The funeral took place this afternoon to Balsover Cemetery.

CHARLES DONOGHUE

KINGSTON, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—Charles Donoghue, a well-known wholesale flour and feed merchant of this city, died late on Monday at Montreal, after a long illness. The late Mr. Donoghue lived in Kingston practically all his life, and was for many years one of the city's most prominent merchants.

GILES BEGINS SECOND FLIGHT

British Aviator Takes Off This Morning For Hawaii.

WEATHER GOOD.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22 (Canadian Press).—Capt. Frederick A. Giles, British flier, took off at 7.42 a.m. today in a second attempt to fly to Honolulu on the first leg of his projected flight to New Zealand. The plane splashed water and mud along the runway, getting into air. Profiting by previous experience Giles made the take-off with ease and his plane, weighing more than five thousand pounds and loaded with 390 gallons of gasoline, gained altitude easily.

Field officials said the flier got off the runway in twenty seconds. After clearing the field he struck out over San Francisco Bay at an altitude of about two hundred feet. Capt. Giles' last words were: "You will hear from me in a day or so."

He borrowed a handful of cigarettes and stuffed them into his pocket just before climbing into the plane.

The much-delayed flight project got under way once more with fair weather prospects at the starting end.

Hatless, without gobbles or helmet, and dressed in a light business suit, Captain Giles donned only a lifebelt as added trapping for the 2,400 mile flight. He carried no radio, no life raft, no parachute, and no sextant, being unable to use the navigation instrument.

Weather Reported Good.

The look-out station of the Marine Department of San Francisco Chamber of Commerce reported that Capt. Frederick Giles was sighted over the Farariones Islands, thirty miles out, at 7.50 a.m.

For the greater part of his flight, Capt. Giles would encounter "medium good weather," with winds mostly north and north-east all the way, the San Francisco weather bureau predicted. The flier should not run into rains or atmospheric disturbances until the vicinity of the Hawaiian Islands is reached, where local showers are reported, the weather bureau announced. The loaded plane is expected to make about ninety miles an hour, gradually increasing its speed to 105 miles an hour as the fuel burden is lightened. It was figured that Capt. Giles would arrive over Honolulu in about twenty-six hours, barring difficulties.

Many Long Hops.

The course along which Capt. Giles' plane plans to fly is as follows: San Francisco to Hawaii, 2,400 miles; Hawaii to Upolu, Samoan Islands, 2,504 miles; Upolu to Suva, Fiji Islands, 710 miles; Suva to Brisbane, Australia, 1,1918 miles; Brisbane to Sydney, Australia, 550 miles; Sydney to Wellington, New Zealand, 1,362 miles. The stretch between Bhisbane and Sydney, Australia, offers Capt. Giles his only opportunity to have land beneath him for there he may follow the Australian coast line.

GAIN WEIGHT ON SUN'S RAYS

English wine boys who have been sent to the Swiss Alps to restore their physical fitness, are improving in health. In a party of five which passed a fortnight's holiday in these mountains, one gained 17½ pounds in weight another gained eight and a third pounds, another seven pounds, and the others made slight gains. Lieutenant-Colonel G. S. Hutchison, who had charge of the party, says there is much evidence that the Alpine sun's actinic rays are responsible for the results.

POLICE SUGGEST CONVICT SLEW MAN

Consider Theory That Martron or Harlton Committed Murder For Clothes.

STRATFORD, Nov. 22.—Guided by a report that Edward Harlton, alleged murderer and London jail breaker, was seen in the vicinity of St. Mary's less than two weeks ago, police are now trying to determine the possible connection of Harlton with the body of the man found near St. Paul's on Oct. 31. Did Harlton, or Martron, Virginia bad man, who accompanied him when he made the break from Middlesex County Jail on the night of Sept. 18, murder the unknown "stranger," strip him of some of his clothing, and then hide the body in a clump of bushes in an isolated spot near the railway tracks?

That is the question police are asking. Overlooking no theory in the mystery case, they intend to track it down before discarding it, as they have had to discard a number of other likely looking clues that have thus far come to light.

Yesterday morning Chief of Police J. L. Broadley received from London, Ont., police the description of a man who is said to be missing, and whose description is almost identical with that of the unknown man. Only one point does not tally. The man is known to have false teeth, while the unknown dead man had a complete set of real teeth, which were found after the body was first discovered.

WOMEN AGED 102 DIE ON SAME DAY

Two Aged Residents of Western Ontario Pass Away at Home.

TILLSONBURG, Nov. 22. — Mrs. Agnes Herron passed away yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sam Patterson, at the ripe old age of 102 years, and was perhaps the oldest resident of Western Ontario. Deceased had lived in this vicinity practically all her life, and had witnessed the many changes from the log cabins to the present fine homes of the district.

Mrs. Herron sold her farm products here for many years. Her husband, W. M. Herron, passed away several years ago. The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 1 o'clock, from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Archie Patterson, of Tillsonburg, is a daughter, and another daughter lives in Brantford.

CHATHAM, Nov. 22.—(Special.)—Mrs. Joseph Kahue, Kent County's oldest citizen, pasesd away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Colby, Morphet, yesterday at the advanced age of 102 years. Death was due to the infirmities of old age. She is survived by her daughter and one son, Edward of Chatham Township.

Mrs. Kahue was born at West Point, near the present City of Kingston, on July 24, 1825. Her maiden name was Elizabeth Raspberry, and her parents were among the pioneer residents of Eastern Ontario. She came to Kent 56 years ago with her husband and family, settling on a farm in Chatham Township.

COUNTY BOYS ENJOY BIG FAIR

Have Good Time on Three Day Trip to Toronto.

WELL ENTERTAINED.

The Peterboro County boys who were fortunate in winning the trip to the Royal Winter Fair at the expense of the Ontario Department of Agriculture returned home on Saturday after having enjoyed the best trip that they have ever had. The boys from this county were as follows:

David Forsythe Maitland Forsythe, Harold Wilson, Joe Tully, Russel Roseborough, Harold McGuigge, Ralph Garbutt, Charlie Racene, Jack Wilson, Carl Purdy.

The young men along with the 500 from various parts of the province, were entertained royally, not only by the Department of Agriculture and the Royal Winter Fair, but also by various firms of the City of Toronto. They saw thoroughly the best indoor show in the world. They visited the Union Stock Yards and packing plants and were entertained at banquets at Simpson's, Eaton's, and the Massey-Harris.

The whole 500 were housed in Spadina House at the University, and in all their trips went as a body in special street cars. By means of yells and songs and an excellent spirit they made known to the City of Toronto that they were "John Martin's farm boys out on a spree," and they were not ashamed of it.

The trip was such a success that the premier announced that it would be repeated next year.

The Peterborough County boys were in charge of J. B. Nelson, Agricultural Representative.

ST. GEORGE'S Y.P.A. INSTALLS OFFICERS

Miss M. Huxley is President—Several New Members Are Received.

The formal installation of oficers and admission of new members to St. George's A.Y.P.A. took place in the Parish Hall yesterday evening.

Rev. J. C. Hughes, the Rector and Patron, installed the new officers and invested them with the badges of their offices. The officers for the year 1927-1928 are as follows:

President, Miss M. Huxley.
Vice-Presisdent, Miss M. Scott.
Secretary, Miss L. Farthing.
Treasurer, Miss V. Allen.

Several new members were admitted and took the pledge of the A.Y.P.A.

The constitution of St. George's Branch of the Anglican Young People's Association was read by the Secretary. The programme for the year has been completed and appears to hold some good things in store for the coming year, embodying both social and educational features.

After the items of new business were disposed of, the meeting closed with prayer by the Rector.

The next meeting of the A.Y.P.A will be in the form of a social evening at the home of Mrs. Brownlee, McGill street, on Monday, Nov. 28. If there are any young people of the parish contemplating joining the A.Y.P.A. they would be most cordially welcomed at this meeting.

DR. KERBY COMING.

Home and School Executive Plans Visit By Eminent Educationalist.

Ontario is being favored just now by a visit from a very distinguished visitor, Dr. George W. Kerby from Calgary. At a meeting of the executive of the local Home and School Association, held in the Y.M.C.A., arrangements were completed for a visit of this distinguished educationist. Dr. Kerby has been attending the provincial association meeting in Toronto, and Toronto papers report most favorably on his addresses. The local meeting to be addressed by Dr. Kerby is to be held in the Y.W.C.A. on Friday evening of this week This visit should prove a source of inspiration to the members of the local Home and School Association. He is at present addressing meetings in Montreal.

BELGIAN CABINET IN DIFFICULTIES

BRUSSELS, Nov. 22 (United Press).—King Albert today asked Premier Henri Jaspar to try to form another Cabinet.

Jaspar said his fellow members of the Government resigned yesterday following a dispute regarding the proposed reduction of the term of compulsory military service.

It is thought Jaspar may have difficulty in reforming a Cabinet, but that a combination of Catholics, Liberals and Christian Democrats may be formed eventually. Socialists who co-operated in the Government just fallen would rejoin the Opposition in this event.

MIRTH AND WISDOM MINGLED AT ANNUAL BANQUET HELD BY PETERBOROUGH ENGINEERS

Speakers Present Happy Combination of Wit and More Serious Discourse.

PROGRESS RECORDED.

General Secretary Tells of Advances of Past Year—Talk Given on Technical Schools.

Mirth and wisdom were both present at the annual banquet of the Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, held last night at the Empress. The speeches were short and interspersed with many stories, but in their serious portions conveyed many fine ideas, while laughter and witty repartee punctuated all the intervals.

A. E. Caddy, chairman of the local branch, occupied the chair. Music was provided by "The Musical Engineers," and the dinner served by the Empress staff left nothing to be desired.

The chairman welcomed all those present from the sister associations and sister professions before calling on His Worship Mayor Holloway to speak.

Mayor Holloway.

His Worship remarked that while in Toronto yesterday, he had noticed many great works, which had reminded him of the engineers, as they could not have been undertaken without engineers. He said that the city was theirs which was greeted with cheers, and expressed the hope that the visitors would come often.

His Worship referred to the remarks made by the engineers and others at the Great Lakes Harbor Association regarding the work of Canadian engineers, and appreciation of Canada's Welland Canal project.

In conclusion the Mayor remarked that the people of Peterborough were proud of the local engineers.

"The Engineers' Institute."

A. L. Killaly proposed the toast to "The Engineering Institute of Canada." He prefaced his remarks with a tribute to the efficient management of the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Killaly referred to the beginning of the Institute as the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers 40 years ago. He named some of the leading members of the time, who, he said, were men of a high class. In 1918 the name, which had long seemed inadequate, was changed to the present title. Shortly after the members were divided into branches, such as the local one, and there are now 25 branches, with about 5000 members.

R. J. Durney general secretary of the Institute ,expressed pleasure at being present at the annual banquet of the Peterborough branch. He stated that he had thought a secretary would have little to say but that he had found out differently.

The speaker announced that the Institute had this year for the first time been able to get the members of the council together for a three day session of great profit.

The most important question that came up was he said, the matter of relations between the Institute and the several other associations of engineers in Canada. It pleased him to sap that steps had been taken toward getting admission into all the associations put on an equal basis.

Several important committees were formed, one of which has this duty of discussing the qualifications for admission into the various grades of membership. Some dificulties have arisen in this connection which are to be threshed out.

There was also at the council meeting a discussion on engineering education. There is little fault found at present but the matter of College course specialization was considered.

He announced the next annual general meeting for Feb. 14, 15, and 16, at Montreal, at which the Governor-General is expected to be VERY LARGE EXHIBITION.

Agriculture Leads All Industries at Big Annual Exhibition.

Six exhibitors in this city have animals on exhibition at the great dog show of the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Herb. Routley has an entry in the open class of Springer Spaniel bitches, Trent Valley Firelight, which is also a contestant in the variety class

Two Peterborough-owned American foxhounds, Model's Swampy Jack belonging to W. Thompson, and Rowdy, the property of F. J. Doughty, are in the open class, occupy adjoining cages ,and appear to be on terms of comparative canine amity, evidently both conscious of the fact that they come from no mean city. Mr. Thompson's animal is also in the Canadian and limit classes, and Mr Doughty's in the limit division

In the Cocker Spaniel group specified as puppies and bitches of any color, D. C. Grant is competing with Gloria's Sensation, which he also intends to put before the judge in the novice section. Kawartha Sparkler, valued at $100 and owned by Gilbert Downer is also a Cocker Spaniel and will compete in the class of novices or bitches of any solid color other than black. Mr. E. Ecobichon's Rough Collie bitch, Quarrybrae competes in her own class and in the Canadian bred and limit classes.

Five hundred and thirty-two dogs, representing sixty-one breeds, are on view. The show includes the greatest display of German Shepherd dogs ever seen in Canada. Other breeds strongly represented are bulldogs, collies, spaniels, fox terriers and Boston terriers.

An entirely new breed so far as Canada is concerned is represented by two Shetland sheep dogs, part of a number which arrived from Philadelphia.

Agriculture Leads

While manufacturing industries are not entirely neglected at the Royal Winter Fair, the leading features of interest are those connected with Canada's basic industry—the tilling of the soil and the rearing of livestock.

Grain and Vegetables

Two of the most important divisions are the displays of grain and vegetables. The field and garden products on view from Manitoba show the Prairie Province to be a rival which Ontario will have great difficulty in overcoming in vegetable competitions.

Although Ontario and Manitoba have the lion's share of the exhibits in this division a glance over the list of owners shows that they hail from all parts of Canada from away down in Prince Edward Island, from as far West as Vernon, B.C., and from the northernmost parts of Saskatchewan.

Record Show in Grain

"Never in the history of the Royal Winter Fair have we had so magnificent a show in grain," said J. Lockie Wilson, Superintendent of Fall Fairs, and primarily responsible for the success of the department. "It is a striking tribute to Ontario and Quebec whence most of the exhibits come."

Manitoba still leads in "Spring

Dime Fine Imposed For Having Liquor

NEWARK, N.J., Nov. 23.—(U.P. —Lewis Totar was fined a dime yesterday for the illegal possession of liquor. He had spent four weeks in jail because he had been unable to supply $1,000 bail and Federal Judge Clark said he considered this punishment sufficient.

The fine is not a record in a local liquor case, as a defendant some time ago was fined five cents and had his fine paid by the Judge.

GANG BOMBS RIVAL OFFICE

Mayor Thompson Predicts, However, That Law and Order Will Prevail.

SHOOTING APPROVED.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23 (Canadian Press).—Chicago gangland hurled its defiance in the form of a bomb last night at Chief of Police Hughes' fiat, "here will be no gang war." The bomb, thrown from an automobile at the reputed pay-off headquarters on the west side for the Aiello interests was described by police as a new declaration of war. The explosion wrecked the entrance of the place and demolished offices said to be used by a gambling syndicate.

Mayor Thompson, asked to comment upon the gang war activities, replied, "Law and order will prevail. The people of Chicago, in Michael Hughes, have the greatest Chief of Police in America. No gangs will run Mike."

Commenting on the killing of Frank Herbert, a gunman, by police yesterday, Chief of Detectives O'Connor said, "That's great news. This is the first skirmish in the battle with the gunmen. The police came out successfully. I am going to commend this squad. This is the kind of work that saves disagreement of juries. It saves the country great expense trying these bandits and murderers. Of course it means a little more work for the coroner's office, but I am sure they will be glad to co-operate with the police in this kind of work."

The chief of detectives, in talking to his men on Monday, promised to give a banquet for the first to kill a gangster. Sergeant John Gibbons shot Herbert.

L.O.B.A. BRANCH ELECTS OFFICERS

Sister Tait Re-elected as Mistress of Star of Bethlehem Lodge.

Star of Bethlehem, L.O.B.A. No. 650, held its regular meeting in Victoria Hall last night, conducted by W. M. Sister Tait.

After the meeting had been opened and business dealt with, the election of officers was proceeded with, conducted by Sisters Huffman, Wright Foster and Pife.

Officers for the coming year are as follows:

Worthy Mistress, Sr. Tait; Deputy Mistress, Sr. Terrace; Chaplain, Sr. Langton, Sr.; Rec.-Sec., Sr. Langton, Jr.; Fin.-Sec., Sr. Cheu; Treas., Sr. Wigg; 1st Lect., Sr. Clee; Dir. of Cer. The officers having been elected there were a few remarks from visiting members: Srs. Wright, Huffman, and Manley. A hearty vote of thanks was then extended to the helpers, and the meeting closed in the usual way.

TORONTO HUNTERS LIKE THIS DISTRICT

Party Recently Returned With 48 Rabbits Shot Just Outside Peterborough.

Peterborough county is rapidly acquiring a reputation as a favorite sporting area for hunters of small game. Regular week end visitors are hunters of rabbits who find an abundance of animals on the east bank of the Otonabee. A party of ex-soldiers connected with the Riverdale branch of the Canadian Legion in Toronto, recently returned from a trip to Peterborough with no less than forty-eight bunnies in their bags.

Peterborough county, declares one of the successful hunters, is not far short of being the best district for cotton-tail rabbits in the Province of Ontario.

GRAND MASTER IS RECEIVED BY LOCAL MASONS

Presentation Made to Hon. John S. Martin at Conclusion of Address.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

Masons of City and District Lodges Gather To Welcome Distinguished Visitor.

The Masonic Hall, Bank of Commerce Building, was filled to overflowing last evening, the event being one of unusual interest to the craft in Peterborough and throughout the district of which Peterborough is the centre for the purposes of the Order. The Grand Master of the Order in the Province of Ontario, Bro. the Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, came to pay an official visit, accompanied by the Grand Secretary, Rt. Wor. Bro. William Logan, of Hamilton, Ont. The Grand Master's position in the Ontario Cabinet, of which he is a member, locates him in Toronto, though his home is in another part of the province.

In addition to the members of the local lodges, Corinthian, Peterborough and Royal Arthur, known as the Blue Lodges, there was a large attendance from the lodges at Lakefield, Keene, Norwood, Hastings, Havelock, and from Omemee and Millbrook, together with a number of brethren who were in the city. Promptly at 8 o'clock the gathering of Masons was called to order and the lodge opened in the First Degree. While the capacity of the Masonic premises is ample for nearly all occasions, it had been arranged by the Committee of Past Masters having details in charge, that an adjournment should be made to the Canadian Legion Hall, Murray Street, where a formal reception was held and a program supplied for the entertainment of the brethren, followed by refreshments.

At the proceedings in the Masonic Hall, Wor. Bro. Albert J. Throop, Wor. Master of Corinthian Lodge, occupied the chair in the east, accompanied by local brethren, to receive the Grand Master, who was presented to the lodges by Rt. Wor. Bro. W. R. Morris (of Corinthian Lodge), the official representative of the Grand Lodge in Peterborough Masonic district for the Craft year. The Grand Secretary, Rt. Wor. Bro. Logan, was also introduced, the distinguished visitors being received with Grand Honors.

At the request of the presiding Master, the Grand Master addressed the brethren briefly, deferring his extended remarks to be made at the after meeting in the Canadian Legion Hall. In speaking, he said that he was no stranger to Peterborough, nor was he unknown in a Masonic capacity to the lodges, having visited many times and retaining pleasant recollections of such events. Carrying his remarks into some of the intimate things of Freemasonry, he reviewed the growth and progress of the Order, and urged the brethren to ever consider the qualifications of all applicants as being men good and true in all respects. The Order, he reminded them, had no connection, as members with any political, commercial, or indeed social movements, being content to make itself strong and creditable before all men and to see that the ancient landmarks were ever preserved.

At the conclusion of his address the Lodge closed down, and for a brief moment the opportunity was afforded for so many as offered to greet the Grand Master, though Wor. Bro. Throop made it plain that at the after meeting all brethren were to personally meet and make the acquaintance of the high official. In going to the Legion Hall there was no procession or anything of the kind, all brethren making their way in groups, to be greeted at the hall by the Past Masters of the lodges in attendance.

At the Legion Hall the chairman of the Past Masters of the district, Rt. Worshipful W. R. Morris, D.D., G.M., occupied the chair. After further welcoming the Grand Master on behalf of the district, he called upon the Hon. J. S. Martin, who gave at length the early history of the craft and ably touched on matters of national interest, stressing the importance of a sound and tested immigration policy as this is one of the most discussed problems of the country.

The Rt. Wor. Grand Secretary, William Logan, spoke briefly, endorsing that which had previously been said, and added a little food for thought along Masonic principles.

W. R. Morris expressed the thanks of the gathering.

Rt. Wor. T. P. Lancaster of Havelock presented the Grand Master with a large silver tray, suitably engraved, as a mark of appreciation from the district.

Vocal solos were rendered by Maurice Park and Jack Smith, accompanied by Fred Graham. These were well received. Light refreshments were served, bringing to a close an enjoyable evening for local Masons.

The details of the reception were in the hands of the Past Masters' Association, with Wor. Bro. John Comstock as convenor of the committee.

U.S. Coal Problem Is Not Yet Solved

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (United Press). — President Coolidge has referred to the Labor Department the request of union leaders for a conference of soft coal operators and miners, it was announced at the White House yesterday.

The president has no solution to offer for the hardships involved in the situation, it was said.

While he was represented as glad to help in any feasible way in settling the dispute, he was said to feel that hardship inevitably attends industrial readjustment.

BIG AIRSHIPS TO SAVE TIME

Will Transport Mail and Passengers To All Parts of Empire.

NEARING COMPLETION.

LONDON, Nov. 23 (United Press).—The first two giant airships which are the precursors of fifty "clippers of the clouds" are now nearing completion secretly in British aerodromes and are expected to be ready for service next summer. It is intended that these will be employed in the first great air service for carrying passengers, mails, and merchandise to all parts of the Empire.

Each airship will carry a hundred passengers and ten tons of mail. The framework is built of stainless steel which gives great strength and durability. Inside the immense hulls are lounges, electric kitchens, elevators, dining rooms and sleeping berths, while there will also be room for dancing.

The calculations of experts show that it will be possible to make the journey from Great Britain to Canada in one of these giant airplanes in two and a half days. They will go to Australia in eleven days, to India in two and a half days, and to South Africa in six days. It will be possible when the service is fully established to fly from Australia to Canada in one of the giant air liners in two and a half days. They will go to Australia in eleven days, to to India in two and a half days, and to South Africa in six days.

It will be possible when the service is fully established to fly from Australia to Canada via England, in fifteen and three-quarter days as compared with the present time of forty-eight days via the present steamship routes. The effect will be, if the service proves successful, to reduce the size of the British Empire so far as communications are concerned to that of England before the days of railways. It will be possible to reach Canada in one-fifth of the the time that a stage coach took in the olden days to travel from London to Edinburgh. Immediately after completion, the first airship will make an experimental journey to Canada next autumn.

MEN'S CLUB HEARS TALK ON EUROPE

W. R. Morris Gives Address at First Monthly Meeting at St. John's.

The first monthly meeting of the Men's Club of St. John's church was held on Monday evening in the Parish Hall, with the President, J. H. Cridland, in the chair. After the disposal of the business part of the program a very interesting address was given by W. R. Morris on his recent trip to Europe.

Mr. Morris had visited many places made familiar through the war, in many of which men present had been engaged. The present appearance of these centres of interest was graphically described by the speaker, who also gave a vivid account of the life as seen by a foreigner in Holland and Switzerland, as well as in Paris. Interest in these places was especially stimulated by apt historical allusions and references to historical personalities who were made to live over again in a familiar setting.

On some future occasion Mr. Morris is to continue his talk on Italy and the Mother Country. The men's Club meets every Monday evening in an informal and social way and once a month transacts its business and hears an address. Refreshments were served by an executive and entertainment committee, including the President, Mr. Cridland, the secretary, G. M. Lyons, and Messrs. C. Coleman, R. N. Stuart and W. E. Massey-Cook.

Employes of the Alaska Railroad cannot shoot caribou from the trains any more. They formerly bagged the animals on an up-country trip and retrieved them on the return.

DAIRYMEN MAKE INSPECTION TOUR OF LOCAL PLANT

Members of Ontario Creamery Men's Association Inspect De Laval Factory.

ATTEND BANQUET.

Several Addresses Given By Guests Following Supper—Pleased With City.

Returning from an afternoon's inspection of the De Laval Company Limited, and a short motor drive about the city, the members of the Ontario Creamery Men's Association, who were here yesterday as the guests of the De Laval Company, sat down to a splendid banquet at the Empress Hotel shortly after five o'clock.

During the supper hour the De Laval Orchestra supplied an excellent musical entertainment. G. D. Carlisle favored the gathering with several vocal solos, which were enthusiastically encored.

Following the banquet Chairman W. R. Breyfogle called upon several of the guests for short addresses. Barney Whitmore, president of the Ontario Creamery Men's Association, was the first to respond. He complimented the De Laval Company on the cleanliness and efficiency of their plant and the courtesy of all those connected with it. On behalf of the association he vouchsafed the hearty appreciation of all those who had been so well and so kindly entertained.

Mr. Breyfogle said that he had long been deeply interested in the association. He thought that their membership could be materially increased until it included the large proportion of dairymen in the Province. Then with this preponderance of opinion the association would be able to secure such legislation or concessions as would be in the best interest of their trade and the public.

Bore Great Responsibility.

President of the Hamilton Pure Milk Company, and one of the pioneers of the dairy business, W. H. Forester, was next to speak. In the milk and cream business, he felt that as dairymen they bore a great responsibility to the children and the household. They should consider themselves as vital servants and watch dogs for the health of those whom they served. People look on them to give the best there is. He deplored the fact that the milk supply was not increasing with the population of Canada. Unless the farmers increase the present production of milk, there would not be suifficient to supply the needs of Eastern Ontario. More than that, Canada is not yet filling the place she should as an exporter of butter to the British markets. At present Denmark has practically the control. There was no reason, he opined, why Canada should not produce butter of just as high a grade, and forecast a great future for the butter trade when such a goal could be reached.

Interest to Students.

Professor Sproule, of the Ontario Agricultural College ,Guelph, voiced the deep satisfaction of the group of visiting students at being given the opportunity of spending such an interesting and distinctly educational afternoon in the survey of the workings of the De Laval plant and the processes in manufacturing the varied products. On their behalf he thanked those who had made their trip possible.

The bacteriologist of the same college, Professor Shutt, expressed himself as being particularly impressed with the factory and the care and precision used in machining and manufacturing the castings. If a similar care for cleanliness was exercised by the milk producers, he believed that the majority of trouble due to off-avoring would be overcome, and advocated the need for missionary work along that line.

Reviews Dairy Business.

William Newman, M.P.P. for North Victoria, gave an interesting review of the dairy business. He extolled those men who had made discoveries that greatly facilitated and made possible the production of hygienic products as are now enjoyed at large. Great credit was also due to those colleges and scientists who are now aiding the manufacturer in applying those principles. He touched on the tremendous strides made in the business since the inception of the first association some 37 years ago. The value of advertising was stressed, as he was firmly convinced that the future holds a market of such vast possibilities that there is little prospect of reaching a saturation point.

Mr. Newman eulogized the De Laval Company and its growth, what it has meant to Canadian people in the way of providing the means through the medium of up-to-the-minute machinery for ensuring safe dairy products.

Now that the dairymen had gained an insight into the manufacturers' end of the dairy business, they should all go forth on the morrow with higher ideals and determined to be as careful and painstaking in their efforts as the De Laval Company in giving of the best which brains and science knew for the good of mankind.

The De Laval Company is noted for thoroughness, efficiency, service, and courtesy second to none. With this in mind, then, he called upon those assembled as their guests to show their appreciation. Rousing cheers greeted his suggestion .

After this the meeting adjourned, and the party wound up the day at the Capitol Theatre as guests of the De Laval Company. Early this morning they entrained on the special De Laval train for Toronto.

Mexican Presidential Term Is Lengthened

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 23 (United Press)—The chamber of deputies has approved unanimously of the proposal to extend the term of the president of Mexico to six years. Four years is the present term.

Two months ago the measure was passed unanimously by the senate. It must be passed by two-thirds of the state legislature.

Indications are that passage of the measure would mean President Calles' remaining in office for two more years.

SINCLAIR CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Burns Also Ordered To Appear in Court on December 5th.

FIVE OTHERS NAMED.

WASHINGTON, November 23. — Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and five other principals in the oil trial jury scandal ran afoul of the law anew yesterday with the filing of criminal contempt proceedings against them in the Columbia supreme court.

A rule was issued requiring them to appear before Associate Justice Frederick L. Siddons on December 5, to show cause why they should not be punished for their part in the surveillance of the Fall-Sinclair Teapot Dome jury, which has been under investigation by a grand jury for three weeks.

In praying for the order District Attorney Gordon charged on behalf of the United States of America, that the purpose of bringing the Burns detectives to Washington was "to spy upon, to bribe, intimidate and influence" the trial jurors and to "do anything calculated" to "impede, pervert and prevent the due administration of justice" either by corruptly influencing the jurors or by "concocting false charges" against one or more of them with a view to bringing about a mistrial.

Beside the wealthy oil operator and the internationally known detective, those named in the petition are Henry Mason Day of New York City, and Sheldon Clark of Chicago, close associates of Sinclair; W. Sherman Burns, directing head of the Burns Detective Agency, and Charles L. Veitsch, manager of the Baltimore Bureau of the Burns organization.

Juror Named.

By direction of Justice Siddons, a separate petition and rule were filed against Edward J. Kidwell, Jr., Juror Number 11, who is under charges of having expressed the hope of obtaining an automobile "as long as this block.

This time Sinclair and his co-defendants will not face a jury. Justice Siddons will hear the testimony and will decide from the facts wheth er contempt has been shown. If he holds that the accused are guilty he can impose either fines or jail sentences or both within his discretion.

From the court's findings of the fact there can be no appeal but an appeal can be taken to the district of Columbia court on appeals on points of law involved in the contempt proceedings. Generally defendants are admitted to bail pending the outcome of such appeals.

Sinclair under Sentence.

Sinclair already is under sentence of three months in jail and a fine of $500 for contempt of the United States Senate as a result of his refusal to answer questions in the Senate's oil inquiry nearly four years ago and is at liberty on a bond pending the outcome of his appeal to the higher courts.

In presenting the petition District Attorney Gordon told Justice Siddons that this action was "entirely independent" of the grand jury investigation, which has now been concluded. Whether the jury is to make a presentment is for it to decide, but if it does so, the indictments may be held in abeyance until after the contempt hearing.

An airplane service has been established for miners in the newly discovered fields of New Guina. The field is on a high plateau, so difficult to reach that the trip requires six days by horseback. Airplanes come from the coast in about an hour.

BRITISH FLIER MAKES LANDING AT SAN SIMON

Ran Into Rain Drenched "Air Pocket" 500 Miles Out at Sea.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

Lost Charts, Food and Instruments When Plane Turns Upside Down.

LOS ANGELES, November 23. — Captain Frederick A. Giles, British war ace, who set out yesterday from San Francisco in a trans-Pacific flight to Australia, informed the Examiner by telephone last night that he had been forced back after travelling 500 miles to sea and had landed near the William Randolph Hearst ranch at San Simeon, Cal.

Utterly beyond control, his little trans-Pacific biplane went completely "haywire" 500 miles out at sea—went spinning into a rain-drenched "air pocket," and finally turned completely upside down, scattering his charts, his foods and his instruments into the ocean below, Giles said.

And then in a magnificent exhibition of airmanship, Captain Giles turned his damaged plane right side up again making a wild guess as to direction, and sent her roaring back to the mainland, to make a perfect and safe landing a mile south of the Hearst ranch at San Simeon, 50 miles from San Luis Obiopo

Bracing Wires Snapped.

"I never expected to make it," he said over the telephone from the Hearst ranch last night. "My centre section bracing wires had snapped; I had dumped my main gas tanks to lighten the strain on the broken plane and the chances were just about zero. But luck stayed with me—I hit the coast about sixty miles north of where I landed, and had to keep my ship in the air for all that distance before I finally found a landing place at San Simeon."

He stopped for breath. Even over the phone one could catch the tremor of nervousness that still remained in that voice after that test—perhaps one of the most terrifying experiences any aviator has ever undergone

"Well, what are you going to do?" he was asked then and like a flash, "why, I'm going to try again," he laughed. "I'm going to fix the ship and fly her back to San Francisco, and then as soon as the moon is full, and I can get new charts, I will be off again. I've started to fly to Australia and by George I'm going to do it."

HORTA, Island of Fayal, Azores, November 23 (Associated Press). — After what appeared to be a favorable start last evening on its long-delayed trans-Atlantic flight from the Azores to Newfoundland ,the Junkers plane D-1230 came back to port a few hours later. She was in tow, and while no exact details of her misadventure are yet available, it is supposed that he heavy weight did not permit of the continuance of the flight.

In addition to the crew Lilli Dillenz ,the Austrian actress, was aboard. She had flown in the plane from Norderney on October 4, and was resolved to finish the overseas journey from Germany to the United States, no matter how it ended.

The Junkers plane D-1230 left Norderney, Germany, on October 4, on a trans Atlantic flight to the United States by way of the Azores It carried one passenger, Lilli Dillenz, Viennese actress, who sought to be the first woman to make a flight across the Atlantic.

Made Trip in Stages.

The D-1230, a triple-motored hydro-aeroplane, made the trip to the Azores in stages, stopping at Amsterdam on October 5, and then continuing on to Lisbon. The plane fell into the sea off Santa Cruz, near Lisbon, and was taken in tow by a tug the next day, arriving at the Portuguese capital on the night of October 6.

The D-1230 remained in Lisbon until October 14, and then took off for the Azores, making a brilliant flight at an average speed of 99 miles an hour over the 900 mile stretch of ocean.

The D-1230, which was held at Horta by bad weather, was joined by the Heinkel plane, D-1220, on November 4. The Heinkel plane also was planning a flight to the United States by way of the Azores.

The Heinkel plane hopped off on November 14 on the 1,600 mile flight from Horta to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland ,but crashed within a few seconds The crew was not injured.

The writ of habeas corpus, meaning literally that "you have the body," is one of the oldest writs of common law. Its purpose is to compel the production before the court of a person claimed to be wrongfully held in custody to determine why he is detained.

RUTH SNYDER AND GRAY MUST DIE IN CHAIR

Joint Appeal Is Denied Slayers of Yachting Magazine Editor.

GIVEN FAIR TRIAL.

Expect Court of Appeals To Set Date of Execution To-day.

ALBANY, N.Y., Nov. 23.—(A.P.)—Ruth Snyder, the blonde New York housewife and mother who denied her guilt to the last, and Henry Judd Gray, her mild-mannered paramour, who told freely how they both strangled and beat Ruth's half-sleeping husband to death, yesterday lost their joint appeal from death sentence.

Both are in the death house at Sing Sing. The date of execution is expected to be set by the court of appeals here to-day.

If Mrs. Snyder dies, the department of corrections records here show she will be the third woman executed in New York State, the others being Martha Place ,of Brooklyn, in 1899, and May Farmer, of Jefferson County, in 1909.

Mrs. Snyder's confession before trial, which she repudiated as forced from her while nervous and overwrought, weighed against her in the court of appeals decisions yesterday, which affirmed the death penalty.

The court did not consider the evidence except as to whether it concerned the point of the appeal, which was that trial was unfair because the defendants were tried jointly instead of separately. The decision found that the trial had been scrupulously fair and that Ruth's own early confession removed the possibility of substantial injury to her from presentation to the trial jury of Judd's confession.

At the trial Ruth was often defiant and blazing and always keen. She put the whole blame on Gray. Judd folowed her on the stand, confessing completely, seemingly to clear his conscience and making no appeal for mercy.

Review Trial.

The evidence indicated that in their relations she was often the dominant personality. Her most descriptive phrase of her paramour was brought out from her correspondence as "darned lovable little cuss."

The story brought out by the trial was that Albert Snyder, yachting magazine editor ,and Ruth went to a Saturday night party in Queen's village on March 19 last. Judd Gray waited concealed in the Snyder home. After Snyder's return and retirement to sleep Ruth and Judd Gray had some drinks. Ruth maintained that Judd Gray then beat her husband with a window sash and strangled him with wire. Gray said that Snyder seemed to be getting the better of their struggle and that Ruth helped him kill her husband.

Gray asserted that Ruth had been urging him for a long time to kill Snyder ,and told how he plotted the killing, even buying the window sash weight in another city while travelling about New York State selling corsets, his regular occupation. He expressed his sorrow at the trouble he brought on his own wife and daughter. Evidence was presented that Mrs. Snyder had increased her husband's life insurance to about $100,000 shortly before his death. Whether her daughter, Lorraine, would get the insurance has been one of the aftermaths of the trial.

Decision Unanimous.

The decision of the court was unanimous, except that Associate Judge Henry T. Kellogg was not sitting. Judge Irving Lehman wrote the opinion.

Reviewing the murder, Judge Lehman wrote that both defendants testified in their own behalf, each attempting personal exculpation by throwing as much of the blame as possible upon the other.

"A mass of circumstances belied the claim of exculpation of either," it was declared in the opinion. "The jury might well find that each defendant by testimony in open court has established the guilt of both."

"Throughout the trial and his charge the trial justice with scrupulous care protected the rights of both defendants," Judge Lehman stated. "He pointed out to the jury that they might not consider the confession of either as evidence against the other. . . wherever there was possible room for doubt as to a ruling to be made or a charge to be given, he resolved that doubt in favour of the defendants. They have been found guilty upon evidence which is clearly sufficient, after a trial in which no rulings have been made of which they may reasonably complain."

MAN ARRESTED FOR SERIOUS OFFENCE

Former Resident of Healey Falls Is Arrested at Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 23. — Gordon Althouse was taken into custody by Constable Duncalfe last night on the authority of a warrant charging a serious offence. Althouse was recently a resident of Healey Falls, six miles from here, but for some months has been employed elsewhere. It is believed that he has been in the United States for at least part of the time since leaving Healey Falls.

Acting on information received from a reliable source, Constable Duncalfe found the man at a house in this town and made the arrest about seven-thirty last night. At first it was understood that the prisoner would be held here and transferred to Cobourg this morning, but it was deemed expedient to make the transfer last night. Chief Light escorted him to the jail there.

In parts of Japan, sleeping with the windows open is forbidden by police who fear that it would increase robberies.

Commits Suicide From Peace Bridge

BUFFALO, Nov. 23 (United Press).—With the finding of a woman's pocket-book and umbrella, the first suicide to be committed from the new international peace bridge was recorded last night. The victim is believed to have been Mrs. Gertrude Barth of Buffalo. The articles were identified by her husband. He could offer no motive for her act.

ORDER REIGNS OVER RUMANIA

Peasants Continue Tasks Despite Disturbing Rumors Circulated Throughout Country.

MARIE WRITING MEMOIRS.

BUCHAREST, November 23 (Associated Press). — Perfect order reigns throughout Roumania with the peasants pursuing their accustomed tasks in the fields apparently heedless of oratorical declarations of war against the Bratiano government by professional politicians at Bucharest.

Not a single incident of revolutionary character has occurred since the acquittal of Mihil Manoilescu, former Under-Secretary of Finance, of a charge of aiding in a Carolist plot and the seizure of the acquittal by Oppositionist leaders as a peg on which to hang declamations against the Government. Although Oppositionists hailed the acquittal as a possible wedge for the re-entry of former Crown Prince Carol into Rumania, the dynastic situation simmered down as quickly as it arose.

The season's first snow spread a white blanket over Rumania yesterday morning, accentuating the peaceful aspect of the country. Little King Michael I. deserted his studies and cares of state to frolic in the snow on his sled. His grandmother, and his beautiful young aunt, Princess Ileana, have returned from Balitshik ,on the Black Sea, where they have been vacationing.

Finding politics a prosaic and profitless business, Queen Marie has resolved to give all of her time henceforth to literature. The first instalment of her memoirs, for which she is said to have received $100,000, will soon appear in American newspapers.

GIVEN REAL SCARE.

BUCHAREST, November 23 (Canadian Press). — The reported sudden appearance on the Black Sea of several Soviet warships pushed politics off the front page of Rumanian newspapers yesterday and caused what appeared a real scare throughout the country.

For several days Soviet torpedo boats have been reported patrolling the routes usually followed by Rumanian and foreign mail passenger steamers ,causing the Rumanian Admiralty to arm all its larger vessels. The purpose of the Soviet vessels is stated to be the capture of all vessels formerly belonging to the white Russian Wrangel fleet ,but Rumanian vessels are taking no chances.

The secret police on Monday sent a wireless message to the captain of the steamship Rumania, en route from Constantinople to Constanza, warning him that two Russian torpedo boats were cruising mysteriously on the Black Sea intending to capture former Wrangel vessels.

Although the Rumania does not come within this category, the captain ordered all lights extinguished immediately and started full speed toward Constanza. The passengers consequently had a thrilling midnight race at top speed across the Black Sea in complete darkness, and the steamer arrived four hours ahead of time. The passengers declared that the Rumania was pursued all the way across, but this could not be verified.

Beg Your Pardon

It was Ivan Payne and Orval Watts who placed the school wreath on the cenotaph at Warsaw on Armistice Day.

OLD MASTERS

Ye sons of freedom, wake to glory!
Hark! hark! what myriads bid you rise!
Your children, wives, and grandsires hoary,
Behold their tears and hear their cries!
Shall hateful tyrants, mischief breeding,
With hireling hosts, a ruffian band,
Affright and desolate the land,
While peace and liberty lie bleeding?
To arms! to arms! ye brave!
The avenging sword unsheathe;
March on! march on! all hearts resolved
On victory or death.
—Adapted from the French of Rouget de Lisle: from the Marseillaise.

NEW BRIDGES TOO PRACTICAL

Lovers of the beautiful in Belgium are protesting against modern steel bridges being constructed to take the place of some of the picturesque stone arches that were destroyed during the World War. Belgium has fewer masons who know how to build the old-style bridges, and this has necessitated the use of steel. While the new structures are more serviceable than the old, they do not harmonize so completely with their environment.

Ski riding at a mile a minute, the skiers being drawn by motor-cycles, is a sport that will be tried out this winter at some Canadian resorts.

Socialist Treasurer Won't Accept Salary

READING, Pa., Nov. 22 (United Press). — William Hoverter, newly-elected Socialist treasurer of the city of Reading, will return approximately $14,000 of his salary to the city annually during the four years that he holds office.

Hoverter, who was swept into office in the Socialist landslide here, November 8, made this announcement yesterday.

In Reading, the city treasurer receives no set salary. His only remuneration comes from an allowance of one-half of one per cent. of all moneys collected, and five per cent. of all delinquent taxes collected.

NEW CABINET GIVEN APPROVAL

Henri Jaspar Still Retains Office As Premier of Belgium.

ISSUE DECREES TO-DAY.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23 (A.P.).—King Albert last night gave royal approval of the new Cabinet which Henri Jaspar formed at the sovereign's request. The resignation of the previous Jaspar ministry which had been in office since May, 1926 occurred Monday. Royal decrees will be issued today. The new Cabinet contains no Socialist; the four Socialist ministers having been replaced by Liberals and Christian-Democrats. Paul Hymans, former Minister of Justice, becomes Minister of Foreign Affairs, while M. Vauthier, former Minister of the Interior, becomes Minister of Science and Arts.

The two new Liberal ministers are Maurice Lippens, Railways and Posts, and Paul Emile Janson, Justice. The two new Christian-Democrats are Cyrille Van Overberg, Local Affairs, and Henry Heyman, Public Works.

The previous Jaspar Cabinet resigned after it was found impossible for the members to agree on the period of military service. The Socialists desired a reduction of the military service from ten months to six months. Because of the conflicting views of the Socialist and non-Socialist ministers, Premier Jaspar decided to eliminate the Socialists altogether.

Now the Socialist parliamentary group has adopted a resolution inviting working classes to pursue with renewed energy the campaign for shorter military service.

JEWS ATTACKED BY HUNGARIANS

Prosecutions Continue To Occurr at Budapest—Students Erect Barricades.

MANY INJURED.

BUDAPEST, November 23 (Canadian Press). — The campus of the Hungarian College at Fuenfkirshen was transformed into a battlefield yesterday when the Jewish students in defending their lives against the attacks of anti-semitic students, erected barricades.

The anti-semitic riots continued on Monday in all the colleges in the country outside of Budapest, particularly in Szegedin and in Fuenfkirshen. At the latter college twenty students, Jews and Christians, were injured when the anti-semitic students stormed the barricade which was erected when the Jews were informed of the planned attack.

When the barricade was taken in the storm of the anti-semitics, the Jewish students employed firearms, clearing the exits. Many Jewish girl students climbed to the college windows, prepared to jump. Many of them fainted from fright.

Assistant professors in the science department and Christian girl students helped the Jewish students in their defence, until mounted police arrived to restore order.

FIFTEEN SNATCHED FROM SEA DEATH

Clung To Wreckage of Dutch Tanker Georgia Since Monday.

LONDON, November 23 (Canadian Press). — Fifteen men who had clung to the wreckage of the Dutch tanker Georgia since Monday were snatched from death in the raging North Sea last night by a lifeboat from the coastal town of Cromer.

The Georgia, beaten by violent seas, broke in two on Monday. Fifteen of the crew were rescued by a steamer, but 15 others remained on the forepart of the ship, which was grounded on the Haisboro Sands throughout the day.

All of yesterday lifeboats along the Norfolk Coast battled the waves trying to effect a rescue, while folk along the shore momentarily feared a total collapse of the fragment which still sheltered the imperilled 15.

As night fell, the wind and waves subsided somewhat and a crew from Cromer, by skilful and bold manoeuvring, succeeded in reaching the wreck and taking off the almost exhausted sailors.

Mr. Joe Burns of Madoc spent the week end in town.

Mr. J. Quinn visited at his home in Kingston over the week end.

OBITUARY

R. W. PAYNE

WARSAW, Nov. 23 — The funeral of the late R. W. Payne took place on Sunday, November 20. There was a short service at the house and the main service was in the United Church.

Long before the hour of service all seats, except those reserved, were occupied, and many were waiting. During the service the draw seats were all in use, the back of the church was filled with people standing and many were unable to get in. Besides having a very large family connection, Mr. and Mrs. Payne were people with many friends.

The Rev. H. B. Herrington conducted the services ,assisted at the church by the Rev. Mr. McCleary. The hymns sung were "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," and "Nearer My God to Thee." A quartette, "Will They Come?" was sung by Mrs. MacMillan, Messrs. Rufus, Hilliard and Ralph Payne. Mr. McCleary read the lesson and led in prayer. Mr. Herrington preached from the text, "And their deeds shall live after them." He explained the meaning of the words and told that Mr. Payne had been so interested in doing good that his good deeds would long live in the minds of the people.

There were many beautiful flowers. The pall bearers were Messrs. Graham, Nathan Payne, Bert Payne, David Payne, William Payne, and Roland Hamblin.

In the passing of the late R. W. Payne, Dummer has lost a life-long and useful resident. He was born on the farm where he spent practically all his life. Two years ago last February he moved to his house in Warsaw. The house was ready some time before he and Mrs. Payne moved to it, but they could not make up their minds to leave the old home, though for nearly six years Mr. Payne has been laid up. During all that time Mrs. Payne has cared for him most devotedly. Thirty-seven years ago he married Jennie Graham.

He was a kind and devoted husband, a loving and indulgent father, a good neighbor, and a staunch Christian. He was a member of the Methodist Church. His name was on the Bethel roll, he was always associated with church work, always glad to help in any way. For many years he was on the board of management, and his splendid bass voice was always heard in the choir unless illness kept him at home.

After moving to Warsaw he had several severe illnesses, each one leaving him weaker than the preceding one. After the last one he did not gain, and gradually failed until he passed.

Besides his widow he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Martin Thurston of Lindsay, one brothr. Bert Payne of Lakefield, and one sister, Mrs. James Moore of Hastings.

W. G. TELFORD.

Smith township lost one of its most highly respected residents, in the passing of Mr. William George Telford last Thursday.

He was the son of William Telford, the Scottish Canadian poet. He was born in Smith township where he spent his entire life and where he was recognized as one of the successful farmers of the district. For many years he was a deacon and member of the Gilmour Memorial Church, and he was also a member of the Foresters in Bridgenorth. He was a Liberal in politics and took a keen interest in all social, religious, and political questions of the day. Of a quiet unassuming disposition, he was generally loved and respected by his friends and neighbors, in the church and community, and his tales of life in the township among a past generation were full of interest and instruction to the present.

The funeral was held at the family residence on Saturday, and was largely attended. The many beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which he was held. The service was conducted by the Rev. W. S. Edgar, pastor of Gilmour Memorial Church, who spoke briefly from the text 2nd Cor. 5-1: "If the earthly house of this tabernacle be dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." Many fitting references being made to the deceased. Pallbearers were: Messrs. J. Mann, F. W. Scott, W. Grant, J. Grant, J. A. Young, W. J. Telford.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 23. — "When a Feller Needs a Friend," the three-act comedy, which is being presented by a local troupe seems to be meeting with unusually great success. The cast contains the most talented of the local stage artists and they present the entire play with all the skill of professionals. Already the comedy has merited the stamp of approval in the village of Hastings and in the town here. It is booked to appear in Warkworth this Friday night and there is every reason to suppose that success will also be the reward of merit in that community.

In order as they appear, the cast of characters is: Tom Denker, a young artist, J. D. McEachern; Bob Mills, magazine writer and friend of Tom's, Jack McAvoy; Mrs. Reese, their landlady, Miss Mona Hammond, B.A.; Jerry Smith, returned soldier, Earl Stephens, B.A.; Liz, Mrs. Reese's step-daughter, Miss Hazel Atkinson; Bing Dickson, Liz's steady boy friend, Harry Burgess; Wm. Denker, Tom's uncle, Hylton Coxwell; Alice King, Tom's aunt, Miss Maisie Wheadon, B.A.; Elaine Lynn, Alice King's ward, Miss Fread Nelson; Angela Scott, Bob's fiancee, Miss Helen Bygott.

The story opens in Mrs. Reese's boarding house, on a Friday morning. The scene is set in the barren room which Tom Denker and Bob Mills share. They are in such straitened circumstances that they must steal the food from the poodle and the parrot in order to live. Furthermore, they are four months in arrears with their rent, and the landlady threatens to put them out if the rent is not paid by Saturday. They seem to be up against it. Their furniture consists of two soap boxes and they have but one suit of clothes between them. There is just a faint hope that their mutual friend Jerry, who is expected back from overseas, may be able to help them. But Jerry proves useless. He has had all his clothing and money stolen during the night he slept at a hotel near the docks. One thing which the thieves did not take was his fingering and the trio manage to raise four dollars and fifty cents on it at a pawn shop. But the money is lost out of the window and they are as poor as before.

And so the story goes from one trouble to another. And as it progresses the outlook becomes more dreary and hopeless as the web of circumstances draws closer. For years they have been misleading their relatives as to their success along their various lines of effort and there seems no other way than to admit their failure and take jobs driving laundry wagons or some similar occupation in order to make enough money to clothe themselves and get three meals a day.

But determination is usually rewarded. The three men in such dire circumstances will not admit defeat and they bluff their way to the very end. Through the most unexpected troubles they emerge only to find themselves once more deeply involved. Tom and Bob have lied to their relatives, they are in debt to their landlady and are about to be put out on the street. It is how they manage to clear themselves and achieve success that makes the story of the play. The huomorous vein comes in the actions of the landlady, her step-daughter and the man who is the fiance of the latter.

The play is well worth the price of admission and the pleasure derived from the time spent in listening to it will never be regretted. There are several engagements arranged for its appearance and good houses are anticipated. The next showing will be in Warkworth Friday night.

Few works of any description enjoy such popularity as does this symphony. Nor is the reason for such popularity far to seek; it rests without doubt in the delightful melodies which Schubert, with the "prodigality of genius," lavishes upon music.

THE PROGRESSIVES' LEADER.

The new leader of the Progressive party in Ontario, John G. Lethbridge, is far from being a second Raney, and the shoes of the former chieftain will scarcely fit the member for West Middlesex.

Mr. Raney in politics was a hard fighter and an able one, and possessed other qualities of leadership that up to the present at least have not been noticeable in the new head of the party.

In any case Mr. Lethbridge is leading a lost cause. There is no room in Ontario politics for a third party, and another election will probably show that the people of this Province prefer the old two-party system and come close to annihilating the Progressives.

The coming session of the Legislature is not likely to be marked by any intense activity on the part of the Progressive group; the personality of the leader chosen by the handful of members left in the Legislature after the last election would seem to preclude any possibility of the organization proving a fighting and vital factor in the proceedings of the Legislature.

THE DE LAVAL INVITATION.

The invitation that has been extended by the De Laval Company to business men, manufacturers, professional men and the citizens generally to inspect their plant tomorrow afternoon and see the exhibit prepared for the visiting dairymen, is one that should be accepted by many citizens.

Our people do not know nearly as much as they should do about the many fine factories in Peterborough.

Most of us have only a very vague idea of the interior of the city's manufacturing concerns, and when we are quizzed by visitors on the subject we are usually at a loss to supply the desired information.

We should really be better posted about what our industrial firms make and how they do it, and we can only get the necessary knowledge by taking advantage of such invitations as that issued by the De Laval Company.

The plant of the latter company is one of the finest to be found anywhere, and a visit tomorrow will give our citizens a much more comprehensive idea of the extent and nature of the activities of this splendid concern.

CHRISTMAS RELIEF.

Without, it must be admitted, accomplishing as much along this line as we would have liked, The Examiner has in other years suggested the advisability of administering Christmas cheer and relief on a more scientific basis.

We return to the idea at this time convinced that it should be possible for all the organizations engaged in this very meritorious work to get together and co-ordinate their efforts in order to avoid over-lapping, or what would be much worse, the over-looking of cases where help will be very badly needed.

There is much to be done, and it might just as well be done intelligently and in a business-like manner.

Where there is no co-ordination there is very likely to arise a situation where, on one hand, a needy family may be helped by two or three organizations, while on the other a more deserving case may be overlooked entirely.

Such things have happened at Christmas in other years, and because they have happened The Examiner again brings forward the suggestion that now, while there is plenty of time to do so, that an effort be made to establish a central committee to act as a clearing house for the organizations engaged in relief work.

ANOTHER BENEFIT.

The Examiner referred a few days ago to the value, from an agricultural viewpoint, of the visit of five hundred Ontario young farmers to the Royal Winter Fair as the guests of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The ten boys from Peterborough County included in the delegation saw many things that should help them to be better farmers and keener to make agriculture profitable.

There was, however, another aspect of the visit that was not mentioned.

Such affairs do much to bring about that closer rapprochement between city and country that everybody recognizes as most desirable.

The entertainment showered upon these fortunate delegates was such as would necessarily give them a favourable impression of the hospitality and kindliness of city folks.

Various firms and organizations in Toronto saw to it that every minute of the visit was crowded with something of interest and profit, and the young farmers from all over the Province have gone home with glowing praise of their reception.

The effect will be decidedly beneficial.

IMPORTANT.

Speaking before the Women's Canadian Club of Montreal, Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King reviewed the history of the Maritimes leading up to Confederation in 1867. He told of how in 1864 representatives of the three Provinces, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, had met together and discussed the advisability of creating a single Province from the three units. Continuing, the Premier is reported to have said:

"Personally, I think it would be a good thing if they could repeat that thought today and let us have one large Province instead of three."

That is one of the most important thoughts expressed by the Premier for some time. If consummated, it would mean a great move toward economy in government that could be effected in Canada. The fusion of the three Maritime Provinces would be followed by other actions to cut down the cost of government—Federal, Provincial and municipal. As The Border Cities Star has always maintained, Canada is suffering from over-government. Any move that would tend towards a reduction in the present legislative bodies would be an important step towards national economy.

Canada's three Atlantic Provinces are the smallest in the Dominion in both population and area. New Brunswick has 407,200 people in an area of 27,985 square miles; Nova Scotia has 540,000 inhabitants and an area of 21,428 square miles; and Prince Edward Island has 87,000 persons living in an area of 2,184 square miles. There are 1,034,200 people in the three Maritime Provinces. The total area is but 51,597 square miles.

By way of comparison it is mentioned that Ontario has 3,145,600 people in an area of 407,262 square miles; Quebec has 2,561,800 inhabitants in 706,834 square miles.

In the three Legislatures of the Maritimes there are 121 members. New Brunswick has 48; Nova Scotia, 43; and Prince Edward Island, 30. Nova Scotia has had an Upper House for years, but recent legislation has been passed doing away with that encumbrance. In addition to the actual members there are all the Government officials, the Parliament Houses, and the innumerable offices that have to be maintained. The whole idea is absurd. The people are beginning to realize it more than ever. The only thing that stands in the way of action towards reduction in the adherence to custom and the reluctance of any of the Governments to initiate the move. It took years for Nova Scotians to agree to do away with their Legislative Council, but the step was taken finally. In the same way action will eventually be taken in the Maritimes to fuse three Provincial Legislatures for the sake of economy.

Mr. King confined his Montreal utterances in this regard to the Maritimes. He is not reported as favoring a similar idea for the Prairie Provinces. Nor is he quoted as being in favor of a general reduction in members in the Federal and Provincial Governments. Evidently he thought the one hint would suffice to show where he stood on the matter. The same general principle concerning the Maritimes and over-government may be applied to the whole of Canada, Federal, Provincial and municipal.

Of recent months there has been growing up a strong conviction that Canadians are paying too much in taxes for government. It is not a question reflecting on the ability of the elected members to the House of Commons and the Provincial Legislatures. Rather, it is merely a conviction that there are too many members, and that greatly reduced personnels could handle the business of government as successfully and more economically. The same applies to municipalities as well.

Now that the Prime Minister of Canada has pointed the way towards reduction in government, there should be strong hope that something definite will be done. The people are quite ready to accept fewer members and to enjoy the resulting savings in governmental expenditures. With Mr. King on record as favoring one of the important steps, it should not be a difficult matter to continue the idea through until the whole of Canada has felt the beneficent influence of the move.—Border Cities Star.

CATTLE GRAIN, AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—With the best grades of cattle well picked over in Monday's active trading the bulk of yesterday's offering was of the lower grades; and the market not quite so active, except for the few choice quality butchers and feeders.

The demand for good feeders is so active that it is difficult to fill all the orders coming in. Receipts of western cattle so far this week include 1,124 stockers and one car of calves.

Prices on all grades of butcher cattle steady to firm, best heavy beef steers selling up to $9.50 and good to choice butcher $8.50 to $9.25.

Stockers and feeders strong with a demand for choice heavy feeders for export, from $7.50 to $8.00.

Choice light steers, $8.35 to $8.50 and choice butcher heifers, $8 to $8.25.

Beef steers firm, choice $12 to $12.

Common steers and heifers, $5.5 to $7.50; medium, $4.50 to $5. Canners and cutters, $2.75 to $4.50.

Bulls, choice, $5.50 to $6.50.

Hogs steady, $8.50 f.o.b. selects and $9.40 off cars, selects. Packer bidding 25c lower on yesterday's loadings.

Lambs 25c lower at $11.50 tops.

Receipts.

Union Stock Yards—Receipts, this week, 1,679 cattle, 487 calves, 1,316 hogs, 1,185 sheep and lambs.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 23 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for Canadian grain here yesterday continued quiet and the volume of business was small. Local exporters reported a fair trade in wheat for shipment from the Pacific Coast, but said that little was worked from the East.

There was a fair inquiry from exporters for wheat in the local market, but owing to the sharp advance in prices at Winnipeg the volume of business was curtailed and only sales of a few loads of No. 3 Northern were made at 4¾c to 5c per bushel over the Winnipeg November option, c.i.f. Montreal.

On account of the strength in oats at Winnipeg local cash prices were advanced 1 cent per bushel. The demand was moderate.

A feature of the flour trade was the stronger feeling that developed for Spring wheat grades and prices were marked up 20 cents per barrel. The advance was attributed to the pronounced strength that prevailed in the Winnipeg cash wheat market. The market was moderately active.

There was no change in prices announced for winter wheat flour, but the undertone was stronger and the prospects were that they would be re-adjusted in the near future. The demand continued steady.

Owing to the continued active demand for all lines of millfeed for both domestic account and for shipment to the United States a stronger feeling prevailed here yesterday and prices scored an advance of $1 per ton. The volume of business transacted was large. The undertone to the market for standard grades of rolled oats was firm with a fair passing.

There was an increased demand from English importers for Canadian baled hay yesterday, and sales of fair sized lots were made to Glasgow for December-January shipment at 110s per ton, and to London for November shipment from Montreal at 100s per ton. The local trade was quiet and prices were unchanged.

The egg market continued active and firm. The receipts were 1,110 cases.

Prices for all grades of potatoes were well maintained under a limited demand. Sales of odd cars of Prince Edward Island Whites were made at $1.25 to $1.30 per bag of 90 pounds; Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at $1.30 to $1.35 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.25 to $1.30 per bag in bulk; Cobblers at $1.05 to $1.10 per bag in bulk, and Quebec varieties at $1.00 to $1.05 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

The trade in imported beans continued fair and prices were unchanged. Sales of car lots on spot were made at $2.50 per bushel, and to arrive at $2.60 per bushel, with smaller quantities selling at $2.75 per bushel, ex-store.

Extreme dullness again marked the trade in butter, but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 693 packages.

The tone of the cheese market was firm with a steady business passing with English and United States buyers. The receipts were 5,037 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Big export business from Canada, together with European buying in the United States at the highest premius yet gave a sudden hoist to wheat values yesterday. Anxiety over asserted unfavorable crop conditions in Argentina contributed to the advance.

Wheat closed strong, 2 to 2 5-8 net higher; corn 5-8 to 1 1-8 up; oats showing ¼ to ⅜ advance, and provisions unchanged to 20c down.

With late cables telling of general rains falling in Argentina, whereas fine dry weather is required, indications that the Canadian growers pool had brought about expert sales of large quantities of wheat, were quickly reflected in brisk upturns of the market here, as the day drew to an end. The advance was in line with sharp rise in values at Winnipeg and with Washington advices that European imports this season were likely to approach last year's record figures, if wheat continued available at no great increase of present prices.

Lively speculative buying of future deliveries here accompanied the late upturn in the wheat market. The finish was at the day's top quotations, the highest level reached in several weeks. Rye as well as wheat scored a substantial advance, with seaboard buying here evident. The gains in prices were in the face of announcement that the world's available stock of wheat showed an increase of 9,130,000 bushels for the week.

Corn and oats moved up with wheat. Eastern cash demand for corn was fairly good and the outlook was for rain or snow over a wide area of the corn belt, conditions adverse to husking. There was talk of export business in Canadian oats.

Provisions, although tending upward early, eased later, responsive to lower quotations on hogs.

Eggs, fresh firsts, 60c.
Potatoes, per bag, car lots, $1.00 to $1.05.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Nov. 23 (Canadian Press).—Cattle, receipts 15,000; vealers closed at 25 to 50c higher; stockers and feeders firm, mostly $8.75 to $10.00; yearlings fed for show purposes at $18.50; next highest prices $17.75; best heavies $16.50; bulk fed Steers $15 downward mostly; weighty sausage bulls $7.25 to $7.50 late; vealers $12.50 to $13.50; mostly $13.00 to packers.

Hogs, receipts 50,000; general market 15 to 25c lower than Monday's average; packing sows 10 to 15c lower; top $9.00; numerous 250 to 300 pound offerings at that price; bulk desirable 210 to 300 pounds $8.60 to $9.00; 170 to 200 pounds $8.10 to $8.70; 140 to 160 pounds $7.25 to $8.00; most pigs $.50 to $7.00; bulk packing sows $7.50 to $7.90; big weights downward to $7.25 and below; best lightweights $8.25.

TRENT RIVER NEWS.

TRENT RIVER, Nov. 23.—The Rev. F. H. Howard of Millbrook delivered a fine address on Sunday afternoon at the United church. Rev. Mr. Archer exchanged pulpits with Mr Howard.

The Efficiency League will meet on Thursday night at the church.

Mr. and Mrs. John Boyd of Arvida, Quebec, arrive this week to spend ten days as guests of the former's uncle, Mr. John Boyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Graenly have taken up residence in Havelock for the winter.

The Misses Eva and Marion Inkster were home for the week end.

Mr. W. C. Inkster has his chopping mill going strong now and business is brisk.

Mr. John Garneau has had wonderful success with fishing during the past week, having caught a number of good sized lunge, one of which tipped the scales at 23 pounds.

OWLS BOTHER FARMERS' HENS

Horned Owl Seen Recently Near Flock of Chickens in Tree.

FOWL FRIGHTENED

North Monaghan appears to be a favorable hunting ground for various species of owls.

Last fall several snowy Arctic owls were seen in the vicinity of the T. A. S. park. One large specimen was shot by George Whitfield while in the act of carrying away a four-pound chicken. Remains of other similar feasts were found in a field near the hen-house.

For several nights recently there has again been a great disturbance among a small flock of chickens, that as yet cannot be persuaded that a hen-house is a safer sleeping place than an apple-tree nearby. After hours of night-watching, the cause of the disturbance was discovered one morning just before daybreak. A large dark bird, which appeared to be a horned owl, could be discerned in the top of the apple-tree in which the chickens were roosting. The dog apparently sensed its presence and its furious barking frightened the bird. It has since then returned several times but has refused to be shot or trapped.

The chickens, however, have been so severely frightened that the majority of them have sought cover with their brothers and sisters in the hen-house.

BOUNDARY ROAD HAS BEEN FIXED

Grader Used on Crushed Stone —Plowing Nearly Done.

WARSAW NEWS

WARSAW, Nov. 22.—John Kidd graded the boundary on Tuesday. The crushed stone road now is likely to be good.

Plowing is pretty well done. It was a splendid fall for this work. The majority of farmers are wholly done, and all had hoped to be by the end of this week, but there has been too much rain. Some stuck at it, even in a good deal of rain.

Thursday morning it was still raining, but by noon it had turned to ice, and by evening all the trees were sheathed in ice, as well as buildings and fences. Icicles hung from north windows and fence-rails. There was a fair wind, and the thermometer registered thirty degrees Fahrenheit.

Miss Mitchell, Dominion Field Secretary of the United Church Missionary Society, will speak in the Warsaw United Church on Sunday evening, December 18. This is also the day when the annual thankoffering will be taken.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, a number of the men and women, interested in having the Sunday school room clean and bright, gathered in the United Church basement, and thoroughly cleaned everything, windows, ceiling, walls, floors, chairs, and the stove in the beginners' room.

The Ladies' Aid had provided new shades and dainty curtains, so that now the place is pleasant to use.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid meeting is postponed until Thursday, on account of the bad storm.

On Tuesday a number of young people gathered in the town hall and organized as a society to meet in the different churches on Tuesday evenings. They will take up religious, social, educational and physical topics. The officers are: President, Alex B. Currie; Vice-President, Ivan Drain; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Young. There will be no meeting next Tuesday evening, as there is to be a play in the hall in aid of the Anglican Ladies' Guild.

Mrs. Frank Patterson, of Aranlea, with her three children, is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Tucker. Mrs. Patterson will spend the winter with friends and relatives in the district.

Mrs. George Weller went to Toronto as delegate from the Warsaw Woman's Institute to the convention. Mrs. Thomas Cooper went to the Women's Institute convention as district representative. She was accompanied by Miss Lulu Bell.

Rufus Payne and R. R. Hamblin, who were with a party from Lakefield who went to Pakesley to hunt, returned on Saturday and reported a good hunt.

Joseph Tedford came home on Saturday with a deer and a fox to his credit. The rest of the party are remaining this week.

She Was Unable to Sit Up For Very Long

Mrs. Bennett relieved with Dodd's Kidney Pills

"I could not sit up a half-day at a time," writes Mrs. E. M. Bennett, who lives at 2134 Gerrard St. East, Toronto. "I started taking Dodd's Kidney Pills and after I had used a few boxes I felt much better. I continued taking them for a year and my back has not bothered me since. That was in 1915."

Every woman should use Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are the finest tonic in the world because, acting directly on the kidneys, they tone up those organs to do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

AN EXPLANATION.

Mr. Editor:

Allow me to state for the information of the readers of The Examiner and any others, that the condensed writings having my signature that from time to time have appeared in the columns of your widely circulated paper, are of my own inditing.

I make this statement to correct false statements that are being circulated by some one or more persons, that I am merely repeating what I have read or heard from some person or persons affiliated with some particular religious organization. I am not connected with any religious organization and have not been for twenty-three years. About forty years ago I was an honest doubter. Under great handicap I fought my way out into light. I am not so lacking in common sense to believe any one individual, in himself alone, knows all truth, and has a monopoly of the same. I find profound truth in the various writings of prose and poetry. I have also received definite direct truth by coming in contact with my fellow-man, by conversation and etc. Only last Sunday, while reading a magazine 73 years old, I noted truth expressed by the writer concerning death and the resurrection.

Thanks Mr. Editor, for your business like courtesy and etc.

M. T. BUTCHER.

A Thought For To-day

JUST BUG BAIT.

A so-called "super psychology" editor says: "Every height attained by others is within the range of any own possibilities."

The definition of the prefix "super" is: "Over, above, beyond, in excess," and, in that statement by the "super psychology" man that he can attain to the same heights as other men, it would seem to me that such a teaching is "over, above, and beyond" the "possibilities" of most men.

Almost any man can accomplish more than he usually does, but what a mistake it is to try to make a man think he can go beyond his "range," for when he finds that he cannot, that man is disappointed and often gets discouraged.

There is no virtue in attempting to fool folks with high-sounding stuff—stuff not founded on the facts as we know them.

Any teaching that tries to get you to generate and then use the mighty power of your mind—that reveals the stored-up energy of the unconscious mind and helps you to direct this tremendous power toward health, wealth, and happiness, is sound sense but this "super" stuff is nothing but "bug" bait.

Only one in twenty of all the women graduated from Oxford University during the last seven years is married.

GUARD AT DAM MAY LOSE JOB

Second Colorful Character at Scudders Falls May Be Ousted.

WIZARD RECALLED.

TRENTON, N.J., November 23.—Five years ago the neighborhood of Scudder's Falls lost one of its chief characters when Jim Willis died.

A visitor in his two-room bungalow on an island in the Delaware River, could hardly pick up a match without an electric gong clanging. A visitor sitting down did not know whether his contact with the chair would give him a stiff electric shock or set a group of bells ringing.

Jim Willis' hermit island undoubtedly was the show place of the entire region of Scudders Falls, five miles up the Delaware from Trenton. They called him an electrical wizard. He had the house so electrified that when he went to bed he did not bother turning out the light for as soon as he got on the bed out went the lights and down came the window shades. When he got out of his bed in the morning on went the lights and up went the shades.

The folks around Scudders' Falls have had Jim Willis in their minds again lately because of a legal fight which may result in the ousting of another colorful character. Since 1888 William H. White has lived in a two-storey house on the New Jersey bank opposite the island where the electrical wizard was king.

Law May Remove Eccentric.

Death removed Mr. Willis and the law may remove Mr. White. Mr. White built a dam across the river at this point almost 40 years ago and he has devoted himself to watching it ever since as faithfully as if it were his child of the flesh instead of stone.

Mr. White is a mellow old man of 77 years, but there is no mellowness in his determination to stay with his dam. He has cherished it too long now to give it up.

The dam produces waterpower for the Trenton Water Power Company, which has been long in the hands of a receiver, but only a small portion of the power has been sold. As a result Mr. White has been watching the dam faithfully since 1912, without salary, according to his story.

Holders of mortgage bonds on the property now are suing for foreclosure. Mr. White claims $9000 as back salary. The property is bound to change hands soon and upon the new management depends Mr. White's chance to keep the house. The City of Trenton is negotiating to take over the property and if it takes charge Mr. White's chances of keeping his place as superintendent of the dam and waterpower system are good he thinks.

BOY CANDIDATES SPEAK AT WARSAW

Discuss Boys' Parliament Work With Boys of Village — Warsaw News.

WARSAW, Nov. 23.—On Sunday morning Mr Burrows, accompanied by Kenneth Kemp, Norman Lemay, and another young man from Lakefield, visited the United Church and Presbyterian Sunday schools. Their object was to speak to the boys about the boys' parliament work, and to introduce the two candidates for Peterborough County. This year the county is separate from the city. Norman Lemay was elected last year. This year his opponent is one from his own group, as it is the only place in Peterborough County where the work is really taken up. Each of the young candidates spoke nicely, outlining the work of the parliament, and showing that it is no idle amusement, but has its place in world affairs.

The inclement weather on Sunday evening, and the fact that many had been out in the afternoon, and could not get back to evening service, made the attendance at the Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening less than it might have been.

Mrs. O'Hara, M.D., graduate of Queen's, for thirty-six years a missionary of the Presbyterian Church in Central India, gave an intensely interesting talk on her work. She knew of Miss Alexander's work, and also of the work of Dr. George Menzie, brought up at Nairn, and well known by Dr. Munro.

Mrs. O'Hara was among the first medical missionaries. There were but few nurses there when she began her work. She went in the time of one of their great famines. Part of the work was to gather in the little children, which they did practically by the thousands. The Indian government keeps a fund in reserve to help with famine work, as famines are common.

She told of several incidents in connection with her work. At one time there was an epidemic, and she was the only one in the school who was well enough to help care for others. She had always had fairly good health.

She urged the necessity for more missionaries—wondered if there were none in this village, or surrounding country who could devote their lives to the work. If they could not go themselves, they could help by giving money to aid in carrying on the work, and if they could not give money there is no one who could not give prayers. She cited several instances of help directly from prayer.

The storms on Friday, with the heavy frost, sent the men to their cattle ranches to bring the stock to winter quarters. On the whole, the cattle are in good condition. The pasture was good all summer, and the cattle have remained out much later than usual. Often they are brought home by November first.

Gravelled roads are hard and smooth, and are frozen, so that if the coming snow is at all deep there will be good sleighing.

The Warsaw mail couriers are now delivering mail on the forenoon after mail arrives.

If the water is not cold, an oyster drinks about 80 quarts a day, but if the water is below 45 degrees it is believed to go without drinking.

MISSION BAND HOLDS SALE OF COOKING

Boys and Girls of Madoc United Church Earn Good Sum.

MADOC, Nov. 23.—On Saturday afternoon the Mission Band of Trinity church held a sale of home cooking in aid of their funds, in the office of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, by the kindness of Mr. R. Wellman and Mr. D. Moorcroft.

The canvassing was done entirely by the girls and boys, members of the Mission Band, none of whom are over fourteen. They also covered their ground again on Saturday, gathering the cooking promised, and then selling it under the able supervision of Mrs. H. Bailey and their president, Miss Thornton Love.

They were willingly aided by most of those called on, and cake, pies, tarts, nut bread, date bread, candy and fancy articles were temptingly displayed for sale. The afternoon's proceeds were about $25.

Owing to the cold and rainy weather the Sunday services in all the churches were rather poorly attended.

Mine Trade Slumps; Declines General

TORONTO, Ont., November 23 (Canadian Press). — Declines were spread throughout the whole list on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning when the volume of trading slumped to just above the two million share mark. The higher priced issues generally held steady, however. Dome Mines provided the sensation of the whole market, with a gain of a solid dollar at 13.50. Tough Oakes, in which dealings were again heaviest, lost four at 70, and moderately large losses were recorded in Amulet, Aconda, Area, Argonaut, Reserve, Howey Gold, Kirkland Hunt, Laval Quebec, Vipond, Potter Doal, and Amity Copper among others. Bidgood climbed four at 165 and Pioneer strengthened four at 70.

Specialty Shares Centre Of Interest

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (Canadian Press).—Speculative interest in today's stock market centred in about a score of specialties which soared four to twelve points. Standard Industrials and rails held fairly steady, meeting good support on reactions but also encountered large offerings on rallies. Pool operations continued to provide a large part of the buying power. Although increased public participation was reported by commission houses in many of the speculative favorites. The calling of about $10,000,000 in bank loans, presumably to meet holiday currency demands, had no effect of the money market. Call money renewed at 3½ per cent for the fifteenth consecutive session.

Wheat Prices Sag Following Liverpool

CHICAGO, November 23 (Canadian Press). — Wheat prices underwent a decided setback early to-day. Influenced by lower Liverpool quotations than had been looked for. Besides, the final official report estimated that Argentina has 19,700,000 acres ofwheat this year, against 19,500,200 a year ago. Starting at ⅛c to ¼c off, wheat soon showed material further drop. Corn, oats, and provisions were also weak, corn opening unchanged to ⅝c lower, and subsequently sagging all around.

CIRCLE MAKES THANKOFFERING

Mrs. C. H. Edwards Is Speaker at St. James' Girls' Meeting.

MUSICAL PROGRAM.

The X. L. Mission Circle of St. James' United Church held its annual Thanksgiving service on Monday evening in Wesley Hall, with representatives from the various Circles of the city present.

Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, pastor of St. James' welcomed the visiting Circles and presided throughout.

The routine opening service was led by Mrs. Woodley, President of the local Auxiliary, in prayer and the Scripture lesson taken by Constance Wagar.

The meeting was featured by a fine address delivered by Mrs. C. H. Edwards, president of the Local Council of Women, whose pleasing delivery made it doubly interesting. Her theme was Thanksgiving, and her message was truly an inspiration to every girl engaged in Mission Circle work.

A fine musical program was given. Mrs. Ernest Kitney sang in her usual excellent voice, and a duet, contributed by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Rowe, was very much enjoyed.

"The Lighthouse and its Keeper" was the title of the splendid reading given by Mrs. George Rowe.

Miss Aileen Rose accompanied all the musical numbers and also gave a very pleasing piano solo.

The hostesses of the evening served refreshments at the conclusion of the service and the thankoffering returns were very gratifying.

INVITATION TO SEE DE LAVAL PLANT

Company To Open Its Doors To Citizens To-morrow Afternoon—Two to Four O'clock.

The De Laval Company Limited has issued an invitation through the press for citizens of the city to inspect their plant in operation tomorrow afternoon between the hours of two and four o'clock, to which there no doubt will be a ready response.

It is all too true that we as citizens do not know as much as we should about our local industries which are amongst the most diversified and important in the Dominion and if we did know as much as we should we probably will realize the fine backbone of industry we have and show more enthusiasm and vision of our own city than we sometimes do.

The De Laval plant is among the best of its kind on the Continent and anyone accepting that company's invitation through its manager, Mr. Breyfogle, will be amply repaid.

CAR IS DITCHED.

Giving Lift To Little Girl Results in Slight Accident.

When Mr. Jopling of Chemong was driving in to the city this morning, he stopped to give a lift to a little girl who was going his way. The child failed to shut the car door securely and when Mr. Jopling leaned over to fasten it his car swerved and went into the ditch. Fortunately, no one was injured, but the car had to be towed into the city by Messrs. Cooney and Jopling.

ST. PAUL'S LADIES SERVE FINE SUPPER

More Than 700 People Partake of Fowl — Good Concert After.

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Ladies' Aid served an abundant and splendid fowl supper last night. More than 700 people, old and young, partook of the bounty, fit for a king; and a more enjoyable supper it would be hard to imagine.

Everyone familiar with the work and proclivities of the ladies need not be reminded again of their worthiness and business ability.

As the hour of eight o'clock drew near—the supper having commenced at 5.30 — practically all had been waited upon, and the diners repaired to the church auditorium. Here Martin B. Chenhall submitted a program of fine merit. His orchestra of twevle lads, accompanied by Mr. Chenhall on the pipe organ, gave several numbers, which were received with deep approval. Mr. Chenhall delivered three organ solos, including "The Storm," in realistic fashion.

James Dutton handled the chairman's duties and kept the artistes on the move.

The Programme.

Song—Miss Jessie Pattison.
Song—John Anderson.
Reading—Mrs. G. McClelland.
Song—Mrs. Willis Hohner.
Duet—Miss Pattison and J. Anderson.
Song—Miss Cullen.
Organ—Martin B. Chenhall.
Song—Miss Bertha Hill.
Song—Charles Clark.
Reading—Mrs. McClelland
Song—William Greaves.
Duet—Miss Greta LeBarr and Harold Snelgrove.
Audience—National Anthem.
Accompanist—Martin B. Chenhall.

During the supper period, the orchestra rendered several acceptable numbers, with Martin Chenhall at the piano.

The table decorations were also pretty, candles and flowers and plants lending a bright touch.

Old Broom Trick Costs Man's Life

COBALT, Ont., Nov. 23.—Demonstrating his ability to step over a broom handle he had grasped in both hands and brought up behind his back, cost a northern man his life on Monday, according to a report reaching provincial headquarters here to-day. The victim's name was not given in the message, but he is believed to have been a Finnish woodcutter employed about seven miles from Nahma, near Cochrane.

FILTHY HAZING PERPETUATED

O. A. C. Student Punished By Companions For "Squealing" To Authorities.

EXPULSIONS LIKELY.

GUELPH, Ont., November 23.—Penned in a crate like an animal, smeared with filth, and exposed to the sympathetic gaze of a pitying public, a first year student of the O.A.C., was subjected to a hazing in front of a down town theatre Monday night such as has not been perpetrated by the O.A.C. students in many years. It was an attempt on the part of his fellow classmates of the freshmen year to inflict student justice on the young fellow for "squealing" to the authorities over some minor matter.

Just out from England, unaware of some of the unwritten laws of college student bodies, the boy was first roped at the college and dragged through the pig wallow. Then he was forced into a filthy pig crate and dragged up the main street in a light wagon to the accompanying yells of scores of students. There for five minutes he underwent untold agonies as the students hurled anathema and indignities upon him and offered him at auction. Finally the crate was opened and the young fellow dragged out into the crowd.

Over-ripe tomatoes and refuse were rubbed on his face and clothinb before he was allowed to go, and it was not until he had braved the eyes of hundreds of citizens, that he finally dodged into a hotel and partly removed the outward signs of the shameful indignities to which he had been subjected. The faculty and students' council are considering the question of punishing the ring leaders in the disgraceful incident and it is expected that some expulsions will follow.

The faculty met in the afternoon but it did not issue any report and adjourned until this morning when they will confer with the student body.

CHURCH CONCERT MOST INTERESTING

Musical Numbers Interspersed With Comic Dialogues and Plays.

The entertainment presented last evening by the young people of the Senior Club of George Street United Church, in the auditorium of the Sunday School, was of an exceptionally high character and was well received by an appreciative audience.

The opening chorus by members of the club and assisting artistes consisted of a medley of old songs, including "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," "Jingle Bells," "Love's Old, Sweet Song,"and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." A clever sketch in negro dialect, 'Love and Nervousness," was put on by Homer Borland and Albert Hutchison. Homer as a little coon in love was very amusing and Albert as his adviser gave him all the assistance that could be desired.

One of the outstanding numbers on the programme was the duet and chorus, "Tea for Two," from the musical comedy, "No, No, Nannette," by Miss Greta LeBarr and Harold Snelgrove. Miss LeBarr's acting was superb and her beautiful, sweet voice and perfect enunciation blended perfectly with Mr. Snelgrove's full, rich tenor. They were ably assisted in the chorus by Miriam Rutherford, Trevor Miller, Mildred Treiheway, Russell Lewis, Elma Coon, Harold Baker, Jennie Borland, and Cecil Wasson seated at tea tables. This number, with its beautiful setting of lattice work and vines entwined with roses, was very effective, and merited the prolonged applause of the audience. Miss Eva Outram and brother Ted gave a very humorous dialogue, "A Slight Misunderstanding." Miss Outram was as usual in good form, and responded to an encore.

The next item on the programme was a playette, "Elizabeth's Young Man." Elizabeth Orr (Guelda Roseborough), a nurse, comes to call on her aunt, Mrs. Orr (Mary Thornton), accompanied by her young husband, John Martin (Allen Stevens). The The village gossip, Mrs. Lanning (Eva Outram is at Mrs. Orr's when they arrive, and both these ladies mistake Elizabeth's husband for a slightly insane patient whom she had been nursing. The situation proves very amusing, and Miss Outram brought down the house with her clever acting. A splendid number was a solo, in costume, by Russel Lewis, "I'm Not All There." "The Indian Love Call" from "Rose Marie," by Miss Daisy Murray and Mr. Arnold Lillow was another beautiful number on the programme, with its effective setting of primitive scenery. Miss Murray's rich, resonant voice was heard to splendid advantage in the Love Call, and her picturesque appearance as an Indian maiden added greatly to the effect. Mr. Lillow was in his usual excellent voice ,and his part as lover was well depicted.

A play, "The Whole Truth," was well presented ,and very humorous. Christine Ashley (Bertha Pickering), the heroine, has high ambitions for a stage career and is unmercifully mimicked by her younger sister Amy (Elma Coon). When Christine's young man, Roger Ford (Jack Thornton) calls later, she insists that he tell her "The Whole Truth" in regard to his opinion of her interpretation of Juliet at a recital the previous evening. His candid opinion is not favorably received, and Christine breaks their engagement. Roger refuses to take back the ring, and insists that Christine pledge herself to tell "The Whole Truth" for twenty-four hours. If she repents of her promise she is to telephone him. That afternoon Christine is besieged by callers. Mrs. Ownes (Mary Squire), Mrs. Curtis (Helen Burns), Julia Thurston (Verna Strong), Cecily Sayre (Jennie Borland), Laura Townley (Aileen Clark), Mrs. Coulter (Bessie Chambers). The difficulty of entertaining them and telling "The Whole Truth" causes no end of amusement ,and Christine soon changes her ideas and telephones for her sweetheart. Miss Pickering's acting was especially good, and she was well supported by the other members of the cast, not forgetting Joshua, the butler (Archie McFarlane) and Christine's frivolous mother, Greta Stinson.

The final number was a chorus by the young people. Bouquets were presented to Miss LeBarr and Miss Daisy Murray at the conclusion of their numbers by little Gwendolyne Parnell. The club feels much indebted to McBride & Franks for the loan of furniture and to Mr. Saunders ,of the Hall Store, for decorations. The pianist, Miss Addie Batten, deserves a great deal of praise, and the members of the committee, Esther Thornton, Eva Outram, Mary Squires, Jennie Borland, Cecil Wasson, and Homer Borland are to be congratulated on the success of the evening's entertainment.

THREE WOMEN HURT IN CRASH

Big Car Runs Into Ditch Beside Highway South of Barrie.

THREE PERSONS UNHURT.

BARRIE, Ont., Nov. 23. — When a big sedan took to the ditch at Mainswick three miles south of Barrie, on the Toronto highway, at 5.30 yesterday evening, three Orillia women were injured and two others shaken up. The car was driven by H. R. J. Holmes, auto dealer of Orillia, and the injured include his wife and daughter in law, Mrs. H J. Holmes, also Mrs. Burgess. They sustained injuries to their hips and cuts about the hands and face. There are no bones broken, doctors at the Royal Victoria Hospital reported last night. Mrs. Long and Mrs. Carter escaped injuries as did the driver. The party was on its way home from Toronto when the accident happened. The Holmes car met another with strong headlights, near Mainswick, and in turning out went too far to the right, the car turning over into a seven foot ditch. The driver said that he was blinded by the headlights of the car driving south. The injured will recover.

OBITUARY

HENRY STEWART

The funeral of the late Henry Stewart will be held at 1.15 Thursday at his residence, 406 Sheridan Street, proceeding by motor to Trent Valley Cemetery, Hastings, for interment. The Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings will conduct the service, assisted by the Rev. William Allan of St. Paul's.

BABY HEFFERNAN.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. William Heffernan, Lot 1, Concession 6, Douro Township, died this morning. Interment will take place tomorrow morning in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Douro.

CARMEL LEGENDRE.

Friends of Carmel Legendre of Detroit, formerly or Peterborough, where he was born and passed most of his early life, will be shocked to hear of his sudden death in Detroit yesterday afternoon. The young man, who was in his thirty-third year, was the son of Mrs. Lengendre of Detroit, and the late Desire O. Lengendre, whose death occurred suddenly nine years ago. A brother of the deceased, Palma Lengendre, died under the same circumstances, with heart trouble, six months ago yesterday, the day on which Carmel passed away.

Survivors are his sorrowing mother and two sisters, Mrs. Robert Tew, of Battle Creek, Michigan, and Miss Corinne Legendre, of Detroit.

The funeral will be held from the residence of his grantfather, Mr. N. T. LaPlante, 87 Lock street, on Friday, with Funeral Mass at nine o'clock at the Church of the Sacred Heart ,and interment in St. Peter's Cemetery.

JOHN CAREY.

A kindly, unassuming soul passed away yesterday in the person of John Carey, octogenarian, at the residence of Dr ,O'Brien, 409 Aylmer Street. Born in Ireland, an immigrant to Canada, he was a resident of Kingston until the death of his brother, Rev. Thomas Carey, six years ago. Since that time Mr. Carey has made his home with Dr. J. M. O'Brien.

Funeral services will be held in St. Peter's Cathedral at 9 o'clock on Thursday morning. The remains will be sent to Kingston, where they will be interred.

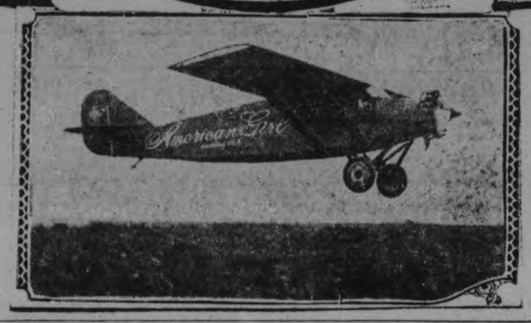
PRETTY AVIATRIX SAFE ON TANKER



After hours of deep anxiety the fate of Ruth Elder, third woman to attempt a trans-oceanic crossing, the daring young aviatrix herself announced by radio from a vessel in mid-ocean that she and her pilot, George Haldeman, were safe. Her brief message stated that mechanical trouble forced the descent of the "American Girl" in the ocean. Fortunately the Dutch tanker Barendrecht was in the vicinity and the plane landed alongside. The woman flier and her companion were immediately snatched from the sea. ABOVE, the Florida beauty, who chanced death in her daring endeavor to be the first woman to fly the Atlantic, is seen at the LEFT in a smiling pose. She is seen in flying togs in the CENTRE and at the RIGHT in evening dress. The "American Girl" is depicted BELOW.

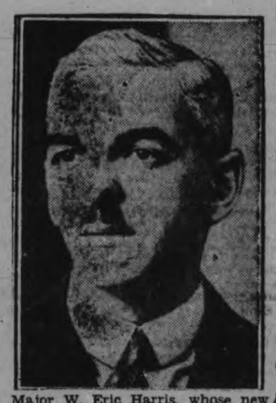
MARRIED AT BROCKVILLE

An event of wide interest took place at Brockville, Ont., when Miss Betty Fulford became the bride of Lieutenant George William Hyslop, of Toronto. Lieut. Hyslop is well-known in football circles. It was on the Fulford yacht that H. R. H. the Prince of Wales sailed through the Thousand Islands on his recent visit to Canada.



Major W. Eric Harris, whose new book makes a scathing attack on Ontario "provincialism" and on the Orange Order. He calls Ontario the narrowest of provinces. He is a native of Kincardine, a former science master at Ridley, and in the great war served with the Canadian Field Artillery and with Gen. Currie's staff in charge of gas warfare.

Bishop E. W. Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, whose sermon from Dean Inge's pulpit caused his denunciation as a heretic by Canon Bullock-Webster and the retirement from the congregation by the latter with a number of followers.

GENERAL DIES BRAVELY.

The above photograph of General Alfredo Quizano, one of the leaders of the abortive Mexican revolt, was taken just a few seconds before he fell, his body riddled by the bullets of a firing squad. He is seen waving good-by to a group of newspaper correspondents, after asking his executioners to come nearer so they would not miss. The wall behind him bears grim evidence of previous death dramas. General Quizano refused to be blindfolded and met death erect and unflinching.

ATECOST

By Harry M. Scott, Architect

Here is a home which almost anyone would be proud to call their own. Its simple dignified modern style of design, and freedom from affectation, make it a pleasing sight even to those least versed in architectural lore.

Passing through the hall into the living room, a beautiful impression is at once received. One end wall has a centre fireplace with a window on each side, while opposite the entrance are the main stairs, and the double doors to the dining room. These doors are balanced on the opposite wall by those to the sunroom.

A large china closet opens into the dining room, but it is necessary to raise its floor somewhat, in order to obtain head-room over the outside basement entrance stairs.

Culinary labors are reduced to their minimum by a kitchen arrangement of great efficiency. In the kitchen itself are an ironing board, stove, table, sink, and range; while the rear entry porch accommodates the refrigerator. A debatable point, where only one kitchen window is available, is whether the table, or sink, should be given the favored position below it. In this case the architect has chosen the table, thus avoiding the danger of having the sink back come above the window bottom in order to have the sink at a convenient height, while keeping the window low enough for the upper sash to be easily opened.

The stair arrangement, too, is worthy of mention. The longest flight of stairs is ascended from a landing which may be reached up four stairs, from the living room, or from the kitchen. Much of the advantage of a separate rear stairway is thus acquired, and convenient communication is also secured between the front entrance and the kitchen.

Four bedrooms with large clothes closets, a hall linen closet, and a bathroom, are conveniently arranged to form the second floor accommodation.

With frame walls, asphalt shingle roof, hot air heating, and hardwood floors throughout, this home cost approximately $6,000. The cost of the lot would add but slightly to this sum, for one of 33 feet or up would provide ample width.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architect direct. Address Mr. Harry M. Scott, Fort William, Ontario.

BONARLAW COUPLE CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mathews Hold Happy Gathering at Their Home.

RECEIVE GIFTS.

BONARLAW, Nov. 23.—A very pleasant event took place at the home of Mr. Henry Mathews of the 12th concession of Rawdon township on Monday evening, Nov. 14th, when Mr. and Mrs. Mathews celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.

Mr. Mathews is hale and hearty while he is seventy years old. He is enjoying the best of health. He was born on the 7th concession of Rawdon and has spent all his days in the township. His motto is never worry, which he believes is the result of his health.

Mrs. Mathews was born in the Province of Quebec seventy-twto years ago, and is as smart as many women only half her age. She performs all the household duties of a farm home and enjoys the best of health, for which she is very thankful.

This happy couple have a family of five children, Arthur and Walter of Hamilton, Simon on the old homestead, Mrs. Donald Taylor and Mrs. Harry Blanch of Hamilton, also five grandchildren.

On Sunday, Nov. 13th the children arrived by motor from Hamilton, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mathews of Toronto, and on Monday a sumptuous dinner was served. Mrs. Katherine McKeown, who has passed her 80th year, was a guest and presented Mrs. Mathews with a beautiful china plate.

In the evening about two hundred friends and neighbors gathered to help celebrate the golden wedding, of which few have such an honoured privilege. About 10 o'clock order was called and Mr. and Mrs. Mathews was presented with a purse of gold from the family and two beautiful wicker chairs from their neighbors. They also received cards of congratulations from friends at Sault Ste. Marie, Buffalo and Toronto. The following address was read by Miss Grace Stiles:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Mathews—We, your friends and neighbors have gathered here to spend the evening with you on this your golden wedding anniversary. We are indeed glad to be with you on this great event and feel honoured to have been asked to help you celebrate. We ask you to accept these chairs and purse not for their intricate value but as a mark of our esteem. It is not every one that has the privilege as you have of celebrating the golden wedding. We extend to you our heartiest congratulations and hope that you may enjoy many more years of health and happiness in our midst. Signed on behalf—

Fred McKeown.
Dave Wellman.
N. S. Stiles.
Thomas McKeown.

Mr. Mathews then thanked all present and bade them enjoy themselves in any way they seen fit. Mr. Thomas Caldwell and Wallace McInroy tuned up their fiddles and the happy couple took their places and danced the first change, which was very interesting for those present. Later in the evening a very dainty lunch was served and then all joined in singing Auld Lang Syne, and all departed for their respective homes, having enjoyed a real re-union, as the Mathews children have been away for a number of years. It was a real time of fellowship with their friends of bygone days. It was an evening which will long be remembered here.

MADOC NEWS

MADOC, Nov. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Allan, of Hillside Farm, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day on Monday. Supper was served to about fifty guests, some having come from distant points to be present at the gathering. Friends were present from Buffalo, N.Y., Toronto, and Campbellford, as well as the surrounding country. The Rev. T. G. Marshall proposed the health of the bride and groom and Mr. Allan, in replying, after welcoming all his guests, gave a very humorous description of the advice given to them by their pastor at the time of their marriage. A beautiful silver tea service was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Allan from the friends and neighbors. The Rev. W. T. Brown, a son-in-law, acted as chairman, and the Rev. Mr. Marshall, Mr. George West, and Mr. W. J. Hill spoke on behalf of St. Peter's congregation; then Mr. R. J. Allan, the eldest son present, presented a purse of gold from children and grandchildren. Congratulations from old friends and neighbors were tendered by Mr. George Wright and Mr. R. McGhee. Several letters and telegrams were also read from absent friends.

Colonel O'Dell, of Cobourg, shot a large wolf near Maynooth, North Hastings, while out deer hunting. It measured eight feet from nose to tail.

Miss Eva Murray has returned to Peterborough after spending several weeks with her parents.

Mrs. (Dr.) Tremner and children, of Arthur, Ont., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Connor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Sills and children, of Campbellford, and Mr. and Mrs. N. Hector, of Picton, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kelly.

The first attempt to reach the North Pole by air was made by Salomon August Andree, a Swedish scientist, on July 11, 1897. With two companions, he left Spitzbergen in a balloon and was never heard from again.

CAVAN PERSONALS

CAVAN, Nov. 3 —There was no ploughingdone on Monday and Tuesday and Wednesday of last week owing to the severe frost. On Thursday the ground thawed out sufficiently to allow the ploughing to be again attempted. There is a great deal of ploughing to be done yet and mild weather is hoped for.

Mr. William Coulter, Port Perry, is visiting his sister, Mrs. E. Syer, and other friends.

Miss Olive Perrin and Mr. R. Browne, Toronto, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Perrin over the holiday week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Perrin and Mr. Meredith Perrin, Bailieboro, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hunter on Sunday and attended Cavan anniversary services.

Mr. Kellough, the District Representative, has been getting his judging teams chosen for the winter fairs at Guelph and Toronto.

The Durham judging team for Guelph will be Messrs. Carmen Seymour, Norman Earl and Will Hamilton; at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, Messrs. Carmen Seymour, Ray Staples and Harry McLaughlin will judge for Durham County.

The grain threshing will be almost finished in Cavan Centre this week.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 23.—The Rev. Ernest Hartson left yesterday for a business trip to Eastern Ontario and Quebec. He will be absent from town for several days.

Charles Duncalfe has returned from his hunting trip and is again on duty. He reports a very interesting time in the woods.

Recent high winds are causing the Campbellford Cloth Company to give some serious thought to the condition of its brick smoke stack. Several bricks were noticed to be loose among the upper layers and a scaffold has been erected in order that a close inspection may be made. The condition of the stack is not considered as at all dangerous, but it is understood that repairs are to be made at once where necessary.

Steps are being taken by the maintenance department of the Trent Canal to bring the trouble with ice this winter to a minimum. In past winters, some difficulty has been experienced in controlling the flow of water on account of ice blockades at certain points. This condition has been considerably improved upon by blasting out some of the jagged rock which might offer obstruction, and little or no trouble from ice jams is expected this year.

MILLBROOK NEWS.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 23.—Miss Verna Thomas of Port Hope, was the guest of Miss Elsie Spence over the week-end.

Rev. Mr. Boomhour, of Pontypool United Church, preached very acceptably here on Sunday evening, exchanging pulpits with Rev. F. H. Howard, who took anniversary services at Pontypool.

Among those from Millbrook who motored to Pontypool on Monday evening and assisted with the programme at the annual fowl supper were: Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Misses Jean Burnham, Dorothy Crossley, May Byam, Ella Elson, Messrs. M. McDowell, W. H. Coombs, and H. J. Anderson. Others who went were Mr. G. W. Sayles, Mrs. McDowell, Miss May Duncan, and Mrs. W. West.

Mrs. I. E. Needham, Miss Needham, and Mrs. (Dr.) Rae were visitors to Peterborough on Monday.

Mr. Dolph Henry, secretary of the Orono Agricultural Society, was in town on Saturday evening looking after the business interests in connection with the play given by that organization.

LEAGUE SERVICE

Inclement Weather Holds Up Attendance at Petherick's Corners Service.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Nov. 22.—The League service last Thursday evening did not draw as large a crowd as usual owing to bad roads and stormy weather, twenty-four being present with the Red group leading. The programme was in charge of the citizenship committee. The devotional period was conducted by Earl Fairman with interesting discussion on a few points of the lesson. Other numbers were a talk on Armistice Day and a review of the Great War days by Nellie Bennett, a solo by Albert Giffard and a short summary of the final addresses of the Smith Falls conference by Lindsay Anderson.

The next meeting is on Wednesday evening to permit any who wish to attend the Young People's Institute at Warkworth, to do so on Thursday.

Anniversary Services.

This community was well represented at both morning and evening session of the Stanwood United Church anniversary services. Rev. Mr. Hie of Hastings delivered two eloquent sermons to appreciative audiences. His theme at each service was along the same line, that of character-building for the glory of God, being sure that the foundations of one's life were laid upon the solid rock and then building thereon only the finest kind of structure that could possibly be.

Several local sportsmen, who find pleasure in visiting the haunts of the deer at this season of the year, have been making excursions northwards. So far only indifferent success has attended their efforts.

A light snowfall over the week end made motoring somewhat dangerous and more care than usual was exercised on curves.

Mr. W. T. Allan, local fox farmer, was in Toronto on Friday looking over the fox exhibits at the Royal Winter Fair.

present. A western meeting will be held at Vancouver in June.

The past year has been one of consolidation and stocktaking. The council has been engaged in considering ways and means of securing progress. With the institute members and branches so enthusiastic, nothing else can result, he declared.

L. W. Gill of the Hamilton Technical School, congratulated the Peterborough branch on the large number present and conveyed the greetings of the Hamilton branch.

He first touched on the matter of engineering education, which had been discussed at the council meeting. In fifteen years of teaching he had discovered that the engineer is a pretty hard case to educate, learning only what he thought good for him.

He had been asked to speak on technical education, and hoped he would clear up some of the misconceptions. He declined to be considered an expert, who is a man who knows more and more about less and less.

Many people think that the technical school is to teach the backward children. Others say it makes a boy a cog in industry, and oppose it on that ground. Still others think that it is not cultural, teaching only materialism. Another group thinks technical schools are intended to supplant high schools. All these are erroneous, he declared.

Technical education is intended to cover something included in no other scheme. Before the war 40 per cent. of the children never completed the public school. About 25 per cent. enter high school, 10 per cent. completed the high school course, and one per cent. entered university. The technical school in Ontario was conceived as an aid to industry. People concerned said that the state was providing training for 30 per cent. of the children free, while the others were allowed to go out into the world untrained. To provide free training for every person for four years after leaving public school is the aim of technical education. It gives every boy and girl some opportunity to develop latent talent.

The second question is, "What kind of training?" There is a great deal of different opinion on this point even in this province, where the schools at various points differ.

Some years ago the Carnegie Institute sent out questionnaires to employers all over Canada and the United States regarding education. The qualities required for success, the answers said, are character, judgment, efficiency, executive ability, general knowledge, and specialized knowledge or skill. Vocational training, he pointed out, is at the bottom of the list, and in the technical schools stress is laid on character, judgment and efficiency.

The question is, he stated, how any school is to develop character. It should be imparted at home, but the tendency is now to unload everything on to the school. It is therefore necessary to have teachers who are on the alert in school or out to teach such a lesson.

"How is the school to develop judgment" he asked. The greater the variety of experience given to a boy the greater his judgment, he stated. In this connection he found that farm boys have better developed judgment. In a technical course the boy gets a greater variety of experience than in a high school course.

Mr. Gill's concluding point was that the boy in technical school does not specialize in vocational work. His training in English is continued while civics is taught better than in high school, and economics, which is not taught in high school, is taught in technical school.

Tribute to R. B. Rogers

Tribute to the memory of the late R. B. Rogers, who passed away since the last annual banquet, was paid by Mr. Caddy. Forty years ago, said the chairman, Mr. Rogers became a charter member of the Institute and fifty years ago he graduated from McGill. Mr. Caddy announced that the branch had decided to place a memorial on or near the Lift Lock, which was designed by this faithful member of the local branch.

Recollections of the old engineering sextet were sung by a new edition containing only one member of the original six. They responded to an encore with "Engineering All The Time."

"Sister Associations."

The toast to "Sister Associations" was proposed by Mr. V. Sauer. He said that it had been stated that progress would be greater if all these should unite, but this he did not believe, as competition helps things along. He illustrated his point by a story of two clergymen, one a modernist and one a fundamentalist, who were friends until they got into an argument on their differences. The associations can go on and each attend to the activity of its own sphere. This toast was honored by the singing of "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

C. E. Sisson of the Toronto branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers said that he always felt that he was coming home when he was coming to the annual banquet of the Peterborough branch. He brought greetings from his branch and extended his best wishes for success of the branch. He had good support, he remarked, having with him D. A. McKenzie of the Hydro; J. Showalter of the Westinghouse, and J. A. Johnston of the English Electrical Company.

He recalled the formation of the Peterborough branch as an engineering club, which later joined up with the E.I.C. There are, he said, advantages in having one central body like the E.I.C. but, particularly in the larger cities, there is value in specializing.

Mr. McKenzie expressed thanks for the reception given him and his colleagues. He had had difficulties in keeping peace between his companions, who represented three rival companies. He invited the local members to a joint luncheon of three clubs in Toronto.

Mr. Showalter said that he had discovered that three-quarters of the 450 A.I.E.E. members in Toronto had come from Peterborough, one of them being himself

The A.I.E.E., he continued, is a very large institute, which has done a great deal towards standardizing the work to give greater satisfaction.

Mr. Johnston also brought greetings from the Niagara Peninsula branch of the E.I.C. He also is a former resident of Peterborough. He recalled to the beginnings of the Peterborough Club and spoke of the value of such meetings, especially in the working with younger associates, which keeps open the minds of the older men.

Professor H. E. T. Haultain was the fifth to respond to the toast. He was introduced as representing a factory which turns out engineers. He said he was at home and asserted that Peterborough boys ran the E.I.C. He brought greetings from the Association of Professional Engineers.

Professor Haultain spoke of the Technical Service Council, recently formed by a committee of three men from the Association of Professional Engineers and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. He gave a list of prominent men who form the advisory board. This council is primarily a selling organization to sell the engineer to the public. The council has raised $30,000 to do this work for three years.

W. E. Ross introduced the next item, a moving picture entitled "There's always room at the top," and explained it as a man's dream of success in the engineering profession. This was written by Mr. Ross, photographed by Ross L. Dobbin, and the actors were members of the Peterborough branch, with A. B. Gates as the hero and W. M. Cruthers as the villain.

"The Sister Professions"

E. R. Shirley proposed the toast to "The Sister Professions." He referred to the pride of the members in their profession, and said that this is an age of great engineering accomplishments. He asked his hearers to think how much the engineers owe to the sister professions and to consider the parts played by the teacher, the clergyman, the lawyer, the doctor, and the dentist.

G. S. Mattice responded for the teachers, speaking of the work of the teacher in giving the engineers the fundamentals of their education, and conveying the greetings of the Teachers' Association.

The Rev. W. S. Edgar, representative of the Ministerial Association, stated that ministers are also engineers, building up men in knowledge of God and in character and ethics. He charged the engineers with being responsible for the present speedy age.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., speaking for the legal profession, also claimed status as an engineer, saying that the lawyers are engineers of truth. The members of the association deal with the stress and strain placed on other matters; lawyers find a great deal of strain and stress placed on truth.

He referred to the great works of engineers in Peterborough and all over Canada. It appears, said Mr. Kerr, that engineering is unlimited in its possibilities and he expressed the belief that the engineers of Canada are the equals of any.

F. H. Dobbin was introduced as one who, though not an engineer, has been a good friend of the local branch and was greeted with the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

He expressed approval of the project to erect a memorial to R. B. Rogers, but suggested that the name of Walter J. Francis should also be included as a former Peterborough engineer who had a great deal to do with the building of the Lift Lock.

The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" brought the banquet to an end.

TRENT RIVER NEWS.

TRENT RIVER, Nov. 22.—Mr. Murrison Cawley, of Weyburn, Sask., is a visitor with his sister, Mrs. Tom Wight, Jr.

A number of the parishioners of Knox Presbyterian Church went to Havelock on Sunday to attend anniversary services there.

Rev. Mr. Howard, of Millbrook, will be the preacher on Sunday, November 20, in the afternoon, as Rev. Mr. Archer, pastor, takes the services at Millbrook the same date.

Mrs. E. Parsons left on Wednesday for Toronto after spending two weeks as the guest of Mr. Parsons at the Cook cottage.

A human projectile fired from a mortar flew 100 yards during a performance at Turin recently. Ugo Zaccini dressed in a leather suit and stood in a metal cylinder placed in the mortar. A powerful spring sent him through the air, to land safely in a net.

WARSAW NEWS

WARSAW, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Jordan Crowe left on Thursday to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Braye, in Toronto.

Mr. David Crowe, from Saskatoon, started for home on Thursday after spending a week with his mother, Mrs. Jordan Crowe. He was accompanied by his uncle, Mr. David Madill.

Mrs. Martin Thurston returned to her home on Saturday. She was to meet her husband, on his return from the hunt, at Lindsay.

Mrs. Laporte, Sr., is visiting Mrs. Henry Clements.

Mrs. Alfred Payne, Lakefield, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Payne.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller, Jr., motored from Toronto on Saturday afternoon to visit Mr. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller, Sr. They returned on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Doris Payne, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Payne, and pupil in S. S. No. 4, Dummer, of which Miss Sage is teacher, won the greatest number of points at the Warsaw School Fair in September, and as a result earned the T. Eaton silver cup for the township, which is now in her possession, and she is a very happy little girl. Also, she obtained the certificate for obtaining the highest number of points of any pupil in the school. These certificates come from the Department and are in duplicate, one for herself and one for the school.

Dorcas Lloyd, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lloyd, obtained the certificate as the pupil who won the highest number of marks at the Warsaw School.

Archie Crowe, from Douro No. 5 School, won the certificates; Ronald MacDonald was the successful pupil in Dummer S. S. No. 1 (Cottesloe). At the Fourth Line School the highest points were won by Clinton Payne. Alma Tedford was the happy winner of certificates for Union School No. 12 (Forsythe's); Union School No. 6, Douro (Garbutt's), certificates went to Irene Frankish.

The cup given by the Norwood bankers to the school which won the highest percentage of prizes at the School Fair for this district was won by School Section No. 5 of Douro. They received the prize on Friday last.

There was no service in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening. Mr. McCleary was at Westwood.

Next Sunday evening Rev. Mr. Wesley of Knox United Church, Lakefield, will preach in Warsaw United Church, and Rev. H. B. Herrington will preach in Lakefield.

CAVAN PERSONALS

Mrs. Richard Vance of Franklyn spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. Edgar Fallis, last week.

Mr. Earl Howson of Toronto spent the holiday with friends here.

According to a survey made over a long period of years by European experts, poplar trees are most frequently struck by lightning.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Not Like Medicine

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Buckwheat Time once more

Hot griddle cakes for chilly mornings

"I'se in Town, Honey."

Nothing like Aunt Jemima Buckwheats for breakfast to start the day in healthy good humor. Think of hot griddle cakes with butter, or syrup, or brown sugar. Perhaps with fresh sausage or bacon. Who could grouch after such a breakfast?

Griddle cakes of Aunt Jemima prepared Buckwheat Flour have unmatched lightness and tenderness and a wonderful flavour. The Aunt Jemima recipe is the most widely used in the world. It has been popular for three score years.

No pancakes are easier to make. Mix equal parts of Aunt Jemima prepared Buckwheat Flour and milk. Stir to a smooth batter. Water will do if milk isn't handy. Then pour on a moderately hot griddle.* Small pancakes are easiest to cook.

There is no other buckwheat flour like Aunt Jemima prepared Buckwheat Flour. Get the yellow package at your grocer's and treat the family at tomorrow's breakfast.

*Note: Use a thick, cast iron or aluminum griddle when making pancakes, as a thin frying pan of steel conducts the heat too rapidly for the best results. Cook with a moderate rather than a hot fire.

Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour

In the red package. Let the family have variety. Pancakes of light, delicate texture and delightful taste, made in a moment. Follow the simple recipes on the package.

wheat as was shown by the fact that first prize went to an exhibitor from that province. Second and third awards were captured by Ontario exhibitors.

Six of the twelve exhibitors in Winter wheat came from Western Canada, and out of thirty in Spring wheat, nineteen were from Manitoba or Saskatchewan.

Ontario Apples

Proof of the fact that Ontario growers have awakened to the importance of the apple crop of the province is seen in the victory of Ontario apples over the B.C. products, the banner province winning most of the awards.

The fruit was judged from the standard of taste, color, shape and size. Professor W. T. Macoun of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, was the judge.

It is believed that the results of this year's competition will react favorably on the development of the apple-growing industry in Ontario.

Poultry Exhibits

More than 8,000 exhibits are on view in the poultry and pet stock show. There are 4,000 exhibits of poultry, water fowl and turkeys; 2,500 pigeons, 700 rabbits and 250 guinea pigs. A section of this division that has proved a never failing attraction is that devoted to canaries. Practically all the prizes for canaries were won by Toronto competitors.

Sheep Exhibits

Sixty exhibitors own the 75,000 dollars' worth of sheep on view at the Royal Winter Fair. All the outstanding reeds are represented. The winner of the grand championship, C. J. Brodeur of Stouffville gained the award for having the best wether on show.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith had never met Gerson, manager of the opera house, although he was one of Bob's oldest friends. The tawdriness of the ancient theater, with its tarnished gilt boxes, faded plush seats and indecently bare stage, seen at ten o'clock in the morning without the magic of lights, rustling audience, music, actors and scenery, dismayed her, but she marched resolutely down the aisle.

A few members of the orchestra carried by the San Remo opera company were drifting into the pit, carrying or lugging their instruments, and looking sleepy and disgruntled. On the bare stage, completely shorn of scenery and furnishings except for two camp chairs, a short, fat, very dark man, in an atrocious suit of bright blue flannel, was waving his arms and snorting excitedly at the two dispirited figures slumped into the chairs. The woman, so plump that Faith wondered how the weak little chair held her up, was disappointingly dowdy in an ancient black sealskin coat and a crumpled, dusty velvet hat. The tenor whom Faith recognized from the Sunday paper pictures of him, and against whose charms Bob had jestingly warned her, looked old and worn and irritable, and his fascinations, if he possessed them, were hidden behind the need of a shave.

When she and Rhoda had reached the little flight of steps leading up to the stage and were hesitating there, flushed and embarrassed, uncertain what to do next, the little fat man on the stage whirled to give an order to the leader of the orchestra and saw the two women huddled together.

"Mon dieu!" he shrieked, waving his arms excitedly over his head. He added something else to the two singers on the stage, something in French which Faith could not understand, but which she instinctively felt to be insulting. Then whirling back toward the orchestra pit, the little Oriental-looking man beckoned them to come upon the stage, a prodigious frown creasing the baby-like fatness of his swarthy, oily face.

"All right, sing! Sing! For God's sake, sing and get it over with!" he commanded Faith and Rhoda impartially.

Rhoda shrank against Faith, with an expression of such acute agony in her turquoise-blue, childish eyes that Faith took courage to brave the irate impresario.

"Please, Mr. San Remo," she raised her rich, contralto voice almost imperiously, "Miss Jonson sings only with the phonograph. I thought Mr. Gerson had explained to you."

"Phonograph? Talking machine!" San Remo groaned, his swarthy face becoming suddenly so strutted with blood that Faith wondered unsympathetically if he might not die of apoplexy. "I should have a talking machine? Mon dieu! What foolishness is this? Gerson! Gerson!" His shout was a bellow of rage.

"Miss Jonson has a portable phonograph with her," Faith explained clearly and loudly, to make herself heard over his bellows. "She will sing along with a record of Miss Remington's that she has brought with her."

While San Remo was gaping at her and pawing the air helplessly, like a man stricken dumb with astonishment, Faith calmly knelt, raised the lid of the little portable machine which Rhoda had dropped as if it burnt her, adjusted the needle, and then rose, smiling and nodding reassuringly to the girl she had hired as a maid.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1927

Through this day benefic aspects are strongly dominant, according to astrology, which reads in the stars many pleasant auguries.

Although there may be a tendency toward irritability and nervousness in the morning, the hours later tend to bring pleasant memories and interesting associations.

The day may bring introspection and fleeting sadness to women, who recall past griefs, but it should be most helpful in all its influences.

There is a rule read as forbidding to relatives who insist on remembering one another's ages as quarrels are easily precipitated under this sway.

Uranus is in a place making for inspiration through meetings with friends, but romance may not flourish while this configuration prevails.

This is read as a most auspicious rule for the selection or presentation of gifts.

Under this planetary government the greatest benefits may accrue from visits to relatives, especially to the aged.

It is not a really fortunate wedding day, since it is read as encouraging fault-finding on the part of parents.

All the influences are promising for rest and recreation. The evening is an auspicious time for entertaining celebrities and persons of various degrees of prominence.

Dangers to the nation are foreseen by the seers who counsel kindliness in judging foreign policies.

Food prices, which will continue to rise, may be exceedingly unsatisfactory to all but the wealthy, it is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is probably will experience a great change for the better in the coming year. Public affairs may affect the fortunes.

Children born on this day probably will be successful all through life. Special care of the eyesight should be maintained. Girls may not marry.

HASTINGS NEWS.

HASTINGS, Nov. 22.—Mr. Don Noonan was taken to a Peterborough hospital on Saturday night. He is in a very critical condition.

The trains here were delayed for several hours on Monday on account of a wreck at Blezards. Several car-loads of stock were still to be loaded at dark on Monday evening.

Word has been received from the Hastings Hunt Club that the members are having great luck while on the hunt.

Mr. William Dickson, of Westwood, paid a business visit to town on Monday.

Mr. William Killinbeck, and Mr. Tripp were business visitors in Peterborough on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. German and Mr. Carl Oliver were in Peterborough on Tuesday.

Mr. Wallace Orr returned from the hunt on Tuesday evening, reporting not very good luck for their party.

COASTGUARDS SAVE CREW OF VESSEL

Work 24 Hours In Storm To Bring Off 15 Men.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—After battling with the sea for 24 hours, Coastguardsmen in England managed to save 15 men who had been clinging to the broken Dutch tanker Georgia, wireless despatches announced yesterday.

The Georgia went aground between Cromer and Yarmouth on Monday. Another steamer managed to take off 15 members of the crew, but was driven off by the storm, leaving 15 others still on the wreck.

While lifeboat after lifeboat was launched in vain attempts to reach her, the Georgia broke in half under the pounding of the seas. For a moment the whole ship was lost in a cloud of spray, then the watchers on shore could see that the crew were still clinging to the section of the vessel that remained above water.

Other vessels stood by, unable to reach the tanker, but pouring oil on the waves to subdue the strength of the sea. Finally two lifeboats succeeded in reaching the wreck and brought all the sailors safely ashore. The Georgia, a 3,000-ton ship built in Newport News, Va., in 1908, was a total loss.

Nuts

Forty different varieties of nuts, all grown in Canada, are exhibited under a netting. Among these are nuts from the third generation of English walnut tree more than 100 years old, still in full vigor in the Niagara district.

among them being two new species introduced only this year, the "Lady Willingdon and the "Lady Canada." Lady Willingdon, who visited the Fair last week, expressed her delight at having such a beautiful flower christened by her name. The Dale "thousand dollar" collection of roses is the outstanding single feature of the flower show.

A wonderful collection of fish and a tiny reproduction of Niagara Falls is on view—an exhibit from the Walker House of Toronto.

JOLLY JINGLES By Graham Hunter

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndiate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY'S THANKSGIVING

Gathered in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow were all his own little rabbits, including Baby Bunty, together with every boy and girl animal who had come to the icicle party. Each one hoped to win a prize, either for the longest icicle, for the shortest or for the icicle that looked the funniest.

But Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow were not with the others at the party, and when Uncle Wiggily asked why, then, all of a sudden, Tommie Kat heard a noise up on the bungalow roof.

"Maybe it's the Bob Cat!" Tommie had mewed.

"No," said Uncle Wiggily, slowly, as he twinkled his pink nose. "I think it isn't the Bob Cat. He would be howling and scratching. This noise was more like a thud or a thump."

"It was like two thumps," spoke Baby Bunty, who had very sharp ears for hearing.

"Perhaps it was," agreed the rabbit gentleman. "But thumps and thuds make no soap suds so these will never harm us. Go on with the party. I will see who has the longest icicle, who has the smallest and which one of you has brought the funniest icicle for the toy balloon prize."

"Oh, but aren't you going to see what made that noise?" asked Nurse

Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, who was busy helping Mrs. Longears cut the cake for the party guests.

"Perhaps I had better," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "Stay here, all of you," he told the children. "I'll go out and see what made the thuds."

He told the animal children to remain in the bungalow for fear, after all, that the Bob Cat might be slinking around.

The moon was shining bright on this cold and frosty night, when Uncle Wiggily gave his icicle party. And he stood upon the stoop, and he shouted: "Zoopie! Whoop! You can't scare me by hiding there, you Smartie!"

For as the rabbit gentleman looked around the corner of his bungalow, he saw a funny shape, or, rather, two funny shapes huddled down in the weeds. And Mr. Longears thought it was the Bob Cat trying to be a Smartie and play a trick.

But when the two queer things down in the weeds did not move and when Nurse Jane brought out a lantern of fireflies in a milk bottle, Uncle Wiggily saw what the shapes were.

"Why, they're funny icicles!" cried the rabbit gentleman. "Oh, what funny icicles! If any of the children had brought them into my party these icicles would surely have won the toy balloon prize. I never saw such funny shaped ones!"

"Nor I!" squeaked the muskrat lady. "They're shaped just like two puppy dogs—one standing on his head and the other on his tail."

"Take the funny icicles into the house!" said Mr. Longears. "I'll help you roll them in. We'll show the children."

And when the funny chunks of ice were rolled into the warm bungalow and the ice began to melt, Baby Bunty shouted:

"Why, they're Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow. The puppy dogs are inside the funny icicles!"

And so they were, and as soon as the ice had thawed off them Jackie and Peetie told what had happened. They wanted to win a prize for the largest icicle. So they climbed up on Uncle Wiggily's roof with a pitcher of water. They intended to let water dribble over the edge of the roof and freeze into long icicles, for the night was cold.

"But Jackie slipped and fell," barked Peetie. "We rolled off the roof and the pitcher of water upset and splashed on us and we got all wet and we froze that way!"

"That's what made the thumping sounds!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "Well, Jackie, I'll give you and your brother each a balloon prize for having the two funniest icicles." And Baby Bunty won the story book prize for bringing the smallest icicle. It was the size of a pin. In fact, Baby Bunty wet a pin with water and stuck it in the window-sill outside to freeze. So she made the teeniest weeniest icicle you ever saw.

Neddie Stubtail, the boy bear, who had not yet turned in for his long winter sleep, got the prize of a picture book for having the longest icicle. It was as long as a rake handle. And every one said Jackie and Peetie, frozen into icicles, were the funniest ever seen.

So the party went on and every one had a jolly time, until, all of a sudden, Nurse Jane said:

"Oh, tomorrow is Thanksgiving! What are you thankful for, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Ah," murmured the rabbit gentleman, "I'm thankful there was no Bob Cat up on my roof tonight. I'm glad it was Jackie and Peetie." Every one else was thankful, too.

Rev. Ernest Harston Draws Analogy in Speech at Meyersburg.

AT FOWL SUPPER.

NORHAM, Nov. 23.—The ladies of Myersburg United Church furnished a very successful fowl supper on Friday night.

New folding tables and seating equipment had been installed during the week.

The hall was very prettily decorated in red, white and blue. The white tables were decorated with criss-cross strips of red and blue paper. Candles on all the tables added to the effect.

The concert was held in the church, which was filled. The Campbellford orchestra, led by Mr. Hazel, furnished music before the program began.

The program was as follows: Overture by the Campbellford orchestra; greetings to the Rev. Ernest Harston by the Rev. D. R. Clare; an address by the Rev. Mr. Harston; a vocal solo by Mr. Hazel of Campbellford; recitation by Miss Ida Clare of Norham; vocal solo by Mrs. Bates of Campbellford; vocal solo by the Rev. D. R. Clare; selection by the orchestra.

The subject of Mr. Harston's address was Automobile Religion. A car can be started by pushing it. Many people today have to be started down the right path, with a good push.

But a car will sometimes start if it is cranked. When one cranks it, what does he do? He gives it a real upsetting. People to-day are never awakened out of themselves unless by a "grand upsetting." It may be trouble or sorrow of some kind, and they may not rouse unless they are visited many times by ill fortune. All they need is persistent "cranking," just the same as the car.

But sometimes the self-starter will start the car and it begins very smoothly. In the same way some people just need a little guiding, or a gentle reminder and they begin the journey of life smoothly.

Just as there are three ways of starting a man on the right track, there are four ways of keeping him there.

A car needs gasoline, oil, spark, or electricity, and water or some suitable liquid.

The Christian needs the gasoline of the Spirit, the oil of love, the spark or electricity of faith, and the water of enthusiasm. With these four things the Christian can keep going.

"But," continued Mr. Harston, "sometimes the car stops. It may be that as a result of a weak spot in the tire, when the car hit a rough place, the wire went flat.

"If a person has one weak point in his character, there will come a time when he bumps up against the rough places of life and he stops, too.

"If the car lacks certain requisites, such as water, or gas, or if it has a missing spark-plug, it will stop.

In the same manner, if a Christian lacks certain things, he is unable to continue in his mission."

In concluding, Mr. Harston said, "Friends, the next time you have trouble with a car, find out the reason. Examine yourselves and make sure that you are strong where your car is weak."

Mr. Harston's address was greatly appreciated by all.

"Skinny" Women Gain Weight

New YEAST and IRON builds up weight and strength

First treatment gives results —or no money

If you are skinny as a rail, with flat chest, gaunt limbs, and you seem to lack all energy, you need the good pounds of "stay-put" flesh and the vitalizing strength that only IRONIZED YEAST can give. Thousands of rundown, weak men and women have regained their normal weight and vigor with IRONIZED YEAST.

Yeast turns your food into flesh and strength

IRONIZED YEAST is two tonics in one—weight-building Yeast and strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt, and which makes malt so beneficial.

This yeast is treated with iron taken from fresh vegetables—spinach, lettuce and celery. In this form Iron is easily assimilated by the body, making rich, red blood and toning up nerves and muscles.

Only when Yeast is Ironized in this way is it most effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building values of Yeast. By this formula IRONIZED YEAST gives you results in half the time required by yeast and iron taken separately.

Ask your druggist for IRONIZED YEAST and start to get pounds of weight and new strength today. You will not only feel better, but you will look better, as IRONIZED YEAST clears out the old deadening poisons and brings new healthy color to your cheeks and sparkle to your eyes. Comes in pleasant-tasting tablets—60 to a bottle. Safe for everybody. Does not upset the stomach nor cause gas or bloating.

Results from first treatment —or your money back

Go now to the druggist and get a single course treatment. If you are not absolutely satisfied with the weight and health benefits gained, money for the bottle will be promptly refunded. If inconvenient to buy at the druggist, send $1.25 to CANADIAN IRONIZED YEAST CO., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont., Desk 149-R.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

A short-sleeved frock of navy-blue crepe de chine embellished with colored embroidery makes a presentable at-home frock which can be entirely protected by a long-sleeved linen or cotton smock during work hours. Guests need not be kept waiting when the housewife has simply to slip out of her smock.

My grandmother was a small-town minister's wife who had to do much of her own housework and still wanted to look presentable at any time that members of her husband's congregation came to call. They came at any time of day or evening in season and out—sometimes, it would seem, largely for the purpose of seeing if they might perchance catch the parson's wife in housework regalia.

During her early married life hoop skirts were the fashion, yet neither she nor any other woman could very well do housework in a hooped skirt. So my grandmother used to dress presentably for her daily tasks sans the hoop—which she parked conveniently in the corner while she worked. Sometimes the younger children played they were wild Indians, with the hoop for their tent. A caller was announced and, with amazing dexterity, my grandmother would snatch off her apron and slip the hoop beneath her ample dress skirt—and—presto chango—she was the always presentable minister's wife.

Present fashions are very kind to the woman who does her own work. Still we do not always like to be caught in our working clothes. We still like to effect an air of leisureliness that we do not possess.

For the benefit of the young housewife who does her own work, our artist has designed in the sketch. The frock is of naby blue crepe de chine—the housework ensemble shown made like any simple indoor frock, save that it has short sleeves. The long-sleeved smock of cotton or linen covers it completely. Such a simple trick to slip out of the smock to find oneself quite properly dressed for any caller A little rubber apron worn beneath this smock over the frock would give adequate protection for any sort of housework.

TRAINS STOP WHEN TOLD

An English inventor, Major Raymond Phillips, can make model trains obey his spoken commands of "Ahead," "Stop," and "Back." At an exhibition he demonstrated his microphone control of model engines. A delicate microphone receives the sounds and through an ingenious mechanism controls the supply of current to the trains. He says he has made two trains do different things at the same time by the one microphone.

EARL CATHCART DEAD.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Earl Cathcart, former husband of Vera, Countess Cathcart, died in London in a nursing home Saturday after an operation.

Countess Cathcart, whom he divorced in 1922 and who has been seriously ill for several days from a heart affection, had a sudden relapse on being apprised of the Earl's death. Yesterday, however, she was better.

Earl Cathcart, who was born in 1862, married in 1919 Vera, daughter of the late John Frazer, of Cape Town. He divorced her in 1922, the co-respondent in the suit being the Earl of Craven. The Countess was excluded from entry into the United States in 1926 on the ground of "moral turpitude," but eventually was admitted.

Another Word of Warning

AS PREDICTED last year, radio sets without batteries, chemicals, chargers, attachments, etc., are now the standard. In another year or so battery-operated sets will be obsolete, almost worthless, wherever current is available.

Those considering the purchase of a radio operating without batteries should bear in mind that there are two types of "electric" radios:

(1) Those that are built to operate direct from a light socket; made in one factory; complete in one cabinet—all ready to operate, and—

(2) Ordinary electric sets that can be "adapted" to light-socket operation by installing a so-called power unit, which power unit generally consists of a "B" Eliminator, a storage battery and a charger.

You still have the "A" battery; you still have chemicals, but the charger is connected to a light socket, and so they are termed "socket-power." This latter type serves very well for those who already have a battery operated set, but cannot afford to turn it in for a new genuine Batteryless Model, but when buying a new radio supposedly "Batteryless" be sure to get the type that is completely batteryless and built to be so.

Of this type the "Rogers Batteryless" is the only one with any record of proven performance behind it. Conceived in 1923 and introduced in 1925 it is the first and only time-tested radio set, complete in one cabinet, made in one factory and operating direct from any alternating current socket (and in most cases without an aerial).

Moreover the Rogers was conceived, developed, perfected and made right in Canada and was the World's first successful Batteryless A/C radio set.

Producing such a set that will give uniform performance in all localities under all conditions is not easy. The first year or two brings grief. Now, in its third year, with thousands of sets in active operation from coast to coast the Rogers has proven its merit.

Don't experiment. It may cost you dearly. Look for the name "Rogers"; look for the Rogers A/C Tubes with the top clips and be sure, then you'll have no regrets later.

SPRINGVILLE NEWS

SPRINGVILLE, November 23. — Miss Hazel Whitfield, R.N., has returned from duty at Bethany, and is spending a few days at home with her father, Mr. Lewis Whitfield, of North Monaghan.

Mr. and Mrs. Grandy visited on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Johnston.

Mrs. Deyell and her two children of Fowler's Corners, are visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. G. Bidgood, of Springville.

Mr. John Whitfield, tax collector for the Township of North Monaghan, began delivering bills on Monday.

Mrs. William Whitfield visited on Monday with Mrs. R. Armstrong, of Springville.

During the latter part of the past week, little Donald and Dorothy Cathcart celebrated their sixth birthday by going for a car ride to Peterborough, where they spent the day seeing the wonders of Toyland.

An old railroad pay book, discovered on the Swiss-Italian frontier, reveals that Benito Mussolini was known as a "diligent and steady worker" when he was employed as a stone mason 21 years ago. His average wage was 50 cents a day.

IN Alfred's time England was divided into a number of petty kingdoms. Pressure from Danish invaders led to a union and Alfred became the first king of a United England.

At Ethandune he defeated the Danes with great slaughter. His terms of peace were more than generous. Guthrum the Danish leader, was forced to accept Christian baptism but was allowed to rule that part of England north and east of a line from London to Liverpool.

In the annals of kings, there is no nobler figure. He was a scholar, a law-giver, a warrior and a ruler in the best sense of the word.

If all women would Make the Acquaintance of WILD RASPBERRY Flavoring in Jelly!

IF every woman who has meals to prepare could see for herself how McLarens Limited, use the actual juice of Muskoka Wild Raspberries to flavor "Invincible" Raspberry Jelly Powder, she would serve "Invincible" desserts more frequently.

For she would see the reason for the finer, "fruity" flavor, the more tender texture and the greater wholesomeness that result from the exclusive McLaren process. This method includes using the actual juices of fresh fruits—such as Muskoka wild raspberries, with their irresistible flavor, choice Niagara cherries, strawberries, grapes and currants and luscious pineapples from the South—for flavoring, first-grade sugar for sweetening and just enough highly-nutritious gelatine to give "Invincible" desserts the tender consistency of real-fruit jelly.

She would see these healthful ingredients mixed, dried in special ovens, ground into smooth powder and packaged perfectly without ever being touched by human hands!

She would observe that frequent inspections make it impossible for long-established quality standards to be lowered one iota. She would join the host of other women who always definitely specify:

Rickard tells way Tunney can fight twice in 1928

MUST GAMBLE ON PERCENTAGE

Says He'll Guarantee Nothing if Champion Demands Two Bonds.

ARRANGE TITLE BOUTS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—With the suit of Jack Kearns against Jack Dempsey for a third of a million dollars tossed out of a Newark court ring through a voluntary non-suit, Tex Rickard took time out yesterday to clarify the boxing situation as it pertains to his millionaire heavyweights

Dempsey, the first man Rickard promoted into that class, will not battle this winter in Madison Square Garden, Rickard said, and Gene Tunney, champion and latest recruit to the millionaire ranks, probably will do no fighting before next August or September.

Winter in Courts.

The former king of the weighty sluggers, now definitely decided upon a second comeback campaign to regain his one-time laurels from Tunney, will devote his time this winter to pressing action in two other suits Kearns has brought in New York and Philadelphia, Rickard said. Dempsey will fight the winner of the winter heavyweight elimination trials some time in the spring at the Yankee stadium unless developments dictate otherwise. If the Manassa mauler survives this match, Rickard declared he would send him out again to fight Tunney for the crown lost at Philadelphia, the promoter declared.

As to the prospects of Tunney fighting for him in late June or early July, Rickard was non-committal.

No Trouble Expected.

"I am convinced, regardless of what Tunney says, that I have exclusive rights to Tunney's ring services in his first bout next year, and that I may, if conditions warrant, delay that match until August or September", Rickard said. "Tunney can have two fights for me next summer if he wants them, but only on a percentage basis. Certainly not on the basis existing in our present contract.

Rickard said he had not heard from Tunney in the matter and did not expect to.

"My end of the agreement will be fulfilled with the deposit of $100,000 on Feb 1 and a similar deposit on June 1. Then all he has to do is fight when I tell him who his opponent will be, and where the fight will be held. I don't think there will be any trouble."

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The New York Boxing Commission yesterday sanctioned two championship bouts for Dec 16 at Madison Square Garden which will find Tod Morgan, of Seattle, Wash., defending his junior lightweight crown against Joe Glick, of New York, in the main 15-round clash.

The added title affair will bring together Newsboy Brown, of Sioux City, Ia., and Corporal Izzy Schwartz of New York, in a 15-round go for the flyweight championship. Several days ago the Commission selected Brown and Schwartz as the logical contenders for the flyweight title vacated by Fiedel LaBarba, in spite of protests from Joe Jacobs, manager of Frankie Genaro. Jacobs sought recognition for Genara, who was formerly the champion in the flyweight division.

"Frenchy" Belanger recently won a referee's decision over Newsboy Brown in a 10-round bout held in Toronto.

NOBODY KNOWS WHO WON COURT DECISION

Both Factions Claim Legal Victory in First Round.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(UP).—Many heads were shaken wisely around Broadway today and "I told you so" was mentioned invariably in the discussion of the sudden termination of the Dempsey-Kearns "three hundred grand" suit in Newark.

The outcome of the first real battle between Dempsey and his pal of earlier days brought about as much difference in opinion as to which side actually won as did the recent affair in Chicago in which Dempsey was one of the principals.

Kearns said he was fouled in the first round by the legal tactics of Dempsey and his counsel, and although he had to retire when the low punches were allowed he would continue the fight in New York or a lot of other places.

Dempsey said he hadn't been warmed up when the fight ended. He maintained that he didn't get a chance to land one punch and that he will be in there swinging if Kearns wants another round.

The sharps who profess to know the ins and outs of what is called "the racket" couldn't be convinced that "some business wasn't done." They referred to the money that was offered at odds last week that the case would never get to the jury and they accused both parties of bluffing.

They would have you believe that Dempsey thought Kearns was bluffing him and wouldn't go into court or that Kearns though Dempsey was bluffing and would settle before standing trial. If there was any bluffing done, the lawyers profited more than the bluffers.

Kearns says the lawyers already have him "$40,000 on the nut", and that he is going through with the suit. There are reasons to believe, however, that he will not make any immediate attempt to have the case placed on the calendar of the New York courts.

He said he was going to Chicago for a few days, where his middleweight champion, Mickey Walker, is to fight Paul Berlenbach and that he would get back into the battle as soon as possible. In any event it will take a long time to get the case into the New York courts, and it may die meanwhile.

If Dempsey, Tex Rickard and their counsel are to be believed there isn't the slightest chance of a settlement out of court.

MOST VALUABLE UTILITY PLAYER

Lazzeri's Versatility Praised To Heights By Yankee Pilot.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Manager Miller Huggins of the world champions says he regards Tony Lazzeri not only the most versatile but also the most valuable utility player in the majors.

Last season Lazzeri, inside of one month, played three positions in the Yankee infield, second, short and third base.

"He's admittedly the best second sacker in the league", continues Huggins, "and incidentally has no peer at short or third. He would be as outstanding at either of these positions as he is at second if he made them his choice for a regular berth."

While it isn't generally known, Lazzeri won fame in the minors as a shortstop. He was shifted to second because New York at the time had Mark Koenig, who could play the shortstop position only.

He started as a catcher in his kid days and at some time or other has played every position on the diamond. Manager Huggins had intended to let him work one inning at each position after the pennant was cinched last season but for some reason changed his mind.

SPORT BITS

ENTER HASTINGS COUNTY LEAGUE.

MARMORA, Nov. 23.—As yet there is not much talk of Marmora entering a hockey team this winter in the Hastings County League. It is understood, however, that the Marmora High school will be able to turn out a creditable aggregation to do duty in the same league as last season. It is anticipated that a meeting for organization purposes will be held at Marmora within the next four weeks.

WOOLER PERSONALS

WOOLER, Nov. 22.—Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Hess, of Hastings, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill.

Many callers were welcomed at the home of E. M. Wessels for a few days to see a 900-pound moose, and a bear, trophies of J. C. Herrington, who brought them out from the North. This party shot three deer as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Montgomery, of Brighton, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Terrell.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyal Leavith and two children, of Bloomfield, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dafoe, of Belleville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill.

Mrs. Bailey, of Stirling, spent a few weeks at the parsonage with her daughter, Mrs. H. R. Neal, and the Rev. Mr. Neal.

Mabel Forbes spent Sunday in Castleton with her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haines.

Mrs. Egli Terrill is spending a few days in Frankford with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Herrington.

Neil Nelson has returned home after being with the hunting party in the North.

Jim Hemingway returned home looking hale and hearty after his sojourn in the Western Provinces.

William Ruttan's big car was parked on the east side of the street in front of the United Church on Sunday morning when a tourist car coming from the south ran into it, bending bumper and fender.

Mrs. Dr. Anderson and Mabel Bogg returned home after spending two weeks n Toronto.

Senior Hockey Team At Head of Lakes

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., November 23. — There will be no need for the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to grant special permission to Fort William and Port Arthur senior hockey clubs to operate in a two-team league and still be eligible for Allan Cup competition this winter ,as announcement of a third club organizing has been made yesterday.

This club is likely to be known as the Lake Heads. It will play half its home games in Port Arthur and half in Fort William.

Wes Wellington, who was recently re-instated in amateur ranks, has been named as president of this club, and Eddie Carpenter ,coach of Port Arthur's twice Allan Cup champions, team manager and coach.

There are something like 40 senior hockey players available in the two cities and it is the intention of the Lake Heads to choose their players from those left after the other clubs have made their choice. As a result of this announcement the request made of the C.A.H.A. to grant special permission for a two-team league will automatically be withdrawn.

WORKERS ATTEND TRAINING CLASSES

Attendance at Sunday School Course at Castleton is Large.

NORHAM, Nov. 23.—Among those who attended the teacher training classes, held every evening from Monday till Friday of last week in Castleton United Church were Mrs. A. West, Mrs. L. Evans, Miss L. Mitchell, Miss Ida Clare, Mr. Douglas Knight, Mr. Gordon Mitchell.

The staff of the school was as follows: Dean, the Rev. C. D. Daniels of Campbellford; Business Manager, the Rev. J. E. Bickel of Castleton; Leader in the Department for Training of Children, the Primary Department, Mrs. White. The leader in the group studying, "The Life of Christ," was the Rev. H. Clark of Hilton. The leader in the group studying, Worship and Devotion, was the Rev. H. B. Neal of Wooler. The leader of the group taking up the Specialization Course in Young People's Work was the Rev. C. D. Daniels of Campbellford.

The meetings were held under very inclement weather conditions, but the registration was one hundred and thirty, besides many visitors.

The meetings were divided into two study periods, with an intervening devotional period of ten to fifteen minutes. This worship period was conducted on Monday evening by the Rev. Mr. Faulkner of Colborne, on Tuesday evening by the Rev. G. Campbell of Cambourne, on Wednesday evening by the Rev. Mr. Beckel, and on Thursday night by the Rev. Mr. Daniels.

On Friday night, after an hour's study period, the diplomas won by various members in their individual courses, were awarded. Those from Norham who received credit for one examination in the teacher training course were: Mrs. L. Evans (Worship and Devotion); Miss Lulu Mitchell (Young People's Work); Miss Ida Clare (Young People's Work).

A recreational and social period, which was greatly enjoyed by all, concluded this very successful training school.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23—In one of the liveliest trading sessions on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange in many weeks wheat prices advanced 3½c in the near-by month at the peak of a buying flurry, attributed to exporting interests.

The market was extremely bullish at the close, November finishing at $1.38, a net advance of 3⅜c; December at $1.34½, 2⅝c higher; May, $1.39⅛, 1½c up, and July, $1.38⅝, 2⅝c up.

Aided by the uptrend in wheat, the coarse grains were sharply higher, oats at the top showing a gain of 2⅝; barley 3⅜c; flax 3c, and rye, 3c.

Offerings were scarce, and activity of commission houses combined to strengthen the undertone.

Proposal To Pay Athletes For Time Lost in Olympic Competition Dangerous.

CLOSE CONVENTION.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 23.—(AP).—Any proposal to pay athletes for their time lost in Olympic competition is "dangerous" and contrary to all concepts of American sportsmanship and amateurism, the Amateur Athletic Union decided yesterday in going on record as vigorously opposed to the "broken time" provision adopted by the International Football Association in connection with the 1928 Olympics.

The "broken time" rule under which players on soccer football teams entering the next Olympics may be reimbursed for the time taken from their work, has received the endorsment of the International Olympic committee, but United States authorities through Major General Douglas McArthur, president of the American Olympic committee, have served notice they will not accept it

The A.A.U. endorsed this protest yesterday. It is expected the understanding that the United States Football Association also opposed such a ruling and will not accept it as operating in sending an American soccer team to Amsterdam next year.

Besides settling other affairs connected with its part in organizing the United States Olympic programme, the A.A.U. in the closing session of its convention yesterday reelected Murray Hulbert of New York to a fourth term as president, a record for this office, and named New York as the 1928 convention city over 15 other places.

Daniel J. Farris of New York, was elected to succeed Frederick T. Eubien, of New York, as secretary, the latter having resigned after serving 13 years.

After considering several application for records, the convention accepted as new American marks the 880 yard and 800 metre relay figures, both 1 minute 25 4-5 seconds, as made by the Southern California quartet last May after establishing that they were clocked by fifth second watches and not tenth second watches as was first reported.

The fight over award of the Olympic marathon tryout to Boston April 19 instead of to Baltimore was renewed yesterday, and resulted in a compromise, under which the performances of all established marathons, such as those at Baltimore as well as Detroit, will be considered in making United States Olympic selections. The Boston marathon, however, remains officially designated as the Olympic tryout as well as the National championship event.

MUSIC AND THE CHILD

By Arthur Mason.

The two-fold aim of education is to equip the child with knowledge and to stimulate his mental faculties. Of those two objectives it is the latter which is the more important, since the child's school years are but the preparation for his life in the world, when the calibre of his mental faculties, rather than what he knows, will matter most to him.

The New Education.

Educationists are constantly in search of the best means of educating the child. They are, thus, constantly in search not only of the best methods of imparting knowledge, but of the most suitable kinds of knowledge to be imparted, and more intently still they search for the likeliest means of developing the mental faculties. The changes in the outlook of educationists which in the past half-century have almost revolutionized school teaching, are due to their changed views as to the relative importance to the child of knowledge as such, and the capacity of his instrument of knowledge. They have come to see that not what he knows in the way of facts, but how far his mind is receptive, is the all-important thing. And by reason of those changed views as to education, the teacher is no longer what too often he once was—a mere machine for grinding out facts—the child's mind is no longer regarded merely a receptacle for such facts, and education now embraces activities on the part of teacher and taught which induce the child to think as well as to remember, to imagine as well as to think, to feel as well as to imagine.

In other words, education, as it is moulding the fortunate children of today, is an education which expands their powers as a whole, and not the one-sided influence it used to be when it was satisfied to cram facts into the child-mind, and to leave the rest to chance.

Music's Place in The Scheme.

In this new scheme of education, therefore, music is a subject which takes a natural place. It is essentially one of the mind-cultivating, mind-expanding subjects. It has its facts, and these have to be learned. But its chief value as an educational subject is not in its facts, but in itself. In itself it is a mental influence, because it is an imaginative influence. If the children learned nothing of its facts, but merely sang music or listened to music, they would be within the spell of its suggestiveness. Their imaginations would be open to its quickened power. Their emotions would be stirred into response to its emotional appeal and as a matter of fact, its appeal to their emotions and its spur to their imaginations nowadays—in a school-teaching of music which is constantly improving in system and expanding in range—are coupled with the direct mental stimulus of their necessary attention to facts concerning music.

Music's Facts and Music's Suggestions.

It can be safely said that the facts concerning music—its scientific basis, its technical detail, its history—provide matter for direct mental training as valuable as that which is provided by most subjects of the curriculum. Knowledge of those facts demands from their young students no less alertness, no less concentration, no less reasoning power—no less mental activity, in short—than are demanded, say, by grammar, or history, or arithmetic. But it is not on that side so much as on the side of its aesthetic value that music has of late years gained the favor of educationists. And very properly so. The facts concerning it can be—and, as a matter of fact, sometimes are—too much insisted upon by its teachers; can be so unduly forced upon children that "musical appreciation," the now well-known heading under cover of which so much unessential musical detail is poured out upon bored classes of students, is fast falling into disrepute as the title of a lesson.

Music's concrete facts assuredly have their value for young students as for old, but it is not music's chief value as an educative influence upon children. Its chief value is in itself: in its power to give them pleasure by its beauty, to excite their wonder by its magical way with them, to energize their feelings to quicken their emotions, to send their thoughts voyaging far beyond themselves. Those activities of mind and heart undoubtedly are educative. By means of them the faculty of appreciation is energized, the emotions are brought into healthy play, the mental powers are stimulated. The child under such an influence is being broadened and deepened. His sense of beauty is being cultivated. His imagination is being fed. Heis acquiring new sources of pleasure. He is being educated in ways which should gladden those who wish to see him educated to his best advantage.

These are some of the benefits open to the children who come within range of music and a wise teaching of music.

LOCAL JUNIORS PLAY FRIDAY IN S. P. A. SERIES

Lew Lebarr's Team Drawn Against Newmarket in Pre-Season Contest.

HOCKEY GOSSIP.

Stanstead College Defence Man Has Signed With St. John's Club.

Peterborough's hockey teams are anxiously waiting for ice, but in the meanwhile are working hard to get into shape. The Peterborough Hockey Club's seniors and juniors have been limbering up each night at Brock street rink, while St. John's juniors, under the direction of Joe Gaskell and oJe Dunkerley, are training four nights a week in the St. John's parish hall.

Lew Lebarr will send his Peterborough juniors into action in the junior S.P.A. series on Friday night when the young Petes clash with Newmarket in the first game of a junior double header. Newmarket will have the edge in condition, inasmuch as they have practised two or three times at the Arena, while the majority of the Petes will don their skates for the first time Friday night. However, twelve players can be used and Manager Lebarr hopes to keep steam up by frequent subbing. Two or three of the St. John's players will play with the Petes in the fixture.

St. John's, the new entry in the junior race, have signed H. Hutchinson, Jack Johnston, "Gamey" Jarvis, Terry Hall and M. Hartley of last year's champion church league team, and Gordon Cuthbertson, Clayton Frost, Herb Payne, Joe Dunkerley, Clifford Heal and other church league players.

Another player signed by St. John's is George Dunfield, a tall young defence man who played last season with Stanstead College, Quebec. Dunfield's team reached the Quebec finals last winter and were beaten out by M.A.A.A. juniors.

The Saints' list is by no means closed and all junior players wishing a try out will be welcomed and given a fair chance to make good. The team meets for training on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights of each week at St. John's parish hall.

MARRIED MEN WIN.

Beat Bachelors in Bowling Match Among C.G.E. Switchboard Workers.

The married men and single men of the Switchboard Department of the C.G.E. played a friendly game at Water Street Alleys on Monday evening. The winners prize was a "chicken dinner a la carte," at some future date which the married men won. Ken Hope and his unmarried boys took the first game by about a century, but lost the other two.

Breadman was a shining star on the married men's side, also Slade and Watts. Hope, Peryer, and Cooper were the big nuumber men on the defeated single men's team.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

GOOD OPPORTUNITY.

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—The Examiner last evening carried an invitation from the De Laval Company to the citizens of Peterborough to visit their factory tomorrow afternoon between two and four o'clock, and at the same time see the exhibit they had prepared for the inspection of the delegates of the Ontario Creamery Association who visited Peterborough yesterday as guests of the De Laval Company.

Permit me to say that all citizens who can do so should accept this invitation, as a visit to the De Laval plant will well repay those who will take the time to do so. The De Laval factory is the largest industry in the British Empire making dairying machinery and appliances and our people should see it and the exhibit of its products.

Yours truly,
W. T. HOLLOWAY,
Mayor.

SUBJECT OF ADDRESS.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The subject of the lecturer's discourse on Friday afternoon at the Conservatory will be "Victorian Women and Those of To-day—a Contrast," with a reference to Einstein's theory thrown in.

The One Who Is To Do the Talking.

SHORT STORY

THREE WAYS TO DO IT

By Rose Meredith.

"So," said James Farnham, looking with kindly, shrewd eyes at the ardent young man who wanted to marry his daughter, "so, Anthony, you are asking for my Ann?"

"Yes, sir," said Anthony, looking very proud and straight as he stood before Mr. Farnham. "I love Ann, and I want to marry her."

"Well then, there are three things you must do before I will say 'yes' to your question," said James Farnham gravely.

"Will you spend a night in the haunted house? Then, will you find out who is smuggling liquor into the town, and lastly, will you pay up every debt that you owe before you are married?"

"Right," said young Anthony firmly, "I will do all of those things in proper order and report to you. May I speak to Ann before I go?"

"Of course," said Mr. Farnham, extending his hand. "Please stay and have supper with us and spend the evening, too, Anthony."

"Thank you, sir. But I must get to bed early for I have much to do if I am going to spend the night at the haunted house." And with a large grin, Anthony went away to whisper the news to Ann, but he did not tell her about the secret of three things to be done before he really won her.

"Three things to do," thought Anthony later on that night, as he slipped out of his window, slid down the rain water pipe to the ground, and shook himself. "I've certainly had my suspicions of the old house and as for the identity of the rum runners, why I believe that the two matters are connected—and if I guess those two riddles, and win the large reward, why, I can finish paying up my few debts and Ann and I can start with money in the bank, and not a debt to our names!"

The old haunted house, as it was called, occupied a quiet back street not far from the little creek that entered the Sound when the tide was going out. When the tide was high, the creek was filled to the brim and ran almost into the backyard of the haunted house.

Anthony Ware thought of all of these things as he went up on the broken front porch of the old house. The tide was coming in, and to tell the truth Anthony really expected something might happen that night when the tide was high. So he tiptoed around the old house on rubber-soled shoes, not hearing a sound until after he had been sitting in darkness for an hour.

Brave as he was, Anthony felt the hair lift on his head, when those limping footfalls began away off somewhere in the kitchen, and came nearer, nearer. He had slipped into a tiny cupboard in what was known as the sitting-room, and it was all that he could do to stuff himself in there and close the door before the footfalls came very close—they seemed to circle the room and then went off again and after awhile he heard them upstairs prowling into every room, and then, at last, they came down again and went out of the back door.

"He has gone to the creek to meet someone," said Anthony, and he went at once to the kitchen loft and hid himself in a dark corner by the window where he could see the creek in the queer light of a waning moon. He remembered stories that he had heard of how the village constable and some of his men had hidden near the creek and all they discovered was old Oscar Johnson bringing home a load of lobster pots filled with crawling black shapes. And now, old Oscar was coming up the creek, his flat-bottomed boat piled high with lobster pots. The old man stopped at the old place and unloaded hispots into a two-wheeled cart that was behind the house, and trundled it out of the yard and down the street to his own house and fish shop. After that, it was quiet again for a long while, and then came the sound of oars or paddles and another boat, loaded with square, deep boxes wrapped in newspapers. There were four men working here.

From his window in the kitchen loft, Anthony Ware watched the unloading of liquor until all of it had been transferred to the cellar and all the men disappeared down there. Then Anthony, slipping from place to place like a ghost, locked the trapdoor in the kitchen floor that led to the cellar, and locked the outside door, and then he fled noiselessly down the street to the constable's house and aroused him. Then they gathered other men, and altogether, they went and arrested the guilty men who were sorting out the bottles in the cellar of the haunted house.

In the morning, when James Farnham opened his kitchen door to come outside he found Anthony Ware sitting there waiting for him.

"Well?" said Mr. Farnham.

"I came to receive my answer to last night's question," said Anthony.

"Did you spend the night in the haunted house?"

"Just came from there."

"What about the smuggling?"

Anthony told him that the guilty men were in jail.

"And I suppose the reward you will get will pay your debts," said Mr. Farnham with a twinkle.

"But you see, Mr. Farnham, I haven't any debts at all—instead of that, I've got a thousand dollars in the bank. How about Ann?"

"She seems to be in the window over your head," chuckled his future father-in-law, and, looking up, he saw lovely Ann, in a pretty print dress, smiling at him.

"Of course you will stay for breakfast," she called down to him, and all Anthony answered was:

"He says 'Yes,' Ann, and now we can tell him about building a house on the farming property next door!"

"ROAD TO ROMANCE" A GREAT PICTURE"

New Novarro Picture Has been Flimed on Big Scale by M-G-M.

Ramon Novarro in the role of an adventurous Spanish don comes to the Capitol Theatre tomorrow in "The Road to Romance", his latest starring vehicle for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The film is an elaborate picturization of Joseph Conrad's famous sea story. "The Road to Romance", and provides Novarro, in its swashbuckling hero, one of the most colorful, fiery roles of his career. As the courageous youth of an aristocratic family, he sails from Madrid for Cuba to rescue his cousin, Serafina, who is about to fall into the hands of Don Balthasar, a political rogue. It is in the days when piracy flourished upon the Carribean and the West Indies were a hotbed of intrigue.

He is captured by pirates, imprisoned, escapes through the power of his quick wits and eventually finds the girl. The two immediately fall in love and danger and thrills follow each other in breathtaking suspense. The picture is dramatic in the extreme and boasts a love story of unusual appeal.

A remarkable cast supports Novarro, headed by Marceline Day as the charming Serafina. Roy D'Arcy plays the part of Balthasar. Other well known players are Marc McDermott, Bobby Mack, Jules Cowles, Otto Matieson and Cesare Gravina. John S Robertson directed.

AT THE REGENT.

CROSLAND CORRAL SOLD TIME BAR-KEEP.

A real live Barbary Coast bartender adds to the verity of the scenes in 'Old San Francisco," the Dolores Costello starring vehicle now playing at the Regent Theatre. Chinatown and the Barbary Coast, known as the "mile of hell," in the days before the great fire of 1906, is no more, yet both live vividly in this film which owes its authenticity to Alan Crosland, who it will be remembered also directed "Don Juan" and "When a Man Loves" for Warner Brothers.

Crosland was set on having a regular bartender, one of those who could fill seven steins of beer simultaneously, and slide them with lightning speed along the glistening bar, with just the right force to make each stop genially, before one of the seven gents who had ordered them. One of those relics of the past was finally found in a Mexican resort in Tia Juana, and borrowed for three weeks.

Featured with Miss Costello is Warner Oland. Others in the cast are Charles Emmett Mack, William Demarest, Sojin, John Miljan, Josef Swickard, Anders Randolph, Angelo Rossitto, Anna May Wong, Rose Dione, Otto Mattieson, Martha Mattox, Walter McGrail and Tom Santschi.

When a Man Loves

By ALLIE LOWE MILES

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Fabien, good, and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood; but meets and loves Manon Lescaut, beauteous orphan, whose rascally brother, realizing her worldly value, barters her for gold to Ravoir, rich connoisseur of women. Fabien saves her and carries her off to Paris, where they wander into a boarding house and, in a great and sacred love, live happily together, though poor, because Fabien spent all his money getting Manon a jewel she innocently coveted. She asks a maid to return the jewel to the store, and get the buckles Fabien gave in part trade.

CHAPTER VI.—Continued.

"I can remember well enough," answered Marie disdainfully, "but it's a crazy thing to do!"

"No, it is not. They are Fabien's, and I want to return them to him on our first anniversary—tonight. Please?" coaxed Manon.

"Well, all right. Give me the locket. Just the same, I think you are a little fool." Marie went out the door grumbling.

It was a relief to get rid of her, because after Fabien's departure Manon had been impatient to look from the window and wave to him. He would be waiting in the street below. Ever since their sojourn in the little attic room it had been a sort of ritual with them.

Manon danced over to the window and looked down. Fabien was there! The worry vanished from his face and he smiled happily. She had been so long in coming he thought she had forgotten!

Fabien was so engrossed in gazing at his adored one that he backed into a push cart, loaded high with fresh fruit and vegetables. All the produce, the vendor, the cart and the young lover were scrambled together on the street in an appalling mess.

Manon, perched high above the scene, was the only one who laughed. Fabien extricated himself from the vegetables and dashed quickly around the corner before the owner of the wrecked cart had a chance to know what and who caused all the troublesome havoc.

Manon was conculsed with laughter. It was especially amusing to see sedate Fabien do such an undignified thing. After he had disappeared she remained at the window gathering a bouquet of bright little flowers from the boxes. She planned to have them on the table when Fabien returned. It was a great pleasure for her to do little things like that because he was always so appreciative and grateful. How happy she was! Life was just a glorious mingling of thrills and contentment.

* * *

While Fortune had smiled on Manon and Fabien for a whole week, it had taken this same time to play many false tricks on Andre Lescaut.

Determined to find his sister, Lescaut and the Comte had combed Paris. A great deal of money had been spent on what proved to be a vain search. It seemed impossible that an inexperienced girl and a young student priest could have eluded them. Lescaut was desperate. He wanted easy money from the Comte, but the crafty old retired banker had flatly refused to hand out any more until Manon was safely delivered to his quarters.

Lescaut had just about decided to give up the search when he paused in his wanderings until the debris from an overturned push cart could be cleared from the walk. As chance would have it, this was the very accident that Fabien's absorption in Manon had brought about. Bored with the incident, Lescaut began looking around at the people and houses, as he had been scanning faces for a whole week it had become a habit. Suddenly his roving eyes saw Manon picking flowers from her window boxes.

Immediately his whole countenance became brighter, and he strode across the street to the pension as though a moment's delay might prove disastrous.

The landlady was eager enough to direct "such a grand gentleman" to the attic room. And thus it was that Lescaut entered unannounced.

Manon paused in arranging her flowers on the table and looked up with a smile to welcome Fabien, but when she saw her hateful brother the joy faded from her pretty face and she was transfixed with terror.

"The very sight of me renders you speechless with joy, eh, Manon?" inquired Lescaut, very much amused at her fear.

"What do you want?" Manon managed to ask through dry lips.

"You, of course!" Then as he saw her recoil from him he added impatiently: "Oh, come now, be sensible. You've led me a merry chase—but you won't escape me again."

"I won't go with you." Manon's eyes were wide with terror but she was, nevertheless, defiant.

"Not that tone with me, young lady, you have exhausted my patience too long as it is!" Lescaut scowled threateningly and pushed her toward the door, in a rougher manner than Manon had ever experienced.

With a cry that expressed both mental and physical hurt, she wrenched herself free and put the table between them. "Andre, Fabien and I love each other! If you try to separate us I will kill myself," she cried passionately.

Before Lescaut had time to reply they both heard a man coming up the stairs. Manon's eyes brightened with relief.

"That is Fabien coming back!" she said. "Go quickly or he will turn you over to the police."

Not since Lescaut last sat at the gaming table had he thought so hard and fast. Holding Manon away from the door he said, sharply, "Des Grieux knows better than to call the police; they are after him for abducting you!"

"No—No!" With both hands outstretched as if to ward off a blow, Manon's eyes implored her brother to tell her that this was not true.

Lescaut grew triumphant. At last his argument seemed to affect her. "So—I see. You don't care about yourself, eh? It is just that blessed man of yours that seems to worry you. Well, here he is," whispered Lescaut as the footsteps drew nearer. "Not a word about my being here or there will be trouble."

With this last threat, Lescaut disappeared behind a long alcove curtain, just as a man's knock sounded on the door.

CHAPTER VII.

It surprised Manon that Fabien should knock. He never had before. It was probably a new idea of his to surprise her. She longed to rush out and welcome him with open arms, but was so shaken with her nervousness, as a result of the interview with Lescaut, that she could not move.

Torn between dread and indecision she called, faintly, "Come in."

The door was opened slowly, but instead of Fabien a strange man stood there eyeing her inquiringly.

"You were looking for someone, Monsieur?" Questioned Manon in bewilderment. She had never seen the man before.

"Yes, I am looking for my good friend Des Grieux—perhaps it is just as well that I speak with you instead." Jean Tiberge softly closed the door and advanced toward Manon. "My task is not easy for I see that you are just a child." He smiled sadly.

"Non, Monsieur, I am seventeen!" Under the kindly eyes and quiet manner that belonged to Tiberge, Manon's nervousness was fast leaving her. She thought how lovely it was to have Fabien's friends call; if only Lescaut and his threats could be forgotten.

Manon saw the curtain move—her brother was listening!

"Monsieur, won't you sit here," she said hastily, designating a chair with its back to the alcove. "Fabien will return very shortly."

"I have not come on a pleasure call," Tiberge accepted the chair, but continued eyeing Manon compassionately. "Mademoiselle, do you realize what a chaos you are making of the Chevalier's life?"

"What do you mean, Monsieur? We love each other, and we are quite—quite happy . . ."

Tiberge drew in his breath quickly. "You are married then, you and he?"

With wide innocent eyes looking at him wonderingly Manon shook her head, negatively.

"Then it may not be too late to save him from all of this." Tiberge's relief was evident.

Lescaut listened attentively from his hiding place. He was perplexed about the unknown caller but became greatly impressed as he realized that the man was playing right into his hand.

SUPPRESSING NOISY DRIVERS

So much of a nuisance has the din-making motorist become in England that the Home Secretary is trying his hand at curbing them. It was he who recently cut down exorbitant taxi fares. Now he has warned the noisy motorists that they must see that their machines are effectively silenced and that they must use and drive them so as to reduce the noise of their exhausts as far as may be "reasonably practicable." The worst offenders are said to be young men conveying flapper companions in "two-seaters."

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — XV — by Nicholas Afonsky

In its early days the balloon was used on the battlefield. In 1794, when the French and the Austrians were at war, the French Captain Coutelle, under fire from the Austrians, who tried to prevent him from going up, rose to a height of 1,000 feet, where he was safe from the Austrian guns.

There Coutelle sat, safe from gun fire, watching the outraged Austrians and dropping notes to the French forces below him to tell them the movements of the enemy. The French won a victory, though the Austrians, having no observation balloons, called this new kind of warfare unfair.

The French began to dream of great military uses for the balloon. In 1800 General Resnier thought of the practicability of sending a French army corps to England by balloons traveling over the channel. Engravings of the time show the ideas the French had for reaching England in this way.

Resnier built a flying machine with flapping wings and jumped off the ramparts of Angouleme. He fell into the river the first time but, nothing daunted, tried again and again. Once, jumping from a height of 200 feet, he traveled 600 feet before gliding to the earth.

MISSION TALKS GIVEN A.Y.P.A.

Representative Reports Address By Bishop Taylor-Smith— Mr. Howard Speaks.

TELLS OF NORTHLAND.

The regular weekly meeting of All Saint's A.Y.P.A. was in charge of the Rector, the Rev. J. D. Paterson.

"A few weeks ago," began Mr. Paterson, "we had the privilege of having a visit from Bishop Taylor-Smith, and as last Tuesday was the last meeting he was to address in Ontario before going to the Eastern coast, two delegates from this branch and myself motored to Toronto to hear this farewell speech at Wycliffe Collage. I will now ask Mr. Morley to give a short report of the meeting."

"On Tuesday last," reported Mr. Morley, " the delegation headed by our Rector, and including his son, Miss Worboy, Miss McCulloch, Mr. O'Conor-Fenton and myself went to Toronto. The meeting was held in Wycliffe College Chapel, which was crowded to capacity. We were accompanied to this meeting by Miss Grace Tucker. W. R. Sproule, Past President of the Dominion A.Y.P.A., occupied the chair, being president of the Wycliffe College Bible Society. After opening the service the secretary of this organization read a report on the work completed during the past year.

"Three short addresses were given by students of the College on the summer work of the organization in the Maritime Provinces, Ontario and Western Canada. They outlined briefly the great work which is done in the small parishes during the summer by the students and each recalled several amusing incidents which happened during their sojourn, each in his particular diocese. These students are often called upon to take services in different parts of Toronto during the year.

"A report showed how many baptisms had been arranged, how many confirmations were looked after and how many funerals they had taken part in. Rev. Canon O'Meara then spoke a few words, introducing the speaker of the evening, Bishop Taylor Smith.

"Bishop Taylor Smith," continued Mr. Morley, "started off in his very interesting manner, gradually leading up to his work in Africa. Having travelled over Africa from east to west and north to south, he has encountered many difficulties and he related some of his experiences while in that land. The part of Africa that Bishop Taylor Smith is most fond of is, I believe, Sierra Leone, 'The white man's grave,' but which he always speaks of as 'the black man's resurrection.' He spoke on the cruelty and cannibalism of the natives and compared it to the passage in the Book of Samuel where a city was besieged and the people becoming so hungry inside the city, began to eat their own kind. This was nothing, he said, compared to what was in Africa.

'He spoke of a time when he and his companions were compelled to defend themselves with arms against the natives. He mentioned an incident where a messenger who had been sent out from some fort was later found murdered and his bones picked clean, and to use Bishop Taylor Smith's exact words, and actions stretching out his hands he said, 'and these hands (meaning his own) gathered his bones and gave them an honorable burial.' He also mentioned a native king who had several hundred wives and who used to give perhaps fifteen or twenty human sacrifices almost every day.

"To listen to a man," continued Mr. Morley, "who has travelled from shore to shore of the Dark Continent cannot but help make one realize the great call for missionaries and the tasks and difficulties that these men have to encounter. He also spoke of his delight in his tour and at a previous meeting he mentioned to our rector that the best time of his whole tour had been spent in Peterborough."

A phrase which was spoken quite frequently by the celebrated speaker, said Mr. Paterson later, was "The Habitation of the Heathen is Cruel." The only regret of the people who heard Bishop Taylor Smith was that they would not perhaps have the opportunity of hearing so wonderful and so gifted a speaker again.

Following the initiation of many new members, Mr. Paterson introduced the speaker of the evening, the Rev. P. C. Howard of St. Thomas' church, Millbrook, who he pointed out was no longer a stranger in All Saints'.

Mr. Howard in a very few words expressed his appreciation to the members of All Saints' A.Y.P.A. for their kindness in giving him the opportunity of addressing them. "Some of you," he said, "may wonder why we are having a missionary evening for an A.Y.P.A. Association, but we must remember that we are a missionary Institution, and our motto is 'for Christ and the Church.' "Were not," he said, "some of the last words of Jesus to His Disciples, 'Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel unto all mankind.' Many missionaries are needed not only for foreign countries as China, Africa, India and Japan, but for our own country both in the north and north-west."

Mr. Howard then spoke of how he first became interested in the work and how he came to have charge of the work at Rupert's House, James Bay. In speaking of his work, Mr. Howard said that the minister must also be the doctor. The morning following his arrival at Rupert's House, an Indian came to him and told him that his little girl was sick. He had very little on hand for this kind of work so just gave what he thought the little girl would need. The next morning she was better and he said he did not know if it was the medicine or the little girl's father's faith in it. He also told of how the women brought their little little children to him with all their petty ailments.

There is very little pleasure, he said, in the life of the young Indians. The white men's common idea of the Indian is that he is slow to learn and lazy. This is not true, he continued, for the young boys and girls if given the opportunity are very clever. To stress this point he told of an incident where a small boy, not quite five years old, learned the Lord's Prayer, the Creed, the Ten Commandments and the General Confession in a very short time. Marriage with the Indians is only a business matter. The man picks out the young girl who can make the most snow shoes, bring in the most wood from the forests and can tend his furs. Very often they give the missionary a very short notice that a wedding is to take place.

"How often," said Mr. Howard, "do the women wearing fur coats think of the danger the Indian has to go through in order to procure them. He goes out in the early morning and sees to his traps and if he has not returned by night the mother, leaving the children in charge of the eldest, takes a hand sleigh and when you see her taking a hand sleigh in the north, you know that she is going to bring back the frozen body of her husband. The Indians have feeling the same as we have, and some day the white men of Canada will have to answer for driving the Indians from their country to the northen part of the continent, next to the Eskimo, whose company the Indian cannot endure."

The evening was then closed with a prayer.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE DISPLAY OF

GIBSON STRING Instruments

In the Show Window of the EXAMINER?

Banjos, Etc.

These beautiful String Instruments are the highest grade made in America. Noted for resonance of tone, ease of fingering and beauty of finish, the Gibson Guitars, Ukuleles, Mandolins, Guitar Mandolins, Banjo-Ukes, Banjos, Plecteum Banjos, Tenor Banjos, etc., are the standard in the music world.

Our exhibit is a special collection of their finest instruments, and are specially interesting at this gift season. It's an opportunity to see the higher class instruments seldom given to Peterborough citizens, as no such extensive collection would be regularly carried by any local house. The J. M. Greene Music Co., who were instrumental in bringing this exhibit to the city, cordially invite all who are interested to look them over in The Examiner window.

Learn to Play

Mr. Joe Lahokla, a native Hawaiian, Guitar and Ukulele expert, and Mr. Davis, teacher of Ukulele, Banjo-Uke and Tenor Banjo, are opening up a class, using one of the convenient studios in the Greene Music Building.

Hear Mr. Lahokla play at the Capitol on Monday evening.

Enquiries at the Store will be referred to the artists themselves.

WILL YOU HEAR THEM?

Hear what? Why, the Christmas Bells before Christmas Day! The Peterborough Male Voice Choir at the Benefit Concert on December 2nd will be the first of the season to give us the "Music of the Bells." From far and near they will come, laden with happy memories of the long ago and who can resist their charm or forget the magic of their voices?

Get your tickets for the Benefit Concert early and let nothing interfere with your attendance in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church (kindly lent for the occasion). Bring the Christmas spirit with you, and the Bells, sweet chiming Bells", will ring both within and without you. 1d-122-3598 may fail to perform their proper work because of an interference with their nerve supply. If through some twist, jar or strain a vertebra in a certain part of the spine becomes slightly displaced, causing pressure upon the nerves supplying the kidneys, those important organs cannot work properly and never can work normally until that pressure has been reduced.

GIVE YOUR KIDNEYS A SQUARE DEAL. Have a spinal examination, and if nerve pressure exists have it corrected by Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments.

PERMIT VALID.

License Can Be Revoked Either By Congress Or By Its Officers.

Washington, November 24. — Canadian Press. — The right or wrong of Chicago's diversion of water from the Great Lakes is placed squarely before congress. This is the effect of the findings of Charles E. Hughes submitted to the Supreme Court yesterday.

Mr. Hughes who is former secretary of state and a one time candidate for president, undertook about a year ago to take evidence as special master for the Supreme Court in the suit brought by the lake states other than Illinois against Illinois and the Chicago sanitary district, to challenge the right of the Federal government to grant a special license for diversion of water from Lake Michigan for the purposes of Chicago. While the case has yet to be argued in the Supreme court itself it is accepted that Mr. Hughes' findings and recommendations will indicate the attitude of the highest court of the United States in this long drawn out controversy.

Mr. Hughes finds nothing invalid in the license issued by the Federal Secretary of War under which Chicago takes about ten thousand cubic feet per second from Lake Michigan and pours the water via the the Chicago drainage canal into the Mississippi River. But throughout this report Mr. Hughes emphasizes that Congress must decide finally whether the diversion will continue, and for how long.

License Revocable.

The Federal government being the accredited officer of congress, had the right to issue the license, but it can be revoked either by Congress or its officers. Whether the supreme court can dispose of the case before the end of the next congress or not, the whole question of flood control must come up this season, and Mr. Hughes' attitude furnishes the key by which Congress can deal with the Chicago diversion problem as it enters into the general question of flood control.

Prevention of such disastrous floods as devastated the Mississippi region last spring was the main problem to be dealt with, but the administration has admitted that power development will be considered incidentally to any engineering works to control floods. Congress may be brought to decide that the Chicago diversion now proceeding is necessary to the disposal of sewage and the development of water power that has been established in the last ten years.

While the lake states are almost all against Chicago in this suit, another powerful combination of middle western and southern states are behind the city. It now appears very likely that the question of Chicago's diversion of water from the Great Lakes will come to a head in the forthcoming session of congress and the tussle promises to be interesting.

Had Jurisdiction

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The opinion of Charles Evan Hughes that Chicago is right in its contention that it is entitled to divert Lake Michigan water under a War Department permit and that the War Department has jurisdiction over Lake water, substantiates the contention of the sanitary district of Chicago, its president, T. J. Crowe, asserted.

"We always have contended that the War Department had complete jurisdiction over all navigable waters and that this authority was given the department by Congress," stated Crowe. "The sanitary district's federal permit, which gives us the right to divert 8,500 cubic feet of water a second from Lake Michigan and compels us to take care of 1,200,000 population by artificial sewage treatment process, and the building of controlling works or dams at the mouth of the Chicago River, will be fulfilled in every respect by the sanitary district.

"The economical value of this water to the entire Middle West, particularly the Mississippi Valley, amounts to many millions of dollars. It is my opinion that not only the sanitary district of Chicago, but the entire Middle West is to be congratulated on this decision."

CRUSADER'S GHOST RETURNS

A crusader's ghost, fully accoutered in armor, is said to be haunting Portchester Castle, near Portsmouth, England, one of the most perfect Roman fortresses in existence. The only one who has come forward as an eyewitness of the knightly wraith is a woman who says she saw it kneeling on a spiral stairway.

Coolidge Pleased With Boys' Trousers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(United States.)—Pausing in his labors over more serious problems of State, President Coolidge yesterday expressed his gratification at the trend toward narrower trousers for young men, which he observed when the football team of the Newman preparatory School, Lakewood, N.J., called at the White House.

The President told the youngsters he was glad their trousers were not flopping around their ankles as these of college boys usually are.

Last year when a group of college students, wearing floppy trousers called on him, the President suggested that they ought to wear suspenders.

NO WORD FROM PURSUING SHIP

Chase of Yacht Vidor Still Continues in St. Lawrence.

WARRANT ISSUED.

OTTAWA, Nov. 24 (Canadian Press).—Officials of the Marine and Fisheries Department declared today that no word had been received from the Canadian Government steamer Montcalm, which is engaged in pursuit of the American yacht Vidor somewhere in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. On board the Montcalm is a Marshal of the Admiralty Court of Quebec bearing a writ of attachment on the Vidor as a result of legal proceedings instituted against the yacht by the Canadian National Railways.

The Government railroad claims that heavy expense was entered in establishing supplementary service on Sunday, made necessary by damage done to Black's Bridge over the Lachine Canal in Montreal, when the Vidor collided with it. The railway authorities were delayed in starting their procedure and when these got under way the Vidor had sailed. The assistance of the Marine and Fisheries Department was invoked and the Montcalm dispatched down the river to attempt to overtake the Vidor and to place the Court Marshal aboard the United States craft.

TOTS CREEP TO CURE SPINES

By creeping on all fours children are being cured of weak spines in a hospital in Germany. The doctors say that by abstaining from walking, the little ones relieve the weight from the backbone and remove any undue strains. The patients even lie prone at their meals. Their knees, elbows and feet are guarded with small pillow-like protectors. It is claimed that many cures have been effected by the system.

A map 200 feet long, said to be the largest in the world, has been exhibited in England.

Fog Covers London But Remains High

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—It was as black as midnight in London yesterday. The first black fog of the winter season was hanging like a huge umbrella over the city. It was not a fog near the ground but was low enough to cut off completely all light and the city with gas and electric lights in full operation was carrying out its ordinary life without the traffic jams and confusion that are usual when the fog rests on the ground. Then it clogs the streets and set London's millions bumping, rubbing eyes, and groping about like blind men.

MRS. H. FALLIS GIVES ADDRESS AT UNIVERSITY

Speaks To MacDonald-Cartier Club on Organization of Young Conservatives.

URGES WIDE VIEWPOINT.

People Need To Think Nationally, She Declares, Discussing Problems of Provinces.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—Sharing the program with the Hon. Dr. Monteith, who deputized at short notice for Premier Ferguson, Mrs. Howard Fallis last night delivered an able address on the organization of young Conservatives of the province before the MacDonald-Cartier Club of the University of Toronto.

The meeting was held in the graduates' common room of the University. David Walker, President of the Club, occupied the chair. Fitting tribute to Mrs. Fallis' political labors and influence was paid by the President and by Dr. Monteith, whose speech followed that of the Peterborough lady.

Tribute Paid.

Mr. Walker declared that Mrs. Fallis was known throughout Ontario, and since the Winnipeg convention throughout Canada as one of the foremost women in the Conservative party, and therefore one of the greatest in Canadian political life. She had helped to win many by-elections for the party, and her efforts were of great aid in the Provincial field, but her genius, said Mr. Walker, did not consist only in speaking. She had great gifts of organizing and these were being used in the organizing of the young people of the Conservative party.

Hon. Dr. Monteith described Mrs. Fallis' speech as a splendid account of the work of organizing the young life of the party in Ontario. Mrs. Fallis, he said, had a very comprehensive grasp of the activities and tendencies of young people. Mrs. Fallis' work in winning the women of Stratford in his riding at the last election helped to roll up a victory for him.

Before dealing with questions of organization Mrs. Fallis briefly reviewed Canadian politics from a general standpoint. She expressed her appreciation of the fact that the members of the club were willing to have more women work with them. Declaring that a women's party was not needed, she said she had always found that the men who led the Con-

SEVERAL LABORITES SUSPENDED FOLLOWING UPROAR IN COMMONS

Dispute Arose Over Discussion of Unemployment Insurance Bill.

TEMPERS AT EDGE.

Government Moved For Closure of Clause Under Debate.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(A.P.)—Several Laborites were suspended in the House of Commons last night to the accompaniment of a wild uproar and the hurling of bald Anglo-Saxon epithets, traditionally classed as "unparliamentary."

The business of the house at the time was a discussion in the committee of the whole of the unemployment insurance bill. The trouble began when the minister of labor, Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, moved closure on a clause of the bill which had been debated for three hours.

The laborite back-benchers shouted 'gag, gag" and James Maxton, labor member for Glasgow, demanded that certain manuscript amendments should be discussed. The chairman, James Fitzalan Hope, refused, and Maxton retorted that it was "damned unfair." At this the laborite cheered vigorously and the ministerialists angrily protested.

After closure was carried, Chairman Hope called upon Maxton to withdraw his charge of unfairness. The laborites refused and the prime minister moved his suspension and Maxton quit the house.

The members were greatly excited throughout the incident and after Maxton had gone, the laborite, George Buchanan, also from Glasgow, told the chairman that his ruling was contemptible and unmanly. Buchanan's refusal to withdraw this charge led to his suspension.

Uproar Renewed.

No sooner had Buchanan disappeared than a third laborite, Richard Collingham, declared that the chairman's conduct was a "damned outrage" and a misuse of the chair's powers. The uproar was renewed, and after the usual formalities, Wallhead suspended and left the chamber.

Then up spoke Neil McLean in defence of his colleagues. He charged Chairman Hope with unfair partisanship to the government and, after further shouting, he followed in the footsteps of the other suspended men.

All the time these incidents were happening, tempers were at a fever point; there were angry shouts, swinging arms and writhing bodies, and above all the row, the high pitched voices of the laborite Miss Wilkinson was heard, "Your'e a coward, Mr. Hope."

The chairman ignored this, and a little later relinquished the chair to Deputy Chairman Captain Fitzroy, and calm was restored.

WINDSOR BANK BRANCH ROBBED

Two Men Hold Up Two Clerks on Duty at the Noon Hour.

GET AWAY WITH $2,500.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Bank robbers held up the staff of the Howard avenue branch of the Bank of Montreal here at noon to-day and escaped with $2,500, the contents of the till. In the bank at the time were Miss D. Quartermaine, ledger clerk, and L. B. Chittick, teller. Entering the bank the two men strolled up to the teller's window and asked for change for a one dollar bill. While Chittick's attention was diverted the younger of the pair flashed a gun through the wicket while his companion held up the young woman. Securing the money the bandit backed to the door of the bank and disappeared.

PRISONER DIES; BEATING BLAMED

Man Under Sentence For Serious Offence Beaten When Caught in Act.

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—William Kenyon, fifty, died in the General Hospital yesterday and it was asserted the cause of his death was a beating he received at the hands of unknown persons who caught him in the act of committing an offense against a seven-year-old boy on October 1. Kenyon was placed in the jail hospital following the offense and on October 15 was sentenced to two years, with an additional indeterminate term of two years. At the trial Kenyon made no mention of receiving any injuries except a blow on the jaw. An inquest will be held.

Great Britain Hopes Reach Naval Accord

LONDON, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Great Britain has not given up hope of a general all-around limitation of naval armaments. The First Lord of the Admiralty, W. C. Bridgeman, speaking in the House of Commons yesterday, declared that the government was not desirous of laying down any more 10,000 ton cruisers for the present—this despite the fact that Great Britain's proposal for the limitation of 10,000 ton cruisers had not been agreed to at Geneva. He expressed the opinion that the discussion had been left in such form that an agreement on limitation was yet possible.

The question of disarmament is to be threshed out in the Commons at an early date and it is that the government's statement will disclose more precisely the plans the British government hopes to put into effect. Sir Austen Chamberlain will be spokesman for the government on disarmament.

TWO CHILDREN DIE AT NORHAM OF DIPHTHERIA

Little Sons of Amos Smith Succumbed To Disease—Four Others Ill.

SCHOOL IS CLOSED.

No Other Family in Village Yet Visited—Aged Woman Among Those Sick.

NORHAM, Nov. 24. — Diphtheria has broken out in the village of Norham at the home of Amos Smith. One son, Earl, aged 3 years, died yesterday. Another, Leslie, aged 2, died this morning. Four other members of the family, including the grandmother, have the disease.

The Public school is closed by order of the Health Officer, Dr. C. C. Armstrong, of Warkworth. No other families have been afflicted yet.

CLERGY PROTEST AGAINST CHANGES

Former Bishop of Manchester Prays For Deliverance of Church.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press Cable).—At a meeting here yesterday, one thousand clergymen from various parts of the British Isles, with bowed heads, registered a protest against the new book of Common Prayer of the Church of England while the Right Rev. Dr. Edmund Knox, former Bishop of Manchester, pronounced the benediction. Dr. Knox, who is eighty years of age, was too infirm to make a speech but he prayed that the Almighty would not "send our beloved church back into inquities from which it was delivered by the reformation."

IN POLICE COURT.

A resident of this city for the last eighteen years pleaded guilty this morning to forging a cheque on the Toronto Loan and Savings Company for $120. The cheque, according to police officers, was a very clever forgery.

The prisoner told the court that he had lost a lot of money this summer, and in a moment of weakness he committed the crime. He said he was a married man with five children, and he promised that if let off on this charge he would never be in police court again. Members of the church with which he is connected made strong representations asking that he be let off on suspended sentence. Crown Attorney Hatton did not object as full restitution has been made, and the prisoner had no previous record. Magistrate Langley, after considering the seriousness of the crime, allowed the prisoner to go on suspended sentence, provided that he could find two men to act as bondsmen for him.

PETS HAVE LIFE PRESERVERS

Death Penalty Bill Defeated At Paris

PARIS, Nov. 24 (Canadian Press).—The guillotine, official instrument of execution in France, will still continue to function despite a movement to suppress the death penalty.

A bill to do away with the death penalty was defeated yesterday by the close vote of 8 to 7 in the committee of civil and criminal legislation of Parliament.

Coincident with discussion in the Chamber of Deputies and the committee on the death penalty, the public prosecutor has demanded the death sentence against four members of a gang of 19 highwaymen now on trial, charged with highway robbery and murder.

CHILDREN'S AID WORK OF YEAR IS REVIEWED

Reports of Agent and Officers of Society Presented at Meeting.

418 CHILDREN CONCERNED.

Address By Joseph Wearing on Functions of Society, Feature of Evening.

A sparkling address delivered by Joseph Wearing, in his characteristic, eloquent style, featured the annual meeting of the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society, held last evening in the City Council Chamber. At this meeting Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, was re-elected president and splendid reports of the society's work and progress were given by the secretary and agent, John Edgar, and the treasurer C. S. Cummer. Several eulogistic references to the good work of the agent, Mr Edgar, were made by various speakers during the progress of the meeting, and Alderman Stocker, Supervisor of the Shelter premises, also reported in enthusiastic terms on the excellent service given by the caretaker and matron, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Brooks, since they assumed charge of the work there.

The meeting was opened and closed with prayer and the president, Rev. Dr. Blagrave, spoke briefly on the work of the past year, and of the increasing interest being taken by the general public, both in the city, and in outside communities, in the labors of the Children's Aid Society. "Not however, that this feeling is interpreted in terms of cash," he said "because, although we had a very satisfactory tag day, it was not sufficiently in advance of last year's tag day to use as an evidence of increased public interest along that line, but the returns from outside communities have been very satisfactory.

"While we have certain rights by which we could press for increased givings from the City and County Councils, still I believe it is a sounder and better policy to appeal to public support and to secure public opinion in the interests of the Children's Aid Society, so as to get the spontaneous expression of interest which is involved in givings to this society.

"There is no society engaged in

Wireless Science Is Capable of Smashing Whole Fabric of Representative Government

LONDON, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Wireless science is capable of smashing the whole fabric of representative government, George Bernard Shaw declared, lecturing last night before the Fabian Society. His subject was "Democracy as a delusion."

Elaborating his point, the noted writer said: "Nowadays speakers talk to millions of people. I did the other night. The only invention necessary is an arrangement for listeners-in- to be able to press a button and register 'aye' or 'nay' and thus instantaneously register their votes on a political issue. Then the pure democracy of the old fashioned town meeting would have returned."

But Shaw was convinced that nobody wanted pure democracy or any other sort of democracy. He maintained that dictatorship is the natural government for man, and he made the Socialist intellectuals who sit at his feet as patrons of the Fabian Society squirm in discomfiture as he championed Mussolini and ridiculed government by the people.

"The government of the people, and for the people—yes," said Shaw, "but government by the people cannot be."

He was tired of people insisting that they were democrats and then doing everything possible to disprove it.

He cited Americans, "who all want prohibition and at the same time want their drink. They all vote prohibition," he added, "and then disobey the law."

G.B.S. even went so far as to tell his fellow Socialists that "under certain circumstances a Socialist dictatorship in Great Britain might have to be established by coercive measures, as it was in Russia, instead of by the usual methods of "humbugging" the electorate—the usual way distatorships were established. He would not advise unconstitutional methods, but the people should be prepared to use them if necessary, as had been done in his native Ireland, where, after thirty years of constitutional efforts, the Irish problem was finally settled only by fire and sword.

OPERATIONS FOR THROAT ABCESS WITH FOLLOWING COMPLICATIONS CAUSE DEATH OF IONEL BRATIANO

Jail Terms Given Youthful Bandits

CHATHAM, Ont., Nov. 24 (Canadian Press).—Four-year terms in Kingston Penitentiary were meted out yesterday by Magistrate Arnold on Walter Sepner and Antoine Parent, while Ernest Meloche was sent to the Ontario Reformatory for from 2 to 4 years for their participation in a series of burglaries and armed robberies in this vicinity. The prisoners were young Windsor men.

Henry Haggerty of Windsor, who was implicated in one of the holdups will be sentenced in a week's time by Magistrate Callwood of Tilbury.

Against Sepner and Meloche there were five counts and four against Parent. The fact that Meloche is an epileptic saved him from penitentiary term, Magistrate Arnold said. All the sentences run concurrently.

SIX LOSE LIVES AS HOUSE BURNS

Fire Destroys House Where Family Re-union Was Being Held.

EARLY THIS MORNING.

MALONE, N.Y., Nov. 24.— (Canadian Press.)—Six persons were burned to death in the home of Walter Leary, two and a half miles from North Lawrence, early to-day. The dead are Arthur Leary, fifty, Mary Leary, twenty, Evelyn Leary, thirteen, Rita Leary, eleven, Esther Leary, nine, and James Leary, seven.

The Leary family were re-united for the Thanksgiving celebration The re-union was held last night and they did not retire until early morning. Mr. Leary discovered fire when he opened the kitchen door early today and found the room full of smoke. He was unable to arouse the sleeping occupants of the house.

HORSES COLLIDE; ONE BADLY HURT

Runaway Animal Hits Another Delivery Horse—Shaft Pierces Leg.

A delivery horse owned by G. J. Jopling and Sons was seriously hurt yesterday afternoon on Barnardo avenue, when it was run into by the delivery horse and wagon of J. T. Braund. At the time of the accident Mr. Braund's horse was running away. The driver of Jopling's rig saw the other horse coming and drove his horse into the ditch, but was unable to get out of the way of the runaway animal. Jopling's horse was pierced in the front leg by one of the shafts.

Vintila Bratiano, Brother of the Late Premier, Re-organizes Old Cabinet.

TROOPS MOBILIZED.

New Premier Announces That Brother's Ban on Carol Will Be Continued.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press.)— Ionel Bratiano, Premier of Rumania, generally regarded as the country's uncrowned king, died to-day. A complication of diseases proved fatal after an operation yesterday for an abcess of the throat. The Premier, who was sixty-four years old, was active almost until his deathbed .

The Premier died at seven a. m. His brother Vintilla was appointed Premier by the Regency Council and he formed a cabinet composed of the former members. Guards were trebled throughout the capital and troops in the whole country were ordered to stand by.

Though the Premier became seriously ill last night, his death was unexpected so soon. An operation for an abcess of the throat at first relieved his suffering from tonsilitis, but another operation proved necessary. He asked that all his keys and personal papers be given to his nephew, Constantine Bratiano, chief executive of his cabinet.

"Don't be impatient, I shall make a good fight," were the last words the dying Premier wrote on a pad which he handed to his young secretary. Then he lapsed into sleep after renewed inhallations of oxygen until death came.

Queen Marie was in constant telephonic communiction with the dying Premier and personally visited him last night.

"Do you feel better," asked the Queen of the man who more than any one else was responsible for former Crown Prince Carol's renunciation of the throne.

The Premier raised his arm and feebly grasped the Queen's hand, saying haltingly, "Yes, your Majesty. How good and gracious it is of you to come here at such an hour."

Carol Not Wanted.

LONDON, Nov. 24. — (Canadian Press.)—An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Bucharest says that the newly formed cabinet of Vintila Bratiano, which was appointed by the Regency this morning following the death of Premier Ionel Bratiano, has announced its intention of carrying out the policies of the late Premier and will not allow the return to Rumania of former Crown Prince Carol, now in France. The Bucharest garrison has been fully mobilized, the despatch says, and public buildings are occupied.

Think Carol May Return.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Rumanians friendly to the former Crown Prince expressed the belief to-day that the death of Premier Ionel Bratiano would expedite the legal return to the country by Carol and possibly enable him to attain the throne. Even with Vintilla Bratiano in power as Premier these quarters were convinced that the long sway of the Bratiano family over Rumanian affairs was nearing its close.

MADOC CHURCHMEN HEAR FINE SPEECHES

Congregational Dinner Held at Trinity United Church.

MADOC, Nov. 24.—A congregational dinner was served in the Sunday school rooms of Trinity United church on Monday evening, this being specially to appeal to the men of the church.

Mr. Ackerman of Belleville was one of the speakers after the dinner. The chief speaker was the Rev. Mr. MacKinnon, who is a missionary in the great northwest.

Both gentlemen were very interesting and were much enjoyed. Special music was provided by the choir and ladies of the church.

WEATHER BUREAU OFFICIALS DOUBT STORY BRITISH FLIER ENCOUNTERING HEAVY STORM

Assert Atmospheric Conditions Which Giles Reports Encountering "Absolutely Impossible."

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT.

Ships Report No Indications of Abnormal Weather Along Course.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24 (Canadian Press).—Officials of the San Francisco weather bureau yesterday cast doubt on the story of Captain Frederick A. Giles, British aviator, that a violent storm forced him to turn back at sea Tuesday on his attempted flight to Hawaii.

Major E. H. Bowie, forecaster, asserted that the atmospheric conditions which Captain Giles reported encountering about 500 miles out from the Golden Gate were "simply impossible," and added, "It is not reasonable to think that they could have existed."

Captain Giles landed Tuesday after noon near San Simeon, Calif., after taking off here at 7.24 a.m. and heading westward over the Pacific. He reported that he ran into a severe storm that sent his biplane into a tail spin, spilled his instruments, charts, food and signal flares into the water, damaged the heavily loaded plane and almost cost him his life.

The flier was en route here to arrange for repairs on the plane and a third attempt to span the 2,400 miles to Hawaii by air, when the weather bureau statement was made. He had not been reached for comment late yesterday.

"There were no winds such as could have wrecked Captain Giles' plane," declared Major Bowie. "Our ships reported clouds in some spots but these were as high as 2,500 or 3,000 feet.

"There were no indications of abnormal weather conditions along the course Captain Giles was to cover in reports received from the ships. The violent weather conditions reported by Captain Giles were simply impossible and it is not reasonable to think that they could have existed."

Not Played the Game.

Major Bowie charged that the aviator and his flight manager had not "played the game" with the weather bureau, and said no forecast had been made for the flier since last Saturday.

Captain Giles had acted contrary to the advice of the weather bureau, Major Bowie asserted. He said when favorable forecasts were given, the airman "seemed in no disposition to fly," and then last Saturday, when the bureau warned against a start, Captain Giles hopped off, flew out 20 miles to sea, dumped part of his gasoline and returned here.

While no forecasts had been furnished after Saturday, Captain Giles was supplied with weather reports from ships, Major Bowie said.

T. R. Reed, another member of the weather bureau staff, declared that reports from six ships along the route Captain Giles was to take said nothing about squalls or unusual atmospheric conditions. Before leaving San Luis Obispa early yesterday for San Francisco, Captain Giles said he was thrown partly out of the cockpit of his plane when it was thrown into a tail-spin at an altitude of 4,000 feet.

"I managed to grasp the gasoline feed line overhead, and as the plane fell I worked my way back into my seat, straightening the plane as it fell," he said.

Captain Giles said he was only a short distance above the water when he brought the plane out of the spin. The flier expressed doubt that a mono plane could have withstood the force of the storm.

After dumping 300 gallons of gasoline to lighten the strain on the wings, he related that he headed back toward the coast and made an emergency landing with only two gallons of fuel left.

Makes Plea for Women Wear Artificial Furs

LONDON, November 24 (Canadian Press Cable).—A plea for women to wear artificial furs in order to save the suffering of fur-bearing animals was made by Frances, Countess of Warwick, in a speech in connection with the meeting of the National Council for Animals' Welfare week. Members of the audience looked suspiciously at the Countess' beautiful "fur" coat, whereupon she invited any persons to satisfy themselves it was imitation fur. She declared it was unnecessary to wear real skins when beautiful imitations were available and were healthier, lighter and more serviceable.

Mrs. Louise Rourke, a writer, who recently returned from Canada, declared that if people were only able to hear the shrieks of animals particularly silver foxes when caught in ghastly steel traps, they would never wear real skins again.

WHEAT STOLEN.

Samuel Skuce, of Omemee, Has Grain Taken From Stable.

OMEMEE, Nov. 24.—Samuel Skuce is the latest resident to suffer from theft in Omemee. On Sunday evening some one entered his stable and stole about seven bushels of wheat, which he had purchased a few days before.

Wisconsin Continues Diversion Fight

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 24. — (Canadian Press).—Assertion that Wisconsin will continue the fight against the diversion of Lake Michigan water by the city of Chicago were made yesterday by Former Attorney-General Herbert L. Eckern and William George Bruce, president of the Great Lakes Harbor Association.

The statements followed receipt of the decision by Charles Evans Hughes, who heard the testimony for the Supreme Court before which Wisconsin and other states instituted the suit.

"We should not stop until we find out where we stand so we can strengthen our case," Mr Bruce declared. "As long as justice prevails in the land, no section of the United States can dispose of the gifts of nature to the disadvantage of another section."

NEW CABINET IS PRESENTED

Belgian Ministry Will Draft Program—Meets House on Friday.

TO RE-ORGANIZE ARMY.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press). — Members of the new Cabinet formed Tuesday by Premier Henri Jaspar were presented to King Albert yesterday. The Cabinet will meet later to draft the ministerial program. The main points of this are to be reorganization of the army, according to the suggestions of the technical committee, carrying out public works, and reduction and simplification of taxes. The new government will appear before parliament on Friday.

PRINCE'S SPEECH HELPING CANADA

Many Business Men Wish To Make Trip Here Now.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(United Press) The speech made the other day by the Prince of Wales, before the Canada Club and which has been acclaimed by the press as the cleverest bit of publicity for Canada the Prince has ever uttered has had the effect of deluging the Canadian Pacific offices in London with inquiries from business men wishing to go to Canada to investigate conditions there.

"The speech is the most effective boost Canada has ever had", said an official of Canada House, "and it is likely to give an immense impetus to trade."

FOUR REBELS PAY PENALTY

Executed For Recent Attempt Against Life of General Obregon.

CONFESSED GUILT.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Four men were marched out to their death yesterday within the walls of the Mexico City prison. They were executed for the recent attempt against the life of General Alvaro Obregon, former president of the Republic and now sole remaining presidential candidate

The first to face the firing squad was Miguel Agustin Projuarez, described as a Roman Catholic priest. He met his fate calmly, kneeling with clasped hands for a brief prayer, then standing and extending his arms in blessing. He crumpled over as the bullets passed through his body.

A moment later the second man, Luis Segura Vilchia, an electrical engineer, was led from his cell. He walked across the court yard with steady step, glanced with firm set face at the dead body of the priest, but said no word. When he reached the wall he turned and faced the squad, gazing straight at his executioners, and fell before their bullets without a sound.

Outside a crowd of several thousand had gathered; they peered through the iron grating of the great gates, some even attempting to scale the wall, but unsuccessfully.

Humberto Projuarez, brother of the priest, was third. Also with unfaltering step, he crossed the courtyard, walking past the two dead bodies. He restrained what must have been extreme emotion; his face was pale, but composed. Without uttering a word he looked into the rifles and fell bullet-ridden beside the others, and received the coup de grace.

Weak from Wounds

Last came Juon Tirado, who seemed weak from wounds which he had received at the time of the attempt against Obregon.

Tirado shuddered as he went forward, glancing with a shifty eye at the three obdies on the ground.

"I wish I could see my mother and say good-bye to her," he said. Then a volley crashed and echoed through the courtyard, and Tirado's body lurched and fell. The sergeant gave Tirado the coup de grace in the right side of the head, but the body still moved; then the sergeant shot him through the opposite side of the head. Six other bullets had already passed through his body.

It had previously been reported that Tirado had died from his wounds in prison.

According to the police, all the men confessed to their guilt in the Obregon attempt.

COCHRANE MINER ACQUITTED BY JURY

Found Not Guilty of Having Gold Ore in Possession Illegally.

COCHRANE, Ont., Nov. 24 (Canadian Press)—John Baldovin of Schumacher, Ont., was released yesterday afternoon after a jury had returned a verdict of not guilty of having gold ore in his possession illegally. Baldovin was one of eight men who were arrested in a series of police raids which occurred on high-grading suspects in the Porcupine district on October 20 last. Gold ore, said to be valued at $188 will be returned to Baldovin as a result of his acquittal.

The next cast to come before Judge J. B. T. Caron and a jury at the District Court of General Sessions involves Mike Masonicich, a Montenegro and a veteran of the Servian Legion, who was arrested on a similar charge in the same series of raids. He is employed as timberman at the McIntyre mines. Exhibits for the Crown are a leather packet containing two pieces of quartz, a wicker valise containing some ore wrapped up in paper, and a tin tobacco box which was found in a trunk and which contains some high-grade, three gold teeth and some gold coins. Chief McInnis of South Porcupine swore that these were found under the prisoner's bed, and that the the prisoner had stated he had found them buried in the sand while raking his yard. A number of boarding houses are located in the neighborhood.

INQUEST POSTPONED.

Inquiry Into Death of Two Girls Will Be Held Dec. 8.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Nov. 24—(Canadian Press).—The inquest on Gladys and Jessie Fretz of Vineland, who died from slow poisoning unaccounted for, which was to have been held at Beamsville today, has been postponed until Dec. 8, Crown Attorney Lancaster announced yesterday.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 24 (Canadian Press).—An erratic price movement characterized trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday following Tuesday's bullish demonstration. Seaboard houses were prominet buyers in the early dealings, but unresponsive Liverpool cables inspired a sharp break as holders began to unload.

Closing quotations were ¾c to 1c below Tuesday's finish with November at $1.37⅞; Dec. $1.34⅛; May, $1.38¾ and July, $1.38⅝.

Activity in the coarse grains was confined to the cash markets with fair demand existing for the lower grades of barley and rye. Flax was dull.

QUEBEC CAPTURES EARL GREY TROPHY

Awarded Annually To Province With Cadets Having Best Showing.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 24 (Canadian Press).—The Province of Quebec has again captured the Earl Grey Trophy, awarded annually to the province which can show on parade at the annual inspection, the greatest number of enrolled Cadets in proportion to the number of boys attending school.

The trophy will be held for a period of six months by the Commercial Academy Cadet Corps, Quebec, and for the remaining six months of the year by the Bishop's College School Cadet Corps, Lennoxville, Que., these units having been found the most efficient in physical training, military drill and small arms training in their respective districts.

The number of Cadets enrolled during the last school year was 120,000 of whom 117,660 were actually present on parade at the annual inspections. These are distributed by provinces as follows:

Quebec	59,015
British Columbia	5,483
Ontario	35,295
Prince Ed. Island	732
Alberta	5,135
Manitoba	3,249
Nova Scotia	2,794
New Brunswick	1,996

M'ANDREW LEAVES SCHOOL HEARING

Will Not Return Until Trial of Charges Filed Against Him.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (Associated Press). — The William McAndrew school trial lost its chief figure yesterday when the suspended superintendent of schools walked out of the hearing.

Until he is tried on charges filed against him, Mr. McAndrew will attend no more sessions, his attorney advised the Board. The educator, alluded to by Mayor Thompson as a "tool of King George," was charged with insubordination.

"Mr. McAndrew is continuing the tactics of a weak defendant and maintaining the same four-flushing attitude he has kept for the last four years," said Frank Righeimer, attorney for the Board.

A statement by McAndrew which his attorney unsuccessfully sought to read to the Board, asserted: "The depreciation of your school system in the eyes of the entire country by editorial condemnation of this trial as a farce and vaudeville; the effect on your school children of the continued newspaper characterization of your proceedings as a travesty on justice; the repeated and uncontradicted editorial designation of this trial as before a packed jury and an admittedly prejudiced judge, all lead me to desire to escape being a party to the continuation of what is almost universally regarded as a burlesque."

The Board adjourned without taking testimony until November 30.

Attorney Righeimer assailed one of the members of the Board for supporting McAndrew "in the face of such un-Americanism."

"Do you support the former superintendent when you realize what he has done?" Righeimer said. "Do you object to the use of the statement by Nathan Allen that 'I have but one life to give for my country?'"

"Nathan Hale, you mean," another attorney leaped to his feet and said as the spectators burst out laughing. Mr. Righeimer was unabashed, however, and continued his attack on the School Board member.

OLD MASTERS

Today a rude brief recitative,
Of ships sailing the seas, each with its special flag or ship-signal,
Of unnamed heroes in the ships—of waves spreading and spreading as far as the eye can reach,
Of dashing spray, and the winds piping and blowing,
And out of these a chant for the sailors of all nations,
Fitful, like a surge.
Of sea-captains young or old, and the mates, and of all intrepid sailors,
Of the few, very choice, taciturn, whom fate can never surprise nor death dismay,
Picked sparingly without noise by thee, old ocean, chosen by thee,
Thou sea that pickest and cullest the race in time, and unitest nations,
Suckled by thee, old husky nurse, embodying thee,
Indomitable, untamed as thee.
—Walt Whitman: From Song for All Seas, All Ships.

Dime Fine Imposed For Having Liquor

NEWARK, N.J., Nov. 23.—(U.P.—Lewis Totar was fined a dime yesterday for the illegal possession of liquor. He had spent four weeks in jail because he had been unable to supply $1,000 bail and Federal Judge Clark said he considered this punishment sufficient.

The fine is not a record in a local liquor case, as a defendant some time ago was fined five cents and had his fine paid by the Judge.

OBITUARY

MABEL T. MILLER WHITTEN.

Coming as a great shock to her host of friends, the death of Mabel T. Miller Whiten, wife of Charles J. Whiten, of Vernon, occurred at the Vernon Jubilee Hospital on Monday, November 7th. The deceased, who was in her forty-first year, seemed in good health until eleven days before her death when she was stricken down and taken to the hospital. She rallied for a while but then grew gradually worse, passing away at 10.30 on Thanksgiving morning.

The late Mrs. Whiten was born at Topsail, Newfoundland, the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Miller. Coming west to Victoria when three years of age, she attended school in that city and resided there until her marriage to Charles J. Whiten, of Vernon, in June 1912.

Besides her husband the deceased is survived by three children, George (14), Charles (11), and Marion (5); two brothers, Dr. Howard Miller and Daniel Miller of Victoria; a sister, Winnifred Lee and her step-father, Arthur Lee, also of Victoria.

The late Mrs. Whiten was a member of the Central United Church, and for many years was a member of Methodist Church choir. She was very popular and her death leaves a gap that will be difficult to fill.

The funeral was held at the Central United Church and the Vernon Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. George Hacker, and Rev. McMinno of Kelowna, officiating. The services were fully choral and the church was filled to capacity. The masses of beautiful flowers paid tribute to the esteem in which the deceased was held. The pall bearers were Dr. S. G. Baldwin, Dr. J. S. Brown, A. B. Godfrey, P. S. Shillam, D. A. McBride and J. C. West.—Vernon, B.C. News.

Charles J. Whiten, was a former resident of Peterborough, his father having been a photographer here some years ago

PREMIER REFUSES TO RECEIVE MINERS

Leaders of March Say It Has Succeeded in Spite of This.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—The hopes of the 250 unemployed miners who marched from Wales to lay their troubles before Premier Stanley Baldwin were shattered yesterday by the announcement that the Prime Minister would refuse to see a deputation representing the men. Mr. Baldwin referred the request of the miners for an audience to the Ministers of Health, Pensions, and Mines. Although disappointed, the leaders of the miners contend that the object of marchers was achieved as the march focussed public attention on the mining situation.

The men will hold a farewell demonstration at Trafalgar Square on Sunday and then entrain for Wales.

MISS PHYLLIS KIDD IS C. E. PRESIDENT

Elected at Re-organization Meeting at Millbrook Church.

MILLBROOK, Nov. 24.—The young people of Grace Presbyterian church have reorganized their Christian Endeavor Society for the winter months and are holding their regular meetings each Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the church parlors.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Honorary President—Mrs. (Rev.) John Riddle.

President—Miss Phyliss Kidd.

Vice-President—Miss Ruth Thorndyke.

Secretary—Gordon Armstrong.

Treasurer—Ernest Holden.

Miss Phyllis Kidd and Foster Russell were appointed delegates to represent the Society at the young people's convention to be held in Peterborough in the near future.

Interest and enthusiasm have marked the activity in connection with the Endeavor Society, and there is a very encouraging outlook for growth and development in the months ahead.

The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of Saint Thomas church held its regular meeting on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, the attendance being encouraging considering the unfavorable weather.

Mrs. (Canon) Allen was in the chair, and reports of officers were received and proved most favorable. The treasurer, Mrs. C. McNeil, was able to report all pledges paid up, and a fair balance still in the bank.

The secretary, Mrs. E. Whyte, who has been absent for some time visiting her son, Dr. B. C. Whyte, at Battle Creek, Mkhigan, was warmly welcomed to her office once more. Miss Rose Macnamara has ably filled the secretary's position during Mrs. Whyte's absence.

It was decided, after discussion, to request the rector to hold the usual special service on Saint Andrew's Day, November 30, when Holy Communion will be observed at 10 a.m. A special thankoffering is taken up at this service.

After due consideration arrangements were made for receiving contributions for the Christmas bale, sent each year to some needy clergyman in the diocese, and for packing same, Mrs. Dr. Young kindly giving the use of her home for this week. The bale will be completed and sent on its way about December 15, notification coming from Toronto as to its destination.

Mrs. J. A. Vance and Mrs. M. Todd were appointed visitors for the ensuing month to call upon the sick and shut-ins of the congregation.

Miss Annie Armstrong read the chapter from the study book on "Africa and her Peoples", the material dealing with the early explorers and their work in opening up the dark continent.

Following its usual custom the Auxiliary will not hold a meeting in December, the annual meeting, which comes in January, will take place at Mrs. (Dr.) H. Young's home. Mrs. Young and Mrs. J. E. Allen will be hostesses for this event.

Refreshments were served at the close of Monday's meeting and a pleasant social hour enjoyed; the hostess, Mrs. Westmacott, intends leaving early in December for the west, and will spend the winter with her sisters, Mrs. Stowe at Winnipeg, and Mrs. Fowler, at Victoria, B.C. Miss Macnamara will be in Toronto for the winter months.

GILES DESCRIBES FIGHT FOR LIFE

Pulled Plane Out of Tailspin After Climbing Back Into Cockpit.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Capt. Frederick A. Giles, British flier, who made an emergency landing here Tuesday, after taking off at San Francisco for a flight to Honolulu, declared yesterday that the storm which he encountered at sea put his plane into a tail spin and threw him from the cockpit of the machine.

"I managed to grasp a gasoline feed line overhead and as the plane fell I worked my way back into my seat, straightening the plane as it fell, he related.

"When the spin started I was about 600 miles out and about 4,000 feet above the water. When the plane had been righted it was only a short distance above the sea. Had I been flying a monoplane it never would have stood the gaff, as the terrific force of the storm made the plane creak and groan."

Giles landed here with barely two gallons of gasoline, explaining that he had dumped 300 gallons at sea after coming out of the tail spin in order to lighten the strain on the wings.

The flier left for San Francisco early yesterday. He said he planned to arrange for repairs to the plane and attempt another hop off.

CHICAGO WINS DIVERSION SUIT

Special Master Hughes Says Permit of 1925 is Valid.

CONGRESS HAS CONTROL.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (Canadian Press)—Chicago yesterday won before Special Master Charles E. Hughes in its fight to divert water from Lake Michigan into its drainage canal. The former Associate Justice of the Supreme Court held that the permit of March 3, 1925, for such diversion, "is valid and effective according to its terms, the entire control of the diversion remaining with Congress."

This was one of the six conclusions by Mr. Hughes. The others were: "That the complainants (Wisconsin and other Lake States) present a justifiable controversy.

"That the State of Illinois and the sanitary district of Chicago have no authority to make or continue the diversion in question without the consent of United States.

"That Congress has the power to regulate the diversion; that is, to determine whether and to what extent it should be permitted.

"That Congress has conferred authority upon the Secretary of War to regulate the diversion, provided he acts in a reasonable relation to the purpose of his delegated authority, and not arbitrarily."

The sixth and final conclusion was, "That the permit of March 3, 1925, is valid and effective according to its terms, the entire control of the diversion remaining with Congress."

CHICAGO'S RIGHT FOR DIVERSION

Press).—The Hughes report on the diversion of water through the Chicago drainage canal is looked upon as a defeat for the State of New York on some points and a victory on others by Randall J. Laboeuf, Jr., special counsel for the State, who argued the case before Mr. Hughes.

Mr. Laboeuf explained that his interpretation of the report was based upon a brief summary on it, and that a detailed statement could not be made until he had studied the report in its entirety.

"It may be," he said, "that on a complete analysis of the report as a whole we may get the results we wanted. One of our contentions which has been upheld is that Chicago has no inherent power to take over the natural map of America; the only power is what it gets from the Federal Government.

"The decision of Mr. Hughes recognizes to a considerable extent the federal position as against the state, but it also recognizes that the federal power is not a broad one, but is strictly limited."

THE LATE MR. HARRY RUSH

A year ago today passed away Mr. Harry Rush, one of Peterborough's most respected and highly beloved citizens. A christian gentleman—a kind and thoughtful friend—a man universally honored for the conscientious faithfulness with which he served this community for so many years.

It is fitting that his memory should be honored on this the first anniversary of his death.

This picture is inserted by the Confederation Life Association as a mark of respect to the memory of Mr. Rush, who faithfully represented the Association for over thirty years.

SIX WOMEN HURT IN 'BUS ACCIDENT

Driver of Vehicle Which Crashed Down Embankment Under Arrest.

LONDON, Nov. 24. (CP).—Six women passengers were injured, one believed seriously when a large passenger bus travelling west on the provincial highway near here, was hurled to the bottom of a twenty foot embankment after crashing almost broadside into a heavy eastbound transport truck Tuesday. The driver of the bus, Russell Litt, of London, was brought here by the provincial police and lodged in the county jail on a charge of reckless driving. Mrs. R. Clark, Saskatchewan, who suffered injuries to chest and body, was removed to Wardsville where physicians are attending her. She was completing the last lap of a journey from the far west to the bedside of her mother, who lies critically ill at her home in Chatham.

As an aftermath of the accident, Litt appeared in the county police court to-day and was remanded one week at the request of the crown on a charge of reckless driving causing actual bodily harm.

Ottawa Men Accused of Entering Three Cardinal Stores.

GOODS RECOVERED.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Wilfred Levere and Rosario Gosselin, both of this city, were arrested yesterday charged with committing three burglaries at Cardinal, near Prescott, Ontario, during the morning of November 20. The stores entered were J. R. Fraser's jewelry store, from which $1,000 worth of goods was stolen. W. T. Kingston's drug store, and David Magee's grocery store, with losses of $300 and $200 respectively. The police claim most of the stolen goods have been recovered.

BRITAIN DELAYS CRUISER PLANS

Reluctant To Lay Down Any 10,000 Ton Vessels at Present.

HOPES FOR LIMITATION.

LONDON, November 24 (Canadian Press). — The British Government is reluctant to lay down any more 10,000 ton cruisers at present, in the hope that naval limitation may yet be reached, Right Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, told the House of Commons yesterday.

Replying to a question in the House, Mr. Bridgeman said that a new situation had arisen owing to the fact that although Great Britain's proposals for limitation in the number of large 10,000 ton cruisers had not been agreed to at Geneva, the discussion left a hope that limitation might be reached. In these circumstances he added the British Government was reluctant to lay down any more of these cruisers at present.

The Baptist religious denomination, with 53,922 ministers, has the largest number of ministers in the United States. The Methodist denomination is second with 44,514.

THE GUELPH HAZING.

If the reports of the hazing of a young English student at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph are only half true, the incident should be thoroughly investigated and adequate punishment administered to those guilty of this disgraceful conduct.

The unfortunate victim, it is said, had been guilty of carrying tales to the authorities over some minor matter.

Resentment among his fellow-students was perhaps inevitable, but there was not the slightest justification for the treatment that he is said to have been given.

We expect something better of the students at the Agricultural College than conduct worthy of hooligans.

To drag one of their number through a pig wallow and then pen him in a crate and expose him, covered with filth, to the public gaze, as is said to have been done in this case, is not the kind of thing that can be tolerated, and the students responsible for such shameful treatment deserve to be properly punished.

The ring leaders will be lucky if they escape with expulsion from the institution.

THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the local branch of the Children's Aid Society held yesterday served to call attention to the fact that the activities of this organization are constantly increasing.

The Society has to its credit the reclaiming of hundreds of neglected and dependent children who have been removed from deplorable surroundings and given a chance to become happy and useful citizens.

Such work is of immense importance—much more so than is perhaps realized.

Solely, from an economic viewpoint, it should appeal to everyone as good business, and from a humanitarian angle the impulse to get behind an organization of this kind should be even more potent.

When the value of the activities of the Children's Aid Society is realized it becomes all the more mysterious why the officers who give so much of their time to this vital work should be handicapped by a battle each year to secure enough funds to carry on.

CHICAGO'S WAY.

More light is thrown upon the manner in which justice is administered in Chicago and upon the methods of police officers by the statement from Chicago's chief of detectives that he would give a banquet for the first of his men to kill a gangster.

Imagine an English or Canadian police official making such an offer!

Or imagine conditions being created in any English or Canadian city that would bring such a promise within the realms of possibility!

Where police are efficient and fearless in carrying out their duties and courts are fair, prompt and strict in dealing with convicted criminals, such a thing as a war between gangland and police is impossible.

It is only in communities like Chicago where crooks are rarely punished and murderers seldom executed that a situation could develop that would make the police prefer to shoot down their quarry rather than trust to the machinery of the law to properly deal with those who have placed themselves beyond the pale.

WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO?

Peterborough will in all probability have to elect at the coming municipal elections a new Mayor, a member of the Utilities Commission, five new Aldermen, and five members of the Board of Education.

It is possible that all twelve positions will have to be filled through the medium of an election.

Wouldn't it be good business for the electors to begin to do some earnest thinking as to how they want these important posts alloted

Or are we going to be satisfied to let the thing drift along as usual until the last moment, entrust the duty of nominating candidates to a handful of citizens, and place the responsibility of making a choice among those so nominated upon 35 or 40 per cent. of the electors?

It will make a lot of difference to Peterborough whether or not we get twelve able men to fill these vacancies.

What are we going to do about it?

Simply let nature take its course or get busy and endeavour to secure the candidature of those capable of good work in the public service?

It is high time anyway that we gave the matter some thought.

COMPULSORY AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE.

An argument which has been brought forward in favor of compulsory automobile liability insurance is that it will ensure compensation for persons injured by the operations of automobiles. Taking this latter statement as it stands it is evident on analysis that it is either too general in its terms or else founded on a misunderstanding of the facts of the situation. This is made clear in the report on the subject prepared by a special committee of the Canadian Automobile Underwriters' Association in which it is pointed out that automobile liability insurance extends only to the indemnity for damages for which the insured person is legally liable. Compulsory insurance does not provide compensation for persons injured in automobile accidents happening through their own negligence nor in accidents for which some other person than the owner or operators of the motor vehicle is responsible. Rather, it is based on the theory of making every motorist financially responsible for any injury caused by the operation of an automobile for which they may be legally liable. That this argument has some merit is true, but carrying it further on some weaknesses are encountered.

That compulsory insurance would not provide compensation for all who are injured may be realized from the estimate that in not more than 40 per cent. of the automobile accidents resulting in serious injury to persons is the owner or operator of the automobile liable damages to the persons injured.

Moreover, it is claimed on good authority that the number of accidents in which personal damage is now sustained for which the motorist is liable and which are not covered by insurance is a very small percentage of the whole. The imposition of compulsory insurance, it is therefore argued, would entail hardship on many for the remissness of a few. The fact that every automobile owner or operator was insured would also be likely to result in numerous claims being made, the settlement of which one way or the other would obviously mean the expenditure of considerable time and money. In any event the benefit to the general public would appear to be of doubtful proportions.

Nor is a reduction in the number of accidents likely to result from making automobile liability insurance compulsory. With reckless drivers, it might rather result in making them more reckless, feeling that they were covered against financial loss themselves, while in any event the careless operator needs more than a sense of financial responsibility to make him anxious to avoid doing injury to his fellow-men.

The fact that legislation compelling liability insurance would be likely to result in further intervention by governmental authorities in business would, to say the least, not be viewed with favor. Accident insurance and accident prevention are two different subjects. One is a matter of business, the other a matter of education and legislation.—Monetary Times.

EDUCATED BY DIFFICULTY.

Sir Robert Falconer, President of the University of Toronto, said at a dinner of scientific agriculturists that the presence of Anglo-Saxon and French cultures side by side had been a means of educating Canadians into breadth of mind. This is a truth which has not always been recognized. In earlier days it was supposed that these cultures must clash. Even so enlightened a statesman as Lord Durham, finding "two nations warring in the bosom of a single State" and actuated by "deadly animosity," could see no remedy but the absorption of one race by the other. Benevolent assimilation was the object of his plan of uniting Upper and Lower Canada. "I believe that tranquility can only be restored by subjecting the Province to the vigorous rule of an English majority; and that the only efficacious government would be that formed by a legislative union."

It must be added that Lord Durham gave some consideration to the plan of a Federal Government, "conciliating the French of Lower Canada by leaving them the government of their own Province and their own internal legislation," the system which is now under operation. But he believed that any Legislature that might meet in Lower Canada would use its power to obstruct government We quote his language not to discredit his reputation for statesmanship, but to show how formidable the difficulty appeared at that time to a mass of unusual breadth of view.

The part of his report that has been completely vindicated is his recommendation of self-government. One of its advantages was that it brought together French-Canadian statesmen and those of British descent. They worked together; they disagreed upon some matters; and they finally came to the conclusion that the true remedy was to extend the principle of self-government and apply it to the Provinces as well as to Canada as a whole. Quebec now governs itself in regard to many of the most important matters of legislation and administration, including education. The French-Canadian people are very far from being absorbed in the sense of losing their distinctive characteristics. But in Dominion affairs they work in harmony with the majority. Unity without uniformity is a watchword of Canadian statesmanship.

All this, as Sir Robert Falconer points out, has been highly educative. Racial and religious prejudice has occasionally appeared, but common sense has compelled the recognition of the truth that this can work only mischief in a country where nearly 28 per cent. of the people are French-Canadian and more than 38½ per cent. Roman Catholic.

This really serious problem having been solved, we need not be very anxious about the minor problem created by the influx of Europeans not belonging to the British or French races. The most numerous of these is represented by a percentage of less than 3½ per cent., and most of them by less than one per cent. It is not necessary that they should be recognized as the French-Canadian minority has been. Unlike the French-Canadians, their destiny is assimilation, and this is likely to come about without any tyrannical action, through education and intercourse with English-speaking neighbors. Even the Americanization which is dreaded by some has its part in assimilating the foreign-born in Canada. They are influenced not only by the majority in Canada, but by more than a hundred millions on the other side of the line. The new world overshadows the old in their scheme of life, and any notion of establishing here a little Germany or a little Ukrainia is seen to be out of the question. At the same time they may, like the French-Canadians, contribute valuable elements to Canadian national characteristics.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There is a strong suspicion that the new Progressive leader, J. G. Lethbridge, has been called in as an undertaker to take charge of a political corpse.

Rupert Hughes is one American author who is evidently not afraid of Big Bill Thompson. His second volume on the life of George Washington will probably cause Chicago's Mayor to have a relapse.

Those New York reporters who tried in vain to sell $20 bills for a nickel had not studied salesmanship. They should have marked them down to $19.99.

Western dairymen who are opposed to the principal of protection object to the effect of the Australian Treaty upon their business. Consistency is a word that often does not mean a thing.

Hon. R. B. Bennett has assumed the Conservative leadership, but Ottawa just now is probably more interested in the fate of its professional hockey team.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Nov. 24 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was of a very limited character owing to the fact that English importers did not respond to the high prices asked overnight. The demand for grain from domestic buyers was also quiet, but the tone of the market was steady.

Prices for Spring wheat grades of flour were firmly maintained at the late advance noted. A moderate amount of business was done with local and foreign buyers. The tone of the market for winter wheat flour was firm under a continued steady demand.

Under a good demand from local and United States buyers the millfeed market was active and firm. A fair trade was done in standard grades of rolled oats, and prices were unchanged.

The local and export trade in Canadian baled hay was quiet but values ruled steady.

The undertone to the egg market was firm with a fairly active business passing in both storage and fresh grades. The receipts were 1,759 cases.

The market for potatoes was without any new feature to note, prices being fairly steady with a moderate amount of business passing. Sales of car lots of Prince Edward Island White potatoes were made at $1.25 to $1.30 per bag of 90 pounds; Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at $1.30 to $1.35 per bag of 90 pounds; New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.25 to $1.30 per bag in bulk; Cobblers at $1.05 to $1.10 per bag in bulk, and Quebec varieties at $1.00 to $1.05 per bag in bulk, ex-track.

The demand for imported beans was fair and prices were maintained. Sales of car lot son spot were maue at $2.50 per bushel, and to arrive at $2.60 per bushel, while broken lots sold at $2.75 per bushel, ex-store.

Owing to the limited demand for butter the undertone was easier, but there was no change in values. The receipts were 47 packages.

The trade in cheese was quieter owing to the lull in the demand from both English and United States buyers, and the volume of business was small. The undertone to the market was firm and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 3,076 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (Canadian Press).—Despite evening-up transactions to prepart for to-day's holiday, wheat took a downward course yesterday, affected by enlarged official estimates of wheat ucreage in Argentina. The wheat market here closed unsettled, ⅝ to 1c net lower; corn ⅜ to ⅝c off; oats unchanged to ¼c decline, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10c.

Special attention by wheat traders was given to a final government report estimating that Argentina has 19,700,000 bushels of wheat this year, against 19,250,000 a year ago. This 450,000 acre increase led to considerable selling pressure in Chicago, and so likewise did failure of the Liverpool market to respond fully to Tuesday's advance here. Besides, talk was current that indicated that the 1927 Argentine crop is 229,000,000 bushels and that the Argentine exportable surplus is 152,000,000 bushels. This would imply the 5,000,000 bushels increased yield over 1926.

The fact, however, that the United States Department of Agriculture has increased its estimate of foreign import requirements for wheat was something of an offset. It now seems probably that sixteen European countries will import at least as much wheat as last year, when they took 645,000,000 bushels net. Relative strength shown by Winnipeg quotations yesterday were also of some effect. It was likewise noted that stiff premiums were offered in the southwest for domestic winter wheat, with 20,000 bushels sold for export via the Gulf of Mexico at 14c over the price of Chicago December delivery.

Corn and oats averaged lower on scattered selling. Advices of consignments indicated some increase of the movement of corn. The weather was more favorable, and husking was said to be making rapid progress.

WAS VERY WEAK NERVOUS AND MELANCHOLY

Mrs. Geo. McKenzie, Campbellford, Ont., writes:—"A short time ago I was troubled very bady with my heart and nerves, the cause of it, I think, was my going through the change of life.

"I was very weak and melancholy, and so nervous I could hardly bear to hear a clock ticking, and I did not sleep well.

"I was advised to try MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS so I sent at once for a box; took them and got another, and before they were all gone I felt good, my nerves are fine, I do not mind any noise, and I can sleep well. I cannot recommend them too highly to those suffering as I did."

A Thought For To-day

ON MAKING ACQUAINTANCES

The entire story is wrapped up in this one sentence: Make no useless acquaintances.

There is another valuable suggestion: On first acquaintance, be natural, for any artificial or "put-on" stuff cannot hold out that same proportion very long.

It always makes me smile to see or hear people, when they first meet, trying so desperately hard to make the impression that they are so gosh darn nice—for being so sweet and so amiable. They never hold out.

The practice of saluting people in a friendly but dignified manner leaves all about you believing in you.

You have witnessed both men and women who have said such nice things to a mere first acquaintance and you have known in your heart that it was all bunk.

One can be sincerely considerate honestly polite, dignified, friendly with a new acquaintance without being over-nice all at once.

The gushing greeter, the palpitating polite person gives proof that his or her manner are on a surface showing—just skin deep.

Just be yourself in the beginning of an acquaintance, then there will be no disappointment as you continue that acquaintance.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Many an attorney, like necessity knows no law.

Now is the time when janitors set down for a long winter's rest.

Luxuries are almost prohibitive here but in Russia you can get a divorce for twenty cents.

Forty-four per cent of the water born commerce of the United States last year was on the Great Lakes.

PUPILS DEBATE IMMIGRATION

Oppose Restriction To British Isles For Next Ten Years.

LITERARY SOCIETY MEETS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 24.—The second meeting of this year's High School Literary Society was held in the school assembly hall on Monday afternoon. The programme for the meeting was given by the fifth form and was most interesting. The student critic for the meeting was Russel Learmouth.

Cecil Stephens, president of the society, opened the meeting with a brief address in which he stressed the importance of the Literary Society in connection with the school as a whole. He explained that it was an entirely student organization, and appealed to the students to lend their wholehearted co-operation in order to make each meeting the success which it should be.

Following the address by the president, Irene Stevens played a piano solo and Ellis Darling sketched the current events of interest at the moment. This is always a very interesting part of the programme. Cherry Turner's vocal solo was very much appreciated. As the main event of the meeting, a debate on the problem of immigration to Canada occupied considerable time. The subject under discussion was, "Resolved that immigration to Canada should be restricted to the British Isles for the next ten years." The affirmative was upheld by Roy Johnston and Donald Kidd and Marjorie Ackerman opposed the resolution and were successful in so doing. The judges were Eric Douglas, Rosina Clarke and Thelma Hall. Their decision in favor of the negative was not an easy conclusion at which to arrive, as each of the four speakers were well versed on their subject and spoke exceptionally well.

Following the debate, Reta Pallister gave a reading and there was a piano solo by Roxy Wilson. After hearing the report of the critic, the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

MRS. H. FALLIS GIVES ADDRESS

servative party in the Dominion or Provincial were willing at any time to meet the women of the party half way or more than half way, provided they came forward with a sane, common sense proposal, and if a proposal was not sane and common sense there was every reason why it should be rejected.

Wide Knowledge Needed.

She realized that she was speaking to young men who were not interested in Ontario alone. Their work of the future would lead them out not only into the Provincial but into the Federal field as well. She urged them thoroughly to get the Canadian viewpoint. A comprehensive knowledge of the problems confronting each province was a pressing necessity. The party brought them into touch with young men and women belonging to the various provinces. From them was heard the story of the difficulties of these provinces. These had to be approached with sympathy and understanding.

"We talk of the vast western provinces," said Mrs. Fallis. "I wonder if we actually realize how vast they are. They really constitute an Empire, an empire larger than the combined areas of Germany, France, Holland, Spain and Portugal. An empire that was to become the granary of the world." "These western provinces," she said, "lacked only the great waterway of the other noted grain growing areas of the world. Thus the west had two great problems—transportation and marketing. The marketing question was important, said Mrs. Fallis. Last year France decided to bonus wheat grown within her own borders in order to stimulate cultivation, if other countries did the same, it would have a serious effect on Canada. Discussing the effect of the French decision, the newspapers said the Orient would remain as a market for Canadian wheat. Just then the Chinese Government came out with the declaration that if the Chinamen ever left his native food, rice, for wheatstuff, China would grow her own wheat.

The Oriental Question.

In British Columbia the Oriental question was to the fore, and the Conservative Party took up a strong line with it at the Winnipeg convention. In the session before last, the question came up in the Commons when British troops and ships were sent to China during the Civil War. Some of these ships sailed from Vancouver. Mr. Stevens, the member for Vancouver, pointed out that the provisions for these ships were entirely furnished by Chinese. She mentioned that to show the control they had obtained. With regard to the increase of the Japanese to British Columbia, Mrs. Fallis quoted figures showing that the rate of progress had crept up from a proportion of one Japanese birth in 253 to one in 12. The canned salmon, the fruit, and the hothouse industries were now entirely in their hands. They constituted a menace.

Quebec had its problems of separation from the rest of Canada by race and language. Many felt that the very fact of the language was a separation. But Quebec had a common ground with the rest of Canada in its inhabitants' love of the soil and love of Canada. The people of Quebec were not British at heart, neither were they French, but they were Canadian ,and on that ground all could meet.

Conservatives had to study to get to know their own land and people better. All could not travel but all could study with this end in view. The Winnipeg convention had played a wonderful part in increasing among them a knowledge of their own people and in close unity it brought among all sections of the country. Young men like the members of the Macdonald-Cartier Club should continue this work of unification.

Dr. Monteith.

Dr. Monteith brought before his audience the ideals of public service. He urged his hearers to avoid the error of aiming to earn money merely in order to secure a living. Enjoying the benefits of the greatest institution of learning in Canada, they ought to remember in their future life that they had a duty to family, community, and country. Some day within them would be kindled the public desire to give public service. He called upon them to be ready to discharge that responsibility. Legislators were no better than the people they came from. The rank and file were responsible for the quality of the men in office.

Dr. Monteith went on to review the achievements of the Conservative Party, recalling the historic services which, he declared, were rendered since Confederation. Dealing with Provincial matters, he contrasted the achievements of the Ferguson administration with those of its predecessors, much to the advantage of the latter.

At the close of the speeches a short time was allowed for open discussion, during which Mrs. Fallis answered a number of questions relative to organizing methods.

Mrs. Fallis will to-day visit Oshawa where she will assist in organizing Conservative women, confer with party executives, and address a meeting of Collegiate students.

New Canadian Pacific Railway 18,000 Ton Steamer Launched at Glasgow.

"DUCHESS OF ATHOLL."

GLASGOW, Scotland, November 24 (Canadian Press Cable). — The new Canadian Pacific Railway 18,000-ton steamer, Duchess of Atholl was successfully launched by the Duchess of Atholl in the yards of Messrs. William Beardmore & Company, Limited, at Dalmuir on the River Clyde yesterday afternoon in the presence of the Dukes of Atholl and Montrose, Sir George McLaren Brown, European representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the Agent-Generals of Quebec, British Columbia, and Newfoundland. The Duchess gladdened the hearts of the men employed on the construction of the boat by unexpectedly addressing them.

At a luncheon following the launching ceremony, the Duchess occasionally adopted a parliamentary posture, holding her coat lapels with both hands. She described herself as the ship's godmother, and expressed the greatest pleasure in being associated with the further developments of the company which had rendered such rare service to Canada, and through Canada to the Empire. She mentioned that the vessel just christened was one out of twelve ships under construction by the firm, which since 1903 had spent £20,000,000 on British-built ships.

The Duchess said the Canadian Pacific Railway more than any other institution had made the realization of Canadian unity a possible reality by linking up Eastern Canada not only with the Prairie Provinces, but with British Columbia.

Lord Invernairn, chairman of the Beardmore Company, in reviewing the progress of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said it would be a tragedy if the results of the great work of their predecessors should ever be merged with interests other than those in closest contact with the British Empire.

The Duke of Montrose, a director of the Beardmore Company, after making a striking reference to the fusion of the Vickers and the Armstrong Companies, asked how long the industries on the Clyde would continue against cut-throat competition? He said, on behalf of the Beardmore Board of Directors that he hoped that the industries on the Clyde, kindred with the Beardmore interests, would regard his question as an offer of co-operation.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Speaker in the Canadian House of Commons, spoke briefly, and thanked the Duchess for her continued interest in Canada.

The boys who went to the Northwest in September are returning home.

Mr. Albert Martin lost a valuable grey horse on Tuesday night, and another one of his horses is ill with the same disease.

LADIES' AID PLANS CHRISTMAS CONCERT

Omemee United Church Ladies Hold Regular Meeting.

OMEMEE, Nov. 24.—The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid of Trinity United Church was held at the parsonage on Thursday afternoon. Owing to the inclement weather, there were only eleven members present. The meeting opened with a hymn, followed by prayer and the Scripture reading by Mrs. J. Bushnell.

Reports were given by the Secretary and Treasurer, the latter showing the proceeds from the fowl supper to be over two hundred and eighty dollars.

An acknowledgment of kindnesses sown by the Society at the time of bereavement was received from Mrs. R. Boyd.

The sum of $7 was given to Mrs. William Brandon for the laundering of the linen.

Upon motion, the Secretary was advised to write to Toronto regarding the silver communion service which was left there to be sold when the wooden service was purchased.

Flowers for the basket in the church was discussed and a committee of Mrs. Bushnell and Miss L. Parsons were appointed to look after the matter.

The annual Christmas tree was discussed at length and it was decided to provide the treat for the children, providing each class be responsible for one or more numbers toward the program.

A vote of thanks was extended to D. Weir for the kind offer of a tree for the occasion.

The meeting closed with the singing of a hymn, followed by the benediction pronounced by Mrs. H. Lamb.

A dainty lunch, provided by Mrs. Rowland and her mother, Mrs. Musgrove, was much enjoyed.

The marriage of Thomas Bannon, son of Mr. John Bannon, of Omemee, to Miss Lytle of the same place, took place recently in Roland, Manitoba.

The Young Worshippers' League, of Trinity United Church met at the morning service on Sunday, and in splendid style the several members recited the work allotted them by the pastor, after which Mr. Rowland preached a splendid sermon from the text, "Go, and do thou likewise."

In the evening, the Rev. Mr. Totten, of Cavan, occupied the pulpit, and delivered a very interesting and intellectual missionary sermon from the text, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son."

FISH BITES, PARALYZES MAN

Bitten by a fish, which jumped into his motor boat near the mouth of the Thames river, William Bennet collapsed. When his surprised friends scrambled to his rescue he was blue in the face and his arms and legs were paralyzed. After treatment at a hospital he recovered from wounds which were discovered to be of a poisonous nature. The fish is being preserved for inspection.

Among males, only two diseases, heart and tuberculosis, cause more deaths than do accidents.

Mine Trading Now At Record Volume

Trading in mining shares in Toronto has reached a total that today places it on a parity with the New York stock exchange in the number of shares changing hands daily. For the past week the daily average has been over 3,000,000 and indications are that this level will continue. Another important feature is that the Toronto stock exchange, pressed by the volume of mining business that was coming to it, has opened a separate mining department. It is also enjoying a good volume of business.

The topic that seems to be foremost in the minds of the public is when is this bull market in shares going to end. Many say the public has gone crazy. But a study of the market fails to support this. It is true that there is a tremendous volume of stock changing hands but it is not confined in any way. It seems to be a large general market and the increases that have taken place in the price of shares has been quite moderate and nothing as wild as has been witnessed in previous markets.

The fact is that there are a great many new issues and the majority of them possess sufficient merit to attract the public and this is providing a great volume of business. The outlook is that these new issues will continue to come out and the same with the volume of good news that is coming out from the operating mines. It is rather significant that at this time the leading producers, for who most part, have been neglected and in many cases they have lost ground. When all bull markets of the past have shown a tendency to ease there has been a rush to get into the better stocks and that has been the occasion for material rises in better stock prices. This may not prove the case this time, but it is a fact that most of the better mine stocks are selling materially under their last high level.

Amulet has announced that shareholders will be given new stock at $1 per share on a basis of one new for each four held. This means that the holder of 1000 shares of Amulet will have the right to take up 250 shares at $1 each and will have 90 days to pay for them in three equal payments. At the present market price the 250 shares have a value of $1225. It is officially announced that the development of the property has been excellent. A new mining plant is to be installed and a couple of months work done before mill plans are made. It is believed that in the late winter the company will take in a 500 ton mill.

There is every indication that the Whitney interests will take up their option on the Flin Flon property in Northern Manitoba. This will be a boon to Mining Corporation as they will get back money expended, plus $1,000,000 and an interest and will then be free to devote attention to their various silver operations. It is understood that negotiations are now on at Ottawa for a power site and for quick action on the building of a railway from the Pas.

Ankerite Mines, which has been developed by Porcupine Goldfields, a subsidiary of New Consolidated Goldfields of South Africa, has reached the operating stage. The large amount of work done will begin to show in production. The mill has been running for about a year now, treating development ore and the funds raised have been plowed back into further development. The property is now opened to 475 ft. and it is the intention to sink the shaft to 850 ft. and open new levels. Meanwhile stopes have been opened, some as wide as 40 feet and, with this ore going to the mill, the recovery has been stepped up materially. It begins to shape quite profitably. It is understood that the run-of-mine ore will grade somewhat better than that of Hollinger, while recently there has been a material reduction in costs, until these today stand second (in the Porcupine camp) to Hollinger. This allows the operation a nice profit. The great bulk of the stock in this company is held by the South African company, which to date has spent $1,200,000 of its own money on development in addition to $1,000,000 which it has spent in various Canadian camps looking for new properties.

The full information has not been published on Howey Gold Mines crosscutting, but sufficient is known to warrant the conclusion that the company has a mine of substantial proportions. Pres. Hammell was frozen in at Red Lake, but shou'd be out soon with the full details. As was said in this letter of last week, the company likely will go ahead with a mill this winter. By February driving on the four levels opened up, there should be one mill of ore ready.

Brokers Dispute Timmins' Statement

TORONTO, Ont., November 24 (Canadian Press). — Toronto mining brokers to-day expressed strong disagreement with the statements of Noah Timmins ,president of Hollinger Consolidated, that the present mining boom would result in harm to a lot of investors when the reaction came. They asserted that an active mining market aided development of the mining country, J. F. Ussher in particular declaring that the present market "has a more stable foundation than any other we have ever had before."

Brazilian Gain Features Quiet Toronto Trading

TORONTO, Nov. 24 (Canadian Press).—An upward swing in Brazilian, which carried it to a record high of 214½, was a feature of the generally depressed list on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Brazilian at noon around 213 had a net gain of 2¾ points. International Nickel firmed at 68. Most other issues were unchanged or slightly lower in heavy trading. Alberta Pacific Grain eased a half at 56 and Canners Preferred and Page Hersey were fractionally lower. Oils were unsteady, with McColl losing 2½ at 56½, British American being unchanged at 36. Liquor stocks tended slightly lower, Canadian Brewing losing 1½ at 34. Walkers, Carlings, and Can. Malting lost slightly, while Gooderham firmed a fraction at 59¾.

Mine Market Again Slackens This Morning

TORONTO, Nov. 24 (Canadian Press). — With another substantial decrease in trading bringing the volume of sales to a million and a half shares during this morning's session, the late leaders of the advance on the Standard Mining Exchange continued to recede. Area and Gold Hill, with three point gains, and Dome Mines were conspicuously strong spots in the depressed list. Moderately substantial losses were recorded in Amulet, Barry Hollinger, Argonaut, Bidgood, Crown Reserve, Howey, Kirkland Lake issues, Teck Hughes and Vipond. Noranda sold down 28 at 25.12.

FIVE INJURED BY EXPLOSION

Gas Catches Fire at Well Mouth in Turner Valley Field.

CHILDREN BURNED.

CALGARY, Alta., Nov. 24 (Canadian Press).—Five men were injured, three seriously, and two children badly burned when a terrific explosion in the north end of the Turner Valley oilfield yesterday caused widespread alarm. The explosion was due to ignition of the gas flow at Stockmen's Well. It was a flow of wet gas estimated at three million cubic feet per day and was only brought in at the well on Tuesday.

Situated away from the mass of derricks which sprinkle the central portion of Turner Valley, help was delayed in reaching the blazing well, and for some time the crew, trapped in the derrick house, fought for their lives. Only after a thrilling struggle did they succeed in winning their way to safety through the blazing derrick timbers. The presence of two small children is something of a mystery, but it is believed that they followed their mother when she ran to warn the drillers of their danger and were caught by the flames.

DUTCH ARTIST TO VISIT CITY

L. Van Hoven Will Have Exhibit —Secretary Here Now.

PICTURES ON DISPLAY.

L. Van Hoven, a Dutch painter of repute, who is now in Canada with his brother to do the decorating of the new church of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, which is in the course of construction, will be in Peterborough some time in the near future. Preceding him is his secretary, Joseph Lanczi, who will exhibit a few of the master's paintings to those interested. He is staying at the Empress Hotel, and will have several pictures on display at the Y.M.C.A. on Friday and Saturday. Judging by other press reports, the pictures possess true artistic worth and will well repay a visit to see them. The pictures are not for sale.

SYDNEY INQUIRY IS POSTPONED

Nothing More Will Be Done Until Tahiti Returns From U. S.

EVIDENCE CONFLICTING.

Sydney Australia, November 24. — (United Press.) — The marine court inquiring into the harbor disaster on November 3rd which caused the death of forty six people, when the S. S. Tahiti collided with a crowded ferry boat had been adjourned until December 28 in order to permit the captain and engineer of the Tahiti to be present when they return from their present voyage to San Francisco.

During the sittings, which have continued for the past fortnight much conflicting evidence has been given, but the facts produced tend to show that the Tahiti was exceeding the maximum speed limit allowed under port regulations, and also that the pilot apparently failed to observe strictly the regulations governing navigation of one vessel overtaking another; on the other hand it is indicated that the ill fated ferry swerved across the Tahiti's bow probably due to a failure of her steering gear. The Tahiti is due in San Francisco November 25th.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN YOUNGER.

The funeral of the late Alice Maude Forrest ,wife of John Younger, took place from her late residence, Front street, yesterday afternoon. The Rev. C. D. Daniels spoke very highly of the deceased at the home and also officiated at the grave. Interment was made at Mount Pleasant cemetery. There were as pall bearers, Messrs. George Hammond, J. A. Irwin, Nelson Stone, Leslie Diamond, Percy Denyes, and George Atwell.

The late Mrs. Younger was of Scottish ancestry, but had been a lifelong resident of the province of Ontario. For the greater part of her life she had been a resident of this locality and for the past six years had resided in town. She was in her sixty-seventh year and had been confined to her home for some months with the illness which finally proved fatal.

Besides her husband, the late Mrs. Younger is survived by four brothers, George Forrest, New York; Alfred Forrest, Chicago; William Forrest, Arkansas, and Frank Forrest, of Los Angeles. There are also three sisters, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Parker, and Mrs. Archie Thompson, all resident in this vicinity, and a niece, Mrs. John Potts, who is also a local resident. A multitude of friends mourn her loss.

MRS. MARGARET ELIZABETH LEWIS.

The death occurred this morning, after several weeks' illness, of Margaret Elizabeth Hill, widow of the late Rev. E. Dewart Lewis. Mrs. Lewis has been a resident of this city for the last 25 years, and was a member of George Street United Church. Her husband, who was born in the Township of Smith, and was a minister of the Gospel in the Bay of Quinte conference of the Methodist Church, predeceased her 30 years ago.

She leaves to mourn her loss two sisters, Mrs. R. H. Hobbs of Detroit and Mrs. (Rev.) E. S. Walker of Mount Bridges, and three brothers, James Hill of Calgary, Joseph S. of Detroit, and Wesley J. of Toronto.

The body will remain at the funeral home of D. Belleghem and Sons until Monday, when the funeral will be held at 2.00 p.m. in George Street United Church, with the Rev. J. E Todd officiating. Interment will take place in Little Lake Cemetery.

WEDDING BELLS

BENNETT—HAMILTON.

The marriage took place at one o'clock to-day, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wright, 116 Gladstone Avenue, of Miss Jean Hamilton and Mr. Harold Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Bennett, of Otonabee. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, pastor of St. James' United Church. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Walter Wright.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. John R. Wright, wore a lovely gown of midnight blue velvet with rhinestone ornament. She wore slippers of silver brocade with silver hose and a corsage bouquet of Columbia roses and lily of the valley.

The signing of the register was witnessed by Miss Myrtle Waldie and Mr. Sherman Blewett.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served to the members of the families of the wedding party, the rooms being decorated with pink and white streamers and flowers the bride's table being centred by the wedding cake.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett left by motor for Toronto and points West, the bride travelling in a coat of midnight blue needlepoint with mandel fur trimming and small hat of blue and silver.

On their return they will reside in Otonabee.

KRUSCHEN VERSUS INDIGESTION

For pity's sake — and your friends' — don't mope around muttering harsh words about your stomach. Probably you've been eating things you shouldn't — or haven't been exercising enough.

In any case, Kruschen's SIX salts will soon fix you up, ridding you of poisons, soothing your digestive tract, purifying your blood and bringing back the old enthusiasm for life.

One salt could never do what Kruschen's SIX do. So, tomorrow morning, begin taking the little "daily dimeful", tasteless in your coffee or tea. Get that good old "Kruschen feeling".

ABSOLUTE PURITY

The proprietors of Kruschen Salts guarantee its absolute purity. Each ingredient attains a standard of purity far exceeding that demanded by the British Pharmacopoeia.

WHAT KRUSCHEN IS
Not one salt only—but six!

SODIUM SULPHATE — Very valuable medicinal salt. Aperient. Diuretic. Purifies the blood. Prevents absorption of toxins. 1.

SODIUM CHLORIDE — Medicine and food. Improves digestion. Maintains alkalinity of the blood serum. Antiseptic. Prevents fermentation. 2.

MAGNESIUM SULPHATE — A most valuable item in medicine. Bitter tonic. Improves appetite. Useful in all gouty conditions. Excellent remedy for Dropsy and Gravel. 3.

POTASSIUM IODIDE — Affects favourably every organ and tissue. Fortifies body and brain. Many governments put it in drinking water, table salt, etc. 4.

POTASSIUM CHLORIDE — Of great benefit in cases of high blood pressure. Valuable for Gout and Rheumatism. 5.

POTASSIUM SULPHATE — Similar saline action to Sodium Sulphate. Dissolves Uric Acid. 6.

BOARD REVIEWS COTTON INDUSTRY

Manufacturers Claim Cottons Need Protection Against the United States.

OTTAWA, Ont., November 24 (Canadian Press). — The Tariff Advisory Board yesterday made considerable progress in the investigation of the cotton industry of the Dominion opened up by the demand from the Consumers' League of Canada for a downward revision of the cotton tariff. A great deal of evidence touching on the financial situation of the companies engaged in the industry, on the competition they are faced with from the Southern States and from the United Kingdom, on the problems of dumping, the handicaps of Canadian mills making a variety of articles competing with American mills that specialize in one variety only, and other difficulties that the Canadian companies have to meet in order to make the industry progress was given. The hearing was also featured by a statement from the chairman, W. H. Moore, to the effect that "the Minister was giving serious thought to the matter of appointing a Board of Appraisal" and that "he was going to establish" such a Board.

Several anomalies in the customs tariff were pointed out by R. P. Sparks, who declared in connection with the chairman's statement that the whole matter of appraisal was dealt with in the report of the Royal Customs Commission, and that already the Government had sent representatives to the United States to study the system in vogue there.

G. H. Montgomery, K.C., of Montreal acted for seven of the large companies, while Aime Geoffrion, K.C., of Montreal, conducted the case for the Canadian Cottons, Ltd. F. G. Daniels, of the Dominion Textile Co., gave considerable evidence, and Major A. E. Nash furnished many statistics of the financial conditions of the various companies.

FRANCE DEFINES ATTITUDE ON GERMAN LOANS

Approves Those Made For Production—Resist Any Held To Be Needless.

ALL SUBJECT TO SCRUTINY.

Desire Is To Facilitate Reich's Development While Protecting Allies.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—On the issue of the relative position of German foreign loans and reparations with respect to transfers of money from Germany abroad, the attitude of France may be stated as follows:

"American subscribers, or rather the banks which assume responsibility for loans, should not lose sight of the fact that so long as they lend money to Germany for her economic recovery, for the employment of her labor and for promotion of her industry, the Allies, and France particularly, are in agreement and even satisfied.

"As long as the matter remains within these limits, which is to say, as long as the Commission for Reparations and its representative at Berlin make no objection, American subscribers may be reassured. From the moment that these loan operations no longer constitute an aid to production, but fall into the category of non-productive loans, the said operations become doubtful and dangerous, for in case of default on reparations and in case of bad faith on the part of Germany the Allies are entitled to invoke their privileges under Article 248 of the Treaty of Versailles, which gives them a lien on Germany which may be characterized as a first mortgage."

The Issue Involved.

The issue is important, for it concerns on the one hand the $10,000,000,000 reparation debt of Germany and on the other hand $3,000,000,000 loaned to Germany, which total is constantly growing.

Reading between the lines of the above statement, which may be taken as representing accurately the position of the French Government—most interested in reparations—it appears that American subscribers to German loans may have no fears until either Mr. Gilbert or the Reparation Commission or the Allied Governments themselves condemn the nature of German loans newly contracted.

This means in effect that the French will not invoke reparation claims to interfere with the service of German foreign loans until loans fall into what is regarded as the non-productive class and until after the Allies have given due warning.

This does not mean that the French believe Germany has not contracted unnecessary loans. They agree with Dr. Schacht that she has done so and that continuance of such a program would imperil reparations. But now, after Mr. Gilbert's warning, arrangements have been made which in effect require his approval of all future German foreign loans, and apparently the French are quite willing to leave the situation there for the present.

When the issue first arose, considerable pressure was brought to bear on Premier Poincare to issue a declaration that France considered reparations came first in claims on such transfers as the German economic machinery was capable of making. But after study the French leaders have come to the conclusion that the matter is not so simple as that, since the foreign obligations of Germany of all classes have inter-relation and may be said to stand or fall together.

In other words, putting it frankly, if Germany defaulted on the service of her foreign industrial loans her exchange situation would quickly get to be such that, under the terms of the Dawes Plan, cash transfers for reparations would become impracticable.

French View of Situation.

Therefore the enquiries which have been made by French experts have shown that it is not practicable to give a black or white answer to the question as to which German debt comes first. Reserving their theoretical rights under the treaty, the French prefer to take what they regard as a practical view of the situation—namely, they do not object to Germany's borrowing the money she needs, but will object if Germany borrows money she does not need and the service of which would interfere with reparation payments. Thus it may be seen that the French have come very near to meeting what Dr. Schacht has described as a fair view of the situation.

It is recalled that in 1926, when the Prussian State sought a loan, the Commission for Reparations notified Germany of its right to approve or disapprove this loan. The Germans then took the position that the Dawes plan had replaced the general lien on Germany by specific liens on railroads, industries and so on. The Allies then took the position that the Dawes plan liens had not replaced the general lien but had created a modus for the liquidation of the general lien. That remained the allied position, and it will be recalled that recently it was agreed, largely through the work of Dr. Schacht, that no German loan should be contracted without notice being given through the agency of Mr. Gilbert.

The Poincare Government wishes to give this system a fair trial, without in the meanwhile trying to start a polemic. If, on the other hand, the Germans insist on loans which Mr. Gilbert and the Commission for Reparations may regard as useless, Frane creserves all her rights to accuse Germany of failure to co-operate in the honest execution of the Dawes plan.

The position thus taken by the French Government, while not going so far as certain English, German and American bankers would go, nevertheless is of a nature to give assurance to American investors in German securities.

Lloyd George Says U. S. Helps Britain

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(United Press).—Lloyd George, speaking at Canterbury Tuesday, repudiated the possibility of war between the United States and England.

"He is a lunatic who has America on the brain. The stronger America becomes the greater becomes our strength", said the war time minister.

"America is not going to let Great Britain be trampled on by any one. They may say even insulting things about us in America but if anybody attacked us America would enter the war very shortly."

"DEACON DUBBS" AT KNOX CHURCH

Play To Be Presented To-night and Friday is Full of Fun.

"Deacon Dubbs", to be presented at Knox Church Lecture Hall to-night, is one of the most mirth-provoking of amateur plays. The Deacon has appeared in many church affairs in past years, but this latest episode in his colorful life surpasses all the rest.

The play is sponsored by the Central Sewing Circle of the Church, and is being presented by local talent under the able direction of Mr. Devey. There is music in abundance, with enough of merrymaking and interest to fill two happy hours.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent cougns and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creooste goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Women Propose Ban On Warlike Songs As Step Toward Peace In Future Years

NEWARK, N.J., Nov. 24.—(United Press).—"The Star Spangled Banner" and other patriotic songs of a like nature, were abandoned in the public schools by the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs as a constructive aid to the elimination of war.

Mrs. Harry Heller, of New York, said her organization was considering the proposal of Miss Louise Westwood, supervisor of music in the Newark Public schools, to eliminate "The Star Spangled Banner," and all other national songs containing references to war, from the music of the school.

The idea originated with Mrs. Alan Johnson, a Quaker. She said she thought the abolition of all military references in bringing up children would go far toward preventing wars in future generations.

"I've told my children to stand straight like a soldier," or "be brave like a soldier", she said.

"At Christmas time, children sing songs as king Santa Claus to bring the swords and guns. This ought to be stopped."

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

MOUNT PLEASANT, Nov. 24.—On Sunday, November 20th, anniversary services were held in the United church. There was a good attendance at both the morning and evening services. The morning service was conducted by Rev. J. W. Gordon, B.A., B.D., of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, who delivered an inspiring address to all his hearers. The evening service was in charge of Rev. E. W. Rowland of Trinity church, Omemee, who preached a splendid sermon taking for his text St. Luke 10-36. Special music was furnished by the choir at both services.

DURHAM BOYS GOOD JUDGES

Team Placed 10th in Competition at Royal Winter Fair.

STAPLES WINS PRIZE.

At the recent judging competition at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, Durham County team, composed of Harry McLaughlin, Nestleton; Carmen Seymour, Ida; Ray Staples, Bethany, and Percy Philip, Nestleton, as spare, stood tenth out of thirty-two teams with a score of 2,068 points out of 3,000. Wellington County won first place with a score of 2,289, Oxford County being second. Durham County made the highest score of any in sheep, and Ray Staples won 17th place out of 96 boys in the individual ranking and he wins a $10 prize.

The coach, J. Y. Kellough of Port Hope, was very well pleased with the efforts of the boys, as this is the highest standing Durham County has taken for some years. The training which the boys receive in these competitions is invaluable and often prove the incentive for junior farmers to keep better livestock on the home farm.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 24.—The Ladies' Guild of Knox United church held a sale of home cooking and candy in Mr. Hendren's store on Saturday afternoon. Afternoon tea was served also.

The guests were welcomed by the president, Mrs. W. J. Charlton, and a pleasant afternoon was spent. Among the assistants were Mrs. George Preston, Mrs. G. E. Renwick, Mrs. James Walton, Mrs. J. H. Moore and Mrs. Windsor, Misses B. and R. Adams, M. Sanderson and Reba Preston.

The I. O. G. Club of the Baptist church called on their leader, Mrs. (Rev.) Spence at the Baptist parsonage on Wednesday evening last and spent a social hour with Mr. and Mrs. Spencer. They presented Mrs. Spencer with a purse of money as a remembrance of the girls and their appreciation of her work among them.

Married 58 Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Edwards received good wishes from many friends on Friday, the occasion being the 58th anniversary of their marriage. The whole community join in the good wishes and sincerely hope that this worthy couple may live to celebrate their diamond wedding in 1929.

The fourth card party of the A.Y.P.A. series was held on Thursday evening. Thirteen tables were played and prizes were won by Miss Gertie Summers and Mr. George Graham. Consolation prizes went to Miss Winnie Payne and Mr. Ralph Bickell.

The weekly card party under the auspices of the ladies of St. Paul's church was postponed last week owing to the death of Father Garvey's father, Mr. T. Garvey.

Miss Clare Connell was the hostess of a very jolly children's party at "Harborne" on Saturday afternoon when she celebrated her ninth birthday.

The softball scheduled for Friday evening failed to materialize. The High School team appeared in force and ready for their game but no other teams were on hand so the High school were declared winners by default of the Cement Co.

Farewell Sermons.

Rev. W. Spencer preached his farewell sermons in the Lakefield Baptist church on Sunday morning and evening. Mr. Spencer has been the pastor of the church for nearly two years and leaves this week for Durham in Grey County where he has accepted a call.

Rev. Charles H. Schutt of Toronto, the Home Mission superintendent of the Baptist church visited Rev. and Mrs. William Spencer last week and spoke at the prayer meeting on Thursday evening. Mr. Schutt paid a high tribute to the worth of both Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, the former is a preacher of outstanding merit in the denomination and has few equals and Mrs. Spencer who has been the efficient and faithful organist is a woman of rare attainments and the Lakefield church is not only losing its pastor but also its organist and choir leader.

Rev. W. Spencer was in charge of the Norwood Baptist church for the anniversary services on November 13th and received a tribute of appreciation from the Ladies' Aid of that church.

Dr. Mitchell, returned missionary from China, was the speaker in Knox United church on Sunday morning and in Regent Street United Church on Sunday evening. There was no evening service in Knox Church on Sunday.

CHEERFUL WOKERS HOLD TALENT TEA

Bible Class of St. James' Church Makes Presentation To Member.

The Cheerful Workers' Bible Class of St James' United Church, held their monthly talent tea on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. A. Brumell, 201 Rubidge St. Assisting in a delightful program were Miss Dorothy Swanger, who gave two piano solos, and Arthur Compson, who favored the gathering with two violin numbers. A reading was given by Mrs. George Rowe.

Prior to the departure to the United States of Mr. and Mrs. John Fairbrother, 127 Romaine street a presentation was made to them by Mrs. William Swanger. The address was read by Mrs. Robert English.

Dear Mrs. Fairbrother: We, the members of the Cheerful Workers Bible Class have gathered here this evening to spend one more social hour prior to your departure from our midst. In the past year that you have been with us you have won for yourself the friendship of every member of the class and mere words cannot express our regret at your departure for another field of labor. We have learned of your decision to make your home in a new land and we all wish you the greatest success in your new environment. When we have gone to your new home we will always miss you as a very dear friend, and your cheerful and congenial disposition in both business and social life will be a loss but loving memory to us all, but what is going to be our loss will be a gain for other friends. Just as a token of remembrance we ask you to accept this gift, not for its value, but for the love we give with it. We also ask you to accept for Mr. Fairbrother this small token of appreciation of his kindness to the class.

Signed on behalf of the Cheerful workers.

The presents were, to Mrs. Fairbrother, a pearl necklace, and to Mr. Fairbrother, a pair of gold cuff links.

Mrs. Fairbrother replied in a few well chosen words.

Supper was served afterwards and a vote of thanks tendered to the hostess.

CLASS CONFINED TO RESIDENCES

Freshmen of O. A. C. Allowed Out Only One Night Weekly From Now On.

FOR HAZING STUDENT.

GUELPH, Ont., Nov. 23.— (Canadian Press.)— The Ontario Agricultural College Faculty to-day assembled to hear a complaint against the freshman class for hazing Edward Beddoes, a young English student of the class. By decision of the Faculty and Student Body, the class was fined $150 and the members are ordered to be confined to residence every night with the exception of one night each week for the balance of the term. An apology from the class must also be given to the offended student.

The hazing of Beddoes was an attempt, it is said, on the part of his fellow class mates of freshman year to inflict student justice on the young fellow for "squealing" to the authorities over some minor matter. Just out from England, Beddoes is said to be unaware of some of the "unwritten" laws of college student bodies.

Timmins Predicts Sad Awakening

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Special despatch to a Toronto paper yesterday quoted Noah Timmins, president of the Hollinger Consolidated, in commenting on the present mining exchange boom as saying: "Many people are going to have a sad awakening pretty soon and they will be the very people who can least afford it. That's the most tragic part of the business."

The same excitement was experienced at Timmins and other northern mining towns in the neighborhood of the exchange itself, Mr. Timmins said. "They are literally falling over themselves to get in to play the market", he declared. "They're crazy."

You can't get eggs by guesswork feeding

Hens can't lay regularly unless they get proper feed. You must restore to them daily the food elements they give off in the egg. Feed a scientifically balanced ration—one that is certain and sure—one that is economical—one that makes your hens regular producers. More profits for you.

Ful-O-Pep Egg Mash contains exactly the ingredients that hens need to lay lots of large, strong-shelled eggs. Oatmeal—not just ground oats—other cereals, cod liver meal, mineral, are mixed in balanced proportions. The Cod Liver Meal supplies vitamines to act quickly and vigorously on the egg producing organs. Ful-O-Pep Egg Mash is 9% mineral. Hens for their size need more mineral than any domestic animal—mineral for nutriment and mineral for eggs.

Feed Ful-O-Pep Egg Mash. You will get better eggs more regularly. Your hens will be healthy, busy, eager to lay. Cold weather and lack of sunshine won't affect them. Ful-O-Pep brings you dollars.

• • •

The many friends of Mrs. J. W. Gordon, St. Andrew's Manse, will regret to hear of the illness of her mother in Nicholls Hospital. Mrs. Ingle came here a couple of weeks ago to visit Rev. and Mrs. Gordon and yesterday was compelled to undergo an operation. Her condition to-day was reported as being as well as could be expected.

• • •

The big community dance held under the auspices of the Rotary Club, as a house warming and opening of the new wing recently added to the Westclox building in Ashburnham, took place last night and was a very successful event, attended by between five and six hundred people, all of whom appeared to have a very jolly time in the big new building, with an excellent floor and splendid music provided by George Logan's Merrymakers. The lighting arrangements, with special big photographer's lenses giving illumination of a high-power sort, added much to the brilliancy of the scene, also the decorations of colored pennants. The committee in charge of arrangements was composed of Gerald McClelland (convener), J. Matthews, J. D. Fletcher, L. Potvin and J. Primeau, with D. A. Loomis and J. Juby in charge of a refreshment booth.

SAINT and SINNER

The record, "O Sole Mio," from the opera, "Martha," had been made for the talking machine by Carla Remington, famous American lyric soprano, and prima donna of the San Remo Opera Company. As the first notes issued clear and soft and true from the machine, Faith felt her own vocal chords contract painfully in sympathy with the frightened girl who stood at her side. On a sudden impulse she leaned forward and kissed Rhoda on the cheek, then stepped behind her, carrying in her heart a picture of the wide, panic-stricken blue eyes that had been suffused with sudden tears at her token of encouragement and affection.

San Remo, with a shrug of his fat shoulders, and a last wild waving of his arms, snatched the chair which Carla Remington, upon arising to get a better look at Rhoda, had abandoned. With his fingers wound tragically in his hair and his head sunk upon his breast, he looked as if he had made up his mind to endure a spell of agony without further remonstrance.

For a moment Faith thought that the girl would not be able to raise her voice at all, but suddenly she saw Rhoda's shoulders square themselves, her head lift proudly. As the first notes of Rhoda's rendition of the song rose to blend perfectly with the voice from the phonograph, Faith closed her eyes, and hot tears of relief welled out of them slowly. She had no time to wonder why it mattered so poignantly to her that Rhoda should impress these queer, unfriendly strangers: she only knew that it would be a terrible grief to her if the girl should fail.

The song went on—the two voices so twin-like in their perfection that Faith herself could scarcely distinguish between them. The untrained girl's voice as effortlessly reached and held the high notes as did Carla Remington's.

There was no sound at all upon the stage or in the vast dusky auditorium but those two voices, singing together. But when Rhoda, suddenly conscious of her surroundings and of her own great audacity in singing before San Remo and the real Carla Remington, faltered on the final note, and was turning blindly toward Faith, the spell was broken by a great bellow from San Remo, who came charging across the stage to clasp the singer in his arms:

"Mon dieu! Am I dreaming? Adolph! Carla! Paul! But it is impossible! A voice like that I should find! Child, I kiss your cheek! See! I kiss your hand! San Remo kisses your hand! Carla, are we crazy? Was it this child singing or you? Marvelous!"

Faith thought that Carla Remington held back a little, but she was not sure that there had been anything but pleasure on the slightly worn, very heavily roughed face of the prima donna as she went forward to kiss Rhoda also. Faith herself held back shaken with joy and relief, tears slipping unheeded down her cheeks.

When, after a few minutes, the tumult had subsided, San Remo seized Rhoda's hand and dragged her after him down the little flight of steps to the orchestra piano. Seating himself he began excitedly to run the scale, commanding the girl fiercely to sing it. Rhoda opened her mouth, gasped, tried to sing the "do re, mi," as he commanded, failed miserably and burst into a flood of tears.

(To be continued.)

Hints On Etiquette

1. Where does the bride-groom have the bride's bouquet sent?
2. Who furnishes the ushers with their boutonnieres?
3. Does the bridegroom furnish the bridesmaid's bouquets

The Answers.

1. To her house.
2. The bridegroom.
3. No, the bride does.

WHO WROTE THIS ?

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

1. "Most glorious night!
   Thou wert not sent for slumber."
2. "Ah! how unjust to nature and himself
   Is thoughtless, thankless, inconsistent man!
3. "Flowers are words
   Which even a babe may understand."
4. "Smooth runs the water where the brook is deep."
5. "Which he by hook or crook has gathered.
   And by his own invention fathered."
6. "'Tis Providence alone secures

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1927.

Friendly stars rule this day, according to astrology, which reads the stars as especially propitious to activities on the planet Earth.

All the influences tend toward progress and the final throwing off of old traditions, the seers declare.

Aged folk will now belong decidedly to the past, since their ideas will be completely outworn, it is foretold.

Women are wonderfully well directed, while this configuration prevails and they should push all important affairs.

This is a most propitious rule for love affairs, which will multiply under this posting of the stars, which makes the average woman appear as Venus.

Financial matters are well directed and there should be good luck in visits to banks.

Publicity, especially that which concerns the theatre, should assure unusual benefits, it is prognosticated.

Editors and publishers are to profit greatly in the coming months when bitter newspaper campaigns will be waged.

Letters written under this direction of the stars should bring good answer. Suitors will do well to take their pens in hand.

Women should use all their energies in business or professional work, while this rule prevails.

Sensational charges regarding American methods of education are forecast for the winter.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have an uneventful year in which they experience difficulties. A time for wise and steady-going procedure.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly honest and trustworthy. Subjects of this sign are usually enthusiastic nature-lovers and succeed wonderfully with gardening.

HARMLESSLY END GRAY HAIR

Perfectly tint your hair with BROWNATONE. No experience necessary. One application enough. Will not wash out, or rub. Cannot be detected in strongest lights. Absolutely harmless and permanent. Buy BROWNATONE at drug and toilet counters, 60c. and $1.50. Any shade from two colors. For trial first, send 10c. The Kenton Pharmacal Co., 1539 Stearns Bldg., Windsor, Ont.

TRAVELING AID.

When packing beauty bottles or medicine for traveling, wrap a bit of adhesive tape around outside of stopper to prevent leakage.

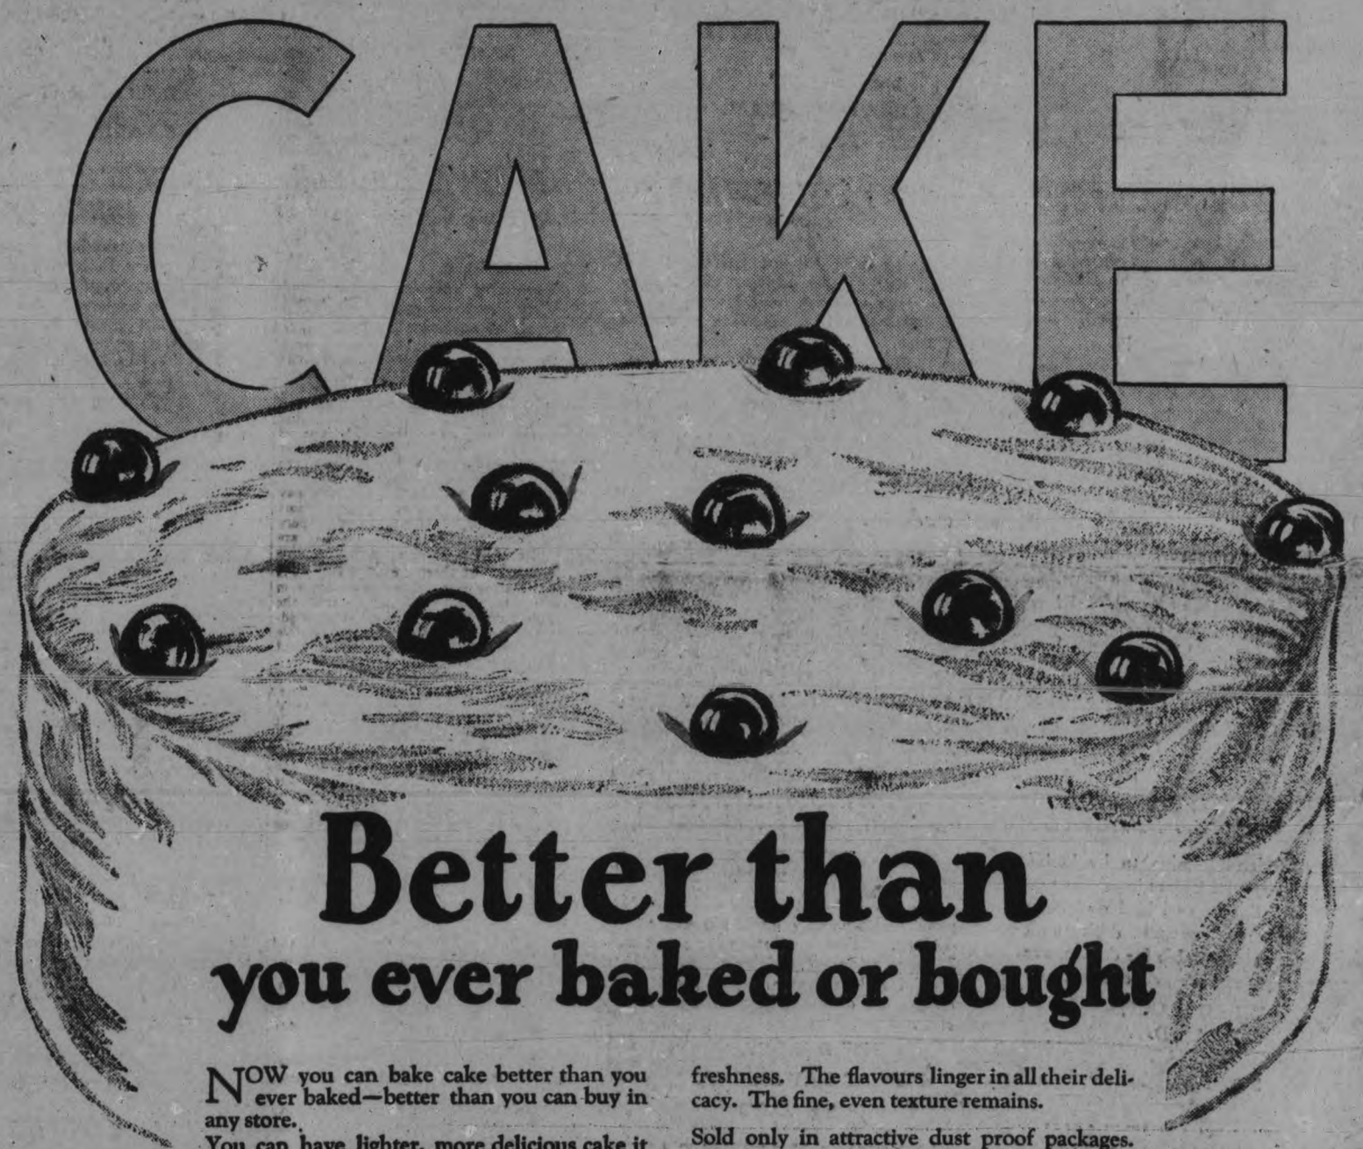
HALL RUGS.

Strips of carpet, when finished by binding with colorful denim or rep, make inexpensive hall rugs.

STRAP HOLDERS.

Evening and afternoon gowns should have tiny loops on their shoulders that hook around undergarment straps and snap shut.

CAKE



Better than you ever baked or bought

NOW you can bake cake better than you ever baked—better than you can buy in any store.

You can have lighter, more delicious cake if you use Quaker Cake Flour. You can bring out in all their subtleness the flavours you use to tickle appetites—the flavours that make your cake more delectable than others.

Cake made with Quaker Cake Flour retains its freshness. The flavours linger in all their delicacy. The fine, even texture remains.

Sold only in attractive dust proof packages. Get one at your grocer's today. Try the recipes on the wrapper, or use Quaker Cake Flour with your own recipes. Because of its fineness, sift Quaker Cake Flour. Because of its quality, use less than of ordinary flour.

Clip this RECIPE

If you have been buying cake, now you can know how much more delicate the flavour and fine the texture of home-made cake.

If you have been using ordinary flour, you can have a new delight in baking with Quaker Cake Flour.

It is so easy to bake with Quaker Cake Flour, and you are certain of a good cake every time.

Quaker CAKE FLOUR

Guaranteed without reserve by THE QUAKER OATS COMPANY

Quaker Cake Flour "ONE EGG" Recipe

Better-Class Women Use

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

ONE of the commonest obstacles to the average woman's peace-of-mind was the old-time "sanitary pad." Uncertain and unsafe, it has now been supplanted with scientific protection that is absolute.

With the amazing absorbency of 16 times its own weight in moisture, KOTEX, the new way, is 5 times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad. It is the only sanitary pad filled with Cellucotton wadding, the world's super-absorbent.

Also, it deodorizes while it acts. Also—it discards easily as tissue. No laundry, no disposal embarrassment. Obtain at any store. 12 in a box.

Note particularly that the package is marked KOTEX. If not, don't accept — it is not genuine Kotex.

No laundry—discard like tissue

BABY CROSS ALL THE TIME

Eczema on Face and Body. Cuticura Heals.

"My baby's face and body were covered with eczema. It broke out in blisters and sore eruptions, and he could not sleep on account of the irritation. I had to keep mittens on his hands to keep him from scratching. He was cross all the time, and his clothing aggravated the breaking out.

"I used other remedies but they did not help him. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a few days I could see a change, and in about a month he was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Katie Davidson, Flat Lake, Alta.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum are ideal for daily toilet uses.

NUTRITION COURSE ATTRACTS

Japan has become a Mecca for students of nutrition since Dr. N. Saeki, director of the Nutrition Research Institute, Tokyo, returned from his lecture tour in Europe and South America. In his talks he urged research into nutrition problems from the viewpoint of medical science and asked foreign scholars to make use of the results of experiments conducted in Japan. Various countries in Europe and South America are establishing similar institutes.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND JIMMY'S TRICK

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

Of all the ducks on the pond near Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow, Jimmie Wibblewobble was the best one for playing tricks. Or perhaps I should say the worst duck—that is how you happen to look at what he did.

Sometimes Jimmie would try to race with one of the gold fishes in the pond; though he never won these races for a fish can swim much faster than a duck can paddle. Again Jimmie would flop his wings and splash water all over Lulu and Alice, his sisters. Not that this mattered much, for a duck is born to get wet and a duck's feathers shed water better than an umbrella sheds rain.

Another time Jimmie might put his head down under water and from the bottom of the pond he would gather some juicy roots of a plant that grew there, or he might catch a fat snail. Holding these in his beak Jimmie would quack to his sisters:

"Who wants something good to eat?"

"I do!" Lulu would quack. "I do!" Alice would quack, for ducks love to eat snails and the roots of water plants.

"So do I!" Jimmie would quack and down he would swallow the fat snail or the juicy root and then he would add: "Wasn't that a good trick."

Oh, Jimmie Wibblewobble was a tricky little duck boy let me tell you!

There was one trick Jimmie always wanted to do, but which, as yet, he had never dared to try. That was to stand on his head in the water, with his stubby little wobbling tail stuck up straight in the air. Perhaps you think ducks don't stand on their heads, but let me tell you if you please, that they do. Watch them some time.

Jimmie often noticed his father and mother stand on their heads. He saw the older duck boys doing it, too, but Jimmie had been told not to try this trick until he grew larger.

The reason a big duck stands on its head is to reach down to the bottom of the pond, in places where the water is deep, to pull up juicy root or fat snails. But little ducks are allowed to put their heads down on the bottom only in places where the water is shallow, and where they do not need to stand on their heads. When a duck turns upside down, with its head on the bottom in deep water, that duck must keep paddling with his feet so he won't flop rightside up before he has had enough to eat.

One day Jimmie quacked to Lulu and Alice:

"I am going to do a fine trick now!"

"What is it?" Alice wanted to know.

"I am going to stand on my head in deep water," Jimmie answered.

"Oh, you'd better not!" warned Lulu.

"Yes, I am going to!" quacked Jimmie. "I want some big, fat snails and some juicier roots than I can get in shallow water. I'm going to stand on my head, tip my tail up in the air, paddle with my feet and dig up something good to eat from the mud."

So, though his sisters begged him not to, Jimmie swam out to where the water was deep. He took a long breath, flopped himself over, with his tail up in the air and thrust his head down deep into the mud. Lulu and Alice, in shallow water, watched their brother.

"He's done it!" whispered Alice, "See, his tail is sticking up!"

"And he's paddling hard," added Lulu. "But why doesn't he bring his head up? He's holding it under longer than even daddy does."

"Oh, Jimmie thinks he's smart!" said Alice.

But, all of a sudden, when some gurgling bubbles began to come up around Jimmie's tail his sisters knew something was wrong.

"His head is stuck in the mud!" cried Lulu.

"And he can't get it loose!" quacked Alice. "Oh, what shall we do. This may be the last trick Jimmie plays! He'll drown!"

"Go tell Uncle Wiggily!" begged Lulu, for the rabbit gentleman was seen hopping along the shore of the duck pond just then.

"Uncle Wiggily! Uncle Wiggily! Please come and make Jimmie stop playing this trick!" quacked Alice.

The bunny uncle saw what the trouble was—Jimmie's head was stuck in the mud. Quickly jumping on a board, which he used as a raft, Mr. Longears pushed himself with a pole out to where Jimmie's tail was still feebly wobbling. Then, reaching down with the pole, the rabbit stirred up the mud and loosened it so Jimmie could pull his head out and he was saved.

"Never do a trick like that again!" warned Mr. Longears.

"Thank —you — I — I — ne-ver — will!" promised Jimmie, all out of breath. And he did not stand on his head in deep water until he grew old enough to get himself loose in case he was stuck in the mud.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Silver lace is combined with Chinese blue velvet in this most unusual evening frock.

Come what may in the cycle of fashion, the great Parisian dressmakers always make some lace afternoon and evening gowns. They do this even when the lace gown is not one of the fashions of the moment. They know that among numerous aristocratic English women who go to Paris for their clothes the demand for the lace frock is perennial.

There are some English women who wear lace afternoon frocks to the races, though American and French women look on and them think dowdy. And there are many, many English women who never feel so pleased with their appearance in the evening as when dressed in lace. Hence almost always there are some lace gowns in the great French collections. The dressmakers have their English customers in mind when they make them. American women will wear lace—when it is distinctly the fashion—but the type of lace gown they choose is not always the same as that designed for the English woman.

These English lace gowns as you may imagine are usually of the draped sort with floating, fluttering skirt drapery of lace. And gowns of that sort are quite in the picture of fashion this season. But there are ways and ways of treating lace. The frock shown in the sketch shows a departure from the old convention in its use. It is decidly Parisian, and suggests a possible way to make use of velvet without having an all-velvet gown.

There are many all-velvet evening gowns this season, but many dressmakers prefer to use this rich material in combination with something else. It may be used with georgette, or crepe satin or both. But for the really gorgeous evening dress the union of lace and velvet is most attractive. Still there must be nothing too complicated or intricate in the mingling of these two materials. An effect of dowdiness and fussiness may result if this is done.

Canadian Runners To Take Part in Berwick Marathon

FAST RUNNERS WILL COMPETE IN MARATHON

Nine Members of Record Breaking Field Have Been Olympic Contenders.

HELD TO-DAY.

Cliffe Brickner of Galt, Ontario, Expected To Repeat Victory.

BERWICK, Pa., Nov. 24 (Canadian Press).—Runners of an international field that will compete to-day in the eighteenth annual Berwick marathon were gathered here last night.

Nine members of the record-breaking field of 36 have been Olympic contenders or will be next year.

Last night a reception was tendered the runners by the Acacia Club.

While Jimmy Henigan of Boston, racing here for the tenth time, is the local favorite, Cliffe Bricker of Galt, Ont., is expected by the experts to repeat his victory of last year, although he faces keener competition.

Johnny Miles of Sydney Mines, N.S., a youth who has come to the front rapidly, and Bill Cox, twice intercollegiate champion and at the height of his career, are also expected to figure strongly. Louis Lee, of Penn. State College, sixth in the intercollegiate race at New York last Monday, is an entrant.

O. Anderson and Gunnar Nilson are the Finnish representatives in the field. John P. Hollier of Camp Meade, Md., represents the army. Canada, in addition to Bricker and Miles, has Harold Webster of Hamilton, Ont., and Charles Snell of Toronto entered.

Much of the road over which the course of nine miles and 385 yards traverses has been improved this year, but several miles of it is rough and muddy, and the record of 47.56 3-5 set by Willie Ritola in 1922 is not expected to be broken.

BLOOR COLLEGIATE WINS KING'S CUP

Shot For Annually By Canadian Cadets Under Service Conditions.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 24 (Canadian Press). — Bloor Collegiate Institute Cadet Corps team, Toronto, Ont., is winner of the King's Cup which is shot for annually by Canadian Cadets under service conditions. Hamilton Central Collegiate team came second and the Oakwood Collegiate Institute, Toronto, team, third. The winning team, with its eight marksmen, made an aggregate of 624 out of a possible 720 points. Four of the boys on this team scored more than 80 points out of a possible 90. Thirty-four teams competed.

The Ottawa Glebe Collegiate team, looked upon as a prospective winner of the cup, was disqualified owing to one of its members being over the age limit.

ALL-CONFERENCE TEAM.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24. — (Canadian Press.)— Led by Herb Joestring of Minnesota and Bennie Oosterbaan, of Michigan as unanimous choices, the all-conference team chosen annually by coaches of the Big Ten was announced yesterday.

The Minnesota fullback and the Michigan end were selected without a dissenting vote for their same positions on the coaches' honorary eleven, followed closely by Raskowski of Ohio as tackle; Baer of Michigan at guard, and Crofoot of Wisconsin at quarterback, who fell just short of unanimous choices.

Rouse of Chicago was selected at centre, beating out Reitsch of Illinois by one vote The other winners of mythical honors were Hanson, Minnesota, guard; Nowack, Illinois, tackle; Fisher, Northwestern, end; Gilbert, Michigan, half-back, and Almquist, Minnesota, half-back.

SPARROW SUSPENDED.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—President A. H. Warren of the American Hockey Association, announced yesterday that Emery 'Spunk' Sparrow, captain of the Minneapolis Millers, has been suspended for fifteen days and fined one hundred dollars for striking Referee Mitchell at the game in Winnipeg Monday night.

Warren also announced that a recurrence of this incident would mean expulsion from the league for Sparrow. He also took occasion to warn all players that the referees' decisions must be respected.

CUBS LOSE FINAL GAME

Defeated 29-5 in Last Tussle in Lakefield Softball Series.

RECORD ATTENDANCE.

LAKEFIELD, November 24. — The final game of the softball season in the Rink Company's League, was played on Tuesday evening with a record crowd in attendance. Bad weather and bad roads did not prevent the fans from gathering to see the last game of the season. Both teams had a series of unbroken victories behind them, and it promised well, but alas for great expectations the Cubs were defeated 29-5, and the game which promised to be a close one was a merry go round of runs for Bridgenorth. What happened — the Cubs were simply out of luck and although they gamely played the full nine innings of the final game they were outclassed all through.The game was clean and straight, and Bridgenorth won fairly and honestly, and the Cubs lost like gentlemen and good sportsmen, standing by in a group while Dr. Kennedy presented the handsome silver trophy to Mr. Melville McWilliams, the manager of the Bridgenorth team.

Dr. Kennedy thanked all who had attended the games and the players and umpires, and in presenting the trophy announced that it had to be won three years in succession to become the permanent property of any team.

Mr. McWilliams replied, thanking the rink company and assuring the crowd of the pleasure it gave him to accept it. The team has always been given a square deal here and are well satisfied with the treatment given them. The umpires were fair and it has been a pleasant season and he and his team will look forward to next year's games. Following the game Mr. McWilliams entertained the team at a fowl supper at his home.

The umpires for the game were Dr Gibson at the plate and Mr. W. G. Morrison at bases.

The line-up was as follows:

Bridgenorth: L. Forsythe p; A. White c; H. Bradshaw 1b; W. Shearer 2b; H. Dormer 3b; Mr. Wilson and G. Dormer ss; F. Woods rf; C. Nicholls lf.

Cubs: F. Madill p; R. Payne c; H. Stabler 1b; B. Dench 2b; E. Moore 3b; F. Payne and F. Webster ss; S. Spence rf; E. Morin lf.

Cubs . . . . . .001000022— 5

The second game scheduled between the Business men and Selwyn was a different proposition as it was merely the scheduled game and had no effect on the winning of the league but Selwyn were there with a full team, but the Business men numbered two but a game was arranged and all the available men were gathered together to form a team. The crowd dwindled as the first game was expected to be the only one played However a game was played, which although very one sided had some amusing points.

G. McIlmoyle was at the plate and H. Oliver guarded the bases.

Business men: W. G. Morrison p; F. Payne c; E. Graham 1b; J. E Galvin 2b; F. Jopling 3b; H. Hamblin and C. S. Tanner ss; J. Gibson rf; C. Payne lf.

Selwyn: Mr. Dobson p; W. Northey c; C. Fitzgerald 1b; D. Darling 2b; W. Fairbairn 3b; C. McIlmoyle and A. Wilson ss; Mr. Dean rf; G. Wilson lf.

HUDKINS AFTER WELTER CROWN

Wants Match With Joe Dundee, the Present Champion.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.— Ace Hudkins is hot after Joe Dundee, welterweight champion. The Nebraska wildcat lost a chance to battle for Joe's title because the fans of Los Angeles did not think the fight was worth paying Dundee a $60,000 guarantee. Joe failed to show up when the fat guarantee was not produced and was suspended by the California and New York boxing boards.

Now Jess MacMahon of the Madison Square Garden Corporation is after a third meeting between Hudkins and Sergeant Sammy Baker. Baker won the first contest by a technical knockout. He had the Nebraskan in pretty bad shape and closed up his eyes. The referee stopped the bout and gave it to Baker. In a return go Hudkins fought his way to a clear victory over the soldier boxer. The count is even up and a third meeting in order.

There is no doubt that this pair measure up as Dundee's closest rivals. If either is able to score a decisive victory no one will question the winner's right to a chance at Dundee's title.

Regardless of the action of the California boxing authorities, the winner will be permitted to fight Dundee with the approval of the New York board. The latter body is not so much concerned with the reasons prompting a champion's refusal to defend his title. Just as soon as the haughty Dundee agrees to fight a worthy contender the suspension will be lifted so that the dispute can be settled.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

HELPED TIGERS DEFEAT QUEEN'S

Here are some of the men who helped Tigers win the big four and to defeat Queen's on Saturday in the Eastern Canadian semi-final They are: Left to right, Gavin Small, flying wing; Jack Bazer, middle wing; "Pep" Leadley, half-back and drop-kicker extraordinary; and Ernie Cox, snap back.

GENARO STANDS IN WAY OF TITLE

Young Canadian Boxer, Frenchy Belanger, Out After Flyweight Title.

TORONTO, November 24 — By By far the biggest ripple in the flyweight pool at the present time is "Frenchy" Belanger. His claim to No 1 rating in the class has been enhanced by the decision of the New York State Commission in ordering "Newsboy" Brown to box Izzy Schwartz for the championship.

Virtually the only contender who stands in his way is Frankie Genaro, and the local youngster is hopeful of removing this obstacle in his path next Monday night at the Coliseum.

If "French" hurdles the New Yorker he will be in a position to dictate his own terms. Genaro, on Tex Rickard's says, which is backed up by the National Boxing Association ,is the foremost aspirant to the vacant throne. There isn't any doubt as to that.

All of which means that a victory for Dave Garrity's protege in Monday night's ten-rounder gives him the right to call himself the world's flyweight champion. In that event uality the Ontario Athletic Commission, which controls boxing in this vicinity, will back up his claims.

Under the circumstances it is not to be wondered at that fight fans are literally burning up over the impending encounter and that Playfair Brown reports an unprecedented demand for accommodation, although the seat sale only opened on Tuesday.

Every indication points to a record crowd. Belanger's corking win over Brown has made him a prime favorite. If he repeats at the expense of Genaro ,twice conqueror of Pancho Villa, nothing will be too good for him.

The semi-final bout announced yesterday should be a big feature. It will bring together those bitter rivals, Chris Newton and Tommy Mitchell, both former lightweight champions, and there should be plenty of earnest milling not only in this tilt but in the other preliminaries before the main bouters get down to action.

Ollie Chill Action Settled Out of Court

CHICAGO, November 24 (Canadian Press). — President Thomas J. Hickey ,of the American Association announced yesterday that the $200,000 libel suit brought against him by Ollie Chill, former umpire in the league, had been settled out of Court at Kansas City. He declined to reveal details of the settlement and said he had no further comment to make.

The suit resulted from an interview Hickey gave the Minneapolis Tribune in 1925, in which he charged Chill with disobeyorders by not stopping at a hotel here designated by him, and that an expense account submitted by Chill was excessive.

THREE JOCKEYS ARE SUSPENDED

Chick Lang, Workman and Fisher Out For Rough Riding.

MAY RIDE NEXT WEEK.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Alleged rough riding, for which Earle Sande, king of jockeys, lost his license, has caused the suspension of Chick Lang, who rode against Sande when the latter was undone at Pimlico. On the ground with Lang are Raymond Workman, who rides for Harry Payne Whitney, and H. Fisher. Workman and Fisher were charged with rough riding in the fourth race Tuesday and Lang offended in the sixth. The Maryland season ends on Saturday afternoon, after which the three set down may ride in other States.

OSHAWA WINS S. P. A. GAME

Upper Canada College and Parkdale Canoe Club Are Eliminated.

GAMES FAST.

TORONTO, November 24. — Toronto Canoe Club and Oshawa were the winning teams in the double bill at Arena Gardens last evening in the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association junior series. The teams eliminated were Upper Canada College and Parkdale Canoe Club, the college boys taking the count by 4 to 1 from T.C.C. and Oshawa putting the crimp in Parkdale's hopes by a 2 to 1 score.

Both games provided some exciting hockey, with the good-night end of the bill being the most interesting. The attendance was much above the average for these fixtures.

Upper Canada College had much more of the play than the score indicates in the first game. The students had many more shots at the net than their opponents, but their aim was terrible and their defeat was entirely due to their faulty shooting. Even when they had only the goalkeeper to best and were right in on top of the goal, they could not get accuracy. They displayed more team play than the Red Ring youngsters, and in the last two periods had much of the play.

Great Battle.

The Oshawa-Parkdale C.C. game was a battle from beginning to end. The visitors deserved the victory because they played the more aggressive hockey and attempted team work. Parkdale players hogged the puck all the time, and their style of play was entirely individual. The checking was close, but had the Paddlers combined more in their attacks on the Oshawa goal they would have fared better. The Paddlers have a good team, as good a team as they had at the beginning of last season, but they will never get anywhere on individual effort. In Ayres, a husky 15-year-old player on the defense, they have a real find, and he will improve when he gets condition. Mephan, Major and Hamilton of last year's Big Four group champions are left, and Mephan is the best player on the team. He scored the only Parkdale goal in the first period after three minutes of play when his lone rush carried him through the defence and gave him a good opening on Levesque.

Whitton Shines.

There are a number of changes in the Oshawa team, the most improved position being centre with a diminutive but stocky lad named Whitton showing up most conspicuously at this point. This lad proved a real obstacle in Parkdale's path with his persistent back checking, and he played no small part in the victory "Doc" Rowden is at right wing, but he did not get much opportunity to drill in those wicked shots of his. He hasn't struck his stride yet.

The Oshawa defence is particularly strong, and in Little, Black, Harrington, and Spanton they have some outstanding players. Little scored the goal that tied the game up in the first period and Black notched what proved to be the winning goal mid-way in the second frame when he bore in on the nets after taking a pass from Rowden. Oshawa had more of the play in the third period than Parkdale, but Major played brilliantly ,as did Levesque when the Parkdale players were close in for a shot .

SENATORS WIN IN FINAL PERIOD

Black Hawks Are Unable To Stand Up Against Faster Team.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24. — The champion Ottawa Senators coming with a rush in the third period, defeated the Chicago Black Hawks by 2 to 0 in the opening game of the National Hockey League season here last night. A capacity crowd of 8500 witnessed the game.

The Chicago team took the ice without Dick Irvin and the new players of the team were unable to cope succesfully with the heavier and more experienced Senators.

The Black Hawks were unable to penetrate the tight Ottawa defence with any regularity their shots mostly being from near the line.

Ottawa's offence was rendered ineffective in the first two periods by the fine back checking of the Chicago youngsters. However when Ottawa made a determined effort to win the game in the third period they could not be stopped.

Old "Cy" in Again.

The first Ottawa goal came when the last period had been in play more than 14 minutes. Using a three man rush Ottawa passed cleverly. "Cy" Dennenay took a short pass from Nighbor, and shot at the goal from an angle. It was an unstoppable effort. Chicago came back with a tremendous rush but their goal-shooting was wild and they appeared over-anxious.

Shortly before the game ended, Finnegan scored the last Ottawa goal after he had taken the rubber on a pass from Boucher.

"King" Clancy gave the crowd the first thrill in the opening period when he streaked down the ice and shot for the net. Eddie Rodden took the puck and the crowd yelled like mad as he zig-zagged his way to the Ottawa net. His effort was broken down however. The defense of both teams was tight.

Finnegan broke through the Black Hawk defence to carry the rubber to the cage but Gardiner saved. Killrea was in the thick of it, skating around the Hawks' net, but Chicago soon broke it up. Connell made two sensational stops when McKay broke through and shot from close up. The puck rested on Connell's pads and Wasnie who followed in fast, took another shot but Connell again saved.

PETES' LINE-UP FOR FIRST GAME

Manager Lew Lebarr's Team Meet Newmarket Tomorrow Night.

Manager Lew Lebarr's Peterboro Junior O.H.A. team will clash with Newmarket in the Junior S P. A. series, at the Toronto Arena to-morrow night playing the first game of the double header scheduled for the evening.

The Petes will motor to Toronto, leaving Lebarr's store at one o'clock sharp.

The following line-up will represent the juniors in the pre-season clash.

Goal: Mein. Gillespie.
Defence: Shields, Lebarr
Centre: Jones.
Right wing: Allin.
Subs.: Meyette, Faulkner, Cripps.

Newmarket made a good showing in the Junior O.H.A. last season and and have had the advantage of several practices, but the local youngsters are keen to get into action and hope to make their opposition travel every foot of the journey.

GREYHOUNDS SWELL TAXES

Dog taxes probably never have paid so much into a public treasury in 10 weeks as has been contributed in that period by the racing greyhounds of England. A greyhound racing boom started a few months ago and at eight meetings in various towns and cities the average attendance was 400,000 people a week. In 10 weeks the Treasury has collected from this source a total of $500,000 through the entertainment tax and the bets tax.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 24.—Miss Mary McLeary is visiting her mother and sister, Mrs. N. Alex MacColl, Queen street.

Mrs. N. Clarke Wallace, who has been visiting at the home of her parents in Toronto, returned to her home here yesterday evening.

With the weather conditions greatly improved yesterday, the merchants and other business men of town report a decided increase in their businesses. The farmers are able to return to their outdoor work and the commercial men who are using motor vehicles to cover their territory report the roads in remarkably good condition after the recent rains. Many state that chains are not necessary now on the county roads, as they are practically dry in most places.

Pile Sufferers

Can you Answer these Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting often fails?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Bond's drug, store, McDermid and Jury and McDermid Drug Store, and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, quick and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.

CLERK PLAYERS GIVEN MEDALS

Presentation of Awards To Softball Team Made at Banquet.

SPORTSMANSHIP STRESSED.

Campbellford Nov. 24. — The Clerk's team, which was the winning team of the local soft ball league was tendered a dinner at the Clifton tea room on Tuesday evening. The purpose was not only to express the good will of the local sporting circles but also to present the individual prizes to the members of the team. There were present at the table, His Worship, Mayor G. A. Kingston, J. H. Bell Hilton Beatty, Jack Allan and ten players. Several speeches were made after dinner and each speaker stressed advantages to be gained by participating in wholesome sport and also of the high class of sportsmanship which had prevailed throughout the season's play.

The players who received medals were James Gay, Harry Atkinson, Malcom Cook, Harry Denike, Ted Blute, Bernard Blute, Leslie Blake, Donald McArthur, Carl Maguire and Thornton Ivey. Everett Thomas who pitched the team to victory on more than one occasion, is attending the University in Toronto and therefore was not present to receive his award. The medals are of silver, very daintily designed and suitably inscribed. This is the second consecutive year that the clerks have won the trophy, and several of the players now possess two medals.

WAKEFIELD BACKS COBHAM'S FLIGHTS

Former Lord Mayor of London Has Financed Many Other Aviators.

Word has just come from England to the effect that Sir Alan Cobham, who was knighted in 1926 for his epoch-making 28,000-mile flight from England to Australia and back, has left on a 20,000-mile flying tour around Africa. A remarkable feature of this flight is that, in addition to his assistant pilot, Captain H. B. Worrell, D.S.C., two engineers and a motion-picture operator, he is accompanied by Lady Cobham, officially known as the cook and stenographer of the expedition.

The flight is called the "Sir Charles Wakefield Flight of Survey Around Africa," because once more Sir Charles Wakefield has come forward to assist Sir Alan Cobham in an Imperial flight.

Sir Charles Cheers Wakefield, Bart., who was Lord Mayor of London for two years during the Great War, is the Governing Director of C. C. Wakefield & Co., Ltd., manufacturers of the famous Castrol Motor Oil which is now sold from coast to coast in Canada.

Sir Charles is perhaps the Empire's greatest private benefactor in its many aerial enterprises. Since the early days of flying, Sir Charles has been a pioneer and optimist. Such stalwarts as Bleriot (the first to fly the English Channel), Rolls, Latham, Cody, and many others of the early experimental days long before the shadow of war descended, acknowledged his help and friendship. But for his generous and voluntary assistance, Sir Alan Cobham could never have completed his wonderful 28,000-mile trip to Australia and return. In countless ways Sir Charles has contributed to the development of aerial progress in the Empire and is steadily and gradually piling up against the Empire a debt of gratitude which it will be hard put to pay.

Those who know him best never really believed that Sir Alan Cobham could ever rest content with a "stay-at-home" existence, and to them, therefore, it did not come as a surprise to learn that the great Empire aviator had decided to undertake yet another Empire flight.

This time Sir Alan Cobham has undertaken a survey flight around the greatest part of the African Continent, the machine which he chose being the Short "Singapore" all-metal flying-boat with the two Rolls-Royce "Condor" engines, which had been placed at his disposal by the British Air Ministry.

The route of the flight will be via the Mediterranean to Egypt, down the Nile and via the Great Lakes to Beira. From Beira the coast will be followed to Durban and Captetown, and the return journey will be made along the West Coast of Africa.

The expedition left England, November 17 and it is hoped to return to England by the end of February, 1928. Frequent stops will be made to investigate flying conditions and the commercial possibilities of air lines, particularly through the centre of Africa and on the West Coast, the latter never having been flown over by a British machine.

Sir Alan expects to meet representatives of the governments and large commercial organizations in Eastern Africa with a view to getting their support for the eventual air service. It is his intention to find, if possible, the best route for the service, taking into consideration flying conditions and the prospects of opening up new territory. Great interest has already been shown in the scheme, and it is hoped to obtain much valuable information which it is impossible to get in England, so that the service may be started as soon as possible.

The Short "Singapore" flying-boat is of all-metal construction, this applying not only to the hull, which is built of Duralumin, but also to the wings, which are constructed mainly of the same material. In the case of the boat hull this takes the form of approximately circular wings, to which the "skin" or planking is riveted. There are no longitudinal stringers, in the usual sense of the word, the fore and aft members being quite short, and interrupted at the transverse rings. By this construction the skin is made to take a large share of the loads. As regards the Duralumin wing-spars, they have been found very efficient from the point of strength for weight. Local strengthening by means of laminations is one of the features of these spars.

The "Singapore" is a relatively small machine for the load which it carries, and the Rolls-Royce "Condor" engines are placed fairly high in the wing gap, so as to get the propellers well clear of spray. Pilots report that it is a particularly easy machine to fly, possessing a great amount of natural stability, and as the two engines are placed fairly close together, the turning moment with one engine throttled down is not very great, so that the machine is still quite manœuverable under these conditions.

Alva Bradley Elected President of Indians

CLEVELAND, Ohio, November 24 (Canadian Press). — Alva Bradley, head of the syndicate of Cleveland business men which recently purchased the Cleveland American League baseball Club, yesterday was named president of the company. Mr. Bradley also will act as treasurer. F. . Morgan was named vice-president, and Joseph C. Hostettler secretary.

C. L. Bradley and John Sherwin, Sr., other members of the syndicate, will also serve as directors.

E S Barnard ,former president of the club ,and recently named head of the American League, attended the meeting and tendered his resignation as director.

The new directors announced no action would be taken on the selection of a manager for the present.

Preston Seniors To Play O. H. A.

PRESTON, Nov. 24.—At a meeting of the executive of the Preston Athletic Association, it was decided that in spite of the officers of the club not being in favour of the long jump to Peterborough, senior hockey is what the fans want and senior hockey they will have. The "Riversides" remain intact from last season and they should again make a very creditable showing this season.

Another meeting of the Hockey Executive will be held within a day or two when a committee will be appointed to handle the affairs of the team. The colors of the local seniors as well as the juniors will be red and white as in former years. C. J. Whitney President of the Preston Athletic Association presided at the meeting to-night.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

DOLORES COSTELLO REUNITES THREE WAR BUDDIES.

Dolores Costello was instrumental in reuniting three war buddies during the filming of "Old San Francisco," her latest starring vehicle for the Warner Brothers. The three were Alan Crosland the director, Gordon Hollingshead, his assistant and Hal Mohr, the cameraman. The three soldiers were assigned to the photographic division of the Signal Corps upon their arrival overseas. The fact that they all came from the moving picture studios of Hollywood was a common bond.

At that time someone got the idea that pictures having to do with hygiene and propaganda would benefit the morale of the men, and Crosland, having been a director was selected to write and direct them. Hollingshead was to star in them, and Mohr to do the photography. They had meagre equipment but their little story was highly praised by the powers that were.

Three years after their return from the war Hollingshead became Crosland's assistant director. Recently Mohr was given a long term contract for his fine work with Miss Costello in "The Third Degree," so the three buddies can make pictures on something else than bully-beef and goldfish.

"Old San Francisco" is now playing at the Regent Theatre.

NOW YOU CAN KNOW THE JOYS OF FEELING FIT!

No Need of Nervousness, Weakness, Lack of Ambition or Confidence Here's a Test to Prove it.

Practically all of Life's joys and successes are due to good health and youthful energy—as a result of abundant nerve force!

Because it is "the very spark of life", sufficient nerve force is absolutely vital! Without it, you are a pitiful weakling—a failure—a victim of worry, nervousness, and chronic fatigue. But with abundant nerve force, you are a giant of power with the ambition, confidence, strength and endurance to carry you on to Bigger and Better things.

If you want to know the joys of "feeling fit"—if you want to laugh at weakness, wrinkles, dimmed eyesight and gray hairs—make sure that you have an abundance of vital nervous energy and the appearance and activity of youthful vigor should be yours unto a ripe old age!

As a reliable builder of Nerve Force—to increase strength and vitality, overcome weakness, and help ward off the early approach of old age—the value of Double Strength Erbac tablets can hardly be overestimated. Perfectly safe and pleasant to use, Double Strength Erbac is a natural and positive nerve food, with swift and certain action—and on a strict guarantee of money back if not satisfied — Bond's Pharmacy or any good Druggist will supply you. So, why not try the value of Erbac today?

FIRES O'BYRNE

George Young, conqueror of Catalina, having parted company definitely with his manager, Henry O'Byrne, will return to Toronto, Ont., his home town, with his mother next month and become a permanent resident of the city. The spit with O'Byrne is said to be the result of a difference of opinion on training methods. George will take a rest, then resume preparations for the next Wrigley marathon, which will be held either in Toronto or Berlin, Germany. The big four of the swimming world, namely, George Young, Ernest Vierkoetter, Georges Michel and Norman Ross, are definite entries for the marathon.

John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Pic turiz^tion of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Fabien, good and handsome youth of France, trains for the priesthood; but meets and loves Manon Lescaut, beauteous orphan, whose rascally brother, realizing her worldly value, barters her for gold to Ravoir, rich connoisseur of women. Fabien saves her and carries her off to Paris, where they wander into a boarding house and, in a great and sacred love, live happily together, though poor. While Fabien is out, his chum Tiberge arrives and, learning they are not married, plans to "save" Fabien. Meanwhile, Manon's brother eavesdrops.

CHAPTER VII.—Continued.

"Monsieur, why must you interfere," inquired Manon, "Fabien told me just this morning that he had never been so happy in his life before."

"Momentary forgetfulness, such as Fabien is experiencing, is not good for a man's soul. My child," the cruelty of Tiberge's words was softened somewhat by his spiritual expression, "I will be brutally frank with you. For Fabien's sake you must leave him."

"I will never do that! He would not want me to," protested Manon stormily.

"The truth is harsh," continued Tiberge with convincing simplicity, "Yet this you must know—hou have robbed Fabien of his parents, his career and his God. In exchange for these—what pitiful thing have you given him?"

"I have given him my heart—my whole heart," her lips trembled piteously and she cried in spite of herself as she continued, "All, all of it."

"Yes, that is true, but what of the day when he awakens from this dream of the flesh and weighs your love against all that it has cost him?" continued Tiberge, mercilessly.

With a piteous cry Manon buried her head in her arms and sobbed.

Quick to take advantage of a point gained, Tiberge went over to Manon and placed a kindly hand on her shoulder. He had promised the elder Des Grieux to locate Fabien and bring him home. But at that time he had not pictured Manon as such an appealing child and his duty became harder to perform when he saw her, crushed and heartbroken at his prediction of Fabien's future.

"If you love him, as you say you do, you will leave and never see him again." More shaken than he cared to admit, Tiberge turned toward the door and silently departed.

Manon's heart was too filled with tears and her mind too confused by this sudden turn of events for her to reply. Shaken with sobs she rocked piteously back and forth, not knowing what to do. What should she do? Did Fabien's friend tell the truth about her ruining his life? It was all such a cruel nightmare in the midst of their happiness that it seemed unreal. Manon wiped the tears from her streaming eyes and, as she saw Lescaut swagger out from his hiding place with a hateful air of "I told you so!" she could not restrain a shudder.

Under pressure of this new worry, Manon had forgotten all about her brother being there. She implored piteously, "Andre, won't you please go and leave me alone?"

"No, you heard what he said—do you want to ruin Fabien's life as well as play the deuce with your own prospects?" Lescaut said this simply for effect. What he really meant was that if she continued playing the fool he would be left with an empty purse, whereas if he turned her over to the Comte his pockets would be filled to overflowing. "Come on, get your bonnet," he continued impatiently, "We want to be well out of here before Fabien returns."

"I must see him." Manon was praying that Fabien would come back and not let her go.

"It will mean prison for him if the police chance to find you here."

It was this terrible thought that decided Manon. Fabien should not suffer through her! She would go away and return after the danger had passed. Fabien would understand that it was just a temporary arrangement.

"I will go with you," announced Manon resolutely, "But I must leave a note for Fabien." Brushing away her tears she sat down at the little desk.

Marie startled them both at this point by bursting into the room. She explained that after much arguing she had persuaded the jeweler to retrade the locket for Fabien's buckles. Marie was awed by Lescaut's silken presence, and after giving Manon the package she stood around, waiting to find out what was happening.

"Darling:" Manon wrote, "Andre says that the police will arrest you unless I leave here for a little while. It will mean an absence of only a day or so—sweetheart—you are not to imagine that I am going away forever.

Goodbye,
Manon.

P.S. Here are your buckles—a little farewell present."

While Manon penned the note Lescaut emptied the wall pegs of her simple little dresses and hastily stuffed them into her box. He was fearful that Fabien would return before they got away. Yet in spite of the risk he must take time to read Manon's parting message. An opportunity offered itself as Manon bade Marie a tearful good bye.

"Look after Fifi!" she said, "And tell Fabien I will be back soon. . . ."

During the second that Manon's back was turned, Lescaut had read the note and maliciously torn off the first portion. What he left was complete and final—but not in the least the meaning Manon meant to convey to her lover.

Lescaut's experience as a gambler had trained him to look ahead to the next move, which is what he did now by surreptitiously slipping Marie a few gold pieces as Manon tearfully started for the door. His farewell to the serving girl was also characteristic, she might be as useful as an ace up his sleeve, he would keep her interest alive.

Just as the door closed Marie received her first kiss from a silk coated grandee. The fact that it was wafted to her from his finger tips made it no less wonderful.

Life for Marie was becoming heavenly and it was all due to her Angel, Manon, who had gone away crying. Marie could not understand why parting from Fabien would bring forth a single tear.

She hated him and decided to "fix things up" so that when he came back she could "watch him squirm" at the nice story she was going to make up about Manon.

CHAPTER VIII.

During the week of Fabien's earthborn happiness with Manon he had curtailed personal expenses to the extent of depriving himself of necessities so that he could buy a chain for her locket. He planned that it should be a first week anniversary present and felt as rich as a King when the frail silver necklace was safely stored away in his pocket.

Eager to delight his adored one with the surprise, Fabien hurried home. Had he not been so absorbed in his own dreams he would have seen Lescaut helping the tearful Manon into a coach before the pension door!

Was it Fate, or what, that made them pass each other so closely without knowing how near they were or anything of the other's need?

Fabien gaily climbed the stairs, three at a time, to their love nest and, filled with eager happiness, pulled the door wide and shouted, "Manon, dear!" No answer. "Come out from your hiding place—I have something for you!" Still no answer.

Unwilling to wait, Fabien began looking about the room. The playful search came to a rigid halt when he saw the empty wall pegs. "Manon's clothes gone! Dear God, what has happened?" An awful fear gripped Fabien's heart. Like a blind man he groped about the room, still hoping against hope that he would find her. Presently his hand brushed something to the floor. His buckles! He looked at them in amazement and his heart almost stopped beating when he saw Manon's note. Without touching it he read from the torn paper:

Good bye,
MANON.

P.S.—Here are your buckles—a little farewell present.

Fabien stared at the heartbreaking message so long that his eyes grew blurred and he could no longer see. Finally something within him seemed to snap. Galvanized into action, he opened the door, calling wildly for Marie.

Antiseptically clean
FALSE TEETH
mean a sweet, comfortable, mouth

FRESH, sweet false teeth every day, accomplished without any laborious brushing—is the promise HYGEOL offers.

Its cleansing action (harmless to the teeth, themselves) removes all food particles, discolorations, odors, and that tenacious greasy film. It also completely sterilizes the false teeth.

This work is accomplished by leaving the teeth immersed for twenty minutes in a solution of one part HYGEOL to three parts water. This can be done most conveniently while dressing. At the end of that time, the teeth need only to be rinsed to complete the thorough cleansing.

If preferred, teeth can be left overnight in a weaker solution—one teaspoonful of HYGEOL to a glass of water. Results are equally good.

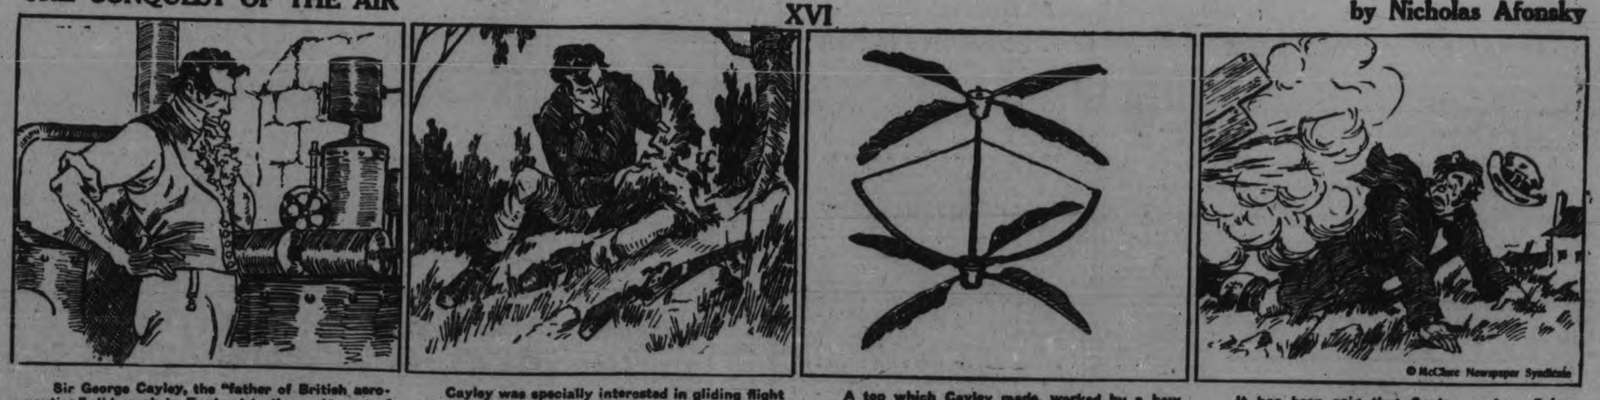
THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR — XVI — by Nicholas Afonsky



Sir George Cayley, the "father of British aeronautics," did much in England in the early part of the 19th century to further aviation. He familiarized himself with steam engines, and concluded that none would give power enough with sufficient lightness to be serviceable in a flying machine.

Cayley was specially interested in gliding flight instead of flapping-wing flight. He gave much attention to actual bird wings, studying their construction and action. He made a gliding apparatus with a surface of about 200 square feet which went safely from the top of a hill to the valley below.

A top which Cayley made, worked by a bow and a tightly wound cord, and based on a clumsy toy called a Chinese top, attracted great attention. It is now known as a helicopter toy or flying top. In this and other devices Cayley worked out many theories that led later to successful aviation.

It has been said that Cayley made a flying machine with an engine driven by successive explosions of gunpowder discharged by a detonator. He induced his coachman to take a ride in it. The coachman, frightened, jumped as it was leaving the ground and broke his leg and the machine.

CHILDREN'S AID WORK OF YEAR

social service activities that is more important than the Children's Aid Society which aims at reducing juvenile suffering and rescuing children from harmful environments. Every child removed from that sort of environment to an ambition provoking environment is an expense saved to the community in days to come.

"There were four hundred and eighteen children concerned in the activities of the society last year. I have the ideal in mind that this organization might extend its activities more along social service lines. The society comes in contact through its agent with many cases in which there is poverty, and with many cases where guidance as well as help is necessary, and in this way we can do social service work of inestimable value to the community.

"Each year we go to the City and County Councils asking for grants, and each year there are increasing demands, as there ought to be, on our resources. I would like to impress upon them the necessity of giving us their whole hearted support in this work and increasing their contributions to it. We are gradually securing the co-operative interest of outside communities, and I would like to see other local societies who aim at doing social service work, interesting themselves more and more in this organization."

Rev. Dr. Blagrave spoke in terms of high praise of the faithful, interested and determined work" of the agent, Mr. Edgar, and also of the excellent service rendered by the ladies on the Board, who did so much to help by attending the regular sewing meetings every week, and also were so faithful in coming to the monthly meetings of the Board.

Dr. Blagrave concluded by reading a letter from J. J. Kelso in Toronto, Provincial head of the Children's Aid Soceties of Ontario, hoping for the success of the annual meeting and commending the work done during the year by the president and the agent.

Agent's Report.

Mr. Edgar gave his report for the year, a full statement of which, along with the treasurer's report, will appear in another issue. The report of the society's finances was read by Mr. Cummer, treasurer, who commented on the comparative small cost of 'provisioning" the Shelter, with its many permanent and transient inhabitants.

The report of the Nominating committee was read by Mrs. James Fanning, and Alderman Stocker, Supervisor of the Shelter premises, rose to speak of the fine conditions prevailing there and the co-operation and support to all helpful suggestions for its betterment, given by the caretaker and matron, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Brooks.

Mr. Wearing's Address.

The address given by Mr. Wearing a forceful, concise presentation of the scope of the work of the Children's Aid Society, was brief and comprehensive, delivered in fluent style and listened to with intense, appreciative interest. The practical element embodied in the review of the work of the organization and its aims melted finally into an idealistic, impassioned appeal, couched in moving terms, for further and heightened interest in the cause of the neglected and suffering child.

"I feel that it would be a good thing for the public to know more of the work that we do," declared Mr. Wearing, in introduction of his address. "Our purpose is mainly to look after the neglected child. The Act is now called the Children's Protection Act, which is a good title. We are here as a Board to protect the children of the city and county of Peterborough, to protect them from neglect, from abuse and from cruelty and to see that the children in our community get a fair show.

"Generally speaking, there is only one way in which we get to know about neglected children, and that is by complaints coming in. Our agent looks after these complaints. We are sometimes scolded because we have not the omniscient eye able to see into every home and know the conditions prevailing there. But we are delighted to receive information at any time along these lines and this information is always treated as being absolutely confidential. Our agents have always been very careful in this way.

"After receiving information of this sort, the agent has two courses to follow. He must always go and investigate first, and he does this no matter what conditions may prevail, or what distances may have to be travelled. Then he may make the child a ward of the society or he may pursue the course which Mr. Edgar has been following, and which is the proper course, in my opinion also. He may do everything possible to relieve conditions in the home and make the parents assume the responsibility which God has placed upon their shoulders. In cases where this plan is adopted, the parents have often turned over a new leaf.

Mr Wearing spoke of the pride which should be felt by this community in the possession of such a wonderful Shelter for its neglected children, a Shelter which he considered second to none in the Dominion, when the size of the city was considered. He spoke of the care exercised in looking after the general welfare and health of the children there, and also of the great attention given to choosing homes for the wards.

"And it is necessary that care be exercised in this regard. The average farmer tries to get the very most he can out of a boy who is helping around the place," he asserted.

The number of children at the Shelter was a fair barometer of conditions prevailing in the homes of the community, declared Mr. Wearing, who said that no unease should be felt, but rather the contrary, when there were few boys and girls housed there. A lack of children meant that the parents in homes were occupied in looking after their own offspring.

With regard to adoption, Mr. Edgar also had a difficult field to labor in. "Although a child may be taken and made a ward of the society, that does not mean that its parents are entirely deprived of it. Sometimes this child is immediately returned to its own home and the parents are made responsible for its well-being. This often works wonders in the treatment of a child by its parents. Children are never taken away with the idea of permanently depriving the parents of the gift that God has made them."

Going on to speak of the unfortunate conditions surrounding the birth of the illegitimate children who are always a problem to those looking after neglected juveniles, Mr. Wearing said that it was an inspiring and wonderful thing to come into contact with the many generous-hearted people, deprived of the children for whom they longed, who were willing to open their homes to children of this class, and make them their very own.

"The unwanted and unwelcome child is often enabled to go into homes where the foster parents seem to love these children as their very own and to lavish father and mother love upon them."

Speaking of the great discretion used in the placing of these children, and of Mr. Edgar's good work along this line, Mr. Wearing went on to refer to remedial legislation recently afforded, when, six years ago, an Act was passed making it possible for a child of this type, adopted into a home, to inherit legally from its foster parents, in comparison with the older law which discriminated against such a child when the foster parents died intestate.

Mr. Wearing also spoke of the great interest taken by the Police Magistrate and the Chief of Police in work amongst children in this this community, and the care given in treatment of neglected juveniles.

Going on to refer to the recent legislation which makes the father of an illegimate child responsible for its maintenance, Mr. Wearing spoke in very strong terms of praise of the justice of this law. He said that in times past the mother alone had to bear the brunt of a mistake of this sort, while the father went scot free, unless a great deal of roundabout court procedure were resorted to. Now, the man is made to pay for the maintenance of the child, he must provide sureties for such payments and he is usually glad to make some full settlement in provision for the child.

Mr. Wearing praised the work of Mr. Edgar and of the ladies of the society, mentioning Mrs. W. H. Gibbs and Mrs. W. J. Hopwood as senior, faithful members who were doing such work on his first connection with the organization, fifteen years ago, and of his pleasure in seeing last night among those present, two past presidents, in E. A. Peck, M.P., and B. F. Ackerman.

"I am glad that we are living in an age when people are taking such an interest in children," went on Mr. Wearing. "Mr. Dobbin and others interested in history will recall the time when millions of little children were neglected and overworked in factories of this land and other European lands from which many of us come. Now, we are looking after little children who formerly suffered in those ways. I speak in all reverence, but I can say that if there is any one thing that might make me doubt the goodness of God, it is the thought of the tears and the suffering and the neglect of little children through the ages since the world was made. But I know that there is still a loving God Who looks after these little ones. We are told that no sound ever uttered is lost. Picture a hell where the cries of suffering childhood have been perpetuated through the ages.

"Christ Himself said: 'Suffer little children to come unto Me,' and He said that even a glass of water given to one of these little ones was given to Himself. It must be remembered that the majority of His miracles upon earth were worked at the request of parents interceding on behalf of their children. Is that ear deaf today? No! it can never be deaf to the cries of suffering childhood."

Mr. Wearing concluded with a quotation from Carlyle: "Good Christian people, here lies for you an inestimable loan. Take all heed thereof, in all carefulness employ it; with high recompense, or else with heavy penalties will it one day be required back."

Mr. Wearing's eloquent discourse was met with a great deal of appreciative applause from his audience, and Dr. Blagrave thanked him in warm terms for his "interesting and inspiring address."

F. H. Dobbin rose to move that the secretary be instructed to write in thanks to all who had assisted in any way in the work of the society throughout the past year, and Dr. Blagrave spoke in regret of the illness of the former agent, G. W. Powell.

The report by Mr. Edgar of the item of trust funds held for the wards of the society showed an amount of $2,061.10, cash in bank, and of $11,350 in bonds, an increase of $671 over last year's trust fund total.

Those present at last night's meeting were: Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, J. Edgar, J. Wearing, C. S. Cummer, J. Abraham, F. H. Dobbin, E. A. Peck, M.P., B. F. Ackerman, Alderman Walter Stocker, Rev. J. L. Hughes, S. J. Brooks, Mesdames J. Welsh, W. H. Gibbs, C. Wiggins, W. J. Hopwood, J. Edgar, H. W. Darcy, James Fanning, S. Newhall, R. J. Devey, and Miss B. Matchett.

The report of the nominating committee as presented by the convenor, Mrs. J. S. Fanning, and adopted as read, follows:

Honorary Presidents: The Mayor of the City, the Warden of the County, Mr. B. F. Ackerman. Honorary Vice-Presidents: E. A. Peck, M.P.; W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P.; J Wearing, G. W. Powell, Hon G.N Gordon, K.C.; J. H. Burnham and Mrs. Birdsall. President: Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D. 1st Vice-President, Mrs. W. H. Gibbs. 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. J. S. Fanning. Secretary, Mr. J. Edgar. Treasurer, Mr. C. S. Cummer Solicitor, Mr. J. Wearing. Executive: Mesdames J. Welsh, W. H. Darcy, R. J. Devey, W. J. Oke, F. A. Hodgson, S. Newhall, J. Knox, C. Wiggins, H. W. Nigh, E. J. Daynard, A. Edwards, Dr. D. W. Clark, Dr. E. H. Wood, Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, Rev. P. Costello, Messrs. F. H. Dobbin, R. H. Parsons, James Abraham, A. Moffatt, Alderman W. Stocker, W. C. Hughes, J. A. Modern Women Need the Modern Dye

Up-to-date women enjoy home dyeing by the wonderfully clean, successful methods of SUNSET—the real dye in cake form.

SUNSET is fast—boiled in, the only way to make home dye fast. Colours are brilliant and penetrating. Cotton, silk, wool or mixed goods dyed same shade at same time. No need to take garments apart, work over buttonholes, etc., when you use

SUNSET Soap DYES

Material dyed with SUNSET looks like new because SUNSET preserves the finish on cotton and wool, the sheen on silk; and cleans as it dyes. There's no re-dyed look.

SUNSET is safe, no acids used to set colours, just ordinary table salt. SUNSET does not stain hands or spoil utensils. Insist on SUNSET—there's only one SUNSET and it's different from any other dye. It is patented!

SUNSET colours can be combined to produce all the fashionable shades. It tells how in the SUNSET "Season's Colours" folder. Free where you buy SUNSET. If your dealer hasn't SUNSET ask him to get it for you. Or send to us direct, 15 cents per cake, postage prepaid.

RECEPTION AND INSPECTION.

The Children's Aid Shelter has been painted and decorated inside. It was badly in need of this, as the walls were dirty, and the paint was peeling. Now it looks spick and span. This was done through the kindness of friends, who saw the need. The ladies of the Board are having a reception on Thursday of this week. They would be pleased for you to come and see what has been done. The reception is from 4 to 6 and from 7 to 9. There will be no admission fee, but a silver collection will be taken at the door. All are welcome. 3d-123-3594
